High School

Frank Hennessey of the Sophomore class is playing on the Father Mathew basketball team.

Peabody High school's football team loses eleven of its best men by graduation next June. They are the following: Herbert Lawrence, Capt.; David Shaktman, William Fay, Frank Keefe, Arthur Hennessey, Henry Sullivan, John Carten, William Kelly, Charles Martin, Michael Flynn and Stephen Cross. It is hoped that these places can be filled with as good material.

Herbert Lawrence, star football and baseball player, also clever in hockey, basketball and bowling. Why doesn't P. H. S. take up some of these sports?

The question is being asked: Why should P. H. S. play Haverhill the Saturday before Thanksgiving, and Beverly on Thanksgiving day? Haverhill greatly outweighs Peabody, while Beverly has about the same weight as Peabody. If Peabody should lose one or more players by injury in the Haverhill game the Tanners would be minus players for the Beverly game, which would naturally help the Shoe Machinery City eleven.

Miss Alice Mulcahy of the Senior class has the sympathy of the school by the sudden death of her sister.

Miss Gertrude Leach has returned to school, after a two weeks' sickness.
Miss Johnson of the faculty is to take some of her pupils to Boston to a show soon.

The following men are candidates for baseball in the spring: Murphy, James MacDonald, William Eriam, Matthew Conde, Harry Silverman, Eugene Jordan, Michael Flynn, Robert Johnson.

Newton of the Crombie Street Church,
Salem, in exchange with the pastor.

Annual offering for the Peabody Benevolent Society will be made. Sunday School at 12 o'clock.

Junior Endeavor meeting at 5:30.
Evening song and preaching service in the vestry at 7, subject, "The Ministry of Christian Literature."

Monday evening—Meeting of Boy Scouts at 7:30.

Tuesday afternoon—Meeting of the Salem Union of Congregational Ministers in the vestry. Rev. Robert R. Bakeman of the Second church will be one of the speakers. Rev. Harold Marshall of large experience in directing the work of forums will be the outside guest. He comes from Boston.

At the same hour the Woman's Association will meet in the ladies' parlor.

South Peabody Church,

Robert A. Bakeman, minister.

Friday evening—Neighborhood meeting. Subject, "Principles of the Society of Jesus. I. Meekness. Does It Look as Though the Meek Were Going to Inherit the Earth?"

Sunday—10:30, for the children.
"The Alarm Clock." Sermon, "The 1st and 20th Century Conception of Missions." 12, Sunday School. 7, subject, "Our Boys—Father and Son."
Postponed from last Sunday.

The South Peabody billboard which is to stand at the corner of Lynn and Brown streets, was burned in the factory just before shipment. We must wait awhile longer.

Rev. Bakeman will exchange pulpits with Rev. Mr. Howes of the Universalist church, Sunday, Feb. 1.

The third in the series of discussions by Mr. Bakeman come Sunday evening, Feb. 1, subject, "Our Homes—Marriage and Divorce."

Carroll T. Edgerly returned to business this week after a week's illness.

Leonard B. Cassidy is acting as substitute letter carrier at the local postoffice.

Miss Margaret Giles, daughter of Councilor C. A. Giles, has entered the office force of the Pierce Leather Co.

Last Saturday evening a surprise party was held at the home of Mrs.
Jack Dunn, of Granite street, in honor of Miss Agnes M. Jordan, the occasion was a celebration of her nineteenth birthday. In behalf of her many friends, Miss Beatrice Keith presented her with a silver toilet set and a five dollar gold piece.
About 80 friends were present from Beverly, Danvers, Marblehead, Lynn, Salem and Peabody. Games were played and music was furnished by Miss Jordan and Mr. Keenan. Refreshments were served and the guests departed at a late hour.

Frank Larrabee, janitor of the South school, is able to get out again after a long illness.

Foster Begg of Lynn street, spent a few days last week with his mother in Lawrence to help celebrate her 77th birthday.

Miss Irene Skinner entertained her Sunday school class at her home on Lynn street last Thursday evening.
Games were played, also a peanut hunt with prizes awarded. A very nice luncheon was served.

Miss Maude Fales, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joel R. Fales of 9 Carlton street, who has been quite ill, is reported today, as much improved.

A number of young folks of the community went on a pung ride run by the A. C. Lawrence Co., Tuesday night.

Gladys LeCain of Carlton street is confined to her home with a heavy cold.

Miss Irene Skinner of Lynn street has accepted a position at the Danvers Bleachery.

Alonzo Raddin of Lynn street is ill at this writing.

An error was made in last week's issue saying W. C. Julian was transferred from the Charlestown Navy Yard to Virginia. He has gone to Virginia, but not transferred.

Little Frederick Jellison of Maple street is ill with an abscess in his ear.

The Rockville Camp Fire Girls met Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Marion Stone of Lynn street. Refreshments were served.

Mrs. May A. Murray of Lynn street is attending a state convention held in Attleboro, representing the Lynn Sisterhood, No. 50.

The Wapomio Camp Fire Girls met at the home of their guardian, Mrs.
Ester Walker of Brown street, Monday. The girls have started work on a quilt.

Raymond Brown of Lynn street is confined to his home with illness.

The Men's Club of the South Peabody church held their monthly meeting and supper in the vestry Wednesday evening. The evening's entertainment, consisting of games, checkers, chess, etc. Supper was served at 7 o'clock with much credit due to the following committee: George Green, chairman; Winn Broughton, Russell Walker, Carl Legerstrom, Herbert King and Cecil Young.

Arthur Reed of Lynn street, a champion checker player, attended the Men's club Wednesday evening.

A sleighing party composed of about 12 from Lynnfield street went Tuesday evening for a ride through Lynn, Swampscott, Rial Side and Salem, where they stopped for a supper at the Chinese restaurant, returning home at a late hour.

LEATHER MANUFACTURERS MUST WATCH FRANCE AND GERMANY

"By ENERGY."

The question has been asked me several times of late, how is the leather business? There seems to be an uncertainty among the pessimistic fellows. We all know that everything in general is up in the air, so to speak. The League of Nations is as far from a settlement, so far as this country is concerned, as at the beginning. That the European countries, who were in the war, are coming back is certain. It cannot but be a long process. New events come up which clog the wheels, but there is a move slowly, but surely. The arrangements for credit with these nations has not been consummated. I read that, bankers are working out this big problem, which means it will be accomplished.

Leather is being manufactured on an increasing scale in England, France and Germany. It will soon be felt by the United States in the shape of prices. It is evident that Germany means to come back. The bull dog tenacity of these people will bring them out of the mire, for they will work to the limit to accomplish it. We of the United States must wake up to this fact, and meet them on the same plane, if we wish to keep on top. The continued advice of speakers throughout the country is on these lines. We have come to be a nation of sports, everybody looking for enjoyment at any cost. It is not healthy, and what will take place to bring us back to first principles is a guess. It will come, however, so take it gracefully.

In my last letter I quoted the fact, that a bill of $181,000 for pickled sheepskins was presented to a medium sized concern in Peabody recently. I have been asked frequently who this concern was, but as it was given to me in confidence, I have not disclosed the party, strange to say. But such a purchase has tended to give many of the weak-kneed pessimists, a little courage for the time, at least. No one wishes to lose money. But to make money means a chance is taken, and to follow the big fellow means to keep on doing business. As near as I can find out, they are buying raw material as fast as presented. By this process prices are held firmly, and the finished end naturally is in the same position.

The greatest fair ever held by the Retailers' Boot and Shoe Association, and in fact by any association in the leather trade, has gone into history. It did much to cement the leather trade together, for every section was represented. Styles of shoes received much attention, for as ever the fickle public want something new, even at the cost of corns and bunions. The continued call for the best shoes keeps the talk of higher prices in the air, and the trade should worry if such is the case, for it means better profits. In fact it is easy to call any well made shoe high grade, even if certain parts are cheapened, which is one of the easiest things the shoe man has to do.

A shoe can be lined with the best of calf, or cheaper leather can be substituted. Neither can be seen so as to tell the difference, except by experts, and there are no such people in the purchasing public. Soles and heels will show the wear to all, and judging from shoes I have had to wear, the sole leather was made by a tanner who had no sole. But why kick, we are all taking our medicine for H. C. L., and are far from being cured.

April will soon be here, and then it is taxes. Peabody will lose $7,000,000 in valuation this year. All stock in process is taken away from the local assessors, but they will get from the State whatever is allotted to them. The whole situation appears to me to be complicated. How the locals will handle the situation has not been worked out. Some claim foreign corporations cannot be taxed, as are Massachusetts corporations.

The Tax Commissioners say they will be handled in the same manner. Like all laws, they can be interpreted in several ways. It may be well to have the Supreme Court pass on this law, and it seems to me that our city

Don't worry-rain or shine, Burn the coal whose

A MAN or woman who wants to save money can purchase the finest coal ever mined at a price that is sure to advance soon. Your economy bids you to order a ton or two or more right now.

Murphy Coal and Wood Co.

47 Walnut St. Tel. 126-M

government should interest itself to that end. No one would say the Assessors should fight this question. They are under the direct supervision of the Tax Commissioner, and whatever he elects must be carried out. When the tax bills are sent out everybody will complain. Why not take up this matter now, and at least, find out where we are at?

The A. C. Lawrence Leather Company are enlarging their office. The clerks are now crowded into a space too small to allow convenience. A visit to this busy office will give one a partial idea of the magnitude of the business. Young women who formerly earned around $8 weekly, now command $18 and higher. They now command higher wages than did the average man before the war. Wages among the help, as a whole, is in the same proportion. But there are men enough at the present time.

The feeling of changing jobs is quite prevalent, for it seems as though a change makes the work easier. The man who is interested in his work is the real asset in a leather factory. The others come and go, and form the class that become dangerous to our institutions. They have always been in the minority, and no doubt are now. But as after all big wars, history repeats itself. It takes time to heal unrest.

PEABODY CLUB BOWLERS ON TOP

The Peabody Club quintet of bowlers hopped it on to the Now and Then's last Wednesday night, giving the Witch City aggregation a bad beating. Roy Bagley with 316, led the way to the bacon for the home team, and Johnson with 288, was the best Salem could garner. Here is the tell-tale evidence:

CHALLENGE.
Jacko Burns, one of the best known tackers employed at the Armstrong Leather Co., is out with a bowling challenge to any Peabody roller for a purse of $50. He prefers to take on some of the champs at the A. C. L. He can be reached either at the Armstrong Leather Co. or at his home, 32 Tremont street.

CAMP FIRE GIRLS.
The Camp Fire Girls have chosen as their camp name the Indian word Ti-yaga, which means homemaker. They will meet next Wednesday at 3.30 in the M. E. church. The Blue Birds have changed their day of meeting from Tuesday to Thursday. The Builders will meet Wednesday evening at 7.30, at the home of Miss Mona Hayward, 36 Washington street.

Charles Wells, registered pharmacist at Curtis' drug store, was among those who attended the Rexall convention held in Boston this week.

New England Winters

Too Harsh for This Man Till He Discovered

Allen's Lung Healer

W. H. Brooks of 310 Washington St. was told he must seek a change of climate if he wished to save his life. His experience as related by him may be of benefit to others.

Dear Sir:—I wish to add a word to the many that are being said in praise of your Lung Healer. My parents both died of consumption and I always had very weak lungs. I dreaded the winters because I always suffered from terrible coughs on the lungs and lost flesh all winter. Finally one spring the cough did not leave me as it always had done with the coming of mild weather, and I was told that I had consumption and must seek a milder climate if I wished to avoid the fate of my parents. I was making arrangements to leave when I met a friend who urged me to try Allen's Lung Healer. I got a bottle and the relief I experienced from that first bottle was wonderful. I continued its use and my cough gradually disappeared and I began to regain my lost flesh. Today I am a well man and feel confident that I shall be able to withstand the cold winters with the aid of Allen's Lung Healer.

Yours gratefully,
W. H. BROOKS.

1500 Red Men Here Jan. 31

ing tribes of cities east of Boston will invade Peabody next week Saturday for the convention of the North Eastern Red Men's Council. It will be the biggest convocation of the craft ever held in this city, and plans for the affair have taken on a magnitude that will make the occasion one long to be remembered by the fraternity.

The convention will be called to order in afternoon in City Hall, when business will be transacted. At 6 o'clock a banquet will be served in Moose hall, and in the evening Po-quanum Tribe of Lynn will work the chief degree on 100 candidates. The degree work will be followed by an entertainment, which will have several pleasing features.

Masconomo Tribe of this city has the affair in charge, the general committee being headed by Henry H. Hay, chairman; Joseph H. Foster, secretary and treasurer; John Gannon, Carl Alm, John Foster and Clement Stack.

couple of claims to settle in connection with some new work to which he has been assigned. The work was started on the 15th of June, at which time the Leave Areas Bureau ceased to function as such. I have been assigned to the Requisition Department, temporarily, until the end of the activities. The headquarters is to evacuate right after the first of the year, so as to be at the base port, ready to embark on Jan. 6th, on the S. S. Martha Washington. The S. S. Mercury sailed yesterday, and the S. S. George Washington sails tomorrow, which will be the last transport to leave from Brest. All further evacuation will go through Antwerp, Belgium. We will probably be assigned to the convoy for Jan. 6th, and thus I may get a chance to see something of Belgium. The date is practically certain, but the transport may change.

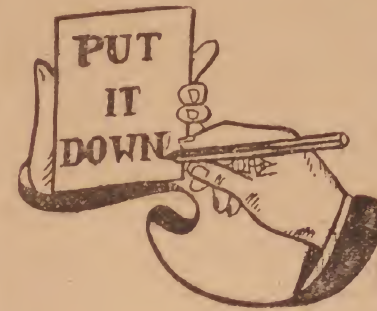

The K. of C. are going to give a big feast here on Christmas and a big time in general. I think I have told you about the lunches they give us every afternoon, and the real breakfast on Sunday mornings. The club is just around the corner from headquarters, and it comes in very handy for the boys. Last Sunday I went to visit the Musee Grevin, and this Sunday I went to the Louvre. The Louvre is the most wonderful museum in the world. The collection has been going on for hundreds of years, and must represent a little sum of money. France is a great country for preserving things of interest and fame; one finds them at every turn. Most of the contents of the museum were removed from Paris during the war, and it must have been some ticklish job; they are all in place now. One could easily spend a whole month in the museum and not see everything even if all of the rooms were open at the same time. Some of them are only open occasionally. The Musee Grevin is quite different from the ordinary museum, and is of more interest to the public in general, although it is not gratuitous. The first series of exhibits represents famous scenes in the history of France from beginning. The second series represents famous scenes and personages in the late war. Besides these there is a hall and a stage where magic tricks, depending optical illusion and varied illumination are performed.

There is also a hall of mirrors in which, by change of illumination and scenery, the effect of being in a great forest, in a great palace, etc., is conveyed and very effectively. The hall is light proof, has about 20 sides, and is about 50 feet in diameter. The scenery at the corners of the mirrors and overhead is changed from above, and absolutely noiselessly in a few seconds, while the lights are out. The illumination is varied and very beautiful. Each of the above exhibits is in a small room, one side of which is plate glass, and is made up with life-size figures with wax faces and dressed in costumes in every detail correct. They all but speak, and it is almost unbelievable that such real figures could be made. The furniture, backgrounds, etc., is likewise lacking in no small detail. Each room is suitably illuminated, and the hallways of the museum are nearly dark, except for the stray light from the rooms. There are also some figures around in conspicuous corners, and people are constantly going to them to ask information, etc., or waiting for them to move out of the way. It is very amusing to watch. I spent from 2 o'clock until 6.30, when the crowd was chased out, and was all in from being jostled around so much. They make a mistake by letting so many people in at one time. On Sundays it is a regular fight to get to the guichet. Well, this is about all of the news at present, so I will close, hoping to see you again soon, As ever,

A LREADY—at the very moment you read this—a thousand particularly intelligent men and women are asking their newsdealers for Hearst's for November. Minute by minute and hour by hour—all over the United States—this will continue until 500,000 of the most progressive magazine readers have secured their copies.

The others, disappointed, will have to wait until next month—or be satisfied with a lesser magazine.

YOU, perhaps, already have your November number. You have looked at the Table of Contents—Ibáñez, Maeterlinck, Conan Doyle, G. K. Chesterton. Or nearer home; Judge E. H. Gary, head of U. S. Steel, on "Something More Than the Pay Envelope." Or B. C. Forbes, K. C. B., Walt Mason, Dr. Frank Crane. Or you have, maybe, turned first to the Art—Play—Book—Science—of the Month. One thing is certain, you have noticed the real authority of Hearst's—its splendid serious side.

BUT—you say—you buy a magazine for its fiction. Good! Here in Hearst's for November are stories by Robert W. Chambers, Richard Washburn Child, Arthur Somers Roche, and Bruno Lessing, Arthur Stringer, Edwin Balmer and Gouverneur Morris. Besides these are three English writers, F. E. Bailey, Derek Vane, E. Phillips Oppenheim—as well as Maurice Level, the best of the modern French writers. All these and several others in selected stories—stories that will make you think!

IF you don't particularly care for a magazine that will make you think—if you are not interested in a magazine a bit beyond the ordinary—you won't want Hearst's this month or any other. BUT, if you want the words of the world's great writers; if you want the thoughts of the world's great thinkers; don't fail to make sure each month—starting today with November of getting your regular copy of

JOHN L. TUDBURY, Manager

EXCEPTIONAL BILL AT STRAND

Rousing one's self out of a sound slumber is unpleasant enough at the best. How would you like to be awakened by feeling the cold nose of a revolver pressed against your left ear? In "Adventure in Hearts," starring Robert Warwick, which will be the feature attraction at the Strand today and Saturday, the hero is a secret service agent, who escapes from the clutches of government officials, and spends his first night of freedom in a haymow. His pursuer's gun is his alarm clock in the morning. Some idea of the speed with which this entertaining screen romance moves may be gleaned from the fact that the next night Warwick spends in the exquisitely decorated chamber of an Italian nobleman.

The picture is adapted from Anthony Hope's world-famous story "Captain Dieppe," and is without question the best photoplay in which Major Warwick has appeared since his return to civil life. As Captain Dieppe he has a role that fits him like a glove. One may well believe him to be the American soldier of fortune, who has mixed himself up in intrigues of a mythical kingdom of Europe, as it was before the war, and be delighted with viewing at close range his foiling of his enemies' plans and his thrilling gun fight in a blazing hut.

One of the funny Fox-Sunshine comedies "The Back to Nature Girl" and Ruth Roland in "The Adventures of Ruth" will be the other attraction on today's bill, which Manager Chet Bent declares is a corker. Evelyn Greely in "Bring Up Betty" will be the feature attraction on the double feature bill for Sunday evening.

This is a snappy comedy-drama of social life. Helene Chadwick in "Caleb Piper's Girl" will be the other attraction.

Dorothy Dalton and Tom Moore will divide the headline honors at the Strand on Monday and Tuesday. "His Wife's Friend" is the title of Miss Dalton's vehicle and is a strong, dramatic story with a thread of mystery throughout. Tom Moore, at his smiling best, will be presented in his latest attraction "Toby's Bow." The famous, or infamous, Pagan ball given annually by the residents of Greenwich Village at Webster hall in New York, has been reproduced in this picture. Dancing by exotically gowned girls, solo dances in the futuristic manner, and informal groups sauntering along in true Bohemian fashion, have all been incorporated in "Toby's Bow." The glitter and artificiality of these scenes are sharply contrasted with the simplicity of life on a Southern plantation.

Beginning anniversary week and every two weeks thereafter, the Ware Bros. plan to offer one of the big special de luxe attractions. "The Miracle Man," "Male and Female," "Daddy Long Legs," "The Hoodlum" and "Pollyanna" will be presented in the order named. These pictures must be played at advance prices, running from 25 cents to 40 cents. It is to be hoped that the public will appreciate what the Strand is doing in order to give the people of Peabody a chance to see the big higher priced attractions right at home.

McCARTHY GOES TO FRAMINGHAM

John J. McCarthy of this city has accepted a position as commercial teacher in the Framingham High school. He resigned a similar position with Burdett College, Boston. He is a graduate of Peabody High, receiving his diploma at the age of 16 years, and later completed the course at the Salem Normal school.

The Framingham school has a school paper. Manual training is a part of the High school work.

Mr. McCarthy declares Framingham citizens have a fine community spirit.

New Americans Present Teacher With Purse of $25

The men who are taking the Chamber of Commerce Naturalization course met Monday night at the home of the teacher, Mr. Bakeman, in South Peabody. Six different nationalities were represented, but each one put the best he had in the "melting-pot," and before the evening was over a very virile type of Americanism was produced.

The first part of the evening was spent in listening to Mr. Bakeman's experiences with the French and American armies, and in looking over his large collection of souvenirs.

Games were played and Miss Margaret Bakeman sang, and Miss Agnes Jordan, accompanied by Miss Agnes Glencross, played the violin.

Mr. Hobbs of the State Department of University Extension made a brief speech, emphasizing the point that a real American was a man of good-will toward individuals and nations. Refreshments were then served, after which Samuel Wildbaum, in behalf of the class, presented Mr. Bakeman with a purse of $25, a double glass ink stand and a fountain pen.

The evening had passed so quickly, that a debate on "Woman Suffrage," which was scheduled, had to be postponed. A desire to keep up some kind of organization after the class disbanded, was expressed, with the idea that it might become the basis for a "Cosmopolitan Club," which would work for a closer relationship and better understanding among the elements that make up the population of Peabody.

PERSONALS

Mrs. Patrick Murphy, teacher in the Carroll school, is slowly recovering from her recent illness, and is expected to resume her work the beginning of the spring term.

The scarlet fever quarantine has been lifted from the home of James Walsh of Northend street, and the children have returned to school.

Theodore Jeffers and William Munro, who were in the hospital at Brown University. They have just completed their mid-year exams.

Karl Waterhouse, former assistant depot master at the B. & M. station, has been made train despatcher at the Salem depot.

The Peabody Chamber of Commerce will run an art display sometime in April. The committee in charge is Captain L. P. Osborne, A. Couris and Earl W. Weaver.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Osborn Palmer at the hospital, Wednesday of this week.

MOST POPULAR FIRE DRIVER IS SLOGAN OF BIG MOOSE FAIR

The coming fair of the Loyal Order of Moose, which opens Tuesday, Feb. 10, at Moose hall, to continue for the balance of the week, will surpass anything yet conducted by this organization. A large committee of men and women are meeting weekly to perfect plans to give the patrons the very best entertainment features that can be procured. The ladies will conduct a donation and apron booth. Mrs. Bowman has been chosen chairlady, Mrs. N. Lafreniere, secretary, and Mrs. King, treasurer. The hall will be decorated in an elaborate fashion, and booths will be erected around the hall.

The Waverly Orchestra will be present each evening, and the later part of the evening will be given over to dancing. The ticket committee under P. H. McDonald, has met with the best success, the public eagerly taking to the season ticket, which they are distributing.

That the hall will be crowded with spectators on each evening, is a foregone conclusion. Special entertainment features that the committee have under consideration will be announced later through the press. There will be a meeting of the general committee with the ladies' committee on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, and every member is urged to be present, and the different sub-committees are requested to give a report of all their transactions.

Chairman William Robinson is keeping the members enthusiastic, and there is great rivalry among the members to see who will dispose of the most tickets.

The contest for the most popular driver of the Peabody Fire Department is a live one, and will be fought hard for till the last gun down. From every angle it will be a good old-fashioned fair that will appeal to the young and old. The Moose have given the public in the past, fairs which were of high class, including the fashion show and beauty show of two years ago.

Every event ever conducted by this hustling order has been a success, and this will add one more to their long list. Tickets are in the hands of all the members.

With the Employees of

A. C. LAWRENCE LEATHER CO.

Arthur G. Kent of the National laboratory is rejoicing over the arrival of a nine-pound baby boy, born this week.

Ralph P. Chapman, Edgar L. Paine, Harry O. Hiltz and Charles G. F. Coker, directors of safety at the plant, have been making the annual inspection of the various departments this week. This annual safety inspection is in addition to the regular monthly inspections of the sub-committees composed of men from the factory.

Mrs. Evelyn (Knowles) Hutchinson left the employ of the Main Office last week in order to commence house-keeping. She is making her home in Beverly.

The dance held by the Japan Shop last Tuesday evening was a huge success, and other parties will follow. Over 45 couples enjoyed the dance music of Messrs. Krump, Levy and Begin, all of whom are Japan employees. An exhibition dance by Miss Helena Marrs and her partner was a feature of the evening. A great deal of credit is due Miss Margaret O'Keefe, who was instrumental in planning the affair. Ray Macauley assisted at the door.

The sympathies of the embossing room employees is extended to Mr. Smith, who suffered the bereavement of his sister this week.

George Haywood of Johnstown, N. Y., entered the employ of the company this week, starting in with the glove leather department.

Lewis Norwood of West Peabody is the new clerk in the Hide tacking department.

Stephen Walsh has been transferred from the glove finish to the hide assorting department. Mr. Walsh has an interesting service record, having enlisted in the British army at the beginning of the war, and after being gassed, sent to Canada to recuperate.

From here he entered the Canadian army, and went back to the front, where he received 16 shrapnel wounds.

Maurice Ryan, who has been confined to his home with an attack of the grippe, is back on the job this week.

DIPLOMAS FOR NEW CITIZENS

At a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Americanization committee yesterday, plans were perfected for the coming graduation exercises in citizenship, which are to be held Monday evening, Feb. 2. The committee have asked for the Council Chamber, and hope to have Lt. Gov. Channing Cox as the chief speaker of the evening. The Mayor and City Council are expected to be present, and the public are cordially invited to attend.

without opposition. The Council will ask the City Engineer to place signs about the city to call attention to autoists.

Councillor Brown got through a motion to have the committee on streets confer with federal agents with a view to getting government funds with which to improve the highway from West Peabody to North Reading.

Chairman Sullivan of finance committee, composed of Councillors Sullivan, Brown and Duggan reported favorably on the salary list in the Mayor's budget with several exceptions and the list as announced on motion of Duggan was ordered advertised. City Clerk Poor recorded Councillor Ryan in the affirmative when the latter voted to hold up the partial list until the whole was ready for publication, but the error was not discovered until after the record had been announced. The chief exceptions to the Mayor's original list was that of the city collector, sealer of weights, assessors and highway employees. An effort will be made to secure increases of pay for some of these, while a reduction will be urged in others.

City Solicitor Fay ruled that the Council has no right to increase salaries or wages, and this knocks out the recent ordinance raising the pay of the call firemen to $200. The Mayor's budget gives the firemen $160.

A handsomely executed design for memorial tablets bearing the names of the 23 Peabody men who gave their lives in the World's War, was submitted to the Council by John Meagher, the granite man, and Councillor Brown made a motion to appropriate $1529.20 to make a contract with Mr. Meagher. Councillor Hogan urged that the Council advertise for bids. After a lengthy debate it was voted to refer the memorial tablet back to the committee, they to procure other designs and prices and report back to the Council.

Dr. B. J. Manoogian presented a claim for $5.50 for a broken wind shield, caused, he claimed by a street department man throwing a shovelful of ice which hit his automobile. Phillips Osborne of King street was drawn for civil jury duty at Salem, Feb. 9.

A petition signed by 15 residents of "North Peabody" asked the Council the Rogers' gate cars as far as Prospect street.

On motion of Councillor Jones the Joe Lawlor and Carroll Loyeday will city electrician was requested to appear before the next meeting of the Council and set forth some of the provisions laid down by the fire underwriters for increased protection against fire.

Chairman Sullivan of the finance committee believes that Sealer of Weights Sawyer should have more than $1400 salary and will try to convince the Mayor of his point. He also favors more pay for Clerk Dee of the street department.

Brian Healey, whose land and building was taken by the city for the West Peabody fire station, says he is not worrying about his money.

MAHONEY BILL FAVORS WORKERS

$5000, the compensation paid upon the death of a dependent, and would increase from $10 to $16, the weekly benefit thereunder. The second bill raises from $16 to $18, the weekly benefit paid an injured employee.

The third bill decreases the waiting period from 10 days to 7 days, the objection given by the insurance companies to any decrease in the waiting period is that many workmen would feign injuries.

LEO GUILD PARTY.

All roads will lead to City Hall, Monday evening, for the vaudeville and informal dancing party of Leo Guild. A large committee with Mrs. John Meagher, chairman, have been working to make this affair the best the Guild has ever held. Many novelties will be introduced. A large delegation from the U. S. M. Co. is expected to witness the performance of "Chris Relihan." Performance starts at 8.15 o'clock.

PEABODY LEGION.

Members of Peabody Post 153, American Legion, will hold a joke Christmas tree next Thursday evening and a gala entertainment is in line. Everything from a shoe string to a lemon pie will probably be unfolded.

Rehearsal for the big minstrel show to be held in City Hall, Feb. 17, will be held Sunday afternoon, with Leo B. Murphy in charge.

SCHOOL BASKETBALL.

A grammar school basketball league was formed this week and the opening games were played at the Community House gymnasium yesterday afternoon. The Wallis school beat the South, 17 to 0, and the Thomas Carroll school team outclassed the Center school, 15 to 6. It is planned to have games every Thursday afternoon. Several more of the local schools will be urged to join the league.

SENATOR WALSH WILL BE GUEST AT ST. JOHN'S BIG REUNION

Honorable David I. Walsh, junior U. S. Senator from Massachusetts, will come on from Washington on Monday, February 16th, to be the guest of Rev. Nicholas J. Murphy, at the Grand Jubilee and Parish Reunion of St. John's church, to be held in City Hall on that date.

Arrangements are being perfected and the celebration promises to be the greatest social affair ever held in the parish. Energetic committees are working diligently to make it a most memorable occasion, and neither time, expense or energy is being spared, in order that those who attend will be assured a most enjoyable time. The celebration will have a two-fold purpose, that of bringing the priests and people of the parish together in a reunion, and also to commemorate the 37th anniversary of the ordination of their beloved pastor, Rev. Fr. Murphy.

Father Murphy was ordained to the holy priesthood on December 23rd, 1882, in the Grand Provincial Seminary, Troy, New York, of which the present Bishop Gabriels of Ogdensburg, N. Y., was then president.

U. S. Senator David I. Walsh.

Salem Refuses Peabody Doctors

The fact that Peabody gave aid to the Salem hospital in the big fire, and the further fact that the J. B. Thomas hospital allows Salem doctors to bring their private patients to the Peabody hospital failed to carry sufficient weight with the Trustees of the Salem hospital to permit Peabody doctors to take their surplus patients to the Salem institution.

Notice of the attitude of the Salem Trustees on the recent request of the Peabody physicians was received this week. In effect the message states that it is inexpedient to enter into a spirit of reciprocity with the Peabody doctors. The Salem Trustees say they have only about enough room in their half million dollar structure to accommodate their own doctors and patients. The letter was signed by George W. Vickery, secretary of the Salem hospital trustees.

Salem's answer to Peabody's fair request for a turn about will be the subject for discussion on the part of the Peabody Doctor's Club at their meeting to be held in a few days. It probably will start something looking to cutting off Salem doctors from using the Thomas hospital, or else draw from the Salem physicians, the confession that they prefer the J. B. Thomas hospital to the one in their own city.

Much interest for this reason centers in the meeting of Peabody doctors, who probably will express themselves pretty forcibly on the Salem letter. The J. B. Thomas hospital is frequently crowded in handling private patients, and this condition is due in part to patients brought here by Salem and Danvers doctors.

LABORERS DESERT CITY IN BLIZZARD ON WAGE DISPUTE

Twenty-two municipal employees of the street and water divisions emulated the example of the Boston policemen yesterday, by declaring a strike against the public on the day of the worst blizzard of years. The men struck for $4.50 a day, turning down the compromise offer of Mayor Donnell, to pay them $4.40.

The action of the men finds a weather-beaten citizenship aroused to a pitch of loud condemnation of the strikers because of the failure of the city to make any semblance of keeping sidewalks and highways open to the travel.

Mayor Donnell made arrangements last night to bring a gang of Italian laborers to Peabody to clear out the sidewalks, and he will be backed up by police force, if necessary, to see that the new workmen get the highways open to travel.

These men by striking on the worst day of the winter, when a raging blizzard swept the drifts high on the sidewalks, have placed themselves in the same category as the Boston policemen, who some months ago, opened the city of Boston to riot, murder and robbery. Their strike is a strike at the public, which the voters of this Commonwealth, by an overwhelming majority, condemned at the last State election. If I have to remain as Mayor of Peabody for the next 10 months, I propose to see that these men are shown that they have made a mistake. I have arranged for a gang of Italians to take their places, and every possible measure will be employed to get the sidewalks and streets open to travel at the earliest moment.

"The city's offer of a compromise to $4.40 a day was to pay the men for lost time on the 13 holidays of the year. The strikers wanted all rainy days included, despite the fact that few, if any, cities pay laborers for either holidays or rainy days. The men are now getting $4.25 which is better than Beverly, Gloucester and other cities pay. I felt that if pos-

George Goodell Dies At Hospital

George W. Goodell, the well known Eastend druggist, died this morning at the J. B. Thomas hospital, after an illness of five days from pneumonia, following an attack of influenza. He entered the hospital last Monday, with what was believed more than a fighting chance. He was 29 years of age, and was a native of Peabody, at present in Baltimore.

With the Employees of

A. C. LAWRENCE LEATHER CO.

Yesterday's storm, which tied up street railway traffic to a degree only equalled by their voluntary cessation of transportation on equally unpleasant days, affected the A. C. L. and National employees to quite a considerable extent. Most of them managed by walking a distance to get to work fairly early, but the majority had a difficult time in getting back to their homes after the day's work. Special pungs were used to transport the office girls to their homes in neighboring towns.

Miss Julia Mahoney was transferred this week from the cashier's department in the main office to the National office.

The second weekly dancing class run by the young married people at the plant will be held tonight. Last week's class opened under very encouraging auspices and a fine series of evenings is anticipated for the remainder of the winter.

Among the new arrivals at the plant this week was Walter Webber, whose home is in Gloversville, N. Y. He is now employed in B building in the Chrome Tan Glove department.

Eighteen young ladies from the National office braved the cold last Saturday and went through with their plans for a Boston theatre party in spite of the fact that it was the coldest day of the winter. A fine time was enjoyed, the afternoon being spent at the Orpheum, a sumptuous banquet following at the Quincy House from where the party proceeded to witness the performance of "Betty Be Good."

Horace Perkins, recently employed at the Crawford House, Boston, entered our employ this week in the hide assorting department.

Miss May Driscoll has been transferred from the main office to the office of the Japan department.

Clifford Chase, who was a member of the cutstock department before entering the service, is back with us in the book leather department.

Miss Katherine McMahon returned to work this week after recovering from her operation of last week.

William Carr, former glassware salesman, entered the employ of the company this week, starting in at the book leather.

Elmer McKeen of the office force has been out the past two weeks with a severe toothache.

Neil O'Donnell, of the glove staker, is receiving congratulations upon the arrival of a baby daughter, born this morning. Hazel Perkins of the main office has been transferred to the book leather office.

The sympathies of the plant are extended to the family of John Mulcahy, who passed away this week. Mr. Mulcahy was a faithful employee of the hide color department, where he had been employed for 10 years preceding his death.

New committees were appointed last Tuesday to care for Safety, Americanization and Gardens for 1920. The personnel of the new committees follows: Safety directors, Harry Day, National; Harry Hiltz, Waters River; Roy Gourley, Mechanical; Emmanuel Auen, Hide; William Collins, Sheep. Americanization, E. W. White, chairman; Arthur Ellis, Frank Mathews, Paul Gallagher, Daniel Conroy. Employees' gardens, Warren Blake, chairman; E. H. Merrill, Charles Lawrence, Benj. Grover, Henry Taggell. H. K. Batchelder is chairman ex-officio of all committees, with J. J. Gallagher as vice-chairman and E. W. Weaver, secretary.

The Mutual Dance club of Salem, holding assemblies in Hamilton hall, Salem, on the past two Saturday evenings, numbers several of the well known A. C. L. people among its subscribers. This club is a mutual affair and run for a good time, no profits to be made and no tickets sold at the door. The expense is apportioned among the members. The parties are looked forward to each week by the young people of this vicinity as a means of good clean and wholesome enjoyment. Among those from the plant who are members are H. C. Snow, William Casey, Jack Quinlan, Arthur Lee, Harold Kiley, Billy Walsh, John Cloutman, Robert Hurley and John Cass.

Mike Desmond upheld the traditions of the A. C. L. bowlers in the big Salem-Peabody match last Monday, hitting 137 in his big string and being instrumental in taking two of the three points from the Witchburgers. The new National basketball team opens its season tonight at Marblehead, taking on the fast M. Y. M. C. A. boys as an opener. Manager "Tip" O'Neil next shows his men at City Hall next Tuesday with the Peabody Athletics. This will be "A. C. L." night at City Hall, as three of the managers of the four teams on the floor are identified with the big plant and others of the teams are also A. C. L. people. A big gallery of rooters will be on hand to cheer the leaders of the several teams.

The A. C. L. Senior bowlers accept the challenge of the Juniors on condition that the match if rolled in Peabody be for a purse of $5, but if the Juniors insist on going to Salem the Seniors will require an inducement of a $100 purse.

A number of cases of grippe colds are reported this week, some of those being out at present being Misses Annabel Sinclair, Eunice Pitman, Nellie Donahue, Elvera Macione, Ruth Batchelder of the National; Leonard Brown, John Church and Harold Batchelder, also of the National. William McGrath, Angus Henderson, Charles Isles, George Dye and Miss Etta Kelley of the glove department; Misses Alice Wilson and Blanche Little of the main office.

Milford Risteen of the mechanical force suffered a very painful accident on Wednesday which required the amputation of the ends of two fingers of his left hand. His grit throughout the entire accident called forth much praise from those who witnessed it.

Nestor Kauppi and John Guzik, the former of the mechanical and the latter of the Japan department, were among those who received state certificates from the mayor at City Hall Monday evening, the occasion being the graduation of the Chamber of Commerce class in citizenship.

An active canvas of the plant is being made on the Community House drive and a goodly sum will be realized by the end of the week.

A Paramount Arclcraft Picture

"BEHIND THE DOOR"

By Gouverneur Morris

Picturized by Luther Reed

Directed by Irvin Willat

A Thomas H. Ince Production

'That Man Belongs to Me!'

The Captain's day had come! The man who had stolen, outraged, slain his bride, was paying—there behind the door.

They had called him a "coward" and worse. Now, in the dim light they watched him fight his enemy. His vengeance is one that will freeze your blood.

A virile, thrilling, he-man tale of adventure, love and the sea. From the celebrated novel by Gouverneur Morris.

Jane Novak and Wallace Beery in the supporting cast, and Hobart Bosworth in the greatest role of his career.

Many will consider this production the best of our Anniversary attractions and for action and real thrills it is.

The submarine and battleship scenes in the production were taken at the San Pedro, Cal., base. See this picture! It is going to cause more talk than any photoplay the Strand has offered.

IMMIGRATION AND JUNIOR HIGH BEST P. H. S. STORIES IN CONTEST— GIRL AUTHORS WILL RECEIVE PRIZES

The Enterprise contest for the best compositions by High School students finds two girls Miss Olive E. Goldthwait winner of first prize of $2 and Miss Louise Moxley winner of second prize of $1. Both articles show excellent preparation. Here are the prize stories:

IMMIGRATION.

By Olive E. Goldthwait.

Ever since the discovery of America, immigrants have come to this country from all parts of the world. English, French, German, Scotch, Irish, Dutch and Swedish people came to America early in its history. Many came to claim land for their native countries and many others came to escape persecution on account of their religion. Thousands and tens of thousands of French Huguenots, German Protestants, English Puritans and Quakers came to our shores. Immigration to the United States was not large during the period of 44 years between 1776 and 1820. In these years less than 250,000 immigrants are believed to have arrived here, that is, an average of fewer than 6000 a year.

Students of immigration differentiate between the immigrants from north western Europe, and those from south eastern Europe, by calling them "old" and "new" respectively. The "old" immigrant who came to America, bringing his family with him, desired to make a home. Only 16 out of 100 returned, and more than two-fifths were women. Thirty-eight out of one hundred of the "new" immigrants return to their native land, and only one-fourth are women. More than twice as many of the "new" immigrants return to Europe as of the "old," and the number of women among the "new" is vastly smaller.

Between 1776 and 1890 the total number of immigrants was 15,689,000. Of these 6,000,000 were British and Irish, and 5,125,000 were Germans. During that century one out of every three arrivals was a German. But since 1890 there have been only 1,023,000 Germans out of a total of 17,000,000 arrivals.

The immigration from Ireland has been large. More Irish people have crossed the sea to America than have remained behind. After the numbers of immigrants from Western Europe began to decrease, Austro-Hungarians began to migrate in large numbers. Enough people have come from Italy, England, Ireland and Scotland to populate all the state west of Texas and the Dakotas.

The Russians in America could replace one-half the population of New England.

The great wars of the world do not have uniform effects on immigration. The France-Prussia War sent only a normal number of French people to America, and all the people who came to America, after the Napoleonic wars were fewer in number than those coming here in a three months' period in our normal immigration history. The results of the Russo-Japanese war were very different. Great hordes of Russians came to our country.

Since the beginning of the world War immigration has fallen to one-sixth of its former numbers. It is a question whether immigration will be increased or decreased after the affairs of the world have again reached a normal condition. Probably the immigration from some countries will be greater, and other countries will not send as many people as before. Germany will probably, as far as possible, prohibit immigration, using the militaristic organization for reconstruction and reorganization. The immigration from England, France and Belgium will probably decrease.

There will be a labor vacuum. There are fewer men to work in the mills, mines, factories and farms, and there will be a large increase in wages.

The immigration from Russia, Austria-Hungary, Poland, Italy and the Balkan states will be stimulated. Many of the women and children there have friends in America to whom they will come. The men of Europe have been taken from the factories and farms where they have worked. They have been given greater freedom and have been thrown on their own resources. A spirit of independence has been created, which may cause them to migrate to America.

From whatever country the immigrant comes, he is, as a rule, above the average of the working classes in his community. He is the most courageous and advanced of his class. Money is scarce in Southern and Eastern Europe, and the man who can accumulate enough to come to America, must have some purpose in life, ambition and self denial. He usually comes to America because of the Wandervogel, hatred of class distinction, or to escape compulsory military service.

After reaching America the alien usually tries to improve himself, and he learns to read and write English. Out of 8,398,000 aliens admitted in the 10 years ending in 1910, 2,238,000 were illiterate. When the census of 1910 was taken there were only 1,600,000 illiterate foreigners in the United States. The aliens' children are less illiterate than he is. They commit less crime and have less tendency to insanity. His grandchildren are about as free from illiteracy as the American child of native lineage.

The Immigration bill was passed in 1917 by Congress over the President's veto. This bill provides that an illiteracy test is required of the immigrant. It excludes all aliens over 16 years of age, who cannot read the English language or some other language or dialect. Any admissible alien, however, may bring in or send for a father or grandfather over 55 years of age; his wife, mother, grandmother, unmarried or widowed sister, whether they can read or not. Under a literacy test we will turn back one-fourth of the Armenians, three-fifths of the Serbians, Bulgarians, Montenegrins; one-fourth of the Jews and Greeks; one-half of the South Italians; one-third of the Poles and Russians, and one-fourth of the Slovaks.

The labor supply which immigrants have brought to the nation constitute an incalculable debt. Seven out of every 10 who work in iron and steel industries, seven out of every 10 bituminous coal miners, three out of four who work in packing towns, seven out of eight of those employed in woolen mills, nine out of 10 of those who refine our petroleum and 19 out of 20 who manufacture our sugar, are immigrants or children of immigrants.

Who can estimate our debt to immigration? Thirty-three million people have made the long voyage from alien shores to our own since it was proclaimed that all men are born free and equal. History records no

Germans Not Sore at U. S. But Take French To Task

Germany holds little if any bitterness against the United States declares John E. Fitzgerald, vice-president of the Turner Tanning Machinery Co., who recently returned from a several months' business trip abroad. It is the French that the Germans hate and not the smashing Yankees who helped to put the kibosh to the Kaiser's dreams of world conquest back some months ago. The French are charged with not being willing to lay aside their grudges of the war and help the Prussian to reassemble his broken threads of industry.

German business men with whom the Peabody leather machinery man came in contact in his visits in Coblenz and Frankfurt didn't want war although presumably forced to make a show of compliance with the wishes of the now exiled Kaiser but they were glad when the war ended.

People in Germany are still hungry and have endured great suffering, according to Mr. Fitzgerald, owing to the lack of fuel. Home dinner functions among the rich Germans are still tabooed and a meagre luncheon can be provided for friends only after a several days' notice to permit the host laying in a sufficient stock of provisions to make a semblance of the once popular seven course dinner. To entertain at dinner in Germany today one has to give the hotel management ample notice even for a small party.

The German business man is anxious to get back into his stride but he thinks this can only be done by the United States allowing long time credits. In the end Germany will pay but it will require plenty of time.

JOHN E. FITZGERALD.

The Turner Tanning Machinery Co. branch offices in Germany are again open for business as a result of the visit abroad of the Peabody man. Mr. Fitzgerald says that the principal warring countries are all looking to the United States to supply the money to make the wheels of industry hum again in Europe.

Center School Can Point To Thrift Record

The Center school submitted data, in connection with its school savings, that should be of especial interest to the fathers and mothers of the Central school district, and of more than passing interest, to the city, as a whole.

The present school savings' term began Nov. 6 last. On Jan. 29, 1920 money was transferred to the Warren Five Cents Savings Bank. The total amount transferred was $765.00.

Since Nov. 6, 1919 there has been deposited in the School Savings bank $996.55. On Dec. 18, 1919 Principal Stickney started his drive for school savings, since which time, there has been a total deposit of $996.19. But for the savings withdrawn for Christmas, there would have been just $67.12, which would have been transferred to the Warren Bank, in addition to the above sum of $765.00. However, that being one phase of the game, when pupils ask for their Christmas money, it is cheerfully returned to them.

What gives the Center school the degree of satisfaction is the monetary gain, as a direct result of the savings' drive.

The number of depositors Feb. 2 is 348. A table of comparisons is the best proof:

January, 1919.
Amt. deposited for Jan.....	$85.48

To Represent Peabody Men At Lyons Fair

Everett B. Terhune, publisher, and Arthur D. Anderson, editor, respectively, of the Boot and Shoe Recorder, Boston, sailed from New York on the Mauretania last Friday. They will represent 40 of the leading shoe manufacturers and tanners in the United States, at the Lyons fair, France, with the idea in mind that "personal contact" is absolutely necessary before constructive, lasting trade relations can be established on the Continent.

Shoe and leather manufacturers, especially in New England, have preferred to feel out the ground under their feet, and know exactly what moves to make in Europe before going ahead, establishing trade relations with the different countries. This visit is the result of long deliberation, and has the approval and cooperation of the entire shoe and leather industry.

Both Mr. Terhune and Mr. Anderson will be at the Lyons fair for a period of two weeks, from March 1 to March 15, where samples of American shoes, leathers and accessories will be exhibited under their direction.

How Rats Cause Fires.

Rats are fond of eating the insulating material of electric wires, and are responsible for many of the fires ascribed to "defective insulation." They also gnaw holes in lead water pipes.

GET BEHIND THE KIDS.

If you believe that every boy and girl in Peabody is entitled to a chance to improve his or her body and mind, you have no sane reason to deny your material support for the success of the Peabody Community House. If you agree that your neighbor's son ought to be encouraged to get the best out of his young life, as you want your own boy to have it, then there is excellent reason why you cannot afford to turn a deaf ear to the appeal of the unpaid solicitors, who are waging a vigorous campaign in behalf of our young humanity this week. The record of achievement of the Community House for the past three years or since its inception, makes a coward out of a man who dares to throw cold water on a project of magnitude in what it means to every normal minded boy and girl in our fair city. The only trouble with the Community House today is its lack of room, its lack of facilities, and the only remedy for these ill features is money, cold cash and plenty of it. The gymnasium ought to be four times its present cramped size. There ought to be a swimming pool which would still further encourage the gainful athletics provided for. There ought to be larger class rooms for manual training, and of arts and crafts to further the helpful work among the boys and girls who find enjoyment at this social center. But it requires money to bring about these improvements and the directors of the best community enterprise ever put into operation in Peabody are modestly asking the citizenship for $20,000, which will support the institution for the next two years and allow the use of a little money for additional equipment. Every cent of the $20,000 is to be expended for the Community House. Unlike other drives there is no division with part of the receipts going outside of the city. Every cent is to be spent for the welfare of Peabody boys and girls, representing every creed, race and color within the city. These boys and girls who today are receiving the benefit of the Community House are the coming men and women of Peabody. And these boys and girls by your financial aid in this campaign are going to be better men and women. The Community House belongs to the citizens of Peabody. It is your affair and mine. We must not let its good work be hampered by lack of funds.

THANKS DUE REP. BATES.

Peabody citizens and particularly parents of school children owe Rep. George J. Bates of Salem a distinct debt of gratitude for his successful arguments which induced the legislative committee on municipal finance to report favorably on a resolve which aims to allow Peabody to borrow a half million dollars with which to supply this city decent and adequate high school accommodations. Peabody taxpayers are not interested in aiding star chamber activities alleged to be playing a part in depriving Peabody of what is held a logical school growth accommodation as outlined in the proposed junior high school. Rep. Bates is chairman of the legislative committee before which body the Peabody bill to borrow outside of its debt limit was threshed out this week and the Salem man conversant with the needs of Peabody combatted what is held as misguided activity to throw cold water on a proposition that effects the hundreds of boys and girls of Peabody. Rep. Bates drove home to some Peabody citizens the glowing prospects of this city, when he said "Peabody is coming along by leaps and bounds, both in population and industrially." It was a deserved compliment for our fair city. Rep. Bates may be counted on to get behind the Peabody bill, and its passage will be due to his progressive stand. We congratulate the Salem Representative for his assistance in this measure, and it is certain that Peabody citizens who are not engaged in "personal politics" will acclaim his efforts in behalf of our city.

TAKE PRECAUTIONS.

The memory of the terrible epidemic of influenza that scourged Peabody only a short year ago, is still vividly fresh in our minds, so much so, that the news of the recurrence of the dread disease in nearby cities has caused more than a mild alarm. While we do not anticipate a return of the epidemic in anything like its dimensions of a year ago, we advise taking every precaution to keep well, so that the germs will find no strong footing should they attack. A few simple common sense health hints, if followed, will do a great deal toward warding off the influenza. Avoid colds, keep warm and dry, drink plenty of water, keep the bowels open, get sufficient sleep, keep away from people afflicted with colds and your chances for escaping are excellent. Should a cold be contracted, do not neglect it, but take care of it before it becomes deep-seated. We do not intend to frighten our readers by pre-sending these facts, but merely to suggest fortifying ourselves against possible mild cases that might occur in Peabody unless we guard against them.

120,000 STAND IN BREAD LINE

More Than 1,000,000 Face Death Is Message Brought by Miss Dakesian.

Imagine a bread line of 120,000 famished people waiting for twenty-four hours a day for the dole of food that is the sole barrier between them and death from starvation. That is the situation in Alexandropol, a city in Russian Armenia, according to Miss Hermine Dakesian, a pretty Armenian girl, one of the survivors of four years of the horrors of Turkish massacres and deportations. Saved by an American woman, she has come to this country and entered Oberlin College.

With her came fourteen other Armenian girls in charge of Miss Adelaide S. Dwight, a Near East Relief worker, who has been instrumental in helping to save hundreds of thousands of their people from death by starvation. Miss Dwight, who is not given to exaggeration and has seen conditions at first hand, says more than a million people are facing death by starvation in Armenia and will perish unless America aids.

Herself an eyewitness to the slaughter of hundreds of helpless women and children by the Turks and a victim of the deportations, Miss Dakesian, an unusually pretty girl, says there is untold suffering in Armenia and Syria. She praises the efforts of the Near East Relief, formerly the American Committee for Armenian and Syrian Relief, to save as many of these people as possible. At Erivan, the capital of the Armenian republic, one hot meal is given out daily, and by this relief alone the city's death rate has been cut from a thousand daily to an average of twenty. At Alexandropol, where the refugees from Turkish Armenia were driven by thousands, the situation is appalling, Miss Dakesian says. It is to avert these wholesale deaths that Near East Relief is making a nation-wide appeal for funds.

Hats That Afford Protection.

The natives of the Philippines and South Sea Islands wear large sun hats as a protection from the heat. Palm leaves of various kinds furnish the material generally used, but the shapes differ. Some are woven flat and some with a peak. The commonest form in the Philippines is made of palm leaves covered with cane, a cane bandeau giving an air space above the head. The ornamentation of these hats is very simple; no colors are used with the exception of brown, which is occasionally introduced in the use of hemp.—Asia Magazine.

Companions.

On the heaths and moors where I have so long enjoyed the wonders of nature, I have never been, I can honestly say, alone; because when no man was with me, I had companions in every bee and flower and pebble; and never idle, because I could not pass a swamp, or a rift of heather, without finding in it a tale of which I could but decipher here and there a line or two, and yet found them more interesting than all the books, save one, which were ever written on earth.—Kingsley.

ROUND ABOUT

"Ed" Stone, Peabody and Boston insurance man, will probably be pestered to join some glee club or church choir now that it has become known that he possesses a good bass voice. He helped to put a punch into the sing at the Community House supper last Monday night and several of his auditors are spreading the word around this week in musical circles.

I observe that the new factory for Thomas H. O'Shea is now to its top story on Grove street and a large force of workmen is engaged in getting the plant ready for business. The wheels of this new leather plant for Peabody will probably be turning by April 1.

Frank Sanger of the N. H. Poor Co. takes his hat off to his son in several things but according to his own say at the Rotary Club luncheon this week he averred that he could sing "Katy" better than his son Dick can.

Charles S. Batchelder, cashier at the Warren National Bank, who has been confined to his home with erysipelas is believed to have incurred his malady by handling an infected bill passed into the bank. His many friends will be glad to see him recovered and back in harness again.

Peabody housewives have not been lagging in supplying crumbs to the winter birds, so I have observed on numerous occasions in my walks about the city during the past several weeks of heavy snowfall and cold snap.

I heard many compliments for Mrs. Brooks, the caterer, last Monday night at the Community House campaign supper. The food and service was all that could be desired.

Miss Evelyn Pyne, who had charge of the kindergarten which opened last fall in the Community House, holds the promise of success in her chosen work of teaching. She is to graduate in June from Miss Wheelock's school, Boston, and is assured of a prompt appointment. Miss Pyne is the niece of School Committeeman Harry S. Pyne.

I have heard some criticism that the trustees of the Peabody Institute contemplate selling the parcel of land on Main street between the brick house and Reidy's drugstore. There are those citizens who feel that the gift of land from George Peabody should not be sold for any purpose. I have heard sentiment that would applaud the removal of the brick house and the land be turned into a park. There is bound to be criticism which is the privilege of the citizens. The trustees have set a price on the land which they feel will make it compulsory to erect a worth while business block on the land in question.

Rev. Jason G. Miller, retiring pastor of the South church, has made a wide circle of friends in Peabody since he came here some six years ago and these are sorry to know he is to remove from the city. He was found assisting in community drives and in all ways has proved a valuable citizen.

Under the leadership of Edward H. Merrill the Peabody Rotary Club is bound to fill a gap in this city that citizens will later appreciate. The motto of the club is "service before self" and that is the fine record of "Ed" Merrill. He is the man who put the Chamber of Commerce on its feet and one who put the Red Cross branch on a solid foundation in this city. As an organizer "Ed" is in a class by himself.

I don't ask my kids who they rub shoulders with at the Community House kindergarten, I ask them if they behave.

One Reason for Golf.

A considerable amount of golf is played principally for the reason that some women think their husbands look well in knickerbockers.

similar movement of population, which can equal this in rapidity and volume. Compared to the hordes which invaded Europe from Asia were insignificant. THE JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL.
By Louise Moxley.

There is no real good argument that could be placed against the plan for the erection of a Junior High school in our enterprising young city. In the first place, if the school were not needed it would not be suggested. Junior High schools are used in various parts of the country. They have met with much success, and are almost universally approved of. There is one in Portsmouth, New Hampshire, in which various arts, besides the pupils' regular daily work, are taught. For instance the boys receive lessons in manual training, and the girls, instructions in domestic science. Algebra, Latin and French are three of the special subjects taught in the Portsmouth school. There is a large gymnasium in which various sports and school entertainments are held, including basketball for the girls. In addition there is a special room fitted up for cooking, which contains a stove and all modern conveniences.

In our own city the grammar schools are so crowded that anything in the way of manual training for the boys is impossible. About seven years ago, the boys in the Centre school did receive such training, but the number of pupils increased to such an extent that the room in which they received the training had to be made into a classroom. Domestic Science is an art which is very essential to our growing girls, especially among the foreign element, but it is not taught in Peabody.

Latin, the same as in Portsmouth, is taught in the ninth grade. We have to wait until we are sophomores before we are allowed to study French, whereas it is taught to the ninth grade pupils up there. Algebra is taught in the eighth grade in Portsmouth. Of course, Portsmouth is a much larger city than Peabody, but there is so much opposition to the plan that it is necessary to state a few simple facts to convince the objectors that they are wrong. Even if it does add a few dollars to the tax rate, what is that in comparison to the education of our boys and girls on whom the future welfare of our country depends?

Do you not want to see your sons grow up strong, manly fellows and your daughters go forth into the world well educated to take up the duties of life, commanding the respect of all with whom they come in contact?

At the present time the commercial students in the ninth grade are in the Bowditch school, as there is not room for them in the High school building. In the first of the year this change caused much inconvenience, and extra work. The rooms were all overcrowded, and it was hard to find accommodation for everybody. The programs of the other four classes were previously arranged for this year, but every room was overcrowded, and it is very difficult for a teacher, with a salary which couldn't be called enormous, to manage or try to teach a class of from 45 to 50 energetic pupils. So it was found necessary to remove the pupils from the Bowditch school, and send the overflow of the High over there. Then many of the programs had to be changed.

At present these ninth grade pupils come over at recess to the basement of the High school to play and buy their lunches, causing the extra inconvenience of putting on their outside wraps and marching across the street. Whereas, if we had our new Junior High school, it would take care of all this, and also provide accommodation for the upper classes of the grammar schools. With this the stadium is a very necessary addition to promote athletics, one of the important factors in school life since the time of the early Greeks and Romans.

The Junior High will be of great advantage to those who leave school to go to work, after completing the work in the seventh or eighth grades, for they will have the benefit of the more advanced studies taught. People who object should think the matter over carefully, and attempt to see the advantages from the pupils' viewpoint. After they have carefully considered the proposition, I think they will almost unanimously decide in favor of it.

A MODEST cottage that is comfortably heated has got it all over the pretentious mansion that's as cold as a skating rink. A ton of our coal will assist wonderfully in making the place of your abode a home, sweet home.

The house owned by Mrs. Laura Needham on County street which recently was damaged by fire was believed to have been set by someone evidently, as the lock was burst open and contents of drawers on the floor, silver knives, forks, spoons and other pieces of silver stolen. A little clock was done up in a pillowcase and left on the bed. Every thing seemed to be ransacked and then set on fire. Everything left is damaged by fire and water.

The Boy Scouts will meet Monday evening at the Second Congregational church. All are urged to be present as important business will be transacted.

Miss Beatrice Keith, who has a position in Norwood, returned Wednesday after spending a week at her home on Carlton street.

Misses Geraldine and Doris Hadley of Lynn spent the week-end with Mrs. George Hanscom of County street.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Jellison of Maple street are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son Feb. 5. Sylvester Williams of County street is ill at this writing.

A Sunday school class of girls met at the home of their teacher, Miss Agnes Glencross of Tucker's court, Friday afternoon for the purpose of organizing a club called Busy B's. Officers were elected: President, Miss Alice Coombs; vice-president, Miss Bertha Funchard. They spent a very pleasant social hour with music and games, after which plans were made for the following meetings. The club is under the auspices of the Waponeo Camp Fire Girls.

Mrs. Florence Pyne and daughter, Alice, and Levi Larrabee of Salem were guests of Mrs. John Tedford of Lynnfield street Sunday.

A sleighing party was enjoyed Saturday evening by the Alpha Omega club and the F. S. C. club which are in charge of Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Bakeman. Every one reported a fine time and forgot the extreme cold weather.

Mrs. Marion Ethel Strout, wife of Harry Strout of Wollaston, and daughter of the late Oliver and Irene Jennison of Lynn, passed away Thursday, Jan. 29 after an illness of five days, at the age of 28 years. Mrs. Strout was formerly of South Peabody and will be remembered as Ethel Jennison.

The Rockville Camp Fire Girls met Tuesday evening at the vestry of the Second Congregational church. They are making armbands for the Blue Birds.

The Blue Birds met Wednesday afternoon at the Second Congregational church. The following received arm bands for a perfect church attendance of 10 Sundays: Marjorie Parker, Alice Coombs, Evangeline Goodridge, Lena Osgood and Pauline Bakeman.

Tuesday afternoon the Sunday school class of Miss Agnes Jordan met at the home of her sister, Mrs. Russell Walker of Brown street, to organize a club called the "Butterfly Girls." They made birch bark canoes. Next week will be election of officers and they will make dolls' clothes. This club is under the auspices of the Waponeo Camp Fire Girls.

The Waponeo Camp Fire Girls met Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Russell Walker of Brown street. The girls are working on a quilt. Arthur Reed of Lynn street, the champion checker player, was challenged by a Boston man last week, but did not accept. He is, however, playing with some members of the Men's club to be ready for the next meeting, Feb. 18.

Edwin Bergstrom of Lexington was the week-end visitor of Miss Marion Green of Lynn street.

Mrs. Charles Larrabee of County street is ill with a bad cold.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Walker and son Lincoln, of Brown street, spent a few days last week with Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Walker of Holbrook.

A drama will be presented at the Lake Shore Park church next Thursday evening, Feb. 12, by the members of the Ladies' Aid society, entitled "Our Church Fair."

The business meeting of the Epworth League of the Lake Shore Park church will meet tomorrow evening at the home of Mrs. Sadie Rainford of Hilside avenue.

COMMUNITY HOUSE.

The Community House ought to appeal to every Peabody employer of labor as a business proposition. It may be that you don't agree with every director of the Community House, but remember the institution is bigger than the man and that when the man is dead the Community House will still be molding the youth of the city. To have had a hand in shaping the destiny of some boy or some girl is a mighty cheap investment. Give to the campaign today.

'POLLYANNA' AT THE EMPIRE THEATRE

The Empire Players will be seen in one of the most popular plays ever produced "Pollyanna" from the famous novel of Eleanor Porter, the most widely read book in the world. This play has big drawing capacity and is surely one of the season's events. In some plays more than others the stage and pulpit blend their missions in striking fashion. The gospel of faith in yourself and the search for temporal happiness are demonstrated in unmistakable terms seen in such a play as "Pollyanna." The advance sale of seats warrants an expensive production. Seats may be ordered in advance by mail, or telephone Salem 2200.

VICTOR ALLEYS.

Last Friday evening, two Bleachery teams, the Finishers, Capt. Shea, and the Grey Room, Capt. Elliott, rolled a matched game. The Finishers won. The scores were 1265 and 1183.

Saturday evening, a large delegation from the Red Men's convention enjoyed themselves on the alleys for over two hours.

Cronin—132, 88, 91, 92, 88, 72, 78, 91, 91, 87—Total 910.

Barbour—83, 96, 78, 105, 115, 79, 95, 109, 104, 77—Total 941.

Tuesday evening the Peabody club and the Now and Thens rolled their weekly match, which is reported in another column.

Wednesday evening, Freddy Laird, with a party of boys and their lady friends, enjoyed the sport for the evening.

The outcome of the checker contest started by the Men's club, which will determine, temporarily at least, who the real champion of South Peabody is, is awaited with great interest. The rounds up to the finals are being played off, around at the houses, and it is hoped to stage the finale at the next meeting, Feb. 18th.

STRAND ANNIVERSARY OFFERS "BEHIND THE DOOR" TODAY

Hobart Bosworth, veteran screen star, famous for so many wonderful pictures of the great outdoors, has come back to the shadow stage in a picture worthy of his time and talents. It is "Behind the Door," a Thomas H. Ince special production, which will be presented at the Strand today and Saturday. This is the third and last of the Strand's big Anniversary Week productions. The photoplay is an adaption of Gouverneur Morris's great story which was published in Collier's Weekly a short time ago, and which created a sensation that will only be outlived by the picture which has been created from its highly original and virile plot.

THOMAS H. INCE presents

Mr. Bosworth has the role of Capt. Krug, a German-American commander of a U. S. merchantman during the war. It is a role which permits every talent of this genius in portraying characters of the more rugged type in full sway.

In an equally prominent part, that of the commander of a German submarine, is Wallace Beery. As Captain Krug's wife, is Jane Novak, a star in her own right. Given such a cast and with direction by Irving Willatt, which has never been excelled, a great dramatic picture may be expected. "Behind the Door" is all of that. It is an epoch in the art of picture making. A production that the whole world will not dare to forget. It is too realistic, too great a feature in its every detail. See it—the story of a terrible revenge by a man who had suffered until merely killing his enemy on sight was not enough to be considered. He must pay twice over. And he did. And in a manner that will startle the most hardened movie fan.

A Fox-Sunshine comedy "The Roaming Bathub" and Ruth Roland in an exciting chapter of "The Adventures of Ruth" will be the other attraction for today.

May Allison in "Castles in the Air" and Olive Thomas in "The Follies Girl" will be the attractive double feature bill the Strand will offer for Sunday evening. Both pictures are of the light comedy type and make up a highly entertaining bill.

Charles Ray, one of Peabody's greatest favorites, will head a double bill on Monday and Tuesday, when he appears in "Red Hot Dollars," his latest picture. Patrons of the Strand will recall Mr. Ray's fine work in "The Egg Crate Wallop" and "Crooked Straight," and will have good cause to rejoice at the announcement that "Red Hot Dollars" is up to the same high standard. Mr. Ray is supreme in the role of a small town boy and his characterization in this production rings the bell of popular fancy. Viola Dana in "The Willow Tree" will be the other attraction for Monday.

Enid Bennett in "The Girl in the Suit Case" will be the attraction on Wednesday and Thursday. Among the big attractions listed for an early showing at the Strand are included "Male and Female," Marguerite Clark in "A Girl Named Mary" and Mary Pickford in "Daddy Long Legs."

ED WYNN CARNIVAL

A HUB SENSATION.

With an expectation of receiving something new and funny in the line of musical entertainment the Boston public awaited the coming of the Ed Wynn Carnival with the inimitable comedian, Ed Wynn, himself, which opened at the Tremont theatre in that city last Monday evening. But it is a fact that there was no preparation for the extremely happy surprise that first night audience received. They saw a show which compared with and excelled any of the best produced. And the emphatic declarations voiced with happy unanimity proclaimed that the Carnival was the best show seen in this most prodigal of theatrical seasons.

Ed Wynn as a comedian needs no extollation to theatre-goers who remember him as the funniest comedian the Ziegfeld Follies ever had and as star in many another musical show or revue. And now he comes in a show practically built by himself, for he wrote the book, lyrics and music. The music is of the tuneful, whistle-able variety in vocal numbers, and in the concerted numbers there is plenty of the stirring jangle of jazz and syncopation.

The wise Mr. Wynn is not so rash as to endeavor to be the whole show, as witness the number of remarkably clever principals who are a whole show in themselves. Among them should be mentioned, Lillian Fitzgerald, singing comedian; Edna Whistler, a singer with a charming soprano voice; J. Harry Jenkins, Frank Ridge, Ted Roberts and others.

If you don't believe the Community House is a benefit to this city call your conscience's bluff by spending 10 minutes inside of it some week day evening. The Community House is not open Sundays.

Yours very truly,
ROBERT A. BAKEMAN,
South Peabody.

Allen's Lung Healer

Restored Him to Health and to His School

From all indications this boy was on the verge of consumption, yet his case was not so hopeless as it seemed, for he found and used the right remedy in time. Cases similar to this are a common occurrence, as Allen's Lung Healer is becoming famous as a lung medicine.

H. J. Allen: Dear Sir: Four years ago, while in my senior year in the High school, I was suffering from a severe cough on my lungs. I had been doctoring for several months, but had found nothing to help me. My lungs became so sore that at times it seemed as though they were blistered. I became so run down that I had to leave school. Then a friend told me of your Lung Healer. I tried it and was greatly relieved by the first bottle. I continued its use and after taking four bottles my cough was gone and my health was completely restored. It made a new man of me and I went back to school. Your Lung Healer is certainly a grand medicine and a great body builder.

Yours gratefully,
JOHN HENRY PERRY.

Should Women be put on trial for their faults?

Should women be put on trial for their faults? And should they be tried by men? Are their so-called weaknesses due to the mediocre demands of men? Do women know how to stick to ideals that are not social assets? What is the trye of girl that invariably becomes an old maid? Do men put a premium on virtue?

These are a few of the questions that are discussed and answered in a tremendously stimulating article called "Supply and Demand." Every woman in America owes it to herself to read it.

This is but one of the 38 stimulating and amusing features in this big magazine.

PERSONALS

Mrs. Olive Teel Mills will conduct a series of dancing assemblies for older people in the Masonic hall, commencing next Thursday.

Miss Tilly Goldberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harris Goldberg of Aborn street, was operated on at the J. B. Thomas hospital this week for appendicitis.

George W. Goodell, the well known Eastend druggist, is a patient at the Thomas hospital.

Attorney Robert Hill and Dr. Robert Strangman, both of Salem, were guests at the Rotary club luncheon here last Tuesday.

George S. Curtis, the druggist, and brother Charles, a Boston merchant, left yesterday for a two months' visit in California.

Miss Gertrude Henderson has returned from an extended visit to New Brunswick.

Miss Nellie E. McCarthy, deputy collector in the office of Internal Revenue, Boston, is confined to her home on Northend street this week suffering with an attack of grip.

Mrs. George Draper of Holten street has been confined to her home this week with a severe cold.

Edward K. Roche, proprietor of the Peabody Steam Laundry, has recovered from his recent illness.

Harris Goldberg is confined to his home, Aborn and Sutton streets, with the gripe.

Miss Margaret McHugh of Parsons street is a victim of one of the severe grip colds now prevalent in the city and has been confined to the house the past week.

Miss Maude Perry of Danvers has entered the employ of the Peabody Press Co. as bookkeeper.

Peabody women helped to make a success of the fair of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Mass. State Firemen's Association in Boston last Wednesday. There was a good sale of tickets here, and articles were donated for the sale, which was held in Commercial hall, Boston. It is reported that several hundred dollars will be netted, as a result of the sale.

MOOSE FAIR TO BEAT ALL

hall will be decorated and booths will be set up all around the sides of the hall. There will be a vaudeville entertainment each night. A number of acts have been booked through the Boston Theatrical and Lyceum bureau, and some local artists will also appear. Little Beatrice Leary of Beverly, who is only nine years old, will appear locally for the first time, in acrobatic dances, and is sure to please. There will be dancing each evening with music by the Waverly orchestra.

The contest for the most popular driver of the Fire Department is creating great interest, and the winner will not be decided upon until the last night of the fair, Saturday, Feb. 14. Messrs. Brown, Emerson, Duggan, Bodge, Morgan, Ellis and Hannon are taking an active part in this contest. The ladies have been very successful on their donation booth, and the ticket committee announces one of the largest advance sale of season tickets ever realized. The hall will undoubtedly be filled each evening.

There is no promoter connected with this fair, the members have taken hold themselves, and the proceeds will be all used for fraternal purposes. The Moose wish to keep to the standard they have set in their past fairs, and stage an event that will be attractive to their large following. This lodge has always done its full share in patriotic subscriptions, and was represented by 70 of its membership in the World War.

The committee in charge is led by Chairman William F. Robinson, Gardner Viles, secretary; A. Labelle, treasurer, and the ticket committee is in charge of P. H. McDonald, chairman; P. J. Walsh, secretary; M. E. Cranney, treasurer. Mrs. C. Bowman is chairlady of the donations; Mrs. N. Lafreniere, secretary, and Mrs. J. J. King, treasurer. There will be a another meeting of the committee at Moose hall on Sunday and a full attendance is requested.

BOY SCOUTS ARE CLEVER ON STAGE

No play ever given in South church vestry in past years drew a larger crowd than that presented Thursday evening by Troop 2, Boy Scouts. The seating capacity was overtaxed, and many had to stand. In dresses and wigs the boys appeared as "Old Maids," and performed with high credit to themselves.

While all did well, special mention should be made of Raymond Viles, Robert Hayes, William Dunn and Stephen Cross. John Johansen sang songs that called for encores. Daniel Wiggen "The Mystic Orann, a Wooden Man," deserves high praise. Theodore Jeffers took time from his vacation from college studies to infuse life and enthusiasm into the boys, and managed the play. A large quantity of candy and ice cream met with quick sale. Music was furnished by the Scout orchestra.

SENATOR WALSH TO BE CHIEF GUEST AT ST. JOHN'S REUNION

The first 14 years after his ordination was spent in Boston, after which he was made rector of the Sacred Heart church at Middleboro. While there, he cleared the church of debt entirely, and made many improvements. After four years he was made rector of St. Joseph's church at Belmont and Waverly, where he was the first local pastor to be appointed in that section. There likewise, his labors were crowned with success, and on his departure, after clearing all indebtedness, he left a sum of many thousands of dollars in the church treasury. Upon the death of Rev. Michael J. Masterson, former pastor of St. John's, he was made pastor of this church, and the successful results of his labors in this parish are obvious to all.

Extensive improvements in the church property have been made; the lower church entirely remodelled, and the handsome and beautifully appointed school building, erected shortly after the fire, which destroyed the parish school on October 14th, 1915, all stand as monuments to his untiring efforts.

A splendid musical program of vocal and instrumental numbers has been arranged for the reunion. Among other artists who will appear will be Miss Marjorie Church of this city. Miss Church is a finished pianist, having graduated from Conservatories in both this country and abroad, and those who have not had the opportunity of hearing her play will have the pleasure on that occasion. Dancing will be in order from 9 to 2 o'clock. The committees:

Committee on Dancing—Floor director, Michael F. Burke; assistant floor directors, Dr. Charles E. Campbell, Harold E. Kiley, Thomas J. O'Shea.

CITY HALL GOSSIP

Peabody's blizzard of yesterday was tempered a wee bit in the Mayor's sanctum sanctorum by the receipt of a souvenir postcard from Florida, which showed the beach and palms as on a July day at Devereaux. The sender was Charles K. Knowlton, formerly of Peabody, who notified Mayor Donnell, that he had shipped His Honor, a box of oranges as a memento of the orange country.

City Collector Hershenson and his office staff collected last year the sum of $809,386.85, and this is the amount the Collector's office turned over to the City Treasurer. It cost the city $4800 to collect the above sum, which figures out .006 for every dollar collected.

City Hall was a dark, gloomy and forlorn place yesterday afternoon, with not a single solitary female specie in sight. Every girl clerk was told to remain at home when she went to lunch. One girl, who lives on Lowell street, was exhausted when she arrived home, and had to take to her bed.

Following the recommendation of the Fire Underwriters the City Engineer's office has purchased two pressure recording gauges which will show the water pressure in the water mains at all times. One of the gauges will be installed in the City Engineer's office and the other at the pumping station.

Is Chairman Jere Quirk downhearted over the talk of a reduction in his new salary agreed on by Mayor Donnell? It wouldn't seem so, for when I saw him at his desk yesterday (while the blizzard raged outside), he was imitating a community sing, and doing a right smart job of it with his warbles.

Stenographic work at City Hall becomes a machine with the best, even as in other offices, and dictation becomes a definite thing to take ugly shapes now and then on the typewriter. An example comes to mind this week in the instance of one City Hall official, who, giving dictation, read off a charge of so much for frozen water. When the young lady typist began to transcribe her notes she found "so many dollars for frozen water." The item of course, was for ice.

The police ambulance and wagon motorkit was shelved practically all day in the city garage, and Supt. Sexton was to take either out in the snow, or as to be unable to get it about the streets.

Assistant Janitor Duggan is proving a valuable man under Janitor Russell. He is accommodating, and already has the warm regards of all City Hall attaches.

City Collector Hershenson, the Assessors and Mayor Donnell are devising a plan whereby the $5 poll taxes this year will be collected sometime in advance of the real estate taxes. The State gets $3 on every male voter and resident of Peabody.

The finance committee will meet with Mayor Donnell tomorrow night. A meeting in which harmony will prevail is looked for, and salary boosts will probably be reported unanimously by the committee in accord with the budget.

It is alleged that the fire underwriters favor some one's suggestion to have the city build a second story on the Board of Health office on Lowell street as a headquarters for the city electrician. It is said this is what "new recommendation" is forthcoming at the next meeting of the City Council. Wonder if the underwriters said anything about the chief's car that is now in Little Nemo's class?

George R. Nelson, clerk of the Board of Assessors, surrendered to a bad cold this week which kept him confined to his home.

First Woman Journalist.

Mrs. Anne Royall, born in Maryland, in 1769, was not only the first woman journalist, but the first of her sex to own and edit a newspaper. She was the widow of a Virginia revolutionary war officer, and appeared in Washington in 1824 for the purpose of trying to secure a government pension. Failing in this, she started a small weekly sheet which was first called the "Washington Paul Pry" and later the "Huntress." She had met personally and talked with every president from Washington to Lincoln, and was the terror of politicians.

sible the city could add something to the pay, and I suggested the compromise of 15 cents more a day to take care of the legal holidays. I didn't believe the men would call a strike, as they did, without hardly a minute's notice."

Business Agent Harding, who conferred with the Mayor, believed that the city's offer was a reasonable one, but when he reported back to the men, they held a special meeting, and declared they would take $4.50 or nothing. They sent back word yesterday that they would strike.

Because of the raging blizzard Sept. Wyman had his men in readiness yesterday morning to go on the job. He was apprised of the action of the strikers while he was at the bedside of his wife, who is ill with influenza.

John O'Brien, one of the strikers, urged the men not to resort to a strike, but his pleadings were turned down by the majority of the men.

There are 18 men in the street department, and four men in the water department involved in the strike against the citizens, for that is just what it is. Some of the men are said to have threatened bodily harm to any strike breakers, and one boldly declared that the city would be prevented from taking any of the horses from the barns to help clear the snow.

Because of the drifts in front of the Municipal garage, the motor police ambulance and wagon were shut off from the public use, and Chief Grady borrowed a pung from Edgerly's market, a single harness from C. J. Flynn of the General Transportation Co., and relied on one of the city horses to get the pung into action if called on in any emergency.

Because of the strike the fire department was seriously delayed in getting to the B. N. Moore & Son's factory fire early last evening, owing to the high drifts in Peabody Square, and fortune alone saved the factory from being the start of a conflagration which might have rendered many families homeless. The high wind would certainly have blown embers, and had the firemen not been able to quell the flames just when they did, Peabody might have been given a fire, that would have gone down in history.

Had a break in the water main occurred yesterday or last night, another calamity might have been recorded against the city, and the striking employees of the department could have taken home to themselves much of the blame.

Citizens today have freely called the action of the street and water men outrageous, and a blow at the poor public. The strikers evidently believed they could not have taken a more opportune time than yesterday to declare a strike, owing to the heavy blizzard and high wind that piled the snow in mountain banks. But for the street cars which did wonderfully well under the circumstances, pedestrians would have been obliged to wade through snow to the hips in the business section.

Figures obtained by the Mayor show that the teamsters on strike have averaged $30 a week for the past six months and the laborers $23.59. The men in Peabody are paid time and a half for all overtime, given Saturday afternoons off the year around, and two weeks' vacation with pay. Few cities in the whole State do any better by its street and water employees, than does Peabody.

Business Agent Harding frankly told Mayor Donnell that he believed the compromise offer a fair one, and that he would advise the men to accept it.

WOOD HAS VARIED CIVIL EXPERIENCE

ADMINISTRATIVE QUALITIES ARE TESTED AND PROVED IN HANDLING GREAT BUSINESS PROBLEMS.

By EDWARD B. CLARK.

From time to time people ask, "What has been the administrative and business experience of Leonard Wood? What has been his experience with men outside of the army? What does he know about conditions in the different parts of the United States and in our overseas possessions? Has he any thorough knowledge of foreign affairs and of our foreign relations?"

The administrative qualities of Leonard Wood have been tested and proved. No American living has been tried more thoroughly than he in complex fields of constructive civil work, administrative work of the highest order which carried with it the necessity for the exercise of keen business acumen.

The republic of Cuba, built upon firm democratic foundations, is a monument to the administrative ability of Leonard Wood. In the Philippines is to be found another monument to his statesmanship.

Leonard Wood graduated in medicine from Harvard University in 1884 and served for more than a year in one of the great hospitals, later to take charge of the charity departments in a section of the city of Boston where the poor lived.

MAIL SERVICE NOW IN ORDER

Peabody, Mass., Feb. 5, 1920.

Upon the recommendation of the postmaster and through the efforts of Congressman Michael F. Phelan, three residences on Overlea avenue, and nine residences on Elaine avenue, have been granted an extension of city delivery service. The residences of the other streets of Overlea in the section of the hill beyond Elaine avenue may have their mail delivered into boxes, that they may put up at some convenient point on the carrier's course of travel on Elaine avenue.

Before an extension of city delivery service may be granted, the regulations require that there shall be good continuous sidewalks, cross walks, street lights, street signs, the houses properly numbered, slots cut in the doors or receptacles placed at the doors for the receipt of mail. The section of Overlea, which has been granted the extension of city delivery service, has been improved to meet the requirements.

Search was begun today for Myron F. Johnson, pastor of the Bethany Congregational church of South Portland for the past two years and said formerly in charge of a pastorate in Peabody.

Mrs. Fred Wyman, wife of the street superintendent, is ill with the influenza.

Mrs. Aaron Strauss and daughter, Elsie, are both confined to their home on Franklin street, with severe colds. James Bresnahan, formerly of this city and now located in Pittsburg, was a visitor here this week.

Noted Speaker To Tell Truth About Ireland

The Richard J. Barry Council of the American Commission of Irish Independence of Peabody, will hold a mass meeting next Monday evening in the A. O. H. hall. William H. O'Brien of Boston will give an address relative to conditions in Ireland at the present day. Mr. O'Brien is an able speaker, and he has promised on this occasion to relate the story of Ireland as he knows it, and to put it straight from the shoulder, home to those who will come to hear him.

The local Council is to start a drive Feb. 21 to sell bond certificates of the Irish republic, and are making arrangements to outline the details for the canvassers.

The following ward captains were appointed at the last meeting: Ward 1, William A. Walsh; Ward 2, Michael J. Sherry; Ward 3, Mrs. Charles H. Cassidy; Ward 4, Philip McGinn; Ward 5, Miss Margaret Donovan; Ward 6, Mrs. Patrick Fennessey.

The executive committee has been increased to include over 100 members.

ENJOY PUNG RIDE TO SUNTAUG INN

A most enjoyable evening was passed at Suntaug Inn, Tuesday evening by the office employees of the Tanners Products Co., who were honored by the presence of a few of the higher officials. After a sleigh ride through Danvers, Middleton and Lynnfield, the stop was made at 5.30 P. M. Song Leader John W. Byron, chief engineer of the company, was most efficient in keeping up steam on the trip, as well as at the plant, and displayed an unusual amount of talent in his line, lead the Seebler Male Quartet.

That they were an extra attraction goes without saying, and upon arriving at the inn, John Sullivan furnished a number of selections on the piano, which were greatly enjoyed. Miss Arlean Morgan, being the newest and youngest member of the "family" made quite a hit, when she broke out singing "Tell me." Exhibition dancing by Horace Nelson of the Boston office and "B." was a scheduled feature of the evening. Moving pictures were enjoyed followed by dancing and a Virginia reel, which was entered in as great sport.

To say that the bountiful dinner prepared for the guests exceeded all expectations, is treating the subject very mildly. "H. B." and "N. B." were among the inevitable "rough-necks" of the party, but through the efforts of "Py" Perkins, superintendent of the Textile Department, assisted by "teacher" in the person of Miss Mae Nelson, office manager, who accepted her new title graciously, which was given her as a sort of remembrance that she had served the company untriflingly for the past 17 years.

It was, after all, a well behaved party that arrived back in Peabody shortly after midnight. There were a couple that comprised this fun-

Overseas Man Near Death By Typhoid Fever

Irving Pitman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Pitman of South street, who is one of the last Peabody boys to return to America from France war service, is at death's door in New Jersey with typhoid fever. His arrival in Hoboken was chronicled in the Enterprise a few weeks ago. In his emerging from the "sweating" process required of all overseas veterans, he contracted a cold, which put him to bed at the home of his uncle, with pneumonia. Typhoid developed, and he has been critically ill for several days. Both his father and mother are at his bedside, having been called there last week. He enjoyed perfect health while overseas, and arrived in this country equally well. He is a civil engineer by profession.

OVERTURNED PUNG TIES UP TROLLEYS

Electric car traffic between Peabody and Salem was held up some time yesterday morning, when a pung loaded with an oil tank, overturned, rolling across the Salem bound track. Pedestrians were forced to walk until the trolley company sent turnback cars up on the inbound track to take care of the traffic. The driver of the pung was getting out of the way of the cars, when his pung turned almost turtle. Several hundred gallons of oil was lost. The driver escaped unhurt. It was late in the afternoon before traffic was resumed. The accident occurred shortly before 11 o'clock.

Frank Allen Heads Aumour Leather Corp.

Frank G. Allen, President of the Winslow Bros. & Smith, operators of the Morrill Leather Plant of Peabody, has been named President of the Armour Leather interests. He is a native of Lynn, where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Allen, reside, at 25 Bachelors street. He went through the public schools of Lynn. He is in his early 40's, and his rise in the business world has been rapid.

His home is in Norwood, where he is one of the leading citizens, and for some time has been one of the Selectmen. Mr. Allen has long been connected with the Armours, of course, through Winslow Bros. & Smith, which has been to the Armours in Massachusetts what the A. C. Lawrence Leather Co. of Peabody, has been to the Swifts.

The new Armour Leather Co. will control the great tanning interests of the noted Chicago packing house. The factories are scattered among many cities and towns of the East.

State Board Thinks Peabody Still A Town

The Massachusetts State Board of Pharmacy sent a letter here this week addressed to the "Selectmen of the Town of Peabody," evidently not having been duly and officially notified that the citizens of the best city in the State threw off the cumbersome yoke of town government back in 1916. The letter was signed by Leon C. Ellis, secretary, and it sought to learn if Peabody would grant sixth class licenses. It asked if Peabody had voted license. It is alleged the State Board is involved in some dispute with the Boston license board over the granting of sixth class licenses.

Everyone who attends the Legion's Big Show will receive a beautiful 60-page souvenir program.—Adv.

PEABODY

PEABODY MAY BUY WATER FROM LYNN

Action which may lead to the city of Peabody obtaining added water supply from the city of Lynn was taken by the City Council last night on motion of Councillor Albert F. Reed which instructed the committee on water to join Mayor Donnell in a conference with Lynn water officials.

Prefacing his remarks, Councillor Reed said that the city is confronted today with the possibility of losing a new factory building unless a guarantee can be given of sufficient water supply. He declared in a conference he had held with Water Commissioner Newson of Lynn, that the deal for an auxiliary water supply could undoubtedly be arranged. No price was mentioned, but it is hinted that Peabody may be able to buy the water from Lynn for 18 cents per thousand gallons which would yield Peabody a profit of two cents from which to take care of the outlay.

Mayor Donnell believes the suggestion of Councillor Reed is one of the best solutions to the water supply muddle he has yet heard and the conference with the Lynn officials will be held at once and the matter brought up before the City Council at its next meeting, Feb. 26.

Councillor Hogan, while not opposing the Lynn proposition, went on record as of the opinion that there was ample water in Peabody if properly conserved.

Jitney Owners Refund.

Peabody jitney owners whose licenses were revoked in the recent ultimatum of the Mass. Eastern Railway will be given a refund of the fees paid to the city treasury following the motion of Councillor Joseph A. Ryan at the meeting of the City Council last night. The matter of refund basis was left to Councillor Sullivan, chairman of the finance committee and City Treasurer Francis L. Poor.

By a vote of 7 to 2, the Council favored a reduction in the fee for a Sunday license, instructing the committee on ordinance to bring in a new order making the fee $2 instead of the $5 as now in force. Councillors Ryan and Reed believed that a charge of 10 cents a Sunday was little enough to exact and both opposed the motion which is a gift to the half hundred small stores that do a big volume of business on the Sabbath "as a matter of accommodation."

On motion of Councillor Reed, Chief Grady will be requested to notify the Council of convictions against Sunday stores for selling jakey so that

JUDGE CALLAHAN PRAISES DONNELL

District Attorney S. Howard Donnell, Mayor of Peabody, was praised by Judge Callahan of the Superior Court at Lawrence yesterday for the expeditious manner in which he had disposed of over 250 cases on the docket in the short few weeks he has held the office of County Prosecutor. Judge Callahan said the accomplishment on the part of the Peabody Mayor was unusual, and that he deserved great credit for having been able to dispose of the large number of cases with only a week's time in which to digest a docket of 600 cases. The court complimented Dist. Atty. Donnell on the splendid manner in which he had handled the cases and extolled his ability as shown thus far in his new office. Several Peabody citizens were in court when Judge Callahan made his announcement.

Mayor White of Lawrence presented Dist. Atty. Donnell with a handsome bouquet last Monday, when the court opened at Lawrence for the week. Yesterday saw the end of the first term of the criminal court.

Mrs. Teague Unconscious

The condition of Mrs. John A. Teague, wife of the treasurer of the Peabody co-operative bank, is today precarious, following a stroke of apoplexy last Wednesday morning, and her death is believed to be only a matter of hours. She was stricken on her return from an errand in the yard at her home on Lowell street.

$12,000 MORE NEEDED FOR COMMUNITY HOUSE DRIVE

The drive for needed funds for the Peabody Community House, which ends tomorrow night, is $12,000 short of its desired amount. Already $8000 is in sight, and the campaign is for $20,000. The drive will end with a supper tomorrow night at 5.30, when final reports will be made.

In their report the directors announce:

The Community House has purchased property in the rear, consisting of a lot and house on Pierpont street. The house was torn down and the land offers an opportunity for future development, giving an entrance from two streets. By this purchase the directors removed a bad fire risk, and increased the value of their own property.

Two things deemed necessary by the president for the future of the Community House are: First, that the board of managers be increased by five, all of whom shall be manufacturers representing the largest firms in the city, that the Community

House be thus recognized by the manufacturers and be given their support; second, that a finance committee be appointed as a permanent committee to take care of all finances connected with the Peabody Community House, so that it can be kept in sufficient funds to carry on its work.

Having begun this year with a full year's work ahead under competent and experienced management, with past experiences to guide the directors, the Community House can be made of immense value to the people of this city. It is hoped that the entire population will consider it as their meeting house, their house of play, a place where they and their children can obtain real American teaching, and that it will prove a bulwark for the true American spirit so much needed at this time."

Here are a few figures for the year 1919: Number of members, 872; boys and men, 390; girls and women, 482; total attendance, 11,943; in gymnasium activities, 8379; on basketball teams, 65; number of men using gymnasium at present, 41; total number using game room and shooting gallery, 6363; total number using library and reading room, 3643; number boys in educational classes, 34; number girls in educational classes, 47; number women in educational classes, 50; different organizations using House or gymnasium, 7; number in kindergarten, 23.

The treasurer's report from February to October 8, 1919, is as follows:

INCOME
Donations	$23,263 41
Bank loan	1,039 80
Entertainments	842 05

Articles that are needed at the Community House for the various classes and recreation include: Type-writer, pool table, games for small girls and boys, magazines, books for boys and girls, phonograph records, printing press, locking racks for dumb-bells and Indian clubs, stop-watches, etc.

Gymnasium activities and all boys' classes will resume the regular schedule next week. On account of the dancing class Saturday night, the regular boys' night will be Friday, instead of Saturday hereafter. The basketball league series, interrupted by the campaign, will continue as before.

The standing of the teams in the High school league is as follows:

Rovers750
Lightning Five750
Red Tops500
Ramblers000

In the Grammar school league the Wallis school has won two games, the Carroll and Center one each, while the South occupies the cellar position at present.

Tuesday afternoon, Feb. 24, a gymnastic exhibition will be given by the afternoon classes to mothers and invited friends.

The regular class work at the Community House will be resumed on Monday, Feb. 16th.

The dancing class for boys and girls of 14 years and over, will begin Saturday evening, Feb. 14, at 7.30 with a Valentine party.

Some of the mothers will serve as matrons each evening.

Mrs. George Dean is to be the instructor. The fee is $5 for 10 lessons.

The women's gymnastic class are to have a masquerade Monday evening, March 1. An orchestra from Salem will furnish the music.

Everybody is expected to come in costume. The tickets are 25 cents. The number is limited and may only be obtained from class members on or before Feb. 23.

Home made cake and ice cream will be on sale and a good time is assured for all.

PERSONALS

John J. O'Connell, formerly of Peabody, and now a resident of Lynn, is convalescing from a three weeks' illness of pneumonia. He is a printer on the Lynn Item.

Union Relief Corps, No. 50, of Peabody, will meet Tuesday evening at 7.30, in G. A. R. hall, when it is expected five candidates will be initiated.

Forty Harvard men, comprising the Pierian Sodality orchestra, will give a concert in the Methodist church next Tuesday evening. Several hundred tickets have been sold for the concert. An attractive program has been arranged.

Charles A. Smiley, traveling salesman for the Densten Hair Co., sent postcards from Chicago this week. He has been in Texas and other points South and West in the interests of the big Peabody concern.

John Cy McCarthy has recovered from an attack of the grippe.

Football Team Gets Sweaters

"Football makes a good man and a valuable citizen" was the declaration of Harrie Dadmun, the former Harvard varsity crack player, now with the A. C. Lawrence Leather Co., in his address to the High school football warriors at their banquet held Wednesday night, under the auspices of the Peabody Grange. He urged a comprehensive training system, which would bring forth accuracy, speed, fighting qualities and never say die spirit.

Eighteen football players, including Manager Roger Griffin, heard themselves praised for their great work of last fall, at this banquet, which was tendered by the Peabody Grange, and each of the players was given a hand.

This brief outline of the story does not do justice to this sumptuous production. In fact it fairly beggars some sweater. Henry King of the faculty was toastmaster.

The players to receive the coveted sweaters were Capt. Herbert Lawrence, Eddie O'Connor, David Shackman, Richard Lynch, Charles Martin, Eugene Jordan, William Kelley, Michael Flynn, Arthur Fennessey, Frank O'Keefe, Joseph McDonald, William Ray, Ralph Holden, Frank Hennessey, Stephen O'Connell, Henry Sullivan, John Carten and Manager Roger Griffin.

Among the list of speakers were Capt. Lawrence, Roger Griffin, Eddie O'Connor, John Anglin, Supt. Robinson, Harrie Dadmun, Angus McDonald, William F. Carlin, Clarence Barnes, Judge Horace Farnham and City Collector Earl Hershenson.

Principal Woodman, who is confined to his home with illness, sent the following letter in praise of the football team:

Feb. 11, 1920.

My Dear Mr. King:

I should be pleased to have you express to the members of the football team and their friends my deep regret in not being able to be with you this evening. I had looked forward to this event with pleasant anticipation.

I am exceedingly proud of the brilliant record made by the boys on the football field, and equally proud of the splendid reports which have come to me from teachers and officials of other schools, praising the boys' clean playing, manliness and fine spirit in general.

May the festivities of the evening bring not only present enjoyment, but also increased enthusiasm for even greater achievements in the future.

Sincerely,

WILLARD W. WOODMAN.

The High school orchestra furnished music during the evening's program and elicited much favorable comment. The committee of the Grange which had charge of the turkey supper given the football players, were Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Batchelder, Mrs. Mary Basford, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bolster, Mrs. Jesse Ferren, Mrs. John Young and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Holden.

CITY HALL GOSSIP

The resignation of Miss Louise Teague as secretary to Supt. Robinson of the school department removes from City Hall, one of the ablest attaches, and her leaving is a loss to the department. She proved a most efficient secretary with a quick grasp of the important details of the office. Her successor will be named in the near future by Supt. Robinson, he having been authorized to pick out his own assistant.

Charles Krump, now in charge of the water meters, was a top sergeant in the engineer's corps in France, and he got overseas because he held up the colonel of his outfit in Washington, and told him he was a steamfitter, all of which was the truth. That got him a chance to join the regiment and sail for France. Had he not boldly held up his commanding officer, he might have been kept on office work in Washington. He volunteered for France and was bound to get there. Krump is a valuable man for the city in the handling of the meters and his pay should be made worth while, else he will be drawn away to his old job, that of a journeyman

West Peabody

The interests of this community the past week have been centered on the unprecedented fall of snow, and its results in interfering with schools, business and social life. Those working in Boston on last Thursday had many experiences in their efforts to find lodging, after trying vainly to get trains for home. The noon train for Boston was stuck in the drifts at Needham's Cut for nearly 24 hours, and Joseph Brooks and Robert Fischer rendered valuable help to the imprisoned passengers, carrying them food and sending telephone messages.

The local railroad men put in long hours at their posts, Agent Freeman spending two nights at the station office, for example. The Grange, all church services on Sunday, and several days of school were prevented. The condition of the streets prevented R. F. D. service, and made problems for milk dealers, and all who had to be on the roads. Walking was not bad because of the crust on the snow, which brought out, too, those owning skis and snow shoes, and made fine conditions also for hunting. Thomas Durkee was the fortunate individual, who bagged a fine fox near Huckleberry Hill.

Charles Leach of Keene, N. H., is planning to leave Y. M. C. A. service soon to accept a position in the Boy Scouts' organization.

Miss Marion Taylor underwent a very successful tonsil operation at the J. B. Thomas hospital this week.

Robert Gallup, Superintendent of the New England Sand and Gravel Co., has again moved his family into this city. Temporarily sojourning at the Joyce house on Winona street, he contemplates soon moving into the house of Roy Felt on Broad street.

Prof. Van Meter, an agricultural expert, will give a demonstration on tree trimming on the farm of Oscar Goodale on Feb. 23. All interested are invited to bring a sharp saw, in order to learn by working under Mr. Van Meter's direction.

plumber. He is a Lynn man and a "Hello Bill," and those who know, opine he is the right man in his position.

Friends of Charles M. Boyle are urging him to announce his candidacy for Councillor-at-large for the next city election some months hence. His big vote for Trustee of the Peabody Institute, when he lost by scant 10 votes, puts him in the running, say his supporters.

Councillor Frank McKeen has been confined to his home this week with the influenza.

Manager Warren D. King of the Electric Light Plant surmounted the handicaps of the blizzard last week by getting out a crew of men with puns and hauling sufficient coal to insure continuance of the power station. He was taking no chances of a shutdown, and his quick action without any of the bluster about it, reflects no mean credit on his initiative.

Peabody has it all over Lynn in several ways of municipal government, that goes without saying, but this city went Lynn one better this week, when the ash removal contractors took care of the waste, despite the deep snow. Lynn abandoned its ash collection and turned its teams over to removing the snow from its streets. Peabody's highway employees back from their brief strike of last week, made quick inroads into the snow drifts about Peabody square.

The City Engineer, with the approval of the Mayor, secured extra teams and puns with which to hustle the snow away. It was good service on the part of his department.

In the illness of Supt. Wyman, the services of Supt. Michael F. Murphy, Superintendent of Sewers, were pressed in to boss the street employees.

'Politics In America' Wins First Prize In Enterprise Contest For P. H. S. Students

The Enterprise prize story contest for High School students has two very interesting themes for this week, the best one being on the history of "Politics in America" and the second on "Cost of High School Maintenance." Here are the best essays for this week:

AMERICAN POLITICS. (By Blanche P. Hayward, 1923.)

The Federalists formed in 1787, the members of which claimed to be the peculiar friends of the constitution of the Federal government. The most distinguished members of the Federalists were Washington, Adams, Hamilton and Jay, and the leading Federalist states were Massachusetts and Connecticut, supported generally by the other New England states. Opposed to this party were Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, Burr and Gallatin, who were called Anti-Federalists, and charged with being indifferent or hostile to the Constitution and government.

During the contest of the French Revolution the Federalists leaned to the side of England, the Republicans to that of France. The dissolution of the Federalists was hastened by reason of its opposition to the second war (1812) of independence.

The theory of the Democratic-Republican party was, popular government, with limitations of the powers of the general or Federal government, in order not to restrict the rights of states in the management of local interests.

In the last decade of the past century, the party assumed the name of Republican, by which it was popularly known until about 1830, when the more radical portion separated from the conservative element, and took the name of National Republicans. The friends of Adams were styled the administration wing, and those of Jackson, the opposition. The Jackson men afterward fixed upon the title of Democrat, and there has been no further variation of the name of the party since.

The Whigs were a political party, which may be said to have had its own inception, together with the Democratic party, in 1828, when public sentiment became divided upon the tariff question. In 1848 the Whigs nominated and elected General Zachary Taylor for President and Willard Fillmore for Vice President. In the campaign of 1856, the remnant of the Whig and the American party united, and cast 874,534 votes for Fillmore and Donelson, as against the Republicans with Fremont, and the Democrats, who succeeded with James

LEGION MEMBERS WILL STAGE CLASSY MINSTRELS AND DANCE

Peabody veterans of the World's War have a real surprise for the citizens in their coming minstrel show in City Hall next Tuesday evening. It will be their first annual entertainment and dance, and the rehearsals for the snappy minstrels gives plenty of assurance that the affair will be a big success.

Snappy music, popular war songs and end jokes of the 1920 vintage, will go to make up the entertainment, and Phil Hunt, the interlocuter, will draw out some puns that will bring smiles to all of the doughboys and their friends. The minstrel show has been arranged by Leo B. Murphy.

The endmen will be Charles M. Boyle, Godfrey Shea, Thomas Kavanaugh, William P. Mahoney, George H. Gilis, Thomas F. Broderick. Among the soloists will be James Powers, Olie Quirk, Clarence Hartnett, Joseph Sousa, John T. Feeney and Leonard B. Cassidy. A duet that will score a hit will be sung by John Higgins and Michael McGrath. The Waverly orchestra, under the direction of Edward Carberry, himself a veteran, will furnish the music for the show and dance.

A handsome souvenir program book with plenty of patriotic color within its pages has been prepared for the occasion, Peabody business men and public-spirited citizens having responded generously to the advertising solicitor. The general committee in charge of the entertainment is headed by Charles M. Boyle.

Here is the complete list of the committees:

ENTERTAINMENT—Charles M. Boyle, chairman; Philip L. Hunt, secretary and treasurer; director, Leo P. Murphy; musical director, Edward F. Carberry; stage director, Vincent P. O'Keefe.

PROGRAM, PUBLICITY AND TICKETS—Philip L. Hunt, chairman; Leonard B. Cassidy, James E. Mulcahy, Edward J. McGurn.

DANCE—John H. McNamara, chairman; Dr. Henry F. Ellis, Richard P. O'Rourke.

HALL AND CHECKING—Joseph T. Sweeney, chairman; Andrew Fyfe, Frank T. Matthews, Leo J. Sullivan.

TRANSPORTATION—Michael W. Walsh, chairman; Harold G. Childs, Francis T. McCann.

COSTUMES AND DECORATIONS—Leo P. Murphy, chairman; Frank T. Matthews, Elmer J. Foley.

The executive committee of Peabody Post, 153, American Legion, has issued a call to all ex-service men of Peabody to join the American Legion. Every returned service man should join this organization which is dedicated to everything good in America. Get back of the flag as a civilian. You are needed. Don't let small town provincialism keep you out. If there is one city in the country that needs an American Legion Post, Peabody is that one. The Post needs you, and your country needs you in the American Legion. If your experiences in the service opened your eyes to the American Legion will help to them open. Join the Legion month. Your membership is sired. Don't stay out.

BASKETBALL ACTIVITIES RESUMED

The second game in the Legion-Mats series was played last Tuesday evening to a good crowd in the large City Hall. When the whistle blew, signaling hostilities to cease, the score stood, Mats 9, Legion 8, and the game was all that the close score implies.

The Mats evidently expected an easy win, for they were swept off their feet during the first few minutes of play, and it looked as if Coach Fyfe had been putting the Legion boys through some secret practice sessions. The Temperance lads, however, came back strong, and by some clever team work, jumped into the lead. From then on it was give and take, and the fans surely got their money's worth. In the last two minutes of play the Mats caged another goal, which settled matters, and both teams were willing to quit when the whistle blew. Gilmore and Houran starred for the Mats, while Tim Shea, Ray and Chenney carried off the honors for the Legion team. The Mats earned their hard-fought victory.

NOTES ON THE GAME.

The "Old Timers" were all on hand, perched along the front row.

It was conceded by all to be the roughest and scrappiest game that has been played thus far.

The casualties were as follows: Joseph Gilmore, injured hand, (six stitches); T. Shea, gash over eye; Hennessey and Masterson, black eyes; Ray, sprained leg; Chenney and Walsh, tattooed by the manicured nails of the Temperance boys.

It was rather fortunate for both teams to have their pictures taken before the battle, rather than after.

Referee McClellan made his first, and probably his last appearance in Peabody.

Capt. Murphy made some stellar shots for the basket, but there was no luck in the house for Jim.

Manager Quinlan's head stopped a fast pass into the side-lines, and the crowd gave him a hand.

It's a great game. All that was lacking was a set of gloves and Jack Dempsey to referee.

The Mats were somewhat amazed at the way the Legion players broke up their team play. This was particularly pleasing to the Legion backers, as their team has had no opportunity to practice for two weeks.

Tim Shea, the new centre for the War Vets, is a "YD" man, and certainly looks good on the floor. Jack Quinlan looks upon him as a coming star. "Sandy" McCracken Jr., who has been helping the Legion seconds, has the makings of a real player. He is game and shoots well.

Joe Connors plays a good, all around game.

Munroe & Arnold-Merritt Express Company

Blizzard Effects Still Hinder Output of Peabody Leather

(By Energy)

This weather has placed a damper on the leather trade because of shipments. The freight handlers' strike added to the trouble, but it is expected that labor matters will be straightened out. But with more snow in sight it appears difficult to dope out when shipments will again become normal. Motor trucks are in bad. The many that had made their daily trip to Boston are crying for help which means the Munroe Arnold Merritt Company are taking some of this freight by rail. I say some of it, for the railroads are having their troubles with the rest. With the constant demand for leather, if today's conditions continue for any length of time, it can only mean higher prices, for with all other bad conditions, production has been affected.

Those of us who have seen 50 winters, not to mention summers, no storm has placed such a damper on business, as has the present one. We have had snow and snow, but to have it packed down with an ice bottom, and it seems that people do not grasp the situation with the same enthusiasm as of yore, they do not get out and help clear the streets, as did our fathers. Such a condition goes with the general feeling throughout the world, it seems to me. After war conditions they term it, but why not add after prohibition conditions? There is a feeling of don't care. Help is scarce. No one comes around to shovel snow, and it is not because there are no men to do it. I heard a man this week telling another one, he would not shovel snow less than a dollar an hour, for he could get that much in factories. I wondered at the time why he was not hustling for that dollar, instead of spending his time talking about it. It is the thought he can demand a dollar an hour which makes him talk, not that he will get it. We are surely in a tangle, so far as our brains are included. The public are the goats, and they seem to care but little. They are the ones to settle it when the final settlement comes.

An active buying movement is on. One shoe concern recently purchased $1,000,000 worth of leather. Whether for their present wants or a speculation, is not mentioned, but the fact that they purchased such an amount of leather, shows the way the wind is blowing. It is evident that prices will remain at least as high as at present. With anything like a foreign demand prices would mount beyond reason, is the opinion of the knowing ones.

One of the bright spots in the trade is the increased production. Some strikes are on, one in Haverhill of the wood heel workers, continuing for several weeks. At Brockton, there are threats of striking, but the Boot and Shoe Workers' Union are using their influence against it. The tendency, it seems to me, is, that strikes are growing less, for the majority of workers appear to see the light, which means that they are becoming satisfied that conditions today are better for them than ever before, and strikes only upset such conditions.

Never in its history has the United Shoe Machinery corporation done as much business. We think in Peabody that the Lawrence Company, employing 4000 people, are large, and indeed they are. But the Beverly company employ 6000, and in proportion, much more skilled labor. This means everything to Beverly, as evidenced by the large and growing stores in that city. Opening up new trade in China, Japan and other countries in the eastern world, has given the business a fresh impetus, inasmuch as equipping new factories takes more machinery. Leather machinery plants here and elsewhere are in the same position. Where the United Shoe goes, the others will follow, for like feet we need two to walk.

Colored leather is the same old nightmare. New colors are being introduced this season just off from what has been, to make trouble for the leather manufacturer. Such colors must be manufactured to keep in the swim, even if one cannot swim. I presume changes in colors make business. But somebody must suffer for it, as the old colors must be sold. No doubt the country absorbs these has beens, and after all they are getting value, so far as wear goes.

Raw stock is far from plenty. India goat and sheep, which has been a large business in Peabody, is getting far from a normal supply of these skins. In fact where 800,000 were expected to arrive in our market, only 150,000 came.

C. of C. Dinner Next Tuesday

A "Get-together" meeting will be held by the Chamber, Tuesday evening, Feb. 17, at which time a complimentary dinner will be served, followed by an address by Ritchie Lawrie, Jr., Director of the Housing Bureau of the Pennsylvania State Chamber of Commerce, who will tell the members of the Peabody Chamber what the various Chambers of Commerce in Pennsylvania State are doing to solve this very important question. Mr. Lawrie will meet with the Housing Committee Tuesday afternoon, and will get some first hand information, as regards Peabody's housing question, and will be able to speak on the local question at the night meeting. Every member is urged to be present, and to assist the committee in charge, reservation cards should be returned not later than Monday morning.

Under a new and very liberal ruling of far-reaching importance to millions of former service men, issued by Director R. G. Cholmeley-Jones of the Bureau of War Risk Insurance with the approval of Secretary of the Treasury Carter Glass, War Risk (term) Insurance, regardless of how long it may have been lapsed or cancelled, and regardless of how long the former service man may have been discharged, may be reinstated any time before July 1, 1920.

The only conditions are: (1), Two monthly premiums on the amount of insurance to be reinstated must accompany the application; (2), the applicant must be in as good health as at the date of discharge, or at the expiration of the grace period, whichever is the later date, and so state in the application.

The new ruling is the most important liberalization of War Risk Insurance since the passage of the Sweet bill, and is designed for the special benefit of service men, who failed to reinstate their insurance prior to the new law, and who have been discharged more than 18 months.

HIGH SCHOOL

Many of the teachers have been absent within the past few days on account of illness. They were Miss Teague, Miss Bailey, Miss Towne, Miss Cashman, Miss Barry, Miss Paulman and Miss Johnson.

Because of lack of teachers, periods were shortened Monday, and the school dismissed at 10.45.

Mr. Osborn, teacher of Spanish and history, left school this week in preparation to go to Michigan, where he will teach. His pupils wish him "good luck" in his new position.

Many substitutes were called in this week to take the places of the absent teachers. Among them were the following: Mrs. Buckley, Mr. Reynolds and Mr. Lee Miller.

A number of girls from the upper classes served supper at the Community House during the drive. They were Alice Mulcahy, Marie MacDonald, Helen Maguire, Alisa Sinclair, Ethelwyn Meagher and Mary McHugh.

Leonard Hunt of the sophomore class has been absent with influenza. Theodore Jeffers of '19 substituted for Miss Paulman last week.

Miss Paulman had planned a trip to Boston for juniors and seniors interested in American history, but the trip has been indefinitely postponed, because of her illness.

Richard Lynch, president of the Junior class, is absent with the flu.

Miss Masterson, teacher of French, has been moved from room 16 to room 2, to take Mr. Osborn's place. This arrangement is entirely satisfactory to the juniors, but the sub-freshmen are sorry to lose her. Miss Winifred Johnson will take Miss Masterson's former room.

Edward Ferguson of '21 is ill at his home with an abscess on his knee, and will not be able to return for at least a month.

Louise Andrews, a popular member of the Junior class, has been absent.

Miss Ethel Watts of '18 is substituting for Miss Johnson.

The attendance at school has been very slim this week because of illness and inability of the scholars to

The new store of W. S. Lee Co., jewelers at 197 Essex street, Salem, is a great improvement over the one at 241 Essex street, where they were located over 30 years. The new store is almost twice the size of the old, and the display windows give Manager Harry F. Mohr plenty of space to show his up-to-the-minute stock. The many patrons of Peabody will enjoy a trip through this store, which is opposite Almy, Bigelow & Washburn's.

Miss Marion Hayes of Charlotte street, this city, has been in New York this week, buying goods for the Almy, Bigelow & Washburn store, where she is in charge of the infant's department.

Charles V. Cassidy is confined to his home on Holt street with an attack of influenza.

Mrs. Clarence J. Murphy and her three children, who have been spending the past few months with Capt. and Mrs. P. J. McCarthy of Clement avenue, left this week for their home in Ben Avon Heights, a residential suburb of Pittsburg. Mr. Murphy is located in Pittsburg, as general manager of the leather factory of Wilson Bros., Inc.

'Male and Female' Sure To Crowd Strand Theatre

A few weeks ago the Strand description. Mr. DeMille's production plunges one into a tornado of dramatic experience absolutely foreign to any photoplay ever screened. The opulent scenes of a life of ease among the titled rich, and the splendor of gowns in the drawing rooms are things that must be seen to be appreciated. Later, after a thrill-it will be presented at the local playhouse today and Saturday. Mr. Ince claims that "What's Your Husband Doing?" is every bit as funny as "23 1/2 Hours Leave," and if this statement is correct, everyone who saw the latter will not think of missing this one. It concerns the adventures of a newly married couple, and a snappy little roadhouse known as "Honeysuckle Inn." Wife is very jealous of her new hubby and wonders why it is he receives mail from the inn. Hubby is called away "on a business trip" and wife decides to give "Honeysuckle Inn" the once over. What follows will compel laughs every second it is on the screen. Ruth Roland in "The Adventures of Ruth" and "Hickville," a Kipling comedy are the other attractions on this big bill for today.

GLORIA SWANSON in

"Male and Female," Cecil B. DeMille's super-special, is coming to the Strand for three days, starting Sunday. This is adapted from Sir James Barrie's celebrated play "The Admirable Crichton." The story relates the thrilling experiences of an intelligent butler named Crichton. A mere servant in his own land, he becomes the man of the hour, when his master's yacht is wrecked on a South Sea island. Here he assumes command of the party, and finally wins the love of his master's beautiful daughter.

Anita Stewart in "Her Kingdom of Dreams" will be the attraction Wednesday and Thursday. This is the third of the Anita Stewart pictures released through First National. "The Virtuous Wives" and "Mary Regent" were the first two. "Her Kingdom of Dreams" is a strong story in which Miss Stewart is supported by a big all-star cast.

WRESTLER CHAMP.

William Bernson, a former A. C. L. employee, who is achieving some fame in the wrestling sport, is soon to reappear on the mat, according to his manager, Alec Gagnon. Bernson recently defeated a welterweight champion of Canada. He weighs 145 when ready for the mat. He lives at 7 Maple street, Salem. He was in the war service.

IRISH DRAMA.

"Capt. Jack or The Irish Outlaw" will be presented by Division 11, A. O. H. in the City Hall on Wednesday evening, March 17, and the affair promises to be one of the best dramatic events this society has ever put on the stage. St. Patrick's day is always a banner day for Division 11 and this year they are going to live up to past traditions by giving to the public a performance composed entirely of local talent which will be hard to surpass. The rehearsals are now well under way, directed by H. E. Taylor of Salem. The full cast comprises the following Peabodyites who are all well known in dramatic circles in this city:

John J. O'Brien, Richard W. Horri-gan, Edward Sullivan, Henry F. Duggan, Frank Sonigan, Eugene O'Neil, John Cy McCarthy, Mrs. Vita S. Brown, Miss Eileen Masterson, Miss Fannie Conroy and Mrs. Margaret O'Connor.

Some Moniker!

Speaking of names, as the Nomad has been in recent issues, we once read of an English baby being christened "Actsoftheapostles Kennett." Which is some moniker, you'll admit. No doubt it was considerably abbreviated later, and it is not difficult to imagine the lad's mother exclaiming in a moment of exasperation: "Actso, how can you act so?"

Whistling for Wind.

Everybody is familiar with the old superstition of sailors that, to bring a favorable breeze, they must whistle during the calm. From the remotest times there seems to have prevailed a belief that libation or sacrifice would placate the storm spirits and induce them to permit the vessel to proceed unmolested on its course. Russian sailors have been known to pour oatmeal and water over a rocky promontory in order to obtain a wind favorable to their designs.

Confirms Enterprise.

City Electrician O'Keefe consumed much of the time of the City Council last night in confirming the exclusive story in the Enterprise of last week which stated in effect that the fire underwriters recommended the city adding a story to the official home of Col. James J. Ray, Lowell street, to be used as a headquarters for fire alarm system. About the only thing he omitted in his mass of detail that cast a gloom over the entire Council was to record the number of nails that may be required to carry out the highfaluting idea. No mention was made of whether Col. Ray, health custodian and City Almoner, is agreeable to the added story to his building being built before he becomes Mayor.

The service flag displayed in the Council Chamber now bears the figures 1053, indicating the number of war veterans from Peabody.

Councillor Hogan took a fling at the fire underwriters when he declared the recent talk of low water pressure was merely a boon to make the city buy the new pump for the pumping station.

Welcome Home.

Three hundred Peabody war veterans who have returned from duty since last June will be given a banquet and provided with tickets to boxing bouts to be staged by the city at some not far distant date. This announcement was forthcoming from the special committee at the City Council meeting last night following a conference with Mayor Donnell some days ago.

It is the intention to hold the banquet either in the Council Chamber or in Moose hall and to secure several "classy" boxing bouts for an evening's entertainment in City Hall. Each of the war veterans who were not at home to figure in the welcome home celebration of last June will be given three tickets to the bouts.

Institute Land.

Councillor Hogan got through a motion last night to have the committee on public property confer with the trustees of the institute in an effort to create a small memorial park out of the land between Reidy's drug store and the brick house next to the library. He feared the sale of the lot in question would see a one story building erected to further mar main street.

Miss Louise Higgins notified the Council of a claim for damages to a dress caused by a defective seat in City Hall at a recent entertainment.

Inter-Church Campaign Drive

Declaring that a new day has dawned for the Christian church, 70 representatives of semi-urban communities, towns ranging from 5000 to 25,000 population, located in all parts of Massachusetts, began work this week on the survey of their localities under the auspices of the Interchurch World Movement. For a month or six weeks they will direct the taking of a comprehensive religious census, parallel to the church surveys in the cities and the rural communities, now going forward under the same auspices. Rev. I. F. Lusk of the Peabody M. E. church is a member of the Essex county committee.

The key men and women in this semi-urban religious investigation received their guiding inspiration at a luncheon and conference in Boston, presided over by Rev. E. Tallmadge Root, State supervisor of the rural and semi-urban survey. This gathering was a training conference, where the key workers received instruction.

The local churches are to furnish the canvassers for the survey. This week and next, councils of pastors and church leaders in each town are being held, at the instigation of the key workers. After that the survey will actually start.

The spirit at the training conference was alert. Nearly all the 75 semi-urban towns were represented, covering a territory that stretches from Newburyport and Mansfield on the east to North Adams on the west. Several representatives said they wanted a house-to-house canvass in their towns, and this is to be done.

ST. JOHN'S PARISH REUNION MONDAY

The grand jubilee and reunion of St. John's Parish will be held next Monday in City Hall. The afternoon will be devoted to the children, in order that they may have the opportunity of greeting their pastor on the 37th anniversary of his ordination. A special program, including many novel features, games, etc., has been arranged for their entertainment, and coupled with the following musical program, should make the occasion a most pleasurable one for the children: "Jubilee Greetings" by the sixth grade girls, Miss Beatrice Macauley, accompanist; piano solo, Miss Mary Judge; ribbon drill by third grade girls, accompanist, Miss Mary McLaughlin; piano solo, Miss Beatrice Macauley; "Columbia to Erin," seventh and eighth grade girls, accompanist, Miss Alice Maguire; solo dance, Miss Phoebe O'Connor; "Tis the Hour of Music," High school girls, accompanist, Miss Miriam Hayes.

An excellent musical program has been arranged for the evening. Peter J. Rooney, the popular tenor, will be heard in several selections; St. John's choir, under the direction of Miss Mary P. Clifford, will render "The Viking Song" and "Carmena," arranged in four parts, and Miss Marjorie Church in piano solos, in addition to other numbers, will undoubtedly be greatly enjoyed. One of the delightful features of the evening will be the presence of Hon. David I. Walsh, U. S. senator from Massachusetts, who is a personal friend of the pastor, Rev. N. J. Murphy.

The refreshment committee is composed of Mrs. John J. Shanahan, chairman; Miss Mary L. Woods, secretary; Mrs. Timothy Bradley, Mrs. Michael H. Bresnahan, Miss Mary Butler, Mrs. Thomas Butler, Mrs. John Boyle, Mrs. Thomas F. Campbell, Mrs. Peter Carlin, Mrs. P. M. Cahill, Mrs. J. Callahan, Mrs. F. Conway, Miss Margaret Carbrey, Mrs. C. LEGION LOSES TOUGH GAME

The A. P. Gardner post of Hamilton defeated the Peabody Legion basketball team at City Hall last night, 23 to 17. The game was stubbornly contested from start to finish. The first half ended with Hamilton ahead, 12 to 10, and although the visitors scored 11 points to Peabody's six in the last half, the latter team shot more times at the basket missing several times only by inches.

Lowell Street

Miss Margaret Batchelder of Emerson street was hostess to 16 of her friends Wednesday evening in honor of her 14th birthday. The evening was spent in playing games. Refreshments were enjoyed.

Kenneth Hill of Orchard street is substituting at the High school this week.

Miss Alice Teague, a teacher at the High school, is confined to her home with a heavy cold.

Mrs. Joseph Altshuler and daughter Harriet, are slowly convalescing from the grip at their home on Endicott street.

Mrs. Norman Crane is slowly recovering from the influenza.

Miss Ruth Farrington attended an Abbott Academy luncheon at the Vendome, Saturday.

Ralph Raymond has been confined to his home with the gripe for the past week.

The Friday Evening Sewing Club will meet with Miss Ruth Batchelder of Emerson street this evening.

Mrs. Mary Ratcliffe of Franklin street is out again, after being laid up with a severe cold.

Among the donations received for the Moose fair is a season ticket for the Strand theatre, which is up on chances.

Norman Crane of the New England Appraisal Company is on a business trip to Maine.

The teachers of the West Peabody school are being transported back and forth in T. H. O'Keefe's pung.

U. S. BOARD RECOGNIZES COMM. HOUSE

The Peabody Community House is included in a list of community buildings appearing in a recent publication of the United States Department of Agriculture entitled "Rural Community Buildings in the United States." The data given are designed to be helpful to towns and rural districts interested in organizing their social activities and erecting a structure for housing the same.

According to the bulletin, nearly 300 community houses have been built in the smaller cities and rural sections of the United States. The majority have been constructed since 1912. Of those studied by the Government investigators, 83 were in the open country, 201 were in places of 2500 inhabitants or less, and 55 were in larger towns and cities.

The bulletin shows that a large number of these projects were financed by popular subscription, generally through the formation of stock companies. Other buildings were the gifts of individuals or private concerns and a few were erected with public funds, and are under the control of local officials. The publication contains many details regarding how to organize, means of financing, and methods of management and maintenance. Dues, assessments, rentals derived from uses on special occasions, receipts from home-talent entertainments and motion picture shows, are among the sources of revenue mentioned.

Where the structures are owned by some community organization the management is usually vested in a board of trustees which, in turn, delegates its authority to a secretary, a physical director, a librarian, or some other individual closely identified with a community activity. Some of the buildings listed cost as low as $2000, while others represent an investment of $25,000 or $50,000. The investigators maintain that every community, whether its resources be large or small, would profit by a community structure of the sort described in the bulletin.

TO BE A WIRELESS OPERATOR.

Before going into practice instruction it is important that the boys, who are to become the wireless men of the future, should appreciate the value of such work. Wireless transmission of messages and of the human voice is becoming daily more common. In a few years the entire system of communications throughout the world may be transformed by wireless electricity, and it is important that boys should be able to take their part in it. The amateur wireless station is a great educator and gives the boys who equip and operate it an excellent education in the wonderful new science.

When the call came for wireless men for the great war the amateur operators were able to take a prominent part. Thousands of boys who had taught themselves how to build stations and run them were able to take important positions in wireless stations at sea and on shore. No other country had so vast an army of self-taught wireless operators to call on. Many of the boys who had taught themselves all they knew of the science rose to occupy important positions. It is not generally known that it was an amateur wireless man who was chosen to fly across the Atlantic on the NC-4 on her famous flight.—Boys' Life for February.

LEGION BOYS SCORE BIG HIT IN FIRST MINSTREL SHOW

Peabody's war veterans gave the citizens a vivid example of how well the American doughboys staged shows within roar of the German guns, when the Peabody Post presented their first minstrel show in City Hall last Tuesday evening. As if a Hun shell had toppled over some upstandsecond number contributed by James Powers and Leonard Cassidy, who sang "The Americans Come," gave a forceful reminder of how happy the French peasants were at the approach of the Yankee invaders.

The work of the six endmen was easily one of the bright features, in ing Yank, who was to take part in the big show near the trenches, so illness mowed down some of the talent for the local entertainment, and only by quick thinking and action were worth while substitutes made to fill out what proved to be a top notch program.

While, as in all minstrel efforts, some numbers excelled, no one who witnessed the performance will be backward in bestowing full measure of credit on an aggregation of players who held but three rehearsals before making their appearance before the footlights. It was a snappy show with the best of popular songs, and some of the acts were first cousins to the professional.

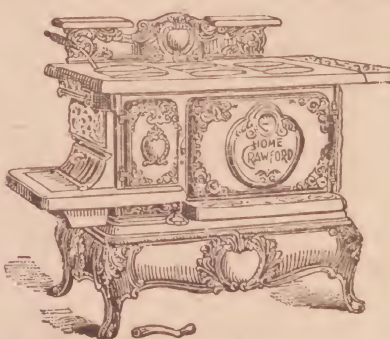

Cyril Kearns, the Danvers boy, who opened the show with a song of the French soldier, wearing the blue uniform of the brave men of France, was one of the gems of the evening. The which Thomas Cavanaugh, Godfrey Shea, William P. Mahoney and Charles M. Boyle excelled. The latter was

Need of New Junior High Shown in School Report

What the proposed Junior High School means to the children of Peabody, and why this type of higher education facility is declared the best by educators, forms a big part of the annual report of Supt. Albert Robinson of the School department. The Enterprise presents its readers today with the meat of the report of the School Superintendent, believing that the mothers and fathers of the hundreds of school children are entitled to have all of the information relating to the crowded condition of the Peabody schools.

Members of the School Committee:

The opening of the fall term showed an increase of 153 over the previous year. About half the increase is in the High school, which indicates that we are holding the pupils in school to an unusual degree.

The congestion in several of the buildings made a number of transfers necessary. The High and the Warren were so crowded that three classes from the former were transferred to the Bowditch, while all of the latter and two grades from the Warren were placed in the Old High, thus forming a school consisting of grades III to VIII inclusive. The Old High has not been used for public school purposes since 1904, and needed considerable furniture, plumbing and other repairs before it could be occupied. A part of the first grade in the South is in rented quarters in the church across the street. About 20 pupils from the Center are compelled to attend the Wallis.

There is every indication that as much extra room will be needed next year, as was called for during the current one. We shall soon come to the time when a portion of the High school will have to attend afternoons. I hope that this can be avoided till the fall of 1921.

The only inference from such facts is that our school accommodations should be immediately increased, if we wish to avoid serious inconvenience, and very evident drawbacks in the education of the children. The School Department is now presenting its third request for more room at the High school. The enrollment has shown a fairly constant yearly increase, and we have met the larger demands for seating and class room purposes by resorting to various expedients that have been detrimental to several important functions of the school, and have deprived many pupils of valuable educational opportunities.

Among these expedients and losses may be mentioned the use of the library and laboratories for class purposes, the division of the assembly room into class rooms, the cutting off of corridors for the same purpose. We have now reached the limit of

BASKETBALL
FOR HOLIDAY

Manager John Quinlan of the American Legion basketball team has arranged a game in City Hall, Monday afternoon, with the fast United Shoe team from Beverly. The game will get away at 3 o'clock sharp, and will be one for blood. The Shoe quintet comes here with a slight edge on the Tanners, owing to the first match; the machinery lads nosed out a win. The Peabody boys are going stronger every game, and they are out for a killing in this one, so there'll be plenty of pep for the fans. Manager Quinlan will send his best pick to the floor for the honors.

SIMON HAYES
BRAVES KNIFE
FOR MASTOID

Simon J. Hayes of 22 Charlotte street underwent an operation at the Carney hospital, Boston, yesterday, for mastoid and his condition today is reported as good. The operation was performed by Dr. Edward M. Plummer, admitted the leading ear and throat specialist in New England, who has many friends in this city. Mr. Hayes has been suffering for the past five weeks, but it was felt he might escape an operation.

Peabody's water supply, in the opinion of Mayor Donnell, will be solved for several years by the aid of the auxiliary underground supply and pumping station on Lynnfield street, provided we have a normal rainfall. He has gone over the matter carefully with the City Engineer, and they both believe that Spring and Brown's ponds will be filled to overflowing with the next thaw, and Sentaug can be filled practically to high water mark from the underground wells near the City Farm.

It is believed that the most inexpensive method of increasing the water supply in the next few years, if it becomes necessary, is to tap the Lynn line about three-quarters of a mile from Sentaug, and allow the water to run in there and be filtered by the acts of nature, as the Lynn water is of a far inferior quality than the Peabody water. If a contract can be made with Lynn on such a basis, it may not be necessary to use any Lynn water, but it will solve the emergency question when it arises, and will save an outlay of about one million and a half for a pipe line from the pumping station to Ipswich river.

The Mayor and City Engineer say that no manufacturer should hesitate to locate in Peabody, or to increase the capacity of present manufacturing Early History of Peabody And Life of Roosevelt Prize P.H.S. Stories

Great interest has been aroused among the high school students in the contest for the best two compositions in English each week which is being conducted by the Peabody Enterprise. Some interesting articles are resulting and the competition for the prizes of $2 and $1 for the best two stories finds the students evincing keen rivalry. Today the Enterprise presents two worth while compositions, the first prize story being on the early history of Peabody and the second on Roosevelt. Miss Mary E. Sullivan of the sophomore class is the first prize winner. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Sullivan, 25 Dustin street. The author of the Roosevelt article is Miss Gladys Durkee of the senior class. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Durkee of West Peabody. The prize stories:

EARLY PEABODY HISTORY. (By Mary E. Sullivan.)

In 1626, Salem, then known as Naumkeag, included what is now known as Peabody, Salem, Beverly, Danvers, Middleton, and a large portion of Topsfield, Wenham and Lynn. Peabody continued as part of Salem until Danvers was set off. It was then connected with Danvers, but became separated in 1752 under the name South Danvers. What is now known as Peabody remained in that subjugated state until 1868. At that time it received the name "Peabody" in honor of George Peabody.

It was appropriate and fitting that the name "Peabody" was chosen. George Peabody was both a philanthropist and a philosopher. He contributed vast sums of money toward the welfare and progress of the people of Peabody.

When first settled, although it was a part of Salem, what is now known as Peabody, was called "Brooksbey." The land contained many brooks of various sizes.

The North river was open for boats nearly to the mill pond, where Captain Trask erected his first mill. An arm of the sea crossed the road, where, at the present time, Boston and Goodhue streets connect.

People began to settle in Brooksbey as early as 1623. Captain William Trask owned land at the head of the North river. He erected his first mill at a point near the present junction of Wallis street, and the railroad tracks. Captain Trask was a prominent man, and held many of the few public offices which existed in that period.

In 1633, Thomas Reed received a grant of land, which consisted of 300 acres. This grant included what is known as Buxton's Hill, then Reed's Hill.

Lieutenant Davenport, a famous soldier of the early colony, had control of the land now called South Peabody.

John Humphrey owned the land in the vicinity of Sauntau-lake. He was a man of great importance to the colony between 1632 and 1658.

Early settlers were allowed grants of land in order to encourage the building up of the colony.

One of the most valuable men in the colony was Sir George Downing. His father, Emanuel Downing, owned several grants of land, one near Proctor's Crossing.

Industry had an early start in Peabody. The Tanning Industry, for which Peabody is famous, had its beginning here nearly 200 years ago. Peabody had the necessary requisites for industry. There was an abundant supply of water, which was the fundamental source of power at that time, and it had excellent facilities of transportation.

Apparently, the early settlers realized that the settlement was in a condition adapted to the manufacturing of leather. They began to manufacture leather with a very limited knowledge of the process. Poorly constructed buildings were used in which to carry on the industry. It required only the services of eight or ten men in the average tannery.

The industry gradually developed, and progressed very rapidly. New inventions in machinery, chemicals, acids and dyes aided it in progressing. The tanning industry is now one of the most important industries known to civilization.

In order to accommodate the industry, buildings of various sizes and types have been constructed. Different methods of transportation are used, and there has been a tremendous change in what was a town, but is now known as the City of Peabody. Thousands of people are engaged in the manufacture of leather, and, as a rule, excellent working conditions exist.

Today, Peabody is known as the Tannery City, and is one of the world's leading leather manufacturing cities. However, we must not concentrate our entire consideration on the tanning or turning out of finished leather, for Peabody carries on numerous other industries.

Everything in connection with skins is utilized, and this gives various industries a start. The hair, scrap, tear-offs and buffing dust are all utilized.

It remains for the people of Peabody to use every effort possible to enable their city to continue to progress, and continue to retain its title: "Peabody, the Tannery City."

The City of Peabody is a city which can stand out prominently among any names of cities.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT. (By Gladys Durkee.)

Theodore Roosevelt was of Dutch descent. He was born October 27, 1858, in New York City. He lived there during most of his boyhood. As a boy he loved the country and outdoor life.

He never attended the public schools on account of ill health. For a while he attended Professor McMullen's school near his home, but most of the time he had tutors. This is how he obtained his early education.

He strived in every way to gain his health, and in 1876 he entered Harvard college. He was among the youngest of his classmates. There was nothing remarkable in his university life. He made no effort as leader of his class. He was strongest in zoology, looking forward to making science his life pursuit. American history also attracted him. He was taken into the best clubs and was universally popular.

Marriage with a Cambridge lady, and a few years of European travel followed his graduation.

He gained from his father the idea that public service in some form, for the good of his fellow citizens, was the duty of every man who need not work for his living. New York was in the hands of a few selfish politicians and a few public spirited men were trying to improve them. It was to these that Roosevelt offered himself as a recruit.

He was ignorant of political methods and tricks, but he stood for better principles. In 1882 he was elected to the New York Legislature. He worked his way along and became leader of the minority, and in 1884, headed the delegation from New York to the Republican National convention at Chicago. The Democrats won at the convention and Mr. Roosevelt retired from politics.

He was stirred by a desire to visit the West, and he went to North Dakota, for a buffalo hunt. He ended by purchasing some land and became a ranchman. From 1884 to 1886 he spent as a hard working frontiersman, living in a log cabin and herding and branding his cattle. These were the happiest days of his life, but he was not satisfied, and he returned to New York in 1886. Then he went to England, where he married his second wife. Elkhorn ranch was still his, and he spent his summers there.

He became a Civil Service Commissioner and then he was elected Commissioner of Police in New York.

PERSONALS

The Knight of Pythias will work the rank of Page at their regular meeting tonight.

Miss Mildred Bailey of Danvers, bookkeeper at the B. E. Cox Leather Co., has resumed her duties, after being confined to her home for a week with a severe grip cold.

Miss Margaret Driscoll of Somerville was the guest this week of Miss Frances McCarthy of Clement avenue.

Miss Margaret Jackman of Sewall street has been appointed a substitute teacher in the Wallis school.

Mrs. Thomas Doyle of Harris street is convalescing from an attack of grip.

Mrs. Mary O'Rourke of Northend street is confined to her home, suffering with a severe attack of grip.

Driver Daniel Hannon of fire headquarters is ill at his home in Perkins Park.

"Make friends with aliens" night was observed by the Men's club of the Second Congregational church, Wednesday night, with three prominent Greeks, special guests. The visitors were Socrates Leonidas, Emanuel Marangas and John Vuvunas. Following a supper, Mr. Vuvunas gave an address on modern Greece, and Mr. Leonidas drew excellent pictures of the audience.

Mrs. Catherine Higgins of Perkins street has been confined to her home with the grip for the past two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Whitten, the latter nee Ada Gerry of Peabody, were made happy last week with the arrival of a girl baby.

Rev. George P. O'Connor, Chaplain of the 301st F. A., and who holds that office in the Peabody Legion Post, has been designated by Cardinal O'Connell, as assistant to Rev. M. J. Scanlan, S. T. L., director of the Catholic Charitable Bureau, and transferred to the Boston Cathedral staff. He has been curate at St. Francis de Sales church, Roxbury. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. P. H. O'Connor of Peabody.

CLASSES FOR GIRLS

The Essex County Agricultural School, in its Homemaking Department, is prepared to offer classes to open Feb. 27, for sewing and millinery as follows: Dressmaking, elementary class, eight lessons; dressmaking, advanced class, eight lessons; millinery, elementary class, four lessons; millinery, advanced class, four lessons.

All interested should apply by letter or in person at the school.

From the nature of the work the classes must be limited in number, and the applicants will be considered in order of application. Candidates should state their previous experience in the subject elected.

If a large number of candidates apply, or more than can be accommodated in the first class, additional classes may be organized, and the instruction continued after the completion of the first series of lessons. Assignment notices of classes will be sent by mail as soon as made up. For registration, enrollment or additional information, address "Director, Essex County Agricultural School, Hathorne."

WHIST PARTY.

The American Order of Foresters will conduct a whist party next Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. John Jackman, 15 Sewall street. The party is being held for a worthy cause and members of the society and their friends are invited. An enjoyable time is assured all who attend.

THE LONG WINTER TRAIL.

Ho, there's ice on the streams, there's zest in the air,
There's an undefined blanket of snow everywhere:
There's frost on each twig and each roadside weed
Is burdened with rubies and diamonds for seed,
And through the long stretches of deep forest lanes
A tense white crystalline silence reigns.
So come with me now over hill, over vale!
Come away with me now on the long winter trail!

Ho, the storm-clouds are tumbling thick in the sky,
Flinging their pellets of sleet as they fly!
The snow-wreaths are slithering swift in the road.
The hoary old wind from the North is abroad!
Out of the arctic waste, barren and vast,
Rushing with fury—a terrible blast!
Come along with me now—push into the gale!
Come along with me now on the long winter trail!

Oh, there's beauty to me in the soft, rounded lines
Of the snow-moulded hills and the fleecy-crowned pines;
There's music to me in the squeak of the snow,
And the gurgle of streams as they hurry below
Their blankets of ice. And there's joy in the fight,
In matching my strength with the storm-monarch's might.
There's health in the open—heartily and hale!
Ho! Come with me now on the long winter trail!
—The Cave Scout in the January Boys' Life.

CITY HALL GOSSIP

Senator Arthur Nason of Haverhill will look after the bill to increase the Mayor's salary, when the measure reaches the upper branch, and there is every likelihood of the bill being sent to the Governor for his signature. The majority of citizens at the city election of 1918 returned Mayor Donnell to office on his record of achievement for the city's progress. There can be no real argument, but that the same majority of voters which comprise the taxpayers, would support the measure, if a special election were to be held on it here tomorrow. Public sentiment generally carries. Employees of the highway department reap $33 a week, and the Mayor's present salary gives him $38. The comparison is obvious.

Former School Committeeman Louis P. P. Osborn will find plenty of citizens eager to support his stand for a paid athletic instructor, who will shape the destiny of hundreds of Peabody school boys and girls. He is the real father of a movement that bears promise now of being carried through to a happy conclusion, and the selection of a capable athletic instructor and coach made an added facility to the school administration.

The introduction of the two-platoon system in the local fire department should make for more efficiency, and new firemen passed by the civil service board ought to give a good account of themselves in their new vocations. The various fire stations didn't look like old times last Sunday, when the new regulars were on duty, and the older men singled out among them. Most of the new firemen have had experience, and should work into the department all right. The act creating the 2-platoon system gives the Chief the right to keep at fires, every man, if necessary, notwithstanding the fact, that his time to quit work has arrived.

Final report on the budget for 1920 is expected by the Council at its next meeting next week, and it is generally held that the Mayor's new salaries will be passed.

There is plenty of good reason why the John Meagher & Co., granite builders and designers should receive the contract to supply the memorial tablets to be erected in the corridor of City Hall. Their design, as recently submitted, calls for a handsome memorial, which was designed for the special committee at some cost to the concern, and public sentiment would have supported the Council, had it voted to allow the committee to deal directly with the Peabody firm, without calling for competition. Mr. Meagher is a taxpayer of size, has a payroll that aids Peabody merchants, and his quality of workmanship is of the highest standard. To permit an outsider to take the work away from the Peabody citizen, would be poor business. The local taxpayer has a right to the edge in all city contracts over a rank outsider, who competes, and where the difference in price is little, if any, the fact that one of the bidders is a local business man, ought to influence the Council, as it would the unbiased citizens, to give the local man the contract.

In one of the neighboring police stations they talk of booby prizes for the "coppers" who turn in "Nothing doing" reports. A run on some five and ten cent department may be resorted to in Peabody, judging from the number of similar reports turned in by the police officers.

Mayor Donnell is not in sympathy with any scheme to add one story to the Board of Health building on Lowell street for the accommodation of the fire alarm signal, and the budgets will bear this out, it is said.

Chief Grady is to confer with the United States Marshal at Boston, as to the exact attitude of the federal government on the jakey question. The Chief allows there is too much sold in Peabody.

An ordinance is being framed which will prevent stores being built into houses on Main street. The suggestion started with Building Inspector Bresnahan, who declares the sale of some dwelling property on Main street is bound to see the street marred by unsightly store construction, unless the City Council adopts an ordinance regulating the building permits.

Peabody Firemen's Relief Association has started its preparations for a revival of its annual entertainment and dance to be given in City Hall on April 16. The committee in charge is arranging the details, and looking over the field for the most promising talent. Something different is planned, and the friends of the association have reason to expect a top notch show.

JAZZ DANCE.

What promises to be an enjoyable dance is scheduled for Moose hall tomorrow night, when Bowles' famous Ferncroft Jazz orchestra will dispense music for the occasion. The committee in charge are Robert Clark, James Callahan and George Bowles.

ROBERT WARWICK AT STRAND IN 'TREE OF KNOWLEDGE'

Robert Warwick in "The Tree of Knowledge," a story of life's forbidden fruit, will be the feature attraction at the Strand today and Saturday. In the role of Nigel Stanyon, Robert Warwick, star of so many good pictures, has an ideal role in which to display his histrionic ability and his supporting cast is made up of several popular favorites.

Among the players who appear in important roles are Kathlyn Williams, Wanda Hawley, Tom Forman and Irving Cummings, while in the prologue showing Adam and Lillith in the Garden of Eden, are the celebrated Russian dancers, Theodore Kosloff and Yvonne Gardelle.

Particularly sumptuous is this screen version of "The Tree of Knowledge," as is fitting for a production depicting the gay life of Paris and of the solid enjoyment of the upper classes of staid England. Fine clothes, great sets and other evidences of the luxury loving, grace every scene. The story is dramatic in the extreme, being concerned principally with the life of "Belle" whom you first meet in Paris. In the role of "Belle," Miss Williams, who is a star in her own right, has one of the best parts of her long experience.

One of the funny Fox-Sunshine comedies, "Chicken Ala Cabaret" and Ruth Roland in an exciting chapter of "The Adventures of Ruth" will be the other attractions for today.

Corrine Griffith in "The Bramble Bush" and Lewis Stone in "A Man of Bronze" will be the feature pictures on Sunday evening. Both pictures rank above the average run of Sunday attractions and make up a highly pleasing program.

Bryant Washburn in "Too Much Johnson," heads the big Holiday bill Manager Chet Best has arranged for Monday and Tuesday. Mr. Washburn needs no introduction to Peabody audiences, being firmly entrenched in the esteem of all picture fans. Mr. Washburn introduces a novel method of getting rid of a troublesome mother-in-law in this picture. He inveigles her into signing an agreement to marry a man who has been causing him a lot of worry. The husband-to-be is just as enraged over the hoax that has been put over on him, as is the mother-in-law. His efforts to release himself from the agreement are a scream. But all to no avail. Mr. Washburn is his usual jovial self. Another number on this bill which is sure to go over big is Mack Sennett's comedy "The Speak-Easy," starring Charlie Murray and the Sennett beauties. Marie Walcamp in "Tempest Cody Flirts With Death," a sensational Western drama, will be presented as an added attraction.

"Fatty" Arbuckle in his latest comedy "Garage" will top the program for Wednesday and Thursday. "Fatty's" comedies always entertain, but this one has them all stopped by a mile. Nothing quite so funny has been offered in months. Ethel Clayton in "The Thirteenth Commandment" will be the feature picture.

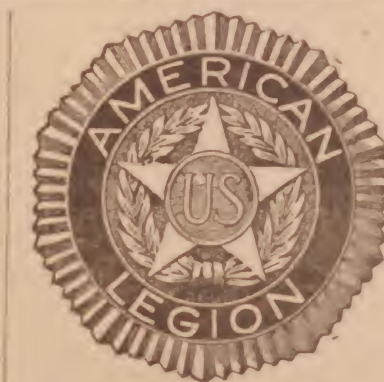

Wallace Reid in "Double Speed" will be shown next week Friday and Saturday.

Lynn Installs Dental Clinic For Its Schools

Lynn is the latest school center to install a dental clinic. Councillor Sullivan, former member of the Board of Health, has long advocated a dental clinic for Peabody schools.

Equipment for the new dental clinic for school children is now being installed in a room fitted up for the clinic's uses in the Classical High school building, according to the Lynn Item. The clinic will soon be opened under the supervision of the board of health, financed by the civics committee of the Lynn Women's clubs and directed by Dr. T. A. Doherty.

There will be an advisory committee, including the health commissioner, Dr. M. R. Donovan; the chairman of the civics committee, Mrs. Carolyn M. Engler, and a representative of the local dentists, yet to be named. The women's clubs' civics committee estimates that it will cost $1000 to equip the clinical quarters and to maintain them for one year. The committee has raised this sum, Mrs. Engler states, during the past two or three years. The school children are also contributing to the work through their school units of the Junior Red Cross. The $500 stipend of the director will be paid by the board of health; everything else by the civics committee. The dentists

URGES INSURANCE.

In France the doctrine of Government insurance was preached in almost every conceivable environment—in churches and in stables, in barracks and in billets, in hospitals, where dying soldiers signed insurance applications that were later ratified and the money paid to the beneficiaries; the front line trenches even were visited, and not a few instances are known where insurance was taken out by a man just before going into action.

will volunteer such assistance as the director, Dr. Doherty, may need as the work develops.

The school children in need of dental treatment will be sent to the clinic by the school doctors and nurses. The school teachers will also call attention to the needs of children with poor teeth. Modern dentistry is coming to play such a part in health care that the work of the new clinic will be an important part in the child welfare work of the civics committee, Mrs. Engler believes.

The equipment which her committee will furnish will include two dental chairs, complete sets of instruments and all necessary appliances. The director, Dr. T. A. Doherty, holds a commission in the army medical corps reserve.

LEATHER MANUFACTURERS SUPPLIES-HARDWARE

20 Main Street, Peabody, Mass.

DELIVERY OF LEATHER GREATEST PROBLEM OF MANUFACTURERS

(By Energy)

The leather market is firm but quiet so say the trade journals. But a change is going on which will equalize the market to the extent of bringing the prices of the higher grades of leather nearer those of the cheaper grades. It shows the cheaper shoes are coming to their own, and it may be the forerunner of better judgment by the purchasing public. If the craze for everything high priced would subside, it must mean that prices of all commodities were turning for the better.

The Federal Reserve Bank, whose influence in everything financial is felt, wherever it chooses to move, has taken a hand in "bearing" shoe prices. Shoe manufacturers have been asked not to speculate in leather to the extent of anticipating their future wants. If this rule is followed by the majority no doubt some of the wise ones will take the other tack and stock up. This is always the case. Should leather prices go higher or lower remains to pick the winner. Business is a gamble, but today it is a far bigger one because of uncertain developments.

This winter has given the rubber shoe business a great boom. The storms of late have forced people to purchase rubber boots, overshoes and rubbers. I never saw so many hip rubber boots about town as during the recent big snow storm. Snow shoes were also in evidence, and our Finnish population were brought back to their own country's conditions.

The most serious difficulty facing the manufacturer today is delivery. The railroads continue "to embargo" because of strikes, the weather and any old excuse. It would seem when Spring arrives the excuses will be fewer and shipments regular. The parcel post has been called on of late to ship leather and in considerable quantities. There are great possibilities in the parcel post, and strikes have opened the way to a proposition, which has no limit as to size. Why could not the government take on all packages up to a limit in weight, for delivery? I see no reason.

Again the report of building a new sheep skin plant at the A. C. Lawrence Leather Company is moving about. Two years ago this same report was circulated, but nothing came of it. The story appeared in a local paper recently and generally friend Hills knows whereof he writes. By doing away with those buildings now used for the manufacture of sheep leather, it would take much worry from those who fear the effect of a fire in that nest. The company have a fire brigade who have rendered good services in the past, but to stop a blaze well under way in the buildings in question, would require a department larger than Peabody owns. So I say two concrete buildings on the site of the present ones would be welcomed by all neighbors and friends of the company. I would suggest a beginning be made now, so that the city could benefit in taxes. No?

When I witnessed the manufacture of shoes, by means of moving pictures recently, the thought struck me, as it has many times before, what a contrast between shoe and leather machinery? Those who have seen a linotype machine in operation, could compare it to many machines in the shoe industry. They are near human, and while it is the exception, they appear to know more than some of the operators, which of course, isn't true. But it is a fact that but for the United Shoe Company, the ways of shoe manufacture would be far different than what they are. When it costs $1,000,000 to perfect one machine, an idea of the brains, time and money spent for the direct benefit of the public, can be calculated.

The National Calfskin's new building is going slowly. With such weather, how could it be otherwise? The prices of digging for the foundation is a huge one, for one end of the proposed structure will be near 20 feet underground. In the digging process, relics of the Proctor tannery were found in the shape of chemicals. Being yellow, I can imagine these could be traced to the days when yellow leather was popular among our colored brethren.

All the shops are busy. Labor is floating from one shop to another, one manufacturer alone employing 3000 men in a month in order to keep his quota of 75. This class who could be called "Shifters" are dear at any price and constitute the clog in the wheels of the tanning business. Some day they will get their deserts and no one decent will have sympathy.

New Firemen Make Good On First Alarm

Peabody's new permanent firemen had their first innings early Wednesday morning, when they combated a fire at 60 Walnut street, and stamped it out in jig time with but a small loss to the building. The fact that there were five permanent men on duty at headquarters, each man fresh and ready to get into harness, went a long way toward squelching a blaze that started in a tenement, and would have eaten its way to the grocery and provision store on the ground floor. The grocer carries a $5000 stock.

The zeal of the new fire fighters, coupled with their speed, saw the use of the hand chemicals only necessary, and what might have been a stubborn blaze, with possibilities of a bad fire, was nipped in the bud, while Peabody slept. The alarm was at 2:35 A. M.

Charles Lawrence, one of the new men, drove the Chief's car. Capt. Bill Brown was on the seat of the hook and ladder, with a three-horse hitch; Raymond Skinner was at the wheel on the new pumping engine, and Cornelius Duggan drove the extra hose wagon, drawn by horses. The fire kit ensemble was at the scene of the fire in no time. Fireman Flynn, carrying the hand chemical from the pumping engine, was quick to get the fire under control. It was not found necessary to lay a line of hose. It was a nice piece of work for the new firemen, who, with the veterans to make up a well oiled fire fighting machine, and the first alarm, which brought them into action, found them each and everyone right on the job.

LAST PEABODY VET REACHES AMERICA

William Conwell, one of the last, if not the last, of Peabody war veterans to return from France, reached Hoboken Tuesday, after a voyage of 16 days on the transport. He is fresh from Coblenz, where he was among the first of the American army of occupation to step on German soil at the end of the war. He was a volunteer, entering the service in 1917, and will have four service stripes on his sleeve. He is now at Camp Dix, N. J., where he will receive his discharge. He was one of several brothers to see war service. His brother Daniel is a clerk at Edgerly's Market, and the family formerly lived on Forest street.

ATHLETIC INSTRUCTOR.

From time to time the Enterprise has been found advocating an athletic instructor for the city, one who would be charged with the duty of seeing to it that our boys and girls were given helpful instruction, looking to improving their physiques, and in effect, their general health. As has been frequently announced since the National draft law gave its lesson, the crying need in America is the systematic physical training of our youth. If the war lesson taught us that our boys are in need of more inspection of their health, it stands to reason, that our girls are in need also, and hence the question is one which deals with the interest of all boys and girls. The employment of an expert teacher in this line would be an investment worth many times its cost of introduction.

The Rotary Club of Peabody dealt with this subject at its noonday lunch this week, and the boys' committee will make a study of the local situation with a view to getting the strength of the club behind a movement which may help to benefit the boys and girls of the city. This necessarily deals with the local playground situation, one which is very poor in Peabody, and a project that could be made to deserve the unqualified support of every citizen, if we are earnestly interested in rearing better boys and girls. If the administration can be shown that the subject is one which demands municipal support, it ought to be forthcoming. Peabody has wasted much money in unsystematic playground instruction. Let's go right.

PEABODY INSTITUTE.

A reader of the Enterprise has echoed a public sentiment which has frequently been brought to the attention of this paper, when he asks why the city does not make some financial provision for the improvement of the Peabody Institute. A year ago when the Trustees presented their petition to the Mayor and City Council, asking that the sum of $2300 be apportioned to the Institute for a period of years, there were citizens who felt that the request was a logical one, and merited the support of the city government. Mayor Donnell put the petition up to the Council, and the latter decided, after some debate, to table the matter. It is still tabled with no hint of being taken from the files for further deliberation.

The Institute Library is vital to the interests of Peabody citizens, not in perhaps the same measure that the J. B. Thomas hospital is, but it is deemed highly important that the city should pay attention to its educational facilities as a means of aiding the welfare of the citizens. The city gives nothing to the Institute, and both institutions are gifts to the people for the benefit of the whole citizenship.

It may be argued that Peabody citizens have access to Salem libraries, but certainly not in the same way that Salem citizens are afforded opportunities to take out books. Peabody ought not to have to depend on Salem libraries any more than it should on the Salem hospital, which has only recently told Peabody doctors, that it is inexpedient to admit Peabody patients to the big hospital on Highland avenue. The Peabody Institute Trustees could use additional funds with which to better equip the library, and something should be done to install a worth while juvenile department that in itself would prove a distinct benefit to the adult patrons and encourage more citizens to take advantage of the books now on the shelves.

There is room for deliberation on this subject, and from sentiment expressed by various citizens, it would seem that the City Treasury might aid in some material way, the important educational work that was intended by the donor of the Peabody Institute.

THE INCOME TAX.

The time is drawing near when the income tax blanks, both State and Federal, should be filed. The State blank should be forwarded, so as to reach the State House by March 1, and the Federal form is due on the 15th. Nearly every single working man and most married men are required to file one or the other or both tax forms, and the penalties for not filing are sufficiently heavy, so that most of us prefer to spend the time in puzzling out the forms, to paying the penalty. Every single person earning over $1000 is required to fill out the Federal tax blank. Every person earning or having a total income from all sources of $2000 or over is required to fill out both State and Federal forms. If taxable interest or dividends are received, even if your income is less than the amount specified, the State tax blank requires a report of this class of income. Most people can fill out the necessary blanks without assistance, provided they read the instructions carefully, and answer each and every question. This is important, for an omitted answer will mean that the blank will be returned to you for further information, as to the omitted answers. Agents from both the State and Federal Income Tax Bureaus are spending time in Peabody for the purpose of explaining and assisting in filing the returns, and any who do not feel competent to answer all the questions in their truest sense, without enlightenment on certain points, will find it to their advantage to look up these agents when they are here. By all means find out whether or not you are required to file a return, which blanks you need, and get them in before the time expires.

The eyes of the whole country were on him and what he was doing.

This work done, he took the office of Secretary of Navy, and all the credit was due to him for our readiness at the time of the Spanish-American War.

He was next elected Governor of New York, this position he held for two years. He was then elected Vice President of the United States under McKinley. A few months later, President McKinley was shot, and Roosevelt became President. During his term he did a great deal of revising, and he grew to be very popular. In 1904 he was elected for a second term by the largest majority ever known. At the close of his term in 1909 he refused renomination, and went on a hunting trip to Africa.

Mr. Roosevelt was an author, as well as a statesman. He was noted for his books on American history.

While he was in college, he gathered material for his first book, entitled "The Naval War of 1812." Some people remarked that the first chapters of this were very dry. He wrote in full detail of his trip to North Dakota, in "Hunting Trips of a Ranchman." He also wrote many other books of interest on natural history. "Ranch Life and Hunting Trail." Some of his books on American history were "The Life of Governor Morris" and "The Winning of the West." He was one of the editors of "The Outlook," a New York publication.

When but a small boy he took great interest in natural history. One day when he went to the market, where he was often sent to buy berries, he noticed a dead seal lying on a board. This interested him very much and every day he went to see it. He measured and studied it. After he had done this for a few times, he set to work writing a history about the strength of a seal.

He collected relics of all kinds, and with the help of his two cousins, started what they called, "Roosevelt Museum of Natural History." The collections were kept in his bedroom at first, and later he moved them to a bookcase in the back hall, upstairs. His parents encouraged him very much in this, because they thought it would help to develop his mind.

When he was 10 years old he made his first trip to Europe with the rest of his family. He was young and did not enjoy this very much.

Four years later they made another trip, and that time he was old enough to enjoy it. This second trip formed a useful part of his education. While there he went to Egypt and visited parts of the Holy Land. He spent the summer with a German family. As a student of natural history he made his first collection in Egypt. He obtained birds up the Nile, and some years later he gave them with other specimens he had gathered, to the Smithsonian Institution in Washington.

Mr. Roosevelt was very fond of riding horse-back. He hunted a great deal, and had many experiences with wild animals. He shot many animals of the dangerous kind in Africa, such as the lion, elephant, buffalo and rhinoceros. He had a lot of trouble with the grizzly bear of the Rockies.

All of the skins of these animals which he shot are in the National Museum at Washington.

THE SCOUT SMILE.

"A Scout has two uniforms, one he seldom doffs," writes Colin H. Livingstone, President of the Boy Scouts of America, in Boys' Life for January. "The other he oft-times dons. The first is a clean and smiling face, the evidence of a clear conscience and a healthy body, a wonderful invitation to every one around to look and be happy and cheerfully to do their bit. This smile is subtle and far-reaching."

A Concept of Duty.

There are at the present day but too many who imagine they have perfectly done their duty, because they are kind toward their friends, affectionate to their families, inoffensive toward the rest of the world.—Mazini.

ROUND ABOUT

I have heard much praise for Dr. Lawrence K. Kelley, who served as chairman of the executive committee at the reunion of St. John's Parish, for the successful manner in which the affair was held last Monday night in City Hall. He had the assistance of a large committee. Although a resident of Peabody but a few years, Dr. Kelley has made a host of friends.

Postcards received this week from George S. Curtis, the druggist, announced his reaching Yellowstone Park enroute for San Francisco and southern California. His brother Charles of Boston is accompanying him on a two months' trip to the Pacific coast.

Although retired at her own request Miss Amy Learoyd, former teacher at the High School, takes a lively interest in the success of the Peabody institution, where for many years she helped to mould the characters of hundreds of Peabody boys and girls. She is a resident of Danvers.

Beset with obstacles in the way of illness that would have made most any organization shudder, the Peabody Legion went ahead with its minstrel show, and delivered, after only three rehearsals, last Tuesday night. The consensus of opinion was that the boys came through with flying colors, showing the spirit that carried the Yanks to success in France.

Councillor Giles has been qualifying this week as a disciple of Weston, the famous walker, by making the hike from his home on upper Lynn street to the Turner Tanning Machinery Co. plant, where he is a foreman. Lack of trolley cars, because of the inability of the road to clear its rails, compelled many South Peabody residents to groom shanks mare and work up healthy appetites.

Alonzo Raddin, Peabody's veteran shoe dealer, who has been confined to his home on Lynn street for several weeks, is reported today, as much improved in health. He is missed by his many friends in the business section, who will be glad to welcome him back among the fold.

Among the Peabody men who found some pleasure recently in snow-shoeing sport was Richards B. Macintosh, who ranks among the most zealous nature lovers in the city. He first donned the snow-shoes to master the drifts which seemed to maroon him at his home on Howard avenue. He is one of the experts at the U. S. M. Co., Beverly.

Anent the proposed sale of land near the Institute, comment is made that the City of Peabody allows $5000 a year for the support of the J. B. Thomas hospital, but gives nothing toward the upkeep or improvements for the Institute. One of my readers opines that the hospital and Institute are both agents to safeguard the health of the citizens, and he wonders why the educational seat should be slighted. So do others.

A dollar bill encased in a neat frame adorns the office of the N. H. Poor Leather Co., as a reminder of the bitter world's series struggle of 1912, when Boston nosed out the Giants on the final game. Two of the plant attaches had wagered a dollar a game, and when the Red Sox cleaned up on the final, the winner presented the bill to Frank H. Sanger of the firm, who in turn, had it framed as a souvenir.

Landlords are much perturbed at the finding of numerous "jakey" bottles in the corridors of their buildings, so I am informed. One landlord, on a tour of his property in the business section some days ago, counted nearly 100 extract bottles lying about, as mute testimony that some Peabody storekeepers are profiting well by prohibition.

Walnut street was one of the unsafest for travel of any in the city this week, with several frozen pools of water, into which horses stepped with great danger to limb. Supt. Wyman of the highway department tells me he has not been able to secure half enough men to get the streets into passable condition.

I picked up an edition of the old Peabody Press, dated Sept. 21, 1881, some days ago, which contained an interesting column of personals and jottings. One predicted a mild winter and stated that coal and wood dealers better come down in their prices.

It is not generally known that the fire in the old house on Central street, just beyond the old candy factory, is the home of the first currying shop in Peabody, established by one, Elijah Upton, over 100 years ago. The fire did not do any great damage, thanks to fortune, and the quick work of Peabody's efficient fire department.

Horace L. Broughton of Marblehead, who staged the annual show of the Peabody Firemen's Relief Association, has achieved fame as a community singing leader, and his services, I am told, are in great demand. He recently led the singing at a Boston meeting. Broughton qualified as an inspirator in directing the firemen's entertainments in this city.

Former Tax Collector James F. Coffey has the sympathy of his many friends in the recent death of his sister, Mrs. Nora Ford, in Ipswich.

What is to be the future of Rockdale Park forms some of the club and store gossip in this neighborhood, and several reports are abroad. One has it that a second edition of Coney Island is to take shape, while another hints that the Park is to be made a merca for outings.

The funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth Newhall, mother of Mrs. Frank E. McKeen, wife of the Councillor, will be held this afternoon from her late home on Newhall place. She was the widow of John Needham Newhall, brother of Orlando Newhall, and was one of the oldest residents of this district. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. McKeen and Mrs. Albert E. Ludlum of Swampscott.

The Rockville Camp Fire Girls enjoyed a Valentine party at the Second Congregational church, Tuesday evening. Games were played.

Walter B. Curtis of Washington street is ill at the Thomas hospital.

Orlando Newhall of Lynnfield street has been confined to his home the past two weeks with influenza.

Mrs. Bertha Needham is ill at her home on County street.

The Men's club met at the Second Congregational, Wednesday evening. Supper was served at 7 o'clock, after which everyone joined in the checker tournament.

Mrs. Annie Larrabee, wife of Charles W. Larrabee, passed away at her home, 39 County street, Saturday morning, February 14, after an illness of only a few days.

Mrs. Larrabee was born at St. Mary, Canada, and was 43 years of age. She has been a resident of South Peabody for a number of years, and won many friends to whom her death came as a great shock. Mrs. Larrabee was a faithful wife, a kind and obliging neighbor, and one who endeared herself to all. Funeral services were held at her late home, Monday afternoon, Rev. R. A. Bakeman officiating. Besides her husband she leaves an aged mother and two sisters, to mourn her loss.

Mrs. Hannah Parker of Brown street attended the 25th anniversary of the Past Peabody association, of which she is a member, at the Quincy House, Boston, where a banquet was served, Monday evening.

Edward W. Larrabee, foreman of Hose 5 fire company, is out again, after a several days' illness at his home.

Raymond Skinner, son of Driver Skinner of Hose 5, who is one of the new permanent firemen, takes his job as driver of the pumping engine, with a thorough training. He was in the war service and was stationed at Schenectady, N. Y., where he was driver of a pumping engine with the fire headquarters of the army base.

Although he has been here but a few short months, Rev. Robert A. Bakeman, pastor of the Second Congregational church, has already won his way into the hearts of the citizens, because of his interest in civic affairs and neighborhood betterment. He is apparently giving the best there is in him to make his pastorate worth while.

"Driven From Home" is the title of a comedy drama to be presented at the Second church next Tuesday and Wednesday evenings by members of the South Peabody Dramatic club. The drama will be given under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society, which is assured of deriving a nice sum of money. Among the players will be Mrs. Howard James, Mr. and Mrs. William Weld, George LeCain, Gertrude Holden, Lionel Keith and Roland Janvier.

Mrs. H. A. Morse has been confined to her home this week by illness.

Lawrence C. Putnam of the Coney Island Chip Company is confined to his home on Brown street with an attack of asthma.

Councillor Frank E. McKeen, who has been laid up for several days with the grippe, has fully recovered, and returned to his business.

The marriage of Miss Mary O'Connell, daughter of Mrs. Ellen O'Connell of 260 Lynn street, and Leo Murphy, a Lynn newspaperman, was last Tuesday night at the St. John's rectory, Rev. N. J. Murphy officiating. The newlyweds will live at 50 Moulton street, Lynn.

SOUTH PEABODY CHURCH,

Robert A. Bakeman, minister.

10.30 A. M., for the children, "The Dog and His Shadow." Sermon, "The Spirit of Hierarchy." "He Must Increase, But I Must Decrease." 12 M., Sunday School; 7 P. M., "Friendship, What Is It; Getting or Giving?" Prelude, "How Would You Like to Be the Grocer?"

Friday, 7.45 P. M., Neighborhood night.

And Save Shoe Leather.

such measures and must find space elsewhere. It is well to keep in mind that the problem is becoming urgent in the grammar schools, as well as the High, and any method of solution should include both.

Junior High.

The Junior High contemplates the construction of a new building on land to be acquired immediately south of the present site. Between the new building and the old, but connected with both, would be an assembly room, gymnasium, library, domestic science room and other facilities that could be used in common by both schools. The assembly room is on the first floor and readily available for use for community purposes.

There are 29 home rooms for seating purposes in the new building, which will accommodate over a thousand pupils, also ample space for shop work for boys, sewing for girls, commercial work, and splendid facilities for those numerous minor agencies that make the administration of a school efficient and easy.

The present school building is very deficient in all these accessories, and the plans call for alterations in the office, toilet rooms, store rooms, and in several other respects, that will greatly improve its usefulness.

The heating plant for both schools will be placed in the rear, and over it the shops for boys. The present building will not be changed in any important respect. There is hardly a community anywhere that has so splendid an opportunity to work out the combination of a Senior and Junior High school, when we consider the question of convenience of location, availability of land, and the possession of a modern and handsome building already, that lends itself admirably to these suggested additions.

We should have one of the finest school plants in the country for a city of our size, and one of the most economical, when we consider that very much of the equipment and outlay will be available for two schools instead of one.

Type Best Suited.

The whole trend of current educational thought seems unanimous for the adoption of what is commonly called the six-three-three type of organization, or the recognition of the first six grades as a distinct unit in the child's school life, and the two successive three-year periods, as forming also distinct units of instruction.

The peculiar needs of pupils in the upper grammar grades can be met much more completely with such a form of organization.

It is always well to bear in mind in discussing money and buildings for education that the real question is purely human, and not one primarily of bricks and mortar and cost. The real question should be "What is best for the children of Peabody?" If we should spend a good deal of time finding the right answer to this query the matter of providing material equipment for the best educational opportunities would naturally follow. The committee, after spending much time on the problem, has no doubt that in both financial and educational economy the solution which is proposed is advisable.

The number of grades into which school work has been divided and the grouping of children by grades have undergone many changes in the course of time. The name Junior High school has been applied to the grouping and assembling in one building for the seventh, eighth and ninth grades. The educational advantages of such a grouping are very apparent when we aim to vary the course of study to meet the special needs of pupils, who may desire to begin the study of foreign language, commercial work or other branches, much earlier than is possible at present, when the pupils are located in several grammar schools. In giving instruction in domestic science for girls or any form of practical arts for boys, it is obvious that a concentration of pupils at some central place is the only way that such courses are possible or economical in view of the equipment necessary for such forms of work.

I feel that our schools should be placed abreast of current educational advance by instruction in these lines of work.

Centrally Located.

There are often valid reasons against a concentration of pupils on account of the distance pupils must walk or be transported. Peabody is fortunately situated in this respect, as its population is unusually compact. About three fourths of the children in the city are within a mile of Peabody square. No pupil of the upper grades living in the central portion of the city would find it a hardship to walk to any fairly central location. This would confine the question of transportation to South and West Peabody, and would affect relatively few pupils.

When we consider the problem purely from the educational point of view or from the standpoint of the greatest good to the children, the evidence in favor of dealing with the higher grammar grades as a separate unit in our organization is overwhelming in the judgment of those who know intimately the special problems and opportunities at this particular period in school life.

The assembling of a large number of pupils of the same grade in one school makes it possible to adjust courses of study to their individual needs without being compelled to make the attempt to adjust all children to whatever may be in a single course of study.

Those pupils who intend to go to college should take foreign languages earlier than at present, while many in the eighth grade can profitably take typewriting. In fact, the ability to use a typewriter may fairly be said to rank with the required subjects. We are doing nothing in the line of practical arts for boys, and except sewing, nothing in household arts for girls. These important subjects can never be adequately dealt with unless the upper grades are brought together in a central location.

In General

The salaries of teachers and other conditions incident to school work have caused many of the most valuable people connected with the schools to seek other vocations. Fewer young women have been entering the normal schools during the past few years, so that the whole nation is confronted with a somewhat alarming shortage of teachers. This has given rise to a general movement for higher salaries. The School Committee in November voted an approximate increase of 25 per cent. in the salaries of all those connected with the department. Since this action several communities in this vicinity have made an even larger increase, so that our ability to hold our teaching force in competition with other cities, is probably as great as formerly.

Respectfully submitted,
ALBERT A. ROBINSON.

PERSONALS

Miss Beatrice L. Nelson of 100 Andover street will spend a week enjoying winter sports with a large party of friends, in the White Mountains, making headquarters at the Bellevue Hotel, Intervale, N. H.

Murray F. Gourley, the well known contractor, has moved to 112 Main street.

SURPRISE PARTY.

Mrs. John Moore was given a surprise party on her birthday last Sunday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Helen Sheehan, 41 Oak street. She was presented with a handbag on behalf of the company, and also received a sum of money and a scarf. Refreshments were served by Mrs. John Young.

Allen's Lung Healer

One Bottle Saves Wife from Pneumonia; Cures Husband of Severe Chest Cough

The following testimonial from Mr. Andrew Horne of 33 Grove Street, demonstrates in a most convincing manner the almost magical effect of Allen's Lung Healer on the lungs, especially in acute attacks of congestion or inflammation. When taken in the first stage of a lung or chest cold a few doses absorb the attack in a most thorough manner. Read Mr. Horne's letter:

West Lynn, Mass.

Dear Sir:—I have found Allen's Lung Healer to be a wonderfully effective remedy for sore and congested lungs, as well as for bad cough. My wife and I both have had occasion to test it thoroughly and with results that justify all claims you make for it. Mrs. Horne was saved from pneumonia by its use, the soreness and congestion being entirely relieved in two days' time. As for myself, a half bottle relieved me of a severe chest cough. You can count on us as life-long boosters for your remedy.

Yours gratefully,
ANDREW HORNE,
33 Grove Street.

TWO GIRL 'NEWSIES' LEAD RACE FOR BOYS IN COVERING HOMES

That girls are proving successful "newsies" is shown by the records of two little grammar school misses, who vie each Friday with the news-boys on the Enterprise. The two girls presented with this story are Marie Nash, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Nash of 13 Willow street, and Grace Lamson, daughter of Mr.

MARIE NASH.

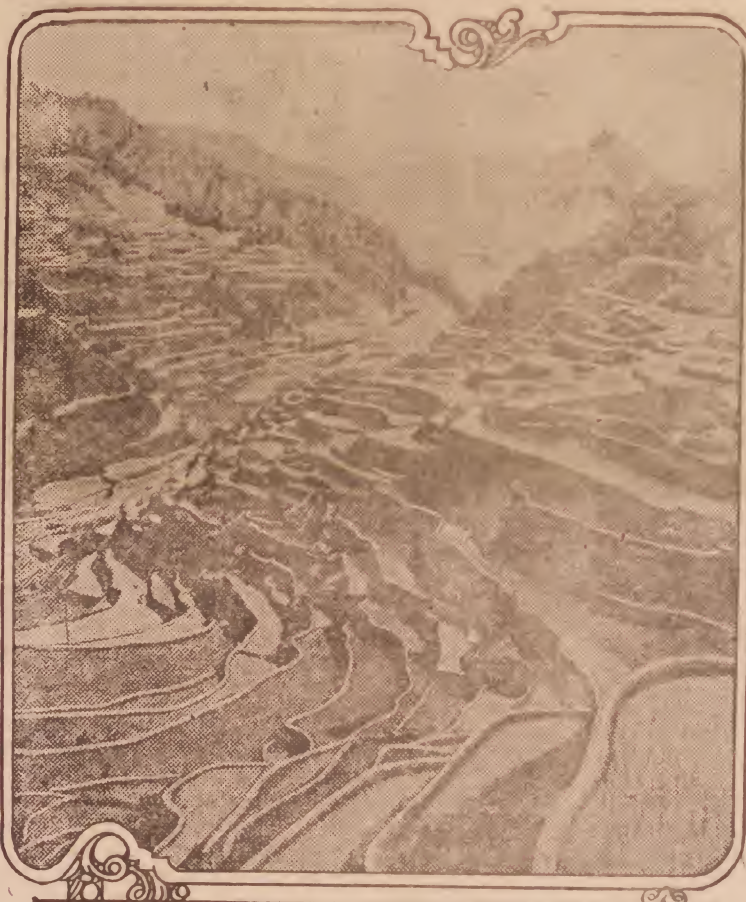

GRACE LAMSON.

and Mrs. Fred Lamson of 27 North Central street.

The Nash girl is a pupil in the seventh grade at the Wallis school and the Lamson girl is a member of the sixth grade at the Bowditch. Both are alert pupils and they are hustling "newsies," as shown by their sales of the Enterprise each week. The Nash girl has a route through "Crow Village" and the Lamson girl goes through the Wilson Square and Andover street sections. They are saving their paper money each week.

Rice Terraces Are World's Masterpieces

This is a photograph of the Ifugao Igorrot rice terraces, which are among the most remarkable of their kind in the world. They are one of the many marvelous sights for the tourist to see in the Philippine Islands and are to be found in the Ifugao district of the Mountain province, Northern Luzon.

The height of these terraces, which are held up by stone walls, is from 4 to 18 feet, averaging 8 feet high. It is estimated there are 12,121 miles of eight-foot stone walls in the Ifugao terraces, which is approximately half the distance around the world.

These terraces are skillfully irrigated by water brought in troughs along the precipitous mountain sides over long distances.

Carrying a Ton a Mile for less than a Cent

Freight rates have played a very small part in the rising cost of living.

Other causes—the waste of war, under-production, credit inflation—have added dollars to the cost of the necessities of life, while freight charges have added only cents.

The average charge for hauling a ton of freight a mile is less than a cent.

A suit of clothing that sold for $30 before the war was carried 2,265 miles by rail from Chicago to Los Angeles for 16½ cents.

Now the freight charge is 22 cents and the suit sells for $50.

The cost of the suit has increased 20 dollars.

The freight on it has increased only 5½ cents.

Other transportation charges enter into the cost of the finished article—carrying the wool to the mills and the cloth to the tailors—but these other charges amount to, but a few cents more.

The $10 pair of shoes that used to sell for $5 goes from the New England factory to the Florida dealer for a freight charge of 5½ cents—only one cent more than the pre-war rate.

Beef pays only two-thirds of a cent a pound freight from Chicago to New York.

American freight rates are the lowest in the world.

High School

The Teacher's association of the High school will put on the play, "Mrs. Temple's Telegram," the first part of April, under the supervision of Miss Florence Bailey of the faculty who is a graduate of the Emerson School of Oratory.

Miss Irene Osborn, who is a member of the class of '21, isited school on Tuesday. Miss Osborn has been forced to leave school for the remainder of the class of '21, visited school.

The Misses Moriarty were unable to reach school on Monday, as there was no transportation from Danvers.

Miss Chandler of the English department was detained in Boston, Monday morning, and did not arrive until 8.45.

The pupils of room four in the annex were dismissed Monday, as their teacher, Miss Helen Moriarty, could not get down from Danvers.

Miss Johnson of room 10 returned to school Monday, after a week's illness with the mumps.

Miss Ethel Watts of '18 has returned to her studies at Simmons College, after substituting for Miss Marion Moriarty of room 11 on Monday.

Richard Lynch, having recovered from his recent illness, returned to school, Tuesday.

The Junior class of P. H. S. has plans well under way for publishing a High school paper. The paper is to be called "Pep," and will be published each month. The first issue will be announced later. The board of editors has been chosen as follows: Editor-in-chief, John Anglin; associate editor, Marjorie Cowdrey; business manager, Louis Komarin; senior reporter, Stephen Cross; junior reporter, Edward Collins; sophomore reporter, Ralph Holden; freshman reporter, Jack Lawrence; class notes, Dorothy Cowdrey; society notes, Louise Andrews; exchange editor, Ethelwyn Meagher; art editor, Virginia Carten. The editors are trying their hardest to make this paper a success, and many pupils have already agreed to subscribe.

Miss Teague returned on Wednesday, having recovered from heavy cold.

Reports for January and February were given out today.

All English pupils wrote essays for the Army essay contest on Wednesday. The subject was "Benefits of an Enlistment in the Army."

NEW CLASSES AT COMM. HOUSE

All classes resumed their regular schedule this week and things are getting back to normal again, after the excitement of the campaign.

Next week all the boys' gymnastic classes give exhibitions of class work. The afternoon classes on Tuesday afternoon, Feb. 24, at 4 o'clock, and the evening classes on Thursday evening, Feb. 26, at 8 o'clock. All parents and friends are cordially invited to be present.

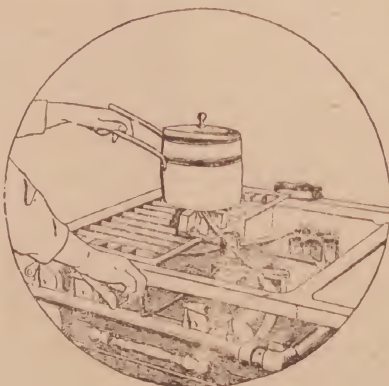

More boys with talent are needed for the fife and drum corps. Any boys interested should see Mr. Kilham at once. Beginning next week the fife and drum corps will meet on Friday, instead of Monday. The class in social dancing for High school boys and girls held its first lesson last Saturday night in the form of a Valentine party. This is to be a course of 10 lessons, and the fee is $5. There is still room for several more in the class, especially girls.

FILIPINAS GET BALLOT BEFORE AMER. SISTERS

Senora de Veyra Describes Status of Women in the Philippines.

The Filipino woman is destined to be in the world's spotlight more than ever before as a result of the news just received by cable from Manila to the effect that the Philippine senate has passed the equal suffrage bill giving women full political rights with men. This would indicate that the Filipina may beat her American sisters to the ballot box.

The Filipina has many admirers who predict she will make good if she gets the vote, just as she has made good in the very important role she has occupied in the family and business life of the Philippines ever since the introduction of Christianity in the islands three centuries ago.

"America's advent in the Philippines discovered a wonderfully interesting, responsive little being, the Filipino woman," writes one American concerning

MRS. JAIME C. DE VEYRA,
A Filipina who is doing important work for her people in the United States.

the Filipina. "Mothering the only Christian people in the far east, she holds a place of authority, love and respect in family and social life that is not accorded to women in countries neighboring the islands, or in India, China or Japan."

A Filipina who is doing an important work for her people in the United States is Mrs. Jaime C. de Veyra, wife of the resident commissioner from the Philippines. Not only has she frequently addressed the wives of members of Congress in Washington as to conditions in the new Philippines, but she has visited various cities, speaking before women's clubs. The senora wears, in giving her talks, one of the beautiful gowns of her home land, a delicate pineapple fabric, hand-woven and hand-embroidered, shaped like a gauzy-winged butterfly.

"In many ways the path of the women of the Philippines is easy," says Senora de Veyra. "Laws made by her have combined the best of American and Spanish precedents, and she has come into her own with far less struggle than either her American or her Spanish sisters. Married women may hold property in severalty. They are guardians of their own children. These are vested rights and cannot be taken away from her."

"Professional opportunities are as good for women as for men in the land from which I come. The Filipina is by custom the dictator in the home. She is usually the keeper of the family treasure. Practically all of the small shops in Manila are conducted by women. Women are already members of the Philippine Bar Association—a thing still impossible in Great Britain. They are also successful as physicians."

Life is really a fifty-fifty proposition for women in the Philippines, according to the senora, who has taken such a prominent part in women's work there that she has sometimes been referred to as "the little mother of them all." She was the assistant matron of the Normal Hall Dormitory for Girls when she married. She speaks English fluently and puts her little talks "over" with real tact. She has four children. An evidence of her enterprise was her action last year in mastering shorthand so she might be "useful to her husband at home in the evenings in case he wishes to dictate a few letters or a speech."

LEGION BOYS SCORE BIG HIT IN FIRST MINSTREL SHOW

easily one of the real hits of the show by his clever dancing, although Mahoney gave him a close contest for the dancing honors. The chorus work had the punch behind the soloists, and under the skillful guidance of Philip L. Hunt, the interlocutor, who gave a finished effort in the pivot chair, the show moved with precision and pep.

Johnnie Riley, the sweet Boston tenor; Dick Langmaid and "Mel" Reid in "Dark Stuff," and Charles M. Perley, Jr., in "The Village School" were the features of the specialty section that rounded out the show and made the initial performance of the Legion boys a big success. The music for the show was under the direction of Edward J. Carbrey, and he is deserving of much credit for his clever manipulation of the soloists and chorus.

What is conceded the most elaborate souvenir ad book ever gotten out in this city at a similar function, was handed to each of the guests of the evening, and the book will net the Legion Post a handsome revenue. The book was in charge of Philip L. Hunt. It contained tributes to the G. A. R., Boy Scouts, Woman's Auxiliary, the advertisers, benefactors, Mayor, City Council and citizens in general.

Editing magazines and other publications is not a new task for Hunt, it has leaked out, for when he was at Andover Prep. school, he was the editor and business office of about every school publication, and the record up in Andover is that he took the task like a duck to the water in Spring time.

Commander Osborn Palmer has been behind the men in the show, and Vice Commander Leo B. Murphy, who wrote the lyrics for the minstrels, deserves no mean credit, for he got the show underway and assisted on the night of the performance, although from a sick bed. Leonard B. Cassidy was a big factor on the publicity committee, and how well this part of the affair was managed, was shown by the fact that the big City Hall was taxed to its seating capacity, and standing room only let hundreds of other guests in.

The executive committee which had charge of the door and seating of the guests was headed by Joseph T. Sweeney, and he had a willing list of aides. The Boy Scouts acted as ushers, emulating their slogan of service to any good cause.

Following the minstrels, dancing was enjoyed until Lent came in at midnight. Refreshments were served by the Peabody Candy Kitchen, which made the ice cream for the party.

The success of the first minstrel show and dance will probably make the affair an annual event on the eve of Lent.

Among the Legion members on the committee who by their personal efforts helped to put over the first annual were James Mulcahy, who assisted in the solicitation of advertisements and who helped behind the scenes; Andrew Fyfe, who had charge of the hall decorations and check room; John Cy McCarthy, who coached the ends, and Joseph Sousa, who was down on the program for what would have been the feature song, "When Tony goes over the top." Sousa was prevented at the last minute from taking part owing to the failure of the music house to send his orchestration.

LOCAL TALENT TO ASSIST READER

A large audience is expected to greet Miss Grace Sage, the reader, who appears at the Peabody Institute, Monday night, under the auspices of the Friendship Circle of the King's Daughters. Miss Sage is no stranger in this city, having been heard here in Peg o' My Heart. The King's Daughters do much charitable work, and the proceeds of the entertainment are to further their mission.

Between the readings by Miss Sage who is to present "The Country Cousin," there will be singing by Miss Elizabeth Gourley, and a violin duet by Miss Althea Wilson and Lawrence Madison. The sale of tickets has been unusually large, and a big house is anticipated to greet the reader performance.

With the Employees of

A. C. LAWRENCE LEATHER COMPANY

Guy Grant is a newcomer at the Tannery this week.

Horace Wilson and H. K. Batchelder attended the Employment Managers' association meeting at Young's Hotel on Tuesday evening.

A. C. L. and National employees are busily engaged in filling out income tax blanks this week, clerks in the various departments being assigned to assist in handling the volume of business.

Louis P. Gravelle, formerly employed at the sheepskin department, has returned to the company, and is now working in the Book Leather department.

John Dorgan, teamster at the National, is out with a severe attack of bronchial pneumonia this week.

Miss Nellie I. Crowley of the Japan office has been absent from her duties the past few days on account of a severe cold.

Luke McDermott, teamster for the past 16 years at the Main Plant, broke a perfect attendance record in the recent bad storm, when he stayed home one day on account of being unable to navigate the big drifts. This one day is the only one since he started work here 16 years ago, that Mr. McDermott has missed coming in to work.

Charles Hennessey of the Curry department has been away the past week due to the loss of a near relative in Woburn.

Elmer McKeen of the Main Office is substituting in the Welt shop during the absence of Charles Cassidy, who is out sick.

Billy Frame, the local painter, is with the A. C. L. in the Chrome Tan Glove department.

Charles Boyle and George Gillis were two of the liveliest wires of the Legion Minstrels this week.

James Burns of the National staking room has the deepest sympathies of his many friends in the loss of his brother John, who died suddenly this week. The late Mr. Burns was formerly employed at the National.

Miss Margaret Kerans of the Main Office Payroll department is at home

this week with a bad grip cold.

Henry Kelly, an old time setter of the Curry department, is back again in the Curry, after an absence of some time.

A census of the employees was taken this week to determine the citizenship status of the plant for the information of the Americanization committee.

Miss Margaret O'Keefe of the National office suffered a relapse this week, after having partially recovered from her recent illness.

John J. Coffey of the receiving department has been absent the past day or two on account of the loss of his sister. Mr. Coffey has the sympathy of the plant in his bereavement.

William Cronin of the National Laboratory dropped in this week, after having recovered from a severe attack of influenza. He expects to return to work in a few days.

Miss Lena Kitchin of the National is out on account of the illness of her aunt.

A. L. Nickerson of Chelsea is a new comer to the Cashier's department of the Main office.

Ernie Gourley, the idol of the A. C. L. baseball fans the past summer, and who is now employed as a sorter at the Japan shop, embarks on a new enterprise this week in addition to his duties at the plant. With his partner, "Chuck" Burns, well known in sporting circles hereabouts, he will open an up-to-date pool and billiard parlor on Main street over Ware's Market, thus filling a long-felt want in Peabody. When the new "Chuck" and "Ernie" parlors, as they will be called, opens Saturday, the patrons will have the use of five brand new pool tables and one new billiard table. Mr. Burns will manage the new parlors, and his past experience will assure the success of the new venture.

Ed. Carbery helped put over the American Legion Show this week by his skillful work as musical director. Ed should come in handy in case the plant puts on a musical comedy this winter.

Mats Outplay Gloucester 32 to 20

The Peabody Father Mathews basketball team won over the Colonial Club of Gloucester last night, 32 to 20, in one of the snappiest games staged in City Hall. Tim Shea and James Gilmore shot five baskets each. Peabody ran away with their opponents in the first period, scoring 14 points to eight for the Fish City lads. Inspector Dive Pierce refereed and did a good job. The score:

FR. MATS. COLONIAL CLUB.
Gilmore, r. f. 1 b., McGrath Connors, l. f. r. b., Armstrong
T. Shea, c. c., Lufkin Horan, r. b. l. f., Winn
Meade, l. b. r. f., Colby Goals made by T. Shea, 5; Connors, 3; Gilmore, 4; Horan, 3; Lufkin, 4; Winn, 3; McGrath, Colby and Armstrong. Referee—Pierce. Attendance—300.

BOWLING CHALLENGE.

Two of the most interesting 10-string bowling matches were rolled at Manning's alleys this week, when "Chet" Hay defeated Charlie Raymond, 1041 to 1014, and John Stead nosed out Charles Jenill, 979 to 958.

"Chet" Hay has issued a challenge to any bowler in Peabody, to a 10-string match, details to be arranged at time match is made.

BASKETBALL.

Tomorrow night the Legion basketball team will play the Roamers of Salem at 8.15 P. M., in City Hall.

The Fr. Mathew second team played a picked team, when the Boy Scouts team of Salem failed to show up, and had an easy time in winning, 14 to 6.

Frank Allen Is Taxation Head

Frank M. Allen, head of the Morrill Leather Co., who is a Representative in the General Court from Norwood, is chairman of the committee on taxation, before which body a hearing was held yesterday, on the bill to have every adult pay his $5 poll tax on a certain registration day, at his own voting precinct. The hearing was attended by Chairman Jere J. Quirk of the Assessors and City Collector Earl Hershenson. There was no opposition to the bill. Failure to register will be punished by a fine of $25, or a jail term of six months. The added $3 is to pay the bonus given to every war veteran.

plants by reason of any fear of a shortage of water, for many cities, including Lowell, are confronted today with a much more difficult situation than the City of Peabody.

APPOINTMENTS.

Mayor Donnell plans to present to the City Council at the meeting next week a batch of appointments for the year, and these will automatically lay over two weeks. George R. Nelson, Assessor; Frank Emerson, City Engineer, Michael H. Bresnahan, Building Inspector, and others are yet to be named. The list of field assessors must also be named by His Honor. These latter begin work April 1.

JOHN BURNS.

The funeral of John Burns, one of the best known leather workers in the city, was this morning from St. John's church, at 9 o'clock, and was largely attended by the many friends of the deceased. There were many handsome floral pieces, attesting the popularity of the departed man. The body will be placed in a tomb until Spring.

CROWDS THROG LENTEN SERVICES

The 40 days of the Lenten fast in the Catholic church began last Wednesday. The Lenten season has always been regarded by the church as the most solemn, the most holy portion of the ecclesiastical year, commemorating, as it does, the lengthy fast of her Divine Founder and all the bitter suffering which He endured for the salvation of men and the services during this season are particularly impressive.

The usual Ash Wednesday services were held at St. John's church. Mass was celebrated at 8 A. M., and the evening services, which began at 8 o'clock, consisted of the Rosary, a sermon and benediction. The sermon, preached by Rev. W. F. Shaughnessy, who chose as his subject, "The Power of the Will" was extremely interesting, and well delivered. Henshaw Dana's "Ave Maria" was sung very effectively by Mrs. Ernest Roy.

Housing Plan Due For Boost

The Housing Conference under the auspices of the Massachusetts State Chamber of Commerce, of which the local Chamber is a member, was held in the Boston City Club, Wednesday, Feb. 18, at which time about 300 representatives of industry and commercial organizations from all points of the State were present to hear what has been done in various localities towards solving the housing question. The local Chamber was represented by David A. Craig and Secretary Thomas.

Maurice F. Reidy, General Manager of the Worcester Housing Corporation, gave some very valuable information, as to what had been done in Worcester towards solving this question. Worcester, at the present time, is erecting two and three-family houses, having an entirely different architectural design from the common three-decker, which is so unpopular. These houses are costing the Corporation about $900 per room.

The speaker stated that if built as individual homes, the cost would be around $1000 per room. He reported that they were having a ready sale for all the houses that they could erect, and plans are being laid for enlarging their work during the coming building season.

The Chamber's Housing Committee will renew their activities towards securing information to help solve the question here in Peabody.

Lowell Street

The Tuesday Evening Whist Club met with Mrs. Dan Poor this last week, having had to postpone the meeting from the week before on account of the weather.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Duncanson and daughter, Florence, have moved from their home on Endicott street to 2 Emmerton street, Salem.

Mrs. Louis Millett of Attleboro is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Norman Crane.

Miss Alice H. Munroe was given a miscellaneous shower last Friday evening at the home of Miss Ruth Batchelder on Emerson street.

Miss Emily P. Osborn will be hostess to the Friday Evening Sewing club at her home on Emerson street, this evening.

Miss Olive J. Southwick attended a masquerade party last Friday evening given at Technology University. She and her escort, Lyman Whitten, a student at the college, wore Turkish costumes.

Arthur Glackin is traveling around Norfolk county this week on business.

William A. Elliott has returned to his home in Edmonton, Alberta, after a month's visit at his sister's, Mrs. H. M. Blair.

Mrs. C. W. Blair, who has been spending the winter with her son, H. M. Blair, is now staying with her daughter in Manchester, N. H.

Miss Betty Ritchie of Millville, N. J., was the guest of Miss Emelie Osborn over the week-end.

Mrs. W. F. Munroe of Orchard street spent several days with her brother in Winchester.

WOOL JERSEY SUITS

Specially Priced

These new Jersey Suits which we have just received are especially well designed with an appeal to the woman who desires a trim, trig model with a well setup appearance.

THE TAILORING was done by one of the best known houses in the country. The inside finish is thorough, and the outer details such as button holes, pockets, and collar show the most careful attention.

PURE WORSTED MATERIALS guarantee satisfaction in wear, and are proof against shrinkage, and are wrinkle-free.

THE LINES of the suits are snappy and fashionable. The coats have skeleton sleeves, and are belted; some have a box plait from the neck to the hem of the coat, others have tiny pinch tucks. Both coat and skirt have patch pockets.

HANDSOME RICH COLORINGS include Navy, Oxford, Seal Brown, Green Heather, Brown Heather, Blue Heather and Tan Heather.

NEW POOL PARLORS.

Peabody's new pool and billiard parlors over Ware's market will be opened tomorrow by Chuck Burns and Ernie Gourley, two of the best known sport promoters in the city. New tables and cues, with ample room for the fans, should make their new venture a big success.

LODGINGS WANTED.

Young college man desires to live with private family, with or without board. Can furnish references. Address P. O. Box 12, Peabody, Mass.

Dentists Organize

The dentists of Peabody at a meeting held this week organized a society for the promotion of dental affairs in this vicinity.

The doctors have been reluctant in placing any burden of expense upon the public but considering the increase in cost of living, increase in rents, materials and all other commodities, they have agreed that a reasonable increase in prices is necessary to render the efficient service of the past.

The public will render much assistance to the dentists by prompt payment of bills and thus make it unnecessary for any further change in prices.

The undersigned dentists will place the new prices into effect immediately:

THOS. H. O'SHEA RESIGNS AS TRUSTEE

J. B. THOMAS HOSPITAL ON KING STREET NOW IN PUBLIC EYE.

Thomas H. O'Shea, leather manufacturer and Peabody's largest individual taxpayer, has tendered his resignation to the Board of Trustees of the J. B. Thomas hospital for action at the meeting of the Trustees this afternoon in the Warren Five Cents Savings Bank. He has been a member of the Board for the past 12 years.

Beyond stating that he does not wish to continue as a member of the Board of Trustees, Mr. O'Shea declined to be interviewed when asked by the Enterprise to confirm the report that he had resigned.

His resignation was sent to Dr.
Horace K. Foster, chairman of the Board of Trustees some days ago.
He has three years more to serve, having been elected unanimously at the joint meeting of the Trustees and City Council in 1918. While Mr.
O'Shea refuses to discuss his resignation it is understood that he has not been in close sympathy with the governing board of the hospital for some time. He believes the hospital should be a hospital for the whole people and an institution whose chief concern should be the catering to Peabody citizens and taxpayers.

The news of the resignation of Mr. O'Shea from the Board of Trusttees given exclusively to the citizens today by the Enterprise following the announcement of the resignation of Miss Florence McLennan, Superintendent, makes the J. B. Thomas hospital the leading topic for discussion. Peabody doctors are said to be on the warpath against some of the rules of the hospital management, and it has become known that at their recent meeting the doctors expressed themselves pretty freely. Dr. Foster, Chairman of the Trustees, was present at the meeting.

One criticism of the hospital made by the doctors is the need of an X-ray machine, one that will function and give assistance to the visiting staff in the handling of patients. On this point it is said that the doctors and Miss McLennan, the retiring Superintendent, have not agreed.

It is generally admitted that Miss McLennan has proven an efficient Superintendent, and given her best efforts at all times to promote the welfare of the hospital. The Board of Trustees have had perfect confidence in her financial management of the institution. She has been a strict disiplinarian, and it is a matter of common knowledge that graduate nurses from the Peabody hospital have been eagerly sought after by larger institutions, all of which, obviously, is a tribute to the effective management of Miss McLennan.

That there has been frequent friction between the hospital management and the Peabody doctors has for some time been an open secret, and it has been charged that Salem physicians were frequently favored as against the local profession, perhaps unwittingly, it is said, but the fact remains that Peabody citizens occasionally expressed themselves on the way Peabody citizens have been deprived of private rooms in the hospital, because these were being used by Salem patients brought here by Salem doctors.

At a meeting of the Peabody doctors held some days ago, it has leaked out that a majority of the doctors present had some criticism to make of the hospital management, and the result of that meeting, it is understood, was a vote to have a conference with the Trustees with a view to straightening out some of the alleged kinks that are said to have caused some of the criticism directed at the hospital. The most bitter caustic at the recent doctor's meeting frankly admitted he had a high regard for the efficiency displayed by Miss McLennan. There are hundreds of testimonials from Peabody patients, as to their good treatment at the local hospital.

Outside criticism of the Thomas hospital, as expressed frequently, has been the comment that the institution seemed more of a private hospital, rather than a public institution for

SELFISHNESS OF TRUCK DRIVERS

There should be some way for the authorities to stop trucks from tying up the Peabody-Lynn line of trolleys to the discommoding of hundreds of residents of that line. The Eastern Mass.
Electric Co. spent hundreds of dollars to get its tracks open to travel and would be giving service today were it not for the trucks which have buried the rails again. The street could be made passable for the trucks if they still insist on battling with the unusual snow. The people who are compelled to walk because of the selfishness of these truck drivers have cause to grumble.

CITY HALL GOSSIP

Mayor Donnell has been besieged over the telephone this week from irate householders, who want streets and sidewalks in the outlying districts, ploughed out. He has also had requests for coal. He is trying to get a jitney bus into play between South Peabody and Peabody square, to accommodate residents of the south section.

While Lynn and other cities are fearful they must close down schools, because of the shortage of fuel, Peabody is serene and on "easy street," due entirely to the foresight of Mayor Donnell, who contracted early enough, and for enough of coal for all of the public schools. He even piled it up in the rear of City Hall to have plenty in reserve. The result is, Peabody schools will not be called on to lose a single day.

From the Health Department comes the word today that illness is on the wane among Peabody homes, and few, if any, cases of the influenza exist. Doctors confirm the report that their calls are growing less, rather than more.

Supt. Thomas Gilroy of the City Home gathered up the school children every morning, who live in his section and got them down to the South school. His conveyance has given a helping hand to other citizens, who otherwise would have to walk, as a regular diet.

Anent the fire underwriters it seems that they have notified Lynn that it has been raised from a fourth class fire risk city to a third class risk. It's Peabody's turn next to hear from the fire underwriters or Engineer John Caldwell.

Peabody's new firemen had another chance to prove their fire fighting ability at the Walnut street blaze last Tuesday night, and they didn't fail to deliver, in company with the veterans. The second platoon installation helped Lynn to get a higher rating by the underwriters, why shouldn't it help Peabody? How about this, Mr. Caldwell?

It is said that Mayor Donnell is in sympathy with the movement for an athletic instructor being added to the High school faculty, and that his supplementary budget will doubtless contain an item to carry out the plan. Peabody ought to have a line on its baseball coach now, so speed should direct the powers that be, in bringing about ways and means for getting the best man. Leander McDonald, former principal and coach of the victorious football teams, would make an ideal man, many feel. He is now in Cambridge, but might listen to a good offer to return to Peabody again.

A report that is given credence has it that "jakey" may be bought in the Bleachery district at the rate of $5 for four bottles. It is said that some storekeepers are doing a land-slide in the sale of the concoction.

Six field assessors will automatically lose their jobs on the passage of the bill for compulsory registration of all assessed for poll taxes of $5. The bill, which will have the approval of the taxation committee, found no opposition, and it has the endorsement of every city and town collector, as well as the Assessors. The city will gain about $800 by lobbying off the field assessors, who merely canvassed the six wards for the list of poll tax residents.

Supt. Murphy of the sewer department had to turn Klondike gold miner this week in locating a catch basin on Willow street, where trouble was reported. He tackled the job Tuesday afternoon, and managed to find one basin, after considerable effort.

City Collector Hershenson is sending out summons for delinquent poll tax payers of 1919.

Just when it appears that Citizen "Ed" Blancy, water expert and former chairman of the defunct "P. W. C.," has unbeatable argument for boosting additional water supply, along comes the elements, and with heaps of snow, puts a kibosh to all talk of an approaching water famine. From all indications Sundaug, Spring, Brown and Cedar ponds will be flooded to the sky this spring, with more than enough water for everyone. The weather must also worry the fire underwriters, who, despite meagre fire losses in this city, seem to find delight in picking on Peabody, and helping along silly notions of expenditure of funds.

J. Frank Murphy, former chairman of the Peabody Electric Light Commission, has the sympathy of his friends in City Hall on the death of his mother, Mrs. Cornelius Murphy.

Leominster Assessors have heeded the advice given them by Peabody, evidently, by the announcement that they will increase property valuations in order to raise additional money for the 1920 budget of Mayor Sawtelle. The latter has asked for $528,636 in his 1920 budget, as against $452,708 in 1919. The City Council without much debate, passed the budget, and the Assessors will now go out and get the needed funds. Mayor Donnell, in an address before the Leominster city officials, advocated increasing valuations where it could be done. At that time the Comb City officials couldn't see how it could be done.

Rotarians Are Interested In City's Progress

This week is "All Rotary Week" when more than 600 Rotary clubs in the United States and throughout the world are observing, many of them with special programs, the 15th anniversary of the birth of Rotary, and the founding of the first club in Chicago, Feb. 23, 1905.

The week will be especially devoted to acquainting the general public with the ideals and principles of Rotarianism, especially by means of the press and in some places from the pulpit.

It is possible that Rotarianism may be a topic touched upon from some local pulpit next Sunday which in some places will be widely observed as Rotary Sunday.

The Peabody club is making preparations for the national convention to be held at Atlantic City, June 21-25, when a delegation from this city will attend.

It was meeting first at one place of business then at another which furnished the Rotarians with their wheel emblem. The wheel was conceived from the fact meetings were held in rotation and the name simplified to "Rotary." Still another principle of the club came through the early luncheons of business acquaintances, that of admitting to membership but one in the same club from each business or profession. Thus a body of men representative of the business life of a community has come to be an ideal forum for discussion of public questions and the consideration of matters of concern both to the public and to the trades and professions. It is thus impossible for any one business or calling to become strong enough to dominate the club, while members through association with those from other businesses are lifted out of the rut and broadened in their views.

LEFT BROTHER AND SISTER HERE

William Winslow and Mrs. Hattie Evans, both of this city, have the sympathy of their friends in the death of their sister, Mrs. John Humphrey, who died last Saturday in Kindge, N. H., following an attack of the influenza. She is survived by a husband, son and daughter, and three brothers and four sisters.

MR. SAWYER BACKS BULL CAMPAIGN.

Mr. I. H. Sawyer, of Topsfield, the prominent Holstein breeder, has come forward with some real tangible support to the Pure Bred Bull Campaign. He believes in pure bred bulls and in the improvement of Essex County dairy herds, and offers to exchange a pure bred Holstein bull from his herd for your scrub bull, without cost, as long as his supply of bulls lasts. This is what we call real Christian spirit. Mr. Sawyer, and Mr. I. R. Thomas of Ipswich, who has made the same offer with his Ayrshire bulls, will have their names on the Roll of Honor. With such men as these in the county is there any excuse for owning a scrub bull?

Basketball Finds Fans Up On Toes

Peabody's sporting fraternity is fast taking up basketball, and the game is bound to increase in popularity from this out. The Father Mathew C. T. A. S., Peabody Athletics and the Peabody Legion are shaping teams which are bound to give all rivals a rub for the honors and with each manager strengthening ing his team the calibre of the sport is sure to be enhanced.

Manager John Quinlan of the Peabody Post Legion team is trying to whip into play a team that can go out and put up a game fight against any of the Legion boys, and his efforts are likely to avail before the season ends. Manager Quinlan has had plenty of experience as helmsman, and his efforts to give the fans a worthwhile team are being appreciated with steadily increasing attendances at the games.

As the local war vets have showed the basketball fans that they are capable of playing a real game when playing under proper conditions, there are plenty of backers for the ex-service men in their coming games.

Two big contests are on the schedule for next week. The Hamilton team, which has thus far nosed out two hard-earned victories, comes here Monday night to play for a $100

ATHLETICS TO TACKLE SALEM

The Peabody Athletics basketball team will perform in City Hall next Tuesday evening, matching their skill against the fast Saltonstall team of Salem, one of the fastest in the county, and the only one to trip up the Father Mathews of Peabody. The Athletics have a splendid team, and the Peabody fans are bound to get their money's worth.

the conveniences of the citizens of Peabody, dependent, as it is, for financial support from the general tax levy, as well as from private gifts and donations. Criticism has been heard also, that some of the rooms in the nurses' home were not utilized for extra patients eager to enter the hospital, but denied a room in the hospital proper, because all were taken.

As in the case of other public institutions, there is always some ground taken for criticism, and the hospital does not seem to have been spared. That Miss McLennan has been obliged to shoulder all of the detail of management in addition to her duties as the executive head of the hospital, is well known, and there has been some criticism that the Board of Trustees have left too much of the detail to the Superintendent.

Peabody doctors whose patients bring the hospital the greatest revenue, feel that they should be given more consideration in affairs of the charges that Miss McLennan has shown any favoritism among their number. Supt. McLennan came to Peabody from a New York hospital. She had trained at the Massachusetts General hospital, where she achieved a fine reputation, as operating nurse, and she was held in high regard by the staff of the Boston hospital. Her home is in Nova Scotia.

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Conroy of Harris street are rejoicing over the arrival of a daughter, Eileen, born Mr. and Mrs. Henry T. Cooke and their two daughters, Heena and Doris, have been confined to their home on Proctor street, with the grip.

Miss Elizabeth Mannix has recovered from an attack of influenza. The Women's Relief Corps will hold a baked bean supper next Tuesday evening in G. A. R. hall. The public is invited.

Miss Mary Butler, who has been suffering with an attack of grip, is side bet. Players on both teams will figure in this bet, and a very regular game is anticipated. Considerable glory will go to the winners of this game, as Hamilton has an enviable record in the Essex county circuit.

The local team will use the following players in this contest: Tim Shea, Euddy Shea, Joe Connors, Tommy Ray, Sam Bernstein, Gus Chinnery and Percy Meldon. Hamilton will use Elder, Burns, Cook, Chittick and MacGregor. The game will probably be referred by Marty Donovan of Salem. Thursday night of next week the Legion five will meet the St. Mary's of Lynn, an all star quintet, that has played in all the big cities of New England this season. The Legion were handed a defeat by this team earlier in the season, but promise a different game Thursday night.

Legion Plays Saturday.

Tomorrow evening at City Hall the Legion basketball team will play the T. O. U. club of Nahant. The Nahant five were beaten, 10 to 9, by the local team last month in a very exciting game played at City Hall. The game will start at 8.15. The second team will play between the halves.

The Wonders of America

By T. T. MAXEY

THE LIBERTY BELL.

THIS bell, the most treasured relic in the nation, was cast by a London bell founder, brought to America in 1752 and hung in the dome of the old state house in Philadelphia. It weighs about 2,400 pounds.

It was cracked by a stroke of its clapper while being tested and was re-cast in Philadelphia in 1753. Again it proved defective and again it was re-cast. The words "Proclaim Liberty Throughout All the Land Unto All the Inhabitants Thereof" are inscribed upon it.

Before the British occupied Philadelphia it was taken down and hid in the Delaware river, being removed later and returned to its former position.

It fulfilled the prophecy of its inscription when, in 1776 it rang out the glad tidings that the 13 states had ratified the Declaration of Independence.

For fifty years or more it rang in the celebration of every national anniversary. On July 8, 1835, while tolling for the funeral of Chief Justice Marshall, it cracked again and has been mute ever since.

So that all Americans might see this venerable and hallowed relic, it has been taken on many journeys. In 1884 it went to New Orleans, in 1893 to Chicago, in 1895 to Atlanta, in 1902 to Charleston, in 1903 to Boston, in 1904 to St. Louis, in 1915 to San Francisco, and more recently took part in a Liberty loan parade in its home town of Philadelphia.

It occupies a conspicuous position in Independence hall, Philadelphia, where visitors are welcomed.

A party of 25 people enjoyed a skiing outing on Taylor's Hill last Monday evening.

County Agent Gaskill will speak on the subject of "Fruit" at the next meeting of the Grange.

Mrs. B. P. Danforth has been visiting her daughter at Sandown, N. H., the past fortnight.

Stewart MacDonald arrived home from Chicago last Friday.

Prof. Van Meter and County Agent Gaskill gave a tree-trimming demonstration on the farm of Oscar Goodale Monday afternoon. Only a dozen local men attended, but they felt their time well spent. The dates of further demonstrations are to be announced.

For the first time in a month, conditions allowed for the holding of all church services last Sunday.

Millinery classes under the direction of Home Demonstration Agent Stratton, which were scheduled to begin in February, have been postponed so that the first of the three meetings will not be until March 23. Miss Annan is to be the teacher.

Miss Bessie Taylor is spending the week in New York City.

Wednesday afternoon the roof of a large section of Daniel Brown's barn on Broad street, collapsed. The auto of Charles Whitehouse, which was stored in the old chemical shed, was somewhat damaged.

West Congregational,

Rev. Fred D. Gealy, pastor. A special series of Lenten services will begin this week. The subject of the 10.30 morning sermon will be "Can One Know God's Will? How?" Sunday School at 11.45. At the C. Lignite in Syria. Coal, in the ordinary sense of the word, does not exist in Syria, but there are beds of lignite containing traces of vegetable organisms. The principal beds are in the Mettu; that of Cornaell, which has been worked; and in the district of Jezzine, those of Niha and Hailour to the east of Sidon. This is very extensive but shallow and close to the surface. At Jezzine amber, yellow and black, is abundant.—Christian Science Monitor.

THOUGHTFUL MAN

NEW CLASSES AT COMM. HOUSE

There is still a vacancy for a few more girls in the evening dancing club.

The class will meet on Thursday evening instead of Saturday for this week only. Plans are being made for a party in the near future.

The masquerade to be given by the Women's Gymnastic club is to be on Monday, March 1, at 7.30. Everyone is expected to come in costume. An orchestra from Salem will furnish the music. Refreshments will be on sale. Tickets 25c, may be had of class members.

At the Community House gymnasium Tuesday afternoon, the smaller boys of the city frolicked and gambled to their hearts content, turning somersaults, diving, jumping, boxing, running and doing other stunts for the edification and enjoyment of the mothers and invited guests. The occasion was Mother's Day, and the mid-winter exhibition of the afternoon classes. At the conclusion of the exhibition the guests were served chocolate and wafers in the House, and a social time enjoyed.

STUDENTS FOR FARM WORK

Farmers of Peabody desiring to secure help will be interested in learning that the Massachusetts Agricultural college is arranging to place 100 of the 400 men enrolled in short courses, on farms to secure six months of practical experience. This six months of experience is required of all students who complete the new two-year course. These men will be ready to take positions on farms when the two-year course closes, March 19.

The men will be placed on general, fruit, dairy, poultry and market garden farms, the choice of farm being determined by the experience the student wishes to gain. These men will prove very desirable for farm help, since practically all have had farm experience. They are ambitious young men, who wish to learn the best methods of farming. The college wishes to place the men with farmers who will take some personal interest in the boys.

The boys will be expected to receive and earn current wages. They will be visited by a man from the college in order that a report may be made as to the industry and ability of the men. Inasmuch as the practice of sending out men will be continued from year to year, it will prove desirable for farmers who wish to secure help.

Information concerning these men may be had from the director of short courses of the college. Such inquiry should state the type of farm, as dairy, fruit, general; the wages paid, and such other facts as will enable the college authorities to select the best man for the position. The disabled soldiers, sailors and marines in training at the college will remain during the spring and summer. During the summer, as much practical work as is possible will be given them on the college farm.

COUGHED SO BAD

CURED BY

Allen's Lung Healer

Right Lung so Sore He Could Not Lie on Right Side.

Mr. Charles Nickerson, formerly of 24 Flint street, Lynn, tells how he was entirely cured of a racking cough and sore lungs by using Allen's Lung Healer.

He says: "I had a bad case of pneumonia, which left me with an awful cough. My right lung was so sore that I could not lie on my right side at all. When I had a bad spell of coughing I would spit up blood. Having used Allen's Lung Healer before, I began to use it again and I am thankful I did. I took three and a half bottles and am glad to say I was entirely cured. I can't say too much, for it is a great lung healer."

We do not recommend this medicine as a cure for consumption, but it has cured many cases as bad as Mr. Nickerson's.

PEABODY TANNERS PLAN MERGER FOR LABOR PARLEY

(By Energy)

The continued snowy weather has placed all business, and in particular, the shoe and leather business, nearly to a standstill. Shoe manufacturers, because of a shortness of leather, must close their factories, should it continue. The express companies are accepting freight only to Boston. Those who have motor trucks are the hardest hit, and only plenty of courage keeps them doing business. Up to a week ago freight was accepted for points beyond Boston with the result that most of this freight is in the hands of the truckmen, the rail and steamship companies refusing to take it.

I am told some tanners are unreasonable enough to blame the expressmen for not taking freight. But some people want Mars and they ought to have it. If leather cannot be transported, why fuss? Just so long as one boat contains them all, the only sufferer is the shoe manufacturers, which means at least as much profit and probably more.

There is a feeling among local tanners that they will be called on for higher wages in a short time. I am not "in" on the inner workings of many of the tanners, but I am led to think that if higher wages are paid, it will mean a change in the attitude toward labor. It matters little to the tanner whether he pays more wages. It is added to the cost of production, and who pays the bills. The public. But the limit is reached, so they say, therefore it is possible a general reduction in volume will be the outcome. Should this come about, it means that 5000 men will be out of work, which can mean only hardship. I am pleased to see the working man come into his own. But to continue there, judgment must be used, for no question can be a question without two sides to it.

Meanwhile, pen artists and all those who have spent time and money to become a specialist in their trade, are getting it from all sides. So is the small contractor and so are enough of the people to control the situation, but Micawber has them buffaloed.

The hide market continues dull. To the outsider it seems like a slump. But it must be remembered that the quality of hides and calf skins today is the poorest of the year, and many tanners have purchased ahead ample to supply their wants. In 1906 there were 66,861,000 cattle, with a population of 85,000,000 in the United States. On Jan. 1 of this year there were 68,132,000 cattle, and the population estimated at 113,000,000. This is food for thought, as well as for our stomachs and feet. Perhaps this year will show an increase of sirloins and porterhouse steaks and roasts. Those of us who have not had them for some years have our stomachs trained to absorb the gelatine which comes from the parts which look objectionable on the critter, but tempting when gelatine. But none of us have trained our feet for anything but picked-toed shoes. It is a sad story.

So the Buster Brown shoe has invaded Boston straight from St. Louis. This event will give New England shoe manufacturers a chance to count up, and it looks to me to be the beginning of a competition which may affect prices. If so, the public will be benefited. There has been considerable speculation, as to whether shoes can be manufactured cheaper West, than in New England. I am under the impression they can be, for labor has pushed prices so high in Lynn, Brockton, Haverhill and other shoe centers, as to give western shoe men an advantage. It is evident that the introduction of western made shoes has been done because of existing conditions. It is sure something has started, and who will finish it?

Shoe and leather exhibits make business. One shoe concern at the recent exhibit in Boston, sold one bill of $100,000, and others followed closely on their heels. Europe will soon see and hear the smiles and soft arguments for their goods from salesmen who represent local factories. Mexico will see our shoes, for representatives have invaded that country. It is evident the shoe and leather industry is much alive, and will succeed in keeping business already acquired during the war.

This means much for the future of Peabody, as much, if not more, than the other leather centers.

COMPULSORY MALE REGISTRATION

There are plenty of voters who feel it is the duty of every citizen to go to the polls and cast his ballot on election day and the measure looking to compulsory voting had many supporters. The proposed plan to compel every male resident (unless sick or a cripple) to go to his voting place and register for the payment of the $5 poll tax this Spring is deemed by many a move in the right direction. It will show conclusively and better than by any other means so far employed the actual number of male residents in every city and town in the Commonwealth. It will also aid in the prompt collection of the poll tax fee, $3 of which is to go to the State for the payment of the bonus money paid to our World War veterans. The proposed penalty of a fine of $25 or imprisonment of six months is bound to have the desired effect in quite the same way that the national draft registration had on the eligible citizenship. The proposed measure deserves the unqualified support of the voters, a big majority of whom will readily conform to its provisions.

SALE OF "JAKE"

Jail is too good a place for the Peabody storekeeper who is getting wealthy on the sale of Jamaica ginger now called "jakey" and there are persistent reports in Peabody police circles that sundry storekeepers are doing a landoffice business in the nefarious trade that takes the place of former intoxicating beverages. Chief Grady is outspoken on the abuse and he has let it be known that he expects his policemen to report all evidence of the unusual sale of the "beverage." From all reports it would seem there is plenty of evidence lurking in the open if the "coppers" fearlessly go out to observe the law. Peabody landlords have had their patience exhausted by the large quantities of empty "jakey" bottles strewn about the corridors of their buildings, some on Main street, which are mute but strong evidence that Peabody vendors are reaping a harvest in the debauchery of mankind. The time has apparently come when Peabody is face to face with a proposition that it will do well to drive out if by no other means than sending to jail some of the vendors of this misused intoxicant.

SQUARE DEAL FOR ALIENS

We owe it in behalf of the progress of Peabody citizenship to give the alien or foreigner within our city every possible encouragement to become a naturalized citizen, and yet it is indisputable that Peabody like other cities where manufacturing plants abound, is largely turning a deaf ear to the great problem of assimilating the immigrant. The situation is becoming more and more acute and confronted as is Peabody with the large alien population, it well behooves the whole citizenship to reflect and by a general movement get behind the efforts now exerted here to spread the Americanization propaganda. At a meeting held some days ago in this city by a body of professional men, one of the speakers talked on the aliens in Peabody and dwelt on the necessity of teaching them to cherish our institutions. This speaker declared that in some of our institutions the alien is given unequal attention and made to feel that he is an interloper and something worse. The result is that when he goes forth from the institution he takes away a certain class hatred with him because of what he has plainly seen is lack of attention and kindly treatment. He goes forth conscious that the place is glad to be rid of his presence. This speaker "spilled" forth real logic in his resume of the position in which many aliens find themselves, and he declared the "snubbing" and discourteous treatment meted out to the alien was responsible for some of the Boleshevikism and Red propaganda which might be minimized if the spirit of a fair deal for the alien within our midst was the guiding influence. The appeal for Americanization means much more to the welfare of Peabody than it does to other cities of similar size because of the "melting-pot" which exists here with thousands of aliens within our city. It reflects credit on the Swift interests here that they have taken up the work of urging the aliens on their payroll to take a personal interest in American government through the learning of English. Every leather factory should be engaged in a similar work if for no other reason than a purely selfish one, that of teaching the alien to master English that he may become a better workman and thereby aid production. There is a wonderful work calling the home missionary leaders to stir themselves among the aliens in Peabody. Parents can aid in the movement by instructing their sons not to mock at the aliens as they pass them on the streets. There is urgent need of awakening to the problem afforded by the large number of foreigners in this city and the quicker the whole citizenship takes hold in some united effort the better it is going to be for Peabody.

"MEET ME AT THE COMMUNITY HOUSE"

Thanks to the generosity of the citizens of Peabody the Community House is assured of two more years of service to the people of our city. It is equipped to be of genuine service of the best kind to whoever comes to its doors and seeks it. Its work among the children of the city has been in the past one of its chief activities. It should continue to be a leading factor in the work of the Community House, but adults should also take more advantage of its facilities and staff. There are a number of ways in which the money which we have given so willingly could be made to do the greatest good by rendering service to more people than it has in the past. Why not drop in frequently and make use of its services? Make it a meeting place this winter. Every angle of social, educational and athletic service is at the disposal of any group of people who wish to take it up. Gymnasium classes, millinery, cooking and dressmaking classes, camera clubs, track teams, debating clubs, language study classes are a few of the possibilities. All that it requires is the willingness of the people to enter into any of its activities. The facilities are ready. It is up to us to take advantage of them.

ROUND ABOUT

Arthur L. Osborne, former Worshipful Master of Jordan lodge, is authority for the statement that robins and bluebirds have already braved the tempests of the north, and are migrating back to Peabody to help usher in the good old Springtime.

What a word to conjure with when we look about us and see the high banks of snow.

He took a hike to the reservoir look-out last Sunday, and up among the pines he espied the robins and bluejays.

"Bill" Dodge, Peabody's leading manufacturer of oils and greases for the leather trade, uncovered a sideline last Tuesday noon at the Rotary Club dinner, when he showed the members that he could sing. He led in the chorus which is a pleasing feature of the weekly dinners.

"Allie" Moore, local manager for Munroe, Arnold & Merritt Express Co., has nerves of iron, so his friends will opine, for he has so far out-weathered the elements, and despite the slow down of transportation, has managed to smile and get deliveries to his hundreds of patrons. Apparently he has met the test with a smile, and if know "Allie" pretty well, you know he has one that rivals "Sunny Jim's."

"Jack" Dada, manager for the Parke, Snow Inc., who have taken over Bresnahan's department store and added it to their busy chain, is a live wire who is bound to be appreciated among the retail trade of Peabody. He takes up his new field here with plenty of experience, and his campaign for business will be to keep foremost the thought that the public must be catered to and their wants supplied.

I observe that Councillor Joseph A. Ryan is to become the next Lecturing Knight of Salem lodge of Elks, which will give Peabody further recognition on the board of officers and trustees of the Salem lodge. The Peabody City Father possesses a voice that carries to all corners of the auditorium, and he is bound to make an ideal officer in the chair. His selection for the office attests how well he stands with the Antler herd in his short career among them, as a member.

John B. Quinn of the Lynn Item business office is to give an address on the "Making of a Newspaper" before the members of the Men's club of the South Peabody church in the near future. Mr. Quinn is well known in the newspaper advertising field. Previous to his becoming attached to the Lynn Item, he was advertising manager on the Worcester Gazette. He has been in Lynn for the past dozen years, and is held in popular esteem.

The fact that Peter McNiff, the registered pharmacist at Pushard's, lives in Salem, should not be used against him, until such time as the housing problem for Peabody is productive of rentable homes. Peter likes Peabody, and has made many friends here. He was at the Walnut street early morning fire this week, in company with two former City Fathers of Salem, and I have Peter's word for it, that the Salem men were loud in their praise for the plucky work of the Peabody firemen.

John E. Fitzgerald, vice president of the Turner Tanning Machinery Co., who recently returned from a several months' business trip in Europe, was a guest at the banquet given to the Prince of Wales in London some few days before the Peabody man sailed for America. He told the members of the Rotary club at their dinner this week that the Prince was a good chap.

The passing of John Titcomb, Grand Army veteran, who died at the Soldiers' Home in Chelsea, will be mourned by a large number of friends, who held him in deep regard. He would have reached his 92d birthday anniversary this coming Spring. He has long been a zealous member of Union Post, No. 50, of this city, and despite his advanced age, was frequently seen on the street up to the time winter set in. He will be missed at Judge Gardner's court in Peabody square, for he was a daily visitor to the harness shop daily talk-fest, where he proved a good listener.

Attorney James A. Liacos of this city was one of the speakers at the reception given to former aliens, now naturalized citizens of this country, given in their honor in Salem City Hall last Monday. Mayor Sullivan, city officials, Chamber of Commerce members and other citizens attended the reception. Attorney Liacos, himself a naturalized citizen, has given much assistance to his former countrymen in their efforts to take out citizenship papers.

I witnessed an incident in which a motorman on a Salem bound car, No. 223, last Monday morning at 10 o'clock, proved himself a poor man for the Eastern Massachusetts Electric Co. A man and wife were struggling through the snow to reach the car at the foot of Washington street, and it was plain that the motorman saw their plight. This fact, however, did not urge him to wait a few seconds for the pair to get aboard. I was a passenger on the car and wondered what this motorman could possibly offer as an excuse for his stubbornness.

Magellan's Famous Voyage.

On the 27th of November, in 1520, Ferdinand Magellan, the Portuguese navigator, entered the Pacific ocean through the straits which bear his name. He navigated the ocean for three months and twenty days without finding a single island. During the voyage the weather was so fair continually that he gave the ocean the name of Pacific.

PERSONALS

The condition of Patrolman Robert Patterson, who is still at the J. B.
Thomas hospital, is disappointing to his friends. He was nearly killed by a Lynn taxicab driver, three months ago, and was carried to the hospital with a broken leg. The bone has refused to knit properly, and amputation of the limb is now deemed necessary. "Bob," as he is popularly called, has been a patient sufferer, and has the sympathy of a host of friends in his misfortune.Richard Burns of Manning's restaurant, is confined at his home on Aborn street, with an attack of the grippe. He caught cold at the funeral of his brother, John Burns, last week Friday.Simon J. Hayes of Charlotte street, who underwent an operation at the Carney hospital, Boston, last week, for mastoid, is reported today, as much improved, and his speedy recovery is looked for.Angus J. MacDonald, chairman of the Republican City Committee, is ill at his home on Cross street, a victim of a bad cold.Miss Madeline Brissette of Lowe street is reported convalescing, after a severe attack of pneumonia.Letter Carrier Arthur Elliott was greeted by his many friends last Saturday on his first appearance on the street for nearly six weeks, following an attack of rheumatism, which kept him confined to his home. He has been missed from his accustomed route.

HAIL TO ELSIE JANIS.

Hail! Hail! The gang's all here!
And at the head is Elsie Janis, America's beloved comedienne and the "sweetheart of the A. E. F.," bringing her own bomb proof musical revue in two acts to the Tremont theatre, Boston, for an engagement of positively two weeks only, with the usual matinees each week.To mark her reappearance on the American stage, Miss Janis has prepared a unique offering, which she elects to call a bomb proof musical revue, adding that there are some songs, some jokes, some hoofing and some soldier jazz band. And incidentally, some girls.Gen. Pershing once remarked that Miss Janis was worth a whole division to the allied cause by reason of her entertainment work among the soldiers, and there is certainly no figure on the American stage today, that holds a higher place in the affections and esteem of the theatre-going public.Among the men of the Y. D. division she is especially beloved, and the Tremont theatre in Boston will undoubtedly see many graduates of the late unpleasantness during her stay there. Gen. Edwards, Gen.
Ruckman, Col. Logan and many other military notables are to attend the opening performance, and Miss Janis is sure of a tremendous welcome.Accompanied by a cast composed principally of young men, who saw service overseas, and designated by Miss Janis as the "gang," the revue presents almost three hours of a jingling jumble of merriment, novel in its introduction and unique in its development, with the ex-service chaps proving themselves rare entertainers.
The experiences of the young men and women of the A. E. F. are symbolized, and the lighter and brighter sides of the life overseas, as seen through the humor-sensing and appreciative eyes of Miss Janis are shown.

MARY PICKFORD AT HER BEST IN DADDY LONG LEGS FILM

Robbed of everything you have and forced to wander round a desert in a pair of silk pajamas is enough to feaze even the hardy film star, who is supposed to be used to everything. That is Wallace Reid's experience at the start of his latest photoplay "Double Speed," which is coming to the Strand today and Saturday. It all happens when Wally, as "Speed" Carr, is taking a joy ride in his auto from New York to Los Angeles. Pitching his tent for the night in the western "bad lands," he is sion of the famous story by Jean Webster, Miss Pickford easily has the best role of her long career. As a poor orphan child, ever helping those about her and making the most of cruel treatment, she finally rises to wonderful heights.

The picture was directed by Marshall Neilan, one of the new wonders of the screen world. Mr. Neilan, though still a young man, has already won the name of "The Mark Twain of the Screen," so human and humorous are his touches. The early part of "frisked" by two bold robbers, and in the morning finds himself without clothes, funds or machine. A friendly sojourner in a Ford picks him up and lands him into the most amusing set of adventures ever.

Wanda Hawley, Theodore Roberts and Tully Marshall have prominent parts in the supporting cast. This is the second of a smashing series of motor car pictures, with Wallace Reid as the breezy hero. Patrons of the Strand will remember "The Roaring Road," which was the first one. "Excuse My Dust," the third, will be shown later in the season.

Ernest Truex, the popular musical comedy star, will appear in his latest comedy "Too Good to Be True," as the second feature for today. Ruth Roland in an exciting chapter of "The Adventures of Ruth" will also be shown today and Saturday.

Humor, with tears that tread upon smiles, is the keynote of "Daddy Long Legs," in which the screen's biggest favorite, Mary Pickford, will be presented at the Strand for three days, starting Sunday. In this screen ver-

"Daddy Long Legs" is especially full of laugh-winning situations of many sorts.

How the pathetic little ones "carry on" when the hypocritical matron is trying to make them "show off" for the trustees of the institution; how they go on strike against prunes, and how Judy Abbott (the sunny little orphan played by Mary Pickford) aided by a freckled faced little boy, play tricks upon the matron's daughter, are only a few of the humorous episodes in which the picture abounds.

As well as being a picture that will tug at the heart strings of every parent, "Daddy Long Legs" will make the children and the childless elders laugh, for there are dozens of sweet and funny little children in it, who play the parts of orphans at the start of the story. Later Miss Pickford goes to college and finally marries the man who has befriended her.

"Blind Husbands," the latest dramatic thunderbolt, which is making a tremendous hit all over the country, will be presented at the Strand on Wednesday and Thursday.

The Wonders of America

By T. T. MAXEY

THE SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION.

JAMES SMITHSON, an Englishman, who died in Italy in 1829, left his property to the United States "to found at Washington, under the name of the Smithsonian Institution, an establishment for the increase and diffusion of knowledge among men."

"A consultative library of objects" rather than an institution of learning in the nature of a college with a faculty and students, its educational activities are of the very broadest character. The several buildings are located in 38-acre Smithsonian park, the institution also maintaining stations at other widely separated points. Its expeditions, surveys and explorations cover practically every country under the sun.

The Smithsonian park buildings contain collections of the belongings of Presidents Washington, Lincoln and Grant, and the heroes of our army and navy; the costumes worn by the ladies of the white house from 1789; the most complete collection of firearms in the country; extensive exhibits of medals, coins and stamps of historic value; time keeping and musical instruments, graphic arts, textiles, embroideries and what nots; several millions of natural history specimens; more than a million specimens of the world's flora and upwards of 5,000 exhibits of art—while the zoological park, occupying 167 acres in Rock Creek valley (Washington), contains more than 1,400 individual mammals, birds and reptiles.

It is needless to say that this great institution is well and favorably known to men of science the world over, and that those who come to study its wondrous collections are numbered in the millions.

First Idea of Sleeping Car.

In 1856, on the 2d of December the first patent for a sleeping car was issued to Theodore Woodruff, the inventor. The idea was developed by Webster Wagner two years later, and by George Pullman in 1859.

High School

Katherine Underwood and Elizabeth Mackintosh of the Senior class, accompanied some of the members of the Appalachian Club on their hike to Ipswich over the holiday.

Reports were not issued, as expected, last Friday, because of the great number of absences.

About a dozen senior and junior girls enjoyed a hike to Carten's Farm in West Peabody on the holiday, where they were the guests of Miss Virginia Carten, a popular member of the junior class. The day was spent in snow shoeing, skiing and other sports. The guests were the Misses Alisa Sinclair, Doris Allen, Esther Hallowell, Louise Burbeck, Frances Merrick, Dorothy and Marjorie Cowdrey, Marjorie Taylor and Olive Goldthwaite.

Miss Alice Teague has been enjoying snow shoeing during her vacation.

Mrs. Hartwell, supervisor of music at the High school, is thinking of producing an operetta in June in place of the usual High school concert. This is quite a difficult thing to undertake, but will be a change from the usual program.

Miss Paulman is spending her vacation with relatives in North Haven. Miss Fairchilds is visiting her sister in New Bedford.

Mr. King, a popular member of the faculty, is spending the week in Maine, where he is attending a house party at Bangor. He will also visit his brother at Bath, Me.

Miss Elsie Chandler went with the Appalachian Club to Randolph, New Hampshire, where she is enjoying the winter sports.

Harry Silverman of the junior class has been absent for the past week.

Miss Elizabeth Gaurley of the sophomore class rendered some very pleasing vocal solos at the Grace Sage concert in the Institute last Monday evening.

WOMAN'S CLUB WILL OBSERVE 25TH BIRTHDAY

The 25th anniversary of the organization of the Peabody Woman's Club will be observed March 5. As this date falls upon the regular meeting day of the club, a special program has been arranged for next Friday, in honor of the occasion.

The program includes: Address of welcome by the President, Mrs. Mabel L. Williams; greeting by Mrs. George Minot Baker of Concord, Mass., President of the State Federation of Women's Clubs; history of the organization and first five years of the Peabody Woman's Club by Miss Harriet Thatcher; history of the next 10 years by Mrs. Lillian Tudbury Burnham; history of the last 10 years by Mrs. Helen K. Robinson.

This will be followed by musical numbers furnished by a trio, composed of Mr. Leon Van Vliet, cellist; Miss Rae Kilmer, harpist, and a pianist. At the close of the meeting a reception to the past presidents will be held. The meeting will be opened promptly at 3 o'clock, instead of the usual hour, 3.30.

FOURTH DEGREE KNIGHTS HERE

Fourth Degree Knights, representing Lynn, Salem, Gloucester, Beverly and other Essex county Knights of Columbus, will gather at Leo Council, Sunday afternoon, for the annual meeting of the Fr. Gabriel Druillettes Assembly. Officers will be elected for the ensuing year. The meeting will be opened at 2 o'clock.

The guest of the day will be John E. Riley of Newton, who recently returned from France, where he served 18 months in the K. C. service, as secretary. Mr. Riley had a wonderful experience overseas and tells the story in a very interesting manner. Many of the leading Catholic publications of New England are publishing his story in detail. All members of the Knights of Columbus, regardless of rank, may hear him, as the meeting will be open to all at 3 o'clock. A fourth degree, under Master Louis Watson of Boston, will be exemplified at Hotel Somerset, Boston, May 23. Third degree members of the order who have been in the U. S. service may take this degree regardless of the three-year clause.

They couldn't be built now for twice $71,000

When the talk turns from politics to railroads, and the traveler with the cocksure air breaks in with, "There's an awful lot of 'water' in the railroads," here are some hard-pan facts to give him:

American railroads have cost $80,900 a mile—roadbed, structures, stations, yards, terminals, freight and passenger trains—everything from the great city terminals to the last spike.

A good concrete-and-asphalt highway costs $36,000 a mile—just a bare road, not counting the cost of culverts, bridges, etc.

Our railroads couldn't be duplicated today for $150,000 a mile.

They are capitalized for only $71,000 a mile—much less than their actual value. Seventy-one thousand dollars today will buy one locomotive.

English railways are capitalized at $274,000 a mile; the French at $155,000; German $132,000; even in Canada (still in pioneer development) they are capitalized at $67,000 a mile. The average for all foreign countries is $100,000.

Low capitalization and high operating efficiency have enabled American Railroads to pay the highest wages while charging the lowest rates.

ESSEX "AGGIE" AIDING GIRLS IN HOME ARTS

One of the most interesting developments of the 1920 Home Economics Club in Essex County is the fact that 10 young ladies from the Home Making Department at the Essex County Agricultural School, have volunteered to act as local leaders in various sections of the county. The State Girls' Club Leader gave the young ladies a talk on the Local Club Leader's work. This talk was followed by the drawing up of a permanent program of work for the contest, led by Miss Marion Parker of the Manchester Food Center. The young ladies will receive extra credit for this leadership work in their school course.

THROW OUT CRUMBS TO HUNGRY BIRDS

Scouts should begin to study the birds of January when they are comparatively few, and when they make an ornithological melody that is delightful, yet is neither confusing nor exasperating.

Of course the crow is always with us in any season of the year, and is there, in all the world, a more idiosyncratic bird? And so we have our common game birds, the bobwhite and ruffed grouse. They are permanent friends. They do not go South. Many hawks and owls are also good standbys, notably the red-shouldered hawk, the screech owl and the great horned owl. Among the smaller birds, perhaps the ones most characteristic of our winter woods are the downy woodpecker, the nuthatch and the bluebird. Most persons think the bluebird comes with spring, and so it does in many places, but there are some localities, even in New England and the Middle States, where the bluebird is a permanent resident. Special winter birds come from the north, notably junco, tree sparrow, snowflake, pine grosbeak, northern shrike, red-breasted nuthatch, golden-crowned kinglet. Another great advantage in studying the birds in winter is that they are not hidden by the leaves on the shrubbery and trees, and we may take into consideration the ease with which in cold weather the marshes may be traveled over. Among the shrubbery, especially by the brooks and in the lowlands, many birds will be found on the warmer days, more than any inexperienced person would suspect.—Boys' Life for January.

CHOCOLATE CORNSTARCH PUDDING

2 cups milk, 3 tablespoons cornstarch, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons corn syrup, 1 square chocolate, ½ teaspoon vanilla, 2 tablespoons sugar. Melt chocolate over hot water. Scald one and one-half cups of milk, add the corn syrup. Mix sugar, salt and cornstarch together. Add one-half cup of cold milk to make a smooth mixture; add gradually to the scalded milk, and then add all the liquid to the melted chocolate, stirring constantly. Cook 20 minutes in a double boiler, stirring until thickened, add vinegar, pour into molds which have been dipped into cold water. Chill.

BROWN BETTY

3 cups chopped apples, 2 cups bread crumbs, 2 tablespoons melted fat, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon nutmeg, juice and rind of a lemon, ½ cup molasses. Arrange apples in baking dish. Cover with one-half the crumbs and fat mixed together. Arrange a second layer and sprinkle with spice and lemon rind. Pour over it the molasses and a very little water (¼ cup) unless apples are very juicy. Bake in a moderate oven three quarters of an hour.

WAR NURSE FROM ARMENIA ASKS AMERICA'S AID

Soldier Husband and Battlefield Baby Touring Country With Her for Near East Relief.

A mother, father and daughter, the latter born in a tattered Red Cross tent in the icy Caucasus while guns roared all around and Turkish shells, ignoring the mercy emblem, burst near it, are touring America in behalf of their native Armenia. They are General Mezrop Nevtun Azgabetian, his wife, Lady Anne, and Irene Esther Araxle Azgabetian, whose baby eyes opened upon scenes of horror and later through them saw much of the sufferings of the people of Armenia.

The family are making their tour under auspices of the Near East Relief, the big organization which has saved hundreds of thousands of the people in that part of the world from death by hunger and cold and is soon to open a nation wide campaign for funds to complete the work of saving the survivors, more than a half million of whom must perish unless aid comes to them soon. America is their only hope.

General Azgabetian served gallantly in the Russian armies in the Caucasus against the Turks. His wife, who accompanied him to the front, did noble work for the wounded and sick, and it was while in this service that her baby was born in a hospital tent during a battle. An army blanket swung from two poles in one corner of the tent was the baby's crib during the rest of that terrible winter campaign. With the collapse of the Russian armies after the Bolshevik revolution the Azgabetians returned to Armenia for a brief spell and did their best to alleviate the suffering they found on every hand. But with a Turkish price on his head the father finally made his way with his family through Russia to Finland and then to this country. What they tell of conditions and needs in Armenia is first hand evidence.

In the Caucasus, Armenia, Syria, Turkey and Persia are more than 250,000 orphans, helpless little victims of war, massacre and deportation, and for the great majority the only bar between them and absolute starvation is a bowl of hot bean soup every day. This soup is supplied by the Near East Relief now making an appeal to the American people for sufficient funds to increase this dole and to provide these suffering little ones with clothing and give them an education that will help them to become self supporting. It is estimated that more than 1,500,000 in Western Asia will die of starvation unless American aid is continued.

CHURCH COUNCIL ENDORSES N. E. R.

Federal Body Says No More Compelling Need in All the World.

Departing from custom, the Federal Council of Churches has endorsed the work being done by Near East Relief, 1 Madison Avenue, New York City, the former committee for Armenian and Syrian Relief which has essayed the task of caring for 1,250,000 starving people in Western Asia.

Resolutions adopted by the executive committee, as announced by Charles S. Macfarland, general secretary, are as follows:

"Your committee recommends that prayers be offered in all our churches for the suffering children throughout the world, especially those who are in distress and peril as the result of the war.

"They further recommend that we reaffirm and emphasize our interest and co-operation in the plans of 'Near East Relief.' We know of no need in the world that is more compelling than that of the Armenian, Syrian and other peoples in the Levant who have already received and must still receive the generous sympathy of the American people."

Curious Fact.

The people who are most accomplished do not always accomplish the most.—Boston Transcript.

INTRODUCING SAHLUKENE QUEEN OF WITCH DOCTORS

Sahlukene Cele, once queen of the Zulu witch doctors, has abandoned her practice and is studying Christianity. Cele was known as premier "caster out" of "maidenly spirits" in Africa. The Zulus believe these spirits have power to keep eligible young men from proposing. At least, the Zulu debutante thinks this true and when a proposal does not come quickly she seeks the witch doctor. Tribal wars in recent years have made men scarce in Zululand, so Cele was doing a tremendous business when a field worker for the religious, social and economic world survey of the Interchurch World Movement met her. He saw Cele banish spirits with incantation and the smoke from a fire consisting of herbs, leaves, cuttlefish powder, elephant's flesh and a live python. Cele explained that the python's ability to hold tightly was passed on to the maiden that she might keep her husband in an everlasting grip. It was through the efforts of Dr. James B. McCord, a Congregational medical missionary, that Cele became interested in Christianity. Dr. McCord is now in the United States in the interest of a medical institute to be started in Durban. Here the Zulu witch doctors will be taught medicine and surgery.

WAR INSURANCE.

Under the new amendment to the War Risk Insurance Act, which has been passed by Congress, and which became a law on December 24, 1919, when it was signed by the President, war term insurance or United States Government life (converted) insurance policies may be made payable to any of the following list of beneficiaries.

Parent, grandparent, stepparent, parent through adoption, wife or husband, child, grandchild, stepchild, adopted child, brother, sister, half-brother, half-sister, brother through adoption, sister through adoption, stepbrother, stepsister, uncle, aunt, nephew, niece, brother-in-law, sister-in-law, a person who has stood in the relation of a parent to the insured for a period of one year or more prior to the insured's enlistment or induction, the children of such person; parent, grandparent, stepparent or parent through adoption of the insured's wife or husband.

United States Government life (converted) insurance may now be paid at death in a lump sum or in installments for 36 months or more, at the option of the insured. The rate of compensation for disability has been greatly increased.

WOULD COMPEL CITIZENS TO CLEAR SNOW OFF SIDEWALKS

highways in the business section of the city. The committee on ordinance will frame a measure to be reported at the next meeting of the Council.

Some comment was made that the hydrants are not uncovered from the snow and one of the Councillors declared lack of timely attention to a hydrant on Walnut street, prevented the firemen from checking the fire early this week.

There is some dispute whether property owners can be held responsible for the sidewalks since their property ends where the sidewalk begins.

Mayor Donnell sent in a batch of appointments last night that automatically go over until the next meeting for confirmation. These were: Dr. Elton Varney, City Physician; M. H. Bresnahan, Building Inspector; Patrick Ellis, Assistant Building Inspector; George R. Nelson, Principal Assessor; Dr. Ralph E. Foss, Board of Health; Angus J. McDonald, Walter H. Brown and Lloyd Davies, Playground Commission; Frank H. Edgerly, William B. Moore and Henry Shaw, Cemetery Commissioners; Frank Emerson, City Engineer; Thomas F. Butler, Registrar of Voters; William F. Goggin, City Auditor, term of three years; M. H. Grady, Keeper of the Lockup; William E. Reed, Edward F. Elliott, Alfred A. Hall, Otis Brown, Leslie Goldthwait and Ralph Beal, Field Assessors; Robert P. Brown, field driver and Pound Keeper; David Coombs, John J. Callahan and M. H. Bresnahan, Fence Viewers.

By an informal vote the Council declared itself in favor of allowing Mayor Donnell to instruct the City Electrician to advertise for bids for supplies for the fire alarm system in compliance with the mandate of the Fire Underwriters. The plan is to build an addition to the Board of Health office, where the headquarters of the fire alarm will be installed. New Supplies, additional circuits and installation of more adequate equipment will make for greater efficiency in this department. The Mayor talked on the subject before the Council, setting forth the recommendations of the Underwriters.

Councillor Ryan moved first to allow the Mayor to proceed to contract for $16,000 in the fire alarm equipment, but Councillor McKee got by an amendment that the committee on fire department confer with the Mayor on the purchase of the supplies.

Vacations, with pay in advance, was voted for both the firemen and policemen last night on motion of Councillors Reed and Hogan.

Councillor Eagan, making his maiden speech, laid stress on the fact, that many hydrants are buried in snow, and he felt that the proper authorities should take speedy action to see that all were inspected. This brought forth the statement from Chairman Reed of the committee on fire department, that Chief Barrett was giving the matter attention.

Chairman Sullivan of the finance committee disappointed City Hall attaches last night by asking for further time on the budget, and he will probably make a final report at the next meeting. There are still some department heads to confer with, according to Councillor Sullivan.

MISS PALMER WEDS SAT. EVE

A wedding of more than local interest will take place tomorrow evening at 7.30 o'clock at the Universalist church, when Miss Elizabeth Osborn Palmer, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Benjamin Palmer of this city, and Edward Robert Little of Walpole, will be united in marriage. The maid of honor will be Miss Anne Tindle of Winchester, Mrs. Davis and Mrs. John Learoyd, the latter a sister of the bride, will be matrons of honor. Following the ceremony, a reception will be held at the home of the bride's parents at 171 Lowell street.

College Stars To Play Mats

Local basketball fans are assured one of the fastest games of the season on March 9, when the K. of C. team from Watertown, composed of college stars, will come here to play the Father Mathews. Manager John Devaney of the Mats says that this game will be a hummer. The Watertown lineup will include O'Keefe, the Marblehead A. A. catcher; Shanahan, a Holy Cross boy; McGuire of the 101st Infantry team, and the Wright brothers, both of St. Anselms college.

PEABODY BRIDE OFF TO ANTILLES

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth, daughter of Mrs. Alice Warner of Melrose, formerly of Peabody, and William Durland, a chemist from Santo Domingo, took place in King's Chapel, Boston, yesterday afternoon. Bishop Lawrence officiated. Caleb Warner, brother of the bride, was best man, and Miss Louise King of this city, was maid of honor. Following the wedding the couple left for New York to sail for their new home in the West Indies.

PERSONALS

Lyman Whitten of Malden spent the week-end as the guest of the Southwicks.

Mrs. George Abbott has been confined to her home for the past week with neuritis.

Mrs. Daniel Poor has completely recovered from a painful injury to her eye.

Miss Eleanor Upton of Reading was the week-end guest of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Ingraham at their home on Forest street.

Arthur Glackin is in New Hampshire this week on a business trip.

SEC'Y OF STATE LANGTRY SPEAKS HERE SUNDAY EVE

Secretary of State Arthur P. Langtry will be the speaker at the Methodist church next Sunday evening, taking for his topic Abraham Lincoln. He comes here to fill a postponed engagement put over because of the recent storm and traffic blockade. Mr. Langtry is publisher of the Springfield Union, one of the most successful daily newspapers in Massachusetts, and while not an orator, is an excellent speaker, and his address on Lincoln is bound to be most interesting. Mayor Donnell and members of the City Council have been invited to attend in a body and will probably do so.

Morale of Fire Dept. Requires Leader Who Can Give All of Time

Peabody may have a permanent chief of the fire department, if reports emanating from City Hall are to be borne out, in the near future. It is held that the introduction of the two-platoon system, giving the city 18 permanent firemen, calls for the naming of a permanent chief, who will devote his entire time to the business of the fire department in maintaining the morale of the men and the upkeep of the several fire stations.

Further, it is said that the fire underwriters favor such a step by the City of Peabody, and while they are not officially quoted in the matter, it is understood that they have expressed themselves strongly on this point.

The appointment of a permanent chief would call also for a Deputy Chief, and an informal poll of the City Council gives it that action on the part of Mayor Donnell, looking to making the fire department even more efficient, may not be unexpected at some near date.

The town of Wakefield has a permanent fire chief and Swampscott, another town likewise boasts of a permanent man at the head of its fire department, and both places are pointed to, for their efficiency in fire protection measures.

The subject is not a new one with Mayor Donnell, who, in his first year in office, submitted the proposed change to the Council, only to fail of sufficient votes to bring about what taxpayers and by that token, the property owners, were believed by a big majority, to favor. It is argued that the highest efficiency cannot obtain unless a permanent chief is created to be responsible for the proper maintenance of the department by regular visits to fire stations with an eye to equipment and morale of the men. Now that the two-platoon system has come into practice, the wisdom

ASK T. H. O'SHEA TO RECALL RESIGNATION AS TRUSTEE

To prevent the J. B. Thomas Hospital becoming a football of politics, friends of Thomas H. O'Shea whose resignation from the Board of Trustees was exclusively announced in last week's Enterprise are urging him to withdraw his letter of resignation and continue as a member of the Board. Such action would meet the approbation of the Trustees with whom he has been associated for the past 12 years.

It is reported today that Mr. O'Shea will heed the plaint of his friends and withdraw his resignation which will preclude a joint conference of the Councillors-at-large and Hospital Trustees to elect his successor at this time.

Consequently the press agent story appearing in the Peabody column of the News yesterday to the effect that Attorney James J. Sheehan would probably be elected might seem to be a bit premature. It is known that Atty. Sheehan has sought the position, going to the trouble of soliciting the votes of both Hospital Trustees and Councillors, and report has it that from word of mouth he appears to have enough votes to remain in the running at least for a second ballot if the vacancy is declared existing by another week.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The Chamber has secured Andrew H. Phelps, Secretary of the Eastern District of the Chamber of Commerce, U. S. A., as the speaker for a general meeting which will be held Tuesday evening, March 16, in Odd Fellows' hall in the Warren Five Cents Savings Bank building. A buffet luncheon will be served at 6.30, followed by the address by Mr. Phelps and other speakers, who will talk on questions of interest to the members.

The value of efficient store management will be outlined to the merchants of Peabody by Miss Effie Lowe of the Prince School of Education for Store Service at an open meeting in the Chamber of Commerce rooms, Wednesday evening, March 10, at 7.30 o'clock. This is one of a series of lectures that the Chamber is arranging for on the question of store service. From reports received by the Merchants' Committee from cities that have conducted similar meetings, this service will be of great value to all merchants. Other questions of interest to the merchants will be discussed at this meeting.

A novel Art Display is being planned by the Chamber's Special Committee. This display will be conducted in April or May. The Art Display Committee has been collecting information, and has secured some very interesting exhibits. Persons having anything that they care to exhibit should see Louis P. P. Osborne, A. Couris, Earle W. Weaver, or R. E. Thomas for information about the display.

The Chamber has received several requests from persons desiring to study Civics for Naturalization. The Americanization Committee is planning to start a new class at an early date. These classes are under the supervision of the City Board of Education and the Chamber furnishes the room. The Americanization Committee has been doing some fine work in assisting the Aliens to become citizens of the United States. Of the 16 who recently completed their course of study, one has been granted his citizenship papers, and several others will soon appear for examination.

That the motor truck has assumed a definite and permanent place in the transportation world is shown by the following figures compiled by a New York authority on the subject:

Motor trucks use in the United States, 700,000; tons of goods hauled yearly by trucks, (estimated), 2,200,000,000; cost of haulage by motor trucks at 18c per ton mile, $1,980,000,000; cost of haulage on basis of 24c per ton-mile by horse and wagon, $2,640,000,000.

There were 3,600,000 horses displaced by motor trucks (estimated); and 15,000,000 acres were released by trucks for production of human foods.

The third and last course of 10 lessons in millinery will begin Friday evening, March 19, at 7 o'clock.

A drawing class for boys is being organized. Miss Helen Hagan is to be the teacher. Classes begin next week.

The standing in the High school basketball league is as follows: Lightning Five, .833; Rovers, .666; Red Tops, .500; Ramblers, .000.

On Tuesday, March 9, the boys will play an interclub tournament with the Salem Fraternity. Two basketball games will be played in the gymnasium, and there will be contests in checkers, and in the shooting gallery in the House.

'Dick' Horrigan Has Lead Part In 'Capt. Jack'

The Committee from Division 11, A. O. H., who are working hard to perfect the drama, "Capt. Jack, or the Irish Outlaw," which is to be put on at the City Hall, March 17, St. Patrick's night, are very confident that it is going to be a great success. The rehearsals are going on twice a week, and there is to be a full dress rehearsal at City Hall on the Sunday previous to the show. John J. O'Brien, who has not lost any of his ability as a dramatic character, is taking a leading part, and will be a big hit on that occasion.

COUNCILLOR R. W. HORRIGAN, Who Stars in Capt. Jack.

Richard W. Horrigan, another character of dramatic fame, is one of the heroes of the play, and can take his part with the greatest of excellence. "The Irish Outlaw or Captain Jack" is personified by Henry F. Duggan, and he does the part credit. On the whole the play promises to be one of the best staged in this city, during recent years. Tickets will be changed at A. O. H. hall on Saturday afternoon and evening, March 13.

CAMP FIRE GIRLS WILL GIVE PLAY

The Tiyaga Camp Fire Girls are rehearsing for a play entitled "The Call of Nohelo" which they will present on Wednesday evening, March 24, at 7.45, in the Methodist church vestry. This play shows some of the experiences of a group of Camp Fire Girls, who are spending a summer in camp. Every Camp Fire girl in town and all those who desire to learn what the ideals of Camp Fire are should see this play, which is both instructive and entertaining.

The Builders will meet Wednesday evening and the Blue Birds Friday afternoon of next week.

NEW YORK IS CALLED TRULY IMPERIAL CITY

New York City has decided to add $17,000,000 a year to its payroll in the shape of increased salaries for policemen, firemen and certain other classes of employees. Early in the year it added $5,500,000 for the school teachers. It is now preparing a secondary list that will take in the street cleaners, health employees and other deserving men and women on the payroll.

Paying more than $80,000,000 for its share of the Barge Canal; $170,000,000 for a new water supply; $90,000,000 for its contribution for good roads in the State of New York outside the city; more than $200,000,000 to finance the subways of which it is part owner and more than $100,000,000 for modern docks for shipping, it has rolled up its debt to a billion dollars.

Every year it pays 67 per cent. of the cost of running the State government—about $70,000,000—pays $77,000,000 more annual interest on its bonded debt, has a pension fund for dependent widows with children and officially gives $12,000,000 a year toward its own charitable institutions. It thinks nothing of throwing $30,000,000 bridges across the rivers, of spending $50,000,000 a year for education; $12,000,000 for its hospitals and $23,000,000 for its police.

Its citizens last year paid the National Government the astounding figure of two thousand millions in various kinds of taxes. Truly a wonder city if there ever was one, dazzling in its art and music, pulsing in its religious life, with more Italians than native-born citizens, with more Jews than Italians, with more Irish than there are in Dublin and Cork, with more Roman Catholics than there are in all England.

It exempts from taxation property of all kinds to the amount of nearly three billions; its manufactures amount to more than $8,000,000 a day and its public payroll, including contract work for improvements assessed against property, to $3,000,000 a week.

Truly an imperial city in the wonder Republic of the ages.

TWO COWS CHAT.

"Why are you always scrapping?" asked the cows of the sparrows who were sitting on the ledge of the open window in the barn.

"Oh, well," said one of the sparrows, "it is the way we get things. We see the crumbs being put out for the birds and we hurry and scrap and get quite a few ahead of the others."

"And sometimes you're so busy scrapping you don't get as much as you would if you kept quiet," said one of the cows.

"That may be so," said one of the sparrows, "but we couldn't be like the old, slow, lazy cows for anything. It's not our nature. And you're even tressome to talk to as you sit there, so big and so awkward, chewing, chewing, chewing all the time."

"Yes, we'd better be off," said another sparrow. And soon they flew away to scrap and fight and argue about the crumbs they found.

"I suppose," said Miss Bossy, "that we are considered lazy but I don't see why we shouldn't be."

"There isn't any reason why we should be anything else," said Mrs. Cow. "We've made people understand our ways and it would be foolish to change."

"Besides, it wouldn't be good for them. It would upset them. They might be so frightened they wouldn't know what to do."

"Just suppose, for example, we did change our ways. Suppose we decided to leap and bound and jump and fly what would our farmer and his family say?"

"They'd run to the house, probably, and cover up their heads with blankets. Oh, they'd be most horribly frightened."

"It would be a great, great mistake to do such a thing as to upset the people."

"They're used to seeing cows lazy. They're used to seeing us wade in the brooks in the summer and wander off for slow, idle walks, eating as we go. They're used to seeing us as we lie down and as we slowly get up. They're used to seeing us chew and they're used to hearing us moo."

"They know that we don't get all alarmed and excited when we hear motor horns in the summer. They know we don't like to be hurried."

"They know that we don't get all a-flutter like roosters and hens do when they hear motor horns."

"No one has ever seen a cow really a-flutter. It would be quite upsetting to see one that way."

"No, for the sake of everyone, including ourselves, we shouldn't change our ways."

"We shouldn't," said Miss Bossy. "It would be very upsetting to people, as you say, and it would be most upsetting to us, too."

"Imagine what would happen if cows didn't do their usual ways. It would be horrible to see them jumping about and dancing and skipping and behaving unlike cows."

"We have been sensible. We have people trained and used to seeing lazy, slow-moving, ever-chewing, good old cows, and now that they all know what cows are like and what the ways of cows are we won't upset them; no, we won't."

"Moo, moo," said Mrs. Cow. "It is now milking time."

"And we just let them milk us," said Miss Bossy. "We don't even work hard then. Ah, a cow's life is a lazy life and a slow-moving life but it's a fine life if one happens to be a cow."

"It most certainly is," said Miss Bossy. "And we give people a great deal in return for our board and lodging and care; we give them delicious milk which makes them fat and strong and well and beautiful."

"You're right," said Mrs. Cow. "What you say is quite, quite true."

"Moo, moo," said Miss Bossy, "I'm only a lazy cow but I speak the truth. I do. Moo, moo!"

"Moo, moo," said Mrs. Cow; "you do, you do. And moo, moo, I do, too!"

Adding to Our Wealth.

Every day should add something to our wealth. Our employer may not see fit to raise our salary, but we are not dependent on him, altogether. NOTE—"The Girl From Outside" has been playing to capacity houses all this week at the big Boston theatre. We believe that you will like this production even better than the previous Rex Beach pictures. Come expecting to see an unusually fine picture. You will not be disappointed.

Five Crooks Loved a Girl!

When alone and friendless, she came into frozen Alaska to mould her destiny among men who knew no law save that of their own making, the "Wag Boys," crooks all, had befriended and protected her.

Then they all fell in love with her. And then followed one of the most powerful and absorbing train of events that the screen has ever seen.

CITY HALL GOSSIP

Peabody plumbers have incurred the wrath of the city engineering office, it is said, because in some instances they have removed frozen meters in various household cellars without first getting permission of the powers that be. With the high rate of wages for plumbers today the householder probably relished quick action, looking to the thawing of his water pipes. Plumbers can help or retard the work of the water division.

With 157 less arrests in 1919 than in 1918, Chief Grady's annual report for last year's business seems to have been in keeping with the diminishing records of other police activities. His report is being issued in book form for distribution among the police chiefs of the State.

The condition of the brook from Church street through to Walnut, is such that immediate work of cleaning out obstruction is necessary to guard against the freshets that are bound to come.

Miss Eleanor Quint of the city collector's office is wearing a diamond that is the envy of some of the girls in City Hall.

The report that field assessors would be dispensed with by the passage of the bill for compulsory registration of every male resident appears to have been in error. The principal assessors announce they must still have a true record of the number of dogs, pigs, cows, hens and other barnyard specie. This will make the field assessors a necessary adjunct to the assessors' office.

Before the two-platoon went into effect last month the permanent drivers had to see that hydrants were cleared of snow. The duty of keeping the hydrants clear is now the concern of the water department of the City Engineer's office.

Steps looking to the introduction of a dental clinic for Peabody schools will be taken by the Board of Health officials, who are to inspect the working of the system in other cities, and report back their recommendations. Chairman Sullivan of the Finance Committee has received several letters applauding him for his stand on the matter of the dental clinic, with the hope expressed that the Council will help to bring about the measure.

Final report of the Finance Committee on the budget will be made next week, barring the unforeseen, for a meeting was held yesterday afternoon in City Hall, when several of the department heads conferred with the committee. The Peabody Electric Light School Department and the Park Commissioners were heard. The first two departments submitted itemized statements of their budget.

"Bunko" Park ought to be sold by the city and a suitable playground for Ward 2 children provided for, in the opinion of many citizens, and Chairman Sullivan of the Finance Committee is strongly in accord with any proposition looking to the city getting back some of the money expended for the cliff opposite the American Glue Co. plant on Washington street. Conferences with landscape gardeners disclosed the fact some time ago, that "trees could not be made to grow on rocks," and this precludes all efforts to make the playground any more attractive than at present.

Mayor Donnell is about ready to submit the copy for the financial report of the city for the past three years, and he has so notified Chairman Sullivan of the Finance Committee, who has been the chief spokesman for the report in the Council.

Chairman Ryan of the Committee on Ordinances is to submit to the committee at the next meeting a measure to compel the snow removal by householders from sidewalks. He is the father of the motion, which has aroused some little opposition on the part of various citizens. Chairman Ryan says he is willing to put the measure up to the people. He says he is not without a regard for the individual taxpayer, as well as for the whole number for the sidewalks ought to be cleaned off by someone.

It is reported that City Engineer Emerson is going to insist that some of the tanneries install better settling tank accommodations. One Foster street concern promised a year ago to increase its tank, but has yet to make any move. This particular concern will be given another reminder, it is said, because a near nuisance is now created by its neglect to comply with the request of the City Engineering department.

May Donnell took a day off yesterday, attending to some law business in Boston, and making up a theatre party last night.

LEATHER MARKET TENSE SO ADMIT THE DEALERS "ENERGY" NOT PESSIMISTIC

(By Energy)

There is considerable speculation as to which way leather will turn. Optimists and pessimists alike are predicting better and worse business, some believing there must continue a brisk demand for leather which means prices will remain firm. But others predict the world is coming to an end, so far as the leather business is concerned. Why they have set next July for this destructive process, I fail to get. But they say from that date the slump will come and take with it many manufacturers who cannot weather the storm. I do not believe this slump will take place.

I cannot see any reason why the leather business should be engulfed next July. We have witnessed many strange doings in the last three years. We will witness many more in the years to come. But to have the props taken from under, will cause some commotion. High price raw stock means thousands of dollars. To have it shrink one-half will cause losses that will equal the profits during the last two years, and the small fellows will be swallowed, as by a tidal wave.

So the shoe manufacturers have their ears to the ground, buying in small amounts to tide over their wants. When the spring trade opens, they will have to purchase much more leather, and it seems to me the market is in a condition to go higher. One prominent shoe concern has purchased $1,000,000 of kid leather recently, and did not pay more than a dollar per foot for it. They have told us kid leather was selling for $1.50 a foot. Evidently some tanner wanted to unload and there are several reasons which might be attached to it. The banks lend money. Their loans naturally grow, up to the time when a halt must be called. If called for a part of the loans, the tanner must raise money, and he must either sell his leather or Liberty bonds, if he has a supply. Most large tanners have a supply of these bonds for many of their workmen wish to raise money. One would think with the wages in vogue, that money with them would be plenty. But when the story is told, I believe that 75 per cent. of the working men will be found living up to their income.

Thus the uncertainty of the future is causing considerable worry in the trade. When the two largest raw calfskin dealers in the world present opposite views, as to what will happen, one must be wrong. So with the leather outlook, a slump with much lower prices, or a continuation of present conditions. Take your choice, and if a good guesser, you win.

With the railroads back to private ownership, a better feeling as to shipping conditions is noted. Enthusiasm among those who handle the railroad game has been lacking under government ownership. It mattered not what results were obtained, whether good or bad, officials received no answer. The roads simply existed without a pulse, therefore one must get better service soon. Snow storms cannot be helped. If the storms of late had been in Canada they of that country would take care of them, for they are equipped for such weather. Once was the time we could have done better, but the mild winters for 20 years have found us unprepared. Then again, everybody would get out and help break out the roads. Now, we are either too lazy, or have got into a state of "don't-care-ness." It is a bad disease for our country, but what medicine will cure it must be found under prohibition, and there is little kick in it. Well—

Frank G. Allen has been chosen chairman of the board of directors of the new corporation which was Winslow Bros. & Smith. Peabody is interested, for they operate a large plant in our city, known as the Mortuall Leather Company. Armour & Company are the big owners in the Winslow Bros. & Smith corporation, and presumably continue in the new deal. The Peabody factory is small compared with the plant at Norwood, but produces many hundred dozen sheep skins daily. This concern caters to 4500 customers, representing $90,000,000 annually. This amount includes the many sole leather tanneries located in sections of the country where bark is plentiful.

Exports of leather is at a standstill. This is due in a large measure to exchange conditions. The money market in Europe is badly shaken. If the big moneyed interests of this country straighten out the tangle, which they are busy working on, it must mean well for the leather trade. It is evident something is doing abroad, for salesmen do not visit there without something in sight.

The Lyons fair of 1920 has a peculiar interest for every American leather manufacturer who hopes to sell his goods in foreign markets, because the trade representatives from every known country on the globe meet there on a ground of common understanding to effectively find a way of interchanging trade commodities, so that the exchange basis may be satisfied. The question of whether the old time system of barter and exchange will be adopted is one which will be discussed, and nowhere else in the world can a more definite conclusion be arrived at than in Lyons.

E. B. Terhune, publisher, and Arthur D. Anderson, editor of the Boot and Shoe Recorder, are now at Lyons representing 40 American tanners and shoe manufacturers. They went to Lyons for the purpose of determining exactly the condition of the European market at the present time, to study conditions in regard to foreign exchange and what means can be adopted to overcome the difficulties which now confront the American manufacturer in taking orders for foreign-made goods and selling the American-made goods in Europe.

At the conclusion of the Lyons fair, Mr. Terhune and Mr. Anderson will personally visit every large center in Germany, Belgium, France, Switzerland, Great Britain and Holland. Mr. Anderson will send back to the Boot and Shoe Recorder illustrated reports on European conditions which will prove very interesting and valuable to every American manufacturer. At first glance, one would suppose that Mr. Anderson, being interested in the Boot and Shoe Recorder, which is the leading shoe trade journal in America, would write only of conditions as they affect the shoe and leather industry. This is not so, however, as general business conditions will be discussed in these reports which will appear weekly in the above publication. Every American manufacturer ought to take the keenest interest in the Lyons fair, and the trip of Mr. Terhune and Mr. Anderson, as by this means a great many exchange problems can no doubt be at least simplified.

Happiness in Serenity.

The thing for us all to do is to be serene and happy, no matter whether we are four and twenty or three score and ten. To take disappointment philosophically, as something that can't be cured and therefore to be endured. To be kind and gentle and generous and forgiving—if we shall resolve upon all that, something better than youth will be ours.—Exchange.

SPEAKING OF WAGES

At a recent meeting of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers a paper was presented entitled "Wage Payment," which went into the matter of this subject very thoroughly and opened up several lines of new thought. As the matter of wage payment hits most of us right where we live, some of these thoughts might be well worth bringing to our attention. What is the present basis of wages? Is it for work done or time given? There seems to be no real standard for basing the wage payment, as the measure of the labor done by different men doing different work is dependent on so many qualifications, such as skill, time, manual labor, knowledge, judgment, enthusiasm, loyalty, that it is humanly impossible to place an accurate fixed wage on any job. It then seems to be a matter of bargaining between the employer and employee to satisfactorily fix the wage payment, and the speaker went on to say that a common ground of understanding must be established in order to successfully bargain. This common ground, he says, is found in the mutual desire to keep the industry running, in order that the employer may receive his profit, and the employee his steady wage. The greatest difficulty in striking the bargain, in the speaker's opinion, was in the fact that the value of labor, the product to be sold, is an unknown quantity at the present time. If there were only some way of gauging the value of each job, wage payment would lose half its difficulty. Concerning trade unions, the speaker said, "Were I the owner of a machine shop and the business agent of a machine shop should come to me and say that his union did not admit members who are not bona-fide machinists, who are not sober and industrious men, and that the union would see to it that the men would treat the management in a fair and equitable manner, but that on the other hand, it would want a share in the management in so far as working conditions, wages, working hours, are concerned, and that it would not permit anybody except members of that union to work in that shop, I would probably fall around that business agent's neck and hail him as a savior." We are presenting these few thoughts merely to show the consideration that is being given the problems of wage payment by large organizations like the above, and to perhaps present a new angle of thought, which would help us to solve our individual wage problems.

NEED OF PENSION ACT

The deep sympathy of citizens and friends goes out to Police Officer Robert Patterson in the loss by forced amputation of one of his legs this week at the J. B. Thomas hospital. The loss of his limb follows as a result of an accident in which he figured last November, when a Lynn taxi-cab driver refused to stop at the officer's signal, but instead ran him down on Lynn street, dragging the plucky officer some distance, and crushing his leg, so that the bone failed to set properly, after weeks of patient suffering. As previously set forth in this column citizens will applaud any effort on the part of Mayor Donnell to see that this officer gets remuneration for his loss of employment. Unhappily, the City Council has so far failed to adopt the statute, providing for pensions for police and firemen, for had such action been taken, there would be no delay in making partial reward to this policeman, who was maimed and impaired for further police work, while in the discharge of his duty. The strong arm of the law has not yet made proper provision to guard against such an individual, as the one who caused Officer Patterson to be a cripple for life, from operating a motor vehicle on the highways of this and other states. More's the pity that such men are still employed at the wheel of death-dealing automobiles. Mayor Donnell will probably take some action looking to as fair a settlement in the case of this unlucky officer as possible for him to do while still Mayor, and there is no question but whatever legal steps can be taken by the City Council, the latter body of legislators will quickly record themselves in favor of adopting. Officer Patterson should not be discharged from the hospital a maimed cripple for life without due remuneration, and from public sentiment expressed, the taxpayers will applaud action on the part of the city fathers to do the square and fair thing by this officer. Now that the emergency has arisen when the efficacy of the pension act is clearly brought home to us, why wait for another policeman or a fireman, maybe, to meet a similar fate, as that accorded to Patterson? The Council should adopt the legislative act on the pension at the earliest possible moment.

TROLLEY SERVICE

There would seem to be just cause for criticism at the failure of the Massachusetts Eastern Electric Co.

to provide trolley car service for patrons who reach Salem on the regular theatre train at night. Last Tuesday night upwards of 40 Peabody men and women shivered in the cold at Town House square, waiting in vain for a trolley car to Peabody. The majority of these 40 patrons came from the theatre train, which was some few minutes late in arriving at Salem. A Danvers square car waited for the theatre train passengers to reach Town House square, and even held up on Washington street to allow five girls to get aboard. There was no Peabody car in sight, nor did any come, and those of the crowd waiting who didn't begin the hike to Peabody, returned to the depot, to board the 11.45 train out of Boston for Danvers. It didn't look like service, and it is difficult to understand the failure of the trolley corporation to get business by meeting the theatre train. Peabody people deserve a squarer deal, if for no other reason, than the fact that Peabody money furnishes no mean part of the revenue to the road from this section of Essex county. A handful of patrons might not justify this plea, but a carload of passengers to be carried between Town House square to points on Boston street and Peabody square, is quite another thing.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The Chamber of Commerce is an association composed of the public spirited men of Peabody and vicinity who realize that the growth of their city and the welfare of its people rests in united and harmonious effort for the advancement of the community. Individual effort is always commendable, but it by no means can be as effective as Community mass effort working resolutely but harmoniously to achieve the end sought; the growth and improvement of the community.

The Chamber of Commerce is not exclusive in membership nor automatic in principle or policy. It invites the membership of all worthy business and professional men and its policies and activities are determined by the members.

The Chamber of Commerce is not a philanthropic or social agency, nor is it an organization designed exclusively for the promotion of civic betterment, nor yet is it in an exclusive sense an organization purely for the advancement of business, but it is an organization in whose fabric all of these factors are closely woven.

The Wonders of America

By T. T. MAXEY

THE MISSOURI BOTANICAL GARDEN.

IN 1849 Henry Shaw, a citizen of St. Louis, a lover of nature and of flowers in particular, built a large country residence near the city limits. He surrounded it with flowers and plants of every known variety. When he died in 1899, his will provided for a board of trustees to manage the garden and left sufficient funds to support it. This wonderful floral park, said to be the largest in the world, was thus preserved for the education, admiration and enjoyment of all.

It contains a collection embracing 150 species of palms; a varied collection of tropical and sub-tropical plants; a collection of the 35 known species of cycads; a wonderful assortment of plants which grow best under desert conditions; numerous species of ferns and allied plants; a great array of plants of great economic value and displays of plants that feed on insects; species of the pineapple and its relatives; numerous showy, flowering plants, while in the private orchid house a representative of each of the 800 species of this beautiful flower is to be found.

The out-door collection includes a water garden, several hundred varieties of roses, numerous species of herblike plants, a rare pansy display, a variety of economic plants and trees and shrubs, native to North America and grouped in families. All told, about eleven thousand species of plants are growing in this garden. The body of Mr. Shaw reposes in a handsome mausoleum within the grounds.

Improved X-Ray Photography.

A glass for X-ray photography has been invented in Europe, which absorbs only from 10 to 15 per cent of the rays, permitting much sharper pictures to be made than heretofore.

The First Needle.

Needles were first made in England by a native of India in 1545. The art was lost at his death, but Christopher Greening recovered it in 1580. Mr. Damer, an ancestor of the earls of Dorchester, settled at Long Grendon, in Bucks, where the manufactory was still extant last century.

ROUND ABOUT

Judging from the postcard information arriving from California from George S. Curtis, the druggist, who is enjoying a well-earned vacation, in that warm clime, he will have qualified as a Weston disciple. He climbed Mt. Lowe, having an elevation of 5800 feet. I expect on his return it will become a habit with him to hike to Cape Ann of a Sunday, and return by the same manner.

Among the Peabody women who have found real pleasure in using snowshoes for winter sport, is Mrs. Walter L. Williams, President of the Peabody's Woman's Club. She has frequently taken to the snow-covered fields rolling toward the lookout on Reservoir Hill, and has proved her adeptness at the new sport for this season of the country.

I observe that among the Essex county Harvard seniors to be given degrees this week, was John F. Church of this city. He received a degree of Bachelor of Science.

Frank A. Hershenson, the leather man, tells me that New York was cleaned of its heavy snowfall in jig-time, and that visitors to the Metropolis found no inconvenience in getting around among the trade. He returned this week from a business trip in the Bronx.

Buxton's Hill was the mecca for hundreds of young people last Sunday, equipped with snowshoes, toboggans and skis, and some interesting stunts were exhibited by some of the more daring.

It was a long, long trail to West Peabody in the days of the blizzard and freeze, but that didn't deter a certain Peabody plumber from surmounting the obstacles of travel. He got a hurry up call to thaw out frozen pipes for a customer in the western section of the city, and getting into play his snow shoes, and borrowing another pair for his helper, the two sallied forth much to the pleasure of the patron.

I have Judge William H. Fay's word for it, that he will get back to Mother Earth this coming spring, and plant a patch of potatoes and other vegetable seeds on his estate on Gardner street. The Judge will probably make himself believe at the start, that hoeing the potatoes is similar to swinging his niblick up at Homestead, which may help some in his good intentions to emulate the farmer.

Walter Curtis, "father" of Hose 5 fire company, has the best wishes of his many friends on the outcome of his visit to a Boston hospital, where he has gone for a serious operation. As a former member of the fire engineers' board, he has never lost his interest in the welfare of the South Peabody fire company, and that day is strange when his genial smile does not cheer the nightly smoke talk gathering.

Employees at the Electric Light station are sure Spring is at hand for this week the black duck made his appearance on Crownshield pond near the A. C. L. plant. This is the third year the aquatic bird has appeared at the same pond. The duck seemed to be enjoying the warmth of the spraying water.

I am told plans are under way for a ward campaign for new members for the Peabody Legion Post. Team captains will be chosen to direct the house-to-house canvass with a view to enrolling the full 100 per cent. of war veterans in the city.

Peabody coal dealers found some patrons a bit unreasonable during the cold snap and hard traveling by letting them believe the coal bin is empty, and when the driver has reached the house, he has found a couple of weeks' supply on hand. This sort of procedure has made it difficult for the dealers to get coal quickly to customers, where it was urgently needed.

John Meagher, owner of the Railroad Granite Co., Essex county's leading monumental works, has been ill at his home on Gardner street for the past week, but is reported today as much improved.

The Edward H. Porter Co., contractors, have been awarded the contract for building a two-story addition at the Hygarde Lamp Co. plant in Salem.

Important News.

Jack's little playmate, Ben, was called home to God, so Jack was told when Ben died. A few nights later when Jack was saying his prayers his mother heard, "And please, God tell Bemie that one of his rabbits died today."

MISS QUIRK WAS CAPABLE MANAGER

The funeral of Miss Elizabeth M. Quirk, whose death occurred at the J. B. Thomas hospital, at 8 o'clock, Wednesday evening, following a serious surgical operation, performed on Monday, will be held from her late home, 48 English street, tomorrow morning, followed by high mass of requiem at St. John's church, at 9 o'clock.

She was the only daughter of Mrs. Catherine and the late Michael Quirk, and was most devoted to her mother, whose health has been failing for some time.

She was a faithful and trusted employee in the office of the Murphy Coal and Wood Company of this city, where she was employed for the past 16 years.

Her sudden death was a shock to a wide circle of friends, and her mother has the sincere sympathy of the community in her bereavement.

WOMAN'S CLUB

Twenty-five years ago today the Peabody Woman's club was founded. This event will be recognized at the meeting this afternoon by a special program, which will be most interesting to all who are fortunate enough to be present.

At the close of the program a reception to the past presidents will be held. It is hoped that many may be able to avail themselves of the opportunity to meet again the presidents of former years, a large number of whom will be present.

The meeting will be opened promptly at 3 o'clock.

South Peabody

Mrs. Alice Ferguson of Lynn street has been confined to her home with influenza.

Rehearsals have already started for another drama to be presented at the South Peabody church by the Dramatic club sometime this month.

Mrs. Cora Griffin and daughter, Louise, of Winnegance avenue, have moved to Lynn for a few months, owing to the transportation. Miss Edith will make her home with Mrs. William Nichols.

Ralph Goodwin, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Goodwin of Lynn street, is ill with bronchitis.

The Blue Birds met Thursday afternoon at the South Peabody church.

Mrs. Frederick Carpenter of Brown street is recovering from an attack of the grippe.

Mrs. B. J. Dugan, who has been spending a month with her daughter, Mrs. Frederick Jellison, has returned to her home in Salem.

Mrs. Frank Tucker is quite ill at her home on County street with bronchitis.

The Wapomio Camp Fire Girls met Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Roberta McClellan of Water Works road.

South Peabody folks are very pleased to greet their old friend, Peter Rooney, as collector for the John Hancock Insurance Co.

Mrs. Sylvester Perkins is confined to her home on Lynn street with illness.

Edwin Bergstrom of Lexington was the week-end guest of Miss Marion Green of Lynn street.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Vernot, who has been living on Lynnfield street, moved Saturday to 25 County street.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd LeCain of Carlton street are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son, born Saturday, Feb. 28th, weight 8 1/2 lbs.

The Rockville Camp Fire Girls held a meeting and supper at the Second Congregational church, Wednesday evening. Committee in charge were Misses Ella Reed and Marion Stone.

Charles F. Batchelder, aged 74, after a long illness, passed away in Lynn, Saturday. Funeral services were held Wednesday at the home of his son, Fred Batchelder, on Lynn street, Robert A. Bakeman of the Second Congregational church, officiating.

The Ladies' Aid will hold their monthly meeting and supper at the Second Congregational church next Wednesday evening. A short musical program and readings will be enjoyed.

Holdsworth Gregson of County street is confined to his home with a sprained ankle. While crossing the street last Monday afternoon, he slipped and evidently turned his ankle.

Isn't it about time for South Peabody to be thinking what she can be doing for the social life of the community? asks a correspondent to the Enterprise. Community spirit can develop only very slowly unless folks know one another. And how can they know one another unless they have a chance to get together, unless they have a place to meet and play and sing and dance? And—well,

G. O. P. Offers Cash For New Planks In 1920 Platform

Chairman Angus J. MacDonald of the Republican City Committee is hoping that some virile young voter, man or woman, resides in Peabody, who can win a cash prize offered by the Republican National Campaign Committee for the best planks to be inserted in the platform of the G. O. P. this year. Prizes of $3000, $2000 and $1000 are offered for the three best suggestions. The manuscripts are not to exceed 6000 words, and the copy is to be on one side of the paper and typewritten. The manuscripts must be in the hands of W. B. Beale, contest editor, 923 Woodward building, Washington, D. C., not later than March 31.

Chairman MacDonald is assisting in the nomination of candidates for delegates to the national convention. His own mind is not settled on any candidate, but he leans to Governor Lowden of Illinois. The Peabody party leader is being asked to get nomination papers signed by various candidates.

Flock No Longer Put to Sleep By 'Pulpit Voice' of Preacher

You wouldn't think of applying the word "jazz" to a church sermon.

Yet that bit of modern slang is the word which most adequately describes the new manner and voice in which pulpit messages are delivered. Jazzed music is fundamentally simple and easy to understand. And that is also a description of the modern sermon.

The old style minister, with his intoning, rhetoric and oratory, too often talked over the heads of his congregation. He lulled them into Christianity and sleep at the same time. His sermons were apt to be complex and obscure.

The modern minister presents his message in clear, concise English, and in a natural voice. He talks directly to his congregation and brings them to Christianity through a method that was uncovered in an Interchurch World Movement survey and is one of thousands of interesting side lights disclosed in its work to bring the Protestant churches into closer co-operation.

'THE GIRL FROM OUTSIDE,' REX BEACHE'S FILM AT STRAND

Rex Beach has again demonstrated his ability as the most consistent writer of great photo dramas now appearing on the screen. His latest picture, "The Girl From Outside," which will be presented today and Saturday at the Strand has won unstinted praise from the National Board of Review. Moreover, this picture has been playing at the big Boston theatre all this week. And playing to capacity houses every day.

Hearts" and Ruth Roland in an exciting chapter of "The Adventures of Ruth" are the other attractions on the program for today.

Mary Miles Minter in "The Intrusion of Isabel" will top a double feature bill for Sunday evening. Like all the Minter productions, it is clean, wholesome and humorous throughout;

A Rex Beach story is a promise of thrills; but Mr. Beach is too fine a craftsman to insert a fight or any other powerful scene unless the telling of the story demands it. "The Girl From Outside" is the kind of story in which thrilling scenes form part of the story. They are natural, are never lurid or overdone, and consequently the picture moves so rapidly throughout its seven reels, that it seems like a two reeler. The plot concerns a girl, who, orphaned on her way to Nome, Alaska, finds herself set down there at a time when riot and vice ran rampant. She falls in with five crooks, who take it on themselves to provide for her. What follows makes up one of the most powerful dramas that the screen has ever seen.

One of the Fox-Sunshine comedies entitled "Roaring Lions and Hungry

a true reflection of the star's sweet self. June Elvidge in "The Social Pirate" will be the other picture for Sunday.

Pauline Frederick and Billie Burke will divide the headline honors on Monday and Tuesday. Mother love and self-sacrifice are the theme of Pauline Frederick's picture, which is entitled "Bonds of Love." Miss Frederick's gowns will appeal particularly to the ladies. She wears a black tailored broadcloth suit with a silver fox stole and a business like tailored hat. Later she changes to a simple afternoon gown of white linen made in old Russian lines. Another gown is of beaded georgette crepe, with a very dainty girdle and a large georgette crepe hat, fairly smothered with ostrich feathers. Each of her costumes is as individual as the personality that wears them.

"Wanted a Husband" is the title of Billie Burke's picture, and as the title would indicate, is of the light comedy type.

On March 11, a complimentary banquet will be tendered the participants of the recent show. Tickets may be obtained by all others who wish to attend, although the supply is limited, as there has been a big sale.

A membership drive has been planned for the week of March 15th, and a live committee, one from each ward, was appointed.

A complete library of the latest works of fiction has been donated, and will soon be installed.

The growth of the post in the last two months has been phenomenal, and it will not be long before 1000 names will be on the post roster.

POOL EXPERTS TO GIVE EXHIBITION

That there was room for a well appointed pool parlor has been proved by the successful opening of Chuck and Ernie's emporium in the Ware market building on Main street, and the devotees of the cues are warm in their praise for the management. Chuck (Charles) Burns and Ernie Gourley are the owners of the new pool parlors. Plans are underway for some exhibition work to be given by some of the best players on the green tables.

A County Library Book Wagon.

A number of states successfully operate book wagons for the circulation of reading material in the rural districts. The American Library Association includes the needs of the rural communities in its Enlarged Program which is the backbone of its "Books for Everybody!" movement. The A. L. A. hopes some day to see book wagons in every state and is pledged to advocate such service.

LIBRARIANS JOIN FIGHT ON UNREST

American Library Association inaugurates Nation-wide "Books for Everybody!" Movement.

WILL AID FOREIGN BORN.

Social Problems Can Be Solved by Teaching American Ideals and Traditions.

The spirit of unrest that has been sweeping the country indicates that the foreign born, who have flocked to the United States from every corner of the globe have not been given the proper help and encouragement, in the opinion of the 4,000 librarians who make up the American Library Association and who are now enlisted in a "Books for Everybody" movement. The effort is a concerted movement to carry out the Enlarged Program which the association has adopted.

There are approximately fifteen millions of foreign born in the United States and of this number six millions do not read or speak the English language. One phase of the Enlarged Program will be to bring the publisher and translator together with the view of furnishing the proper books in sufficient numbers to carry the message of American ideals and traditions to this vast army of uninformed people. They have been largely dependent upon the foreign press for their written messages. Many men who live with their fingers on the pulse of current events are firmly convinced that a sound foundation in Americanism can be easily built among the foreign born if the proper literature is placed within their reach in a language they can understand.

No Drive to Be Held.

In order to carry out the Enlarged Program two million dollars will be required. This money will not be sought through the medium of a campaign or an intensive drive, but will be obtained through the individual efforts of the librarians, library trustees and friends of libraries. The American Library Association will bend every effort to bring about the nation-wide adoption of each of the cardinal points in the Program, which includes the extension of the county library system and the establishment of more industrial and business libraries. It now has in operation book service to the United States Merchant Marine, Coast Guard, Lighthouse Service and hospitals of the United States Public Health Service. The needs of the 75,000 blind persons in the United States will be cared for. At present the number of books available is woefully inadequate. This will be remedied and the joys of good literature will be brought into lives that are darkened by a veil which will never be raised by any other method.

Not all the work of Americanization lies in the great centers of population. Great sections of the country where industry is carried on by foreign workers do not know public library service. There are important mining states where less than a score of libraries exist. One mining state has but two public libraries.

MORE BOOKS FOR BLIND.

American Library Association Behind Movement to Bring Good Literature to Those Who Walk in the Dark.

There are between 75,000 and 80,000 blind people in the United States. The supply of books in the recently adopted uniform Braille type for their use is inadequate, there being less than 100 titles existing in that print. The American Library Association has included in the projects of its Enlarged Program the resolve to aid in printing and distributing additional volumes. It has already succeeded in inducing several well-known authors to finance the brailleing of one or more of their books. In inaugurating its "Books for Everybody!" movement a fund of $2,000,000 will be raised to carry out the provisions of the Program, the money to be obtained not by a campaign or drive, but through the efforts of the librarians, library trustees and friends of libraries.

GOOD BOOKS AT ALL CROSSROADS

American Library Association Urges Adoption of County Library System.

IDEA PROVES SUCCESSFUL.

California, the Pioneer—Other States Adopting the Plan.

The American Library Association, in announcing its "Books for Everybody" movement, which is to be nation wide in its scope, advises and urges the extension of the county library system as a solution of the problem of supplying good literature to the rural districts. Its intention is to persist in advocating the nation-wide adoption of the idea as successfully applied in California, Ohio and Maryland until every one of the 2,961 counties in the nation have adopted the system and regular shipments of good books are being made from the central point in the county to the designated outposts. California stands out as the highpoint in the successful application of the idea. Of the 58 counties in the state 42 have adopted and are supporting the system at a trifling cost. This it urges as a part of its enlarged program which aims to promote a better citizenship and to combat the social and industrial unrest through the teaching of American ideals and traditions to the foreign born.

The book needs of the sixty million or more Americans who live outside of the big cities will be called to the attention of those in a position to serve them.

County Libraries Urged.

The county library system provides for establishing one central library at the county seat or in the largest town in every county. This does not mean necessarily the erecting of a library building and the stocking of its shelves. In many cases the tools already exist. From this central station books will be loaned to designated outpost stations. The books will be delivered by trucks, parcel post or whatever method may be adopted in any given county to the country stores, tollgates, post offices, schoolhouses and private homes. When one shipment has been circulated and returned another will be sent out. Also, in communities of any size in the county, branch libraries will be maintained.

The American Library Association, with its 4,000 active librarian members and its 40 years of practical functioning, is in a position to know the needs of the country and in the fight for wider knowledge is a force to be reckoned with.

The Enlarged Program calls for an expenditure of $2,000,000. There will be no drive or intensive campaign. The money will be raised by the librarians, library trustees and friends of libraries. The movement for better citizens and a well read population is on and the slogan is "Books for Everybody."

"BOOKS FOR EVERYBODY!"

Four Thousand Librarian Members of the American Library Association in Nation-Wide Movement.

Since the advent of peace the American Library Association has turned its efforts from war work into other channels. With the benefit of its forty years of experience and the co-operation of its membership of 4,000 active librarians in all parts of the United States, in addition to continuing certain war activities not taken over by the government, it proposes to promote the development of the library systems throughout the country and to encourage the reading habit in all ways possible. The A. L. A. supplied over 7,000,000 volumes to our fighting men here and overseas and on board vessels. And it has the confidence and the admiration of the nation back of it in inaugurating its "Books for Everybody!" movement. The money to carry out the provisions of the campaign will not be raised through an intensive drive, but will be obtained by the librarians, library trustees and friends of libraries, who have enthusiastically pledged their co-operation in obtaining the necessary $2,000,000.

FOURTH DEGREE KNIGHTS HEAR MESSAGE FROM POPE BENEDICT DELIVERED TO K. C. SECRETARY

Father Gabriel Drouillette, S. J., assembly, Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus, composed of councils along the North Shore held their annual meeting and election of officers at Leo Council, K. of C. headquarters in this city last Sunday. Following are the newly elected officers: Faithful Navigator, Judge Philip A. Kiley of Lynn; Faithful Captain, Dr. M. E. Connors of Newburyport; Faithful Admiral, M. T. Ray of Peabody; Faithful Comptroller, Joseph D. Callahan of Beverly; Faithful Pilot, Joseph Shortell of Salem; Faithful Inside Sentinel, Thomas E. McCauley of Danvers; Faithful Outside Sentinel, J. A. Burns of Gloucester.

The assembly is fortunate in having a man the calibre of Judge Kiley, as leader, and from his work in the past, as a temperance advocate and leader in war work activities in the State, has gained for himself an enviable reputation in the Commonwealth. With Judge Kiley in the chair, one of the most successful meetings in the history of the assembly was held. Committees were appointed to arrange for the coming exemplification of the Fourth Degree to be held in the "Cradle of Liberty," Faneuil hall, Boston, Sunday afternoon, May 23d. Already a large class is assured for this major degree. Leo Council of this city will be represented by a large number on that occasion.

John E. Riley of Newton, who has just returned from overseas, where he was engaged in war work as a K. of C. secretary, delivered a stirring address on K. of C. activities "over there." He was captain and supervisor of K. of C. secretaries throughout France, Italy, Germany and Switzerland. Mr. Riley held the attention of former service men, as he told of the numerous places he visited, and the different divisions with which he came in contact throughout the war zone, being the only American in France, who had the pleasure of meeting the modern "Joan of Arc," whose letters to President Poincaré and General Foch are now matters of history. Her case is now being investigated, and it is only a matter of a short time, when the Vatican will canonize this young girl of 22 years, whose life is now being spent in a convent.

Mr. Riley also received a special papal benediction from Pope Benedict, who entrusted the Newton man with a special message from His Holiness to the American people, thanking them for the wonderful work accomplished by the K. of C. among the forces of France and Italy. The speaker paid a glowing tribute to the American doughboy, and said of the vast thousands of soldiers sent by the United States, he had never known or heard of a single instance, where the American boys had acted other than as gentlemen toward the women of France. His duties took him over a 1700-mile front, and he was selected as one of four men to terminate K.

of C. activities in England and Ireland, and while in those countries had many chances to talk with, and see the different peoples, and in all his travels he heard nothing other than praise and commendation for the assistance rendered by the American people. After the meeting many ex-service men talked with Mr. Riley and renewed acquaintances. Undoubtedly the speaker will again be heard on the same subject in this vicinity.

The next meeting of the assembly will be held in Beverly, April 11. At that meeting applications will be received for the Boston degree. Visiting knights expressed themselves as very well pleased at the lively meeting and interesting speaker furnished for the occasion. After a light collation the meeting was brought to a close.

GIRL SCOUTS WILL PRESENT COMEDY

Girl Scouts of the Universalist church will give a comedy, "Three of a Kind" next Wednesday evening at the fair to be held under the auspices of the Ladies Aid Association.

Viola Eldridge, Dancer

There will be solo dances by Viola Eldridge, Nathalie Lane, Judith Barnes and Elizabeth Hanson. Miss Elizabeth Gourley will sing. Music will be furnished by the Ladies' Orchestra, composed of Miss Helen Lane, Miss Althea Wilson and Miss Ratcliffe. A supper will be served both Wednesday and Thursday evenings from 6 to 8.

PERSONALS

Miss Isabel O'Keefe of the E. H. Porter Co. office returned to work this week after an absence of several weeks on account of illness.

Olive Welch, the six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Welch of Beckett street, is convalescing from a severe attack of pneumonia.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Isaacson, 53 English street, are receiving congratulations on the birth of a boy at their home, Wednesday night, weighing 8 1/2 pounds.

Miss Rena Brown, who was forced to leave her duties in Boston last week, a victim of the grip, has entirely recovered.

ADEQUATE RUNNING-WATER SYSTEM STILL LACKING IN MAJORITY OF COUNTRY HOMES

Dish Washing Is Not Drudgery When Housekeeper Has a Sink Like This.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

There is no one thing that would make easier the farm woman's work than to have water power in the house. The nature of her duties demands an early rising and a late retiring; but the countless steps in carrying water and emptying water; carrying pails and vegetables and unused fruits to the pails for the pigs; carrying many times a day fresh water for the fowls; carrying, heating, emptying tubs for the bath, for the laundry, for the cooking, canning, and preserving, could be lessened if her home had running water in it. Give her water and she can work out the rest of her problems. Her garden, her orchards, her fowls, her dairy, her lawn, fill up hours which city people do not need to use. She will have more time for reading and be less of a drudge if she can but have a perfected system of water-works.

Several years ago the department of agriculture sent out an inquiry to thousands of farm women asking what their homes most needed. One of the letters in reply contained the quoted extract, and in it is voiced the thought found in hundreds of other letters.

An adequate water supply is needed even more by the farm woman than by her city sister, but because this convenience and necessity must come in the country through individual effort rather than municipal, few farm homes have it. In a survey made in 1918 in 26 northern states it was found that but 33 per cent of the farm homes had running water in them. Lack of knowledge as to what water system to install rather than lack of means in many homes is the reason why the women doing the work in it are still pumping and carrying water.

Kinds of Systems.

The water system on the farm home may be simple or elaborate, according to the investment the owner is able to make, United States department of agriculture rural engineers say. For a country-home water system, the water may be raised by natural flow, hydraulic rams, pumps, air lifts or air-displacement pumps. Hydraulic rams are the most economical water-lifting devices. Since rams of various sizes and makes perform differently, it usually is necessary to accept the mechanical details determined by the manufacturer. The minimum, never more than the average, flow of the spring should determine the size of the ram. Otherwise, the one selected may be too large for the dry-weather flow. Small flows may be determined by noting the time required to fill a vessel of known capacity. Larger flows may be determined by weir measurements.

When the water supply is far from the ram site, it is usual to pipe the flow to an open tank or reservoir located so as to secure the desired length and fall of drive pipe. Sometimes the flow of a spring is too small to actuate a ram that is sufficient for domestic requirements. In such instances and where a nearby brook can be dammed to obtain the necessary power head, the recoil of the ram may be employed to admit the spring water, which is pumped by the fall of the brook water in the drive pipe.

Horsepower Needed.

Water may be raised by hand, windmill, hydraulic rams, steam, hot air, gas, internal-combustion engines, or electric motors. Hand power is unsuited to large supplies of high lifts. Windmills are probably the most familiar type of mechanical power and often are arranged to start and stop automatically. Gasoline and oil engines are well adapted to farm pumping and may be equipped to stop at any desired pressure in a supply tank. The use of electricity for pumping is increasing. The method is clean, quiet and convenient, and starting or stopping a distant pump by throwing a switch may be practical wherever transmission lines are sufficiently near.

The whole question of water in the farm home is discussed in Farmers' Bulletin No. 941, which will be sent free on request to the United States department of agriculture.

Here's Proof That Allen's Lung Healer

Prevents Pneumonia

Read Mr. Rhodes' Statement and You Will Realize That Our Claims are Based on Convincing Proof

H. J. Allen, Dear Sir: I have found Allen's Lung Healer very effective in warding off an attack of pneumonia. I contracted a severe cold, which developed so rapidly that by night my lungs were congested and breathing difficult, with a distressed cough, which racked my whole system. I was convinced from the symptoms that I was in for an attack of pneumonia. Having used Allen's Lung Healer before, and having faith in its effectiveness, I decided to use it over night and call a physician in the morning if I was no better. The improvement was so marked by morning that I decided to continue with the Lung Healer, and by night, or within 24 hours after taking the first dose my lungs were practically clear of congestion and inside of a week the cough was gone. I feel positive that the Lung Healer saved me from pneumonia and I am recommending it as every opportunity.

Yours truly,
GEORGE H. RHODES,
14 Marion street, West Lynn.

PERMANANT FIRE CHIEF WOULD AID DEPARTMENT

of having a permanent chief, who will give his whole time to the department, is held obvious.

Wakefield with about the same number of permanent men, pays its chief $1800.

Chief Jesse Barrett, who heads the five engineers, is also Superintendent of the water division. He draws $1800, or will, in the new budget, for the water supervision, and $500 as chief of the fire engineers. He enjoys the reputation of being a clever fire fighter and leader of firemen engaged in battling with flames. Because of his dual capacity he cannot give to the fire department the time it is held required to further advance the efficiency of the department.

It is known that the committee on fire department held a conference recently with Mayor Donnell, and the question of a permanent fire chief was discussed with the possibility that His Honor, the Mayor, may have a communication forthcoming to the Council, looking to a reorganization of the control of the fire department.

Steps are being taken to install a telephone system which will automatically notify the fire engineers of any still alarm without having to wait for the local telephone office to give connections with the homes of the five engineers, as now.

With the Employees of A. C. LAWRENCE LEATHER COMPANY

Miss Carolyn Poor of the Main Office has been confined to her home in Danvers the past two weeks with an attack of scarlet fever, and is reported as doing nicely at present.

Roger Strauss, son of the Paris agent of the plant, gave a very interesting talk before the Rotary club at its weekly meeting last Tuesday. Young Strauss was an officer in the French army, and is also a keen student of international affairs.

Miss Irene Markey of the Main Office had a painful accident while coasting last Monday, and is confined to her home for a few days.

The Friday evening dancing class will conduct another of its successful parties this evening, and a new dance will be taken up.

Michael McVann, formerly of the National, re-entered the employ of the company this week in its main plant beamhouse.

Miss Margaret O'Keefe of the National office is back after a long illness.

Elmer McKeen of the main office leaves the employ of the company a week from tomorrow to take an extended trip over the country, with California as his ultimate destination. Young McKeen, with two companions, plans on seeing America, having had a taste of travel with the A. E. F. and enjoying the education that seeing the world gives.

Among the new pupils in the noon-time class in English being conducted in the chrome tannery by Arthur Ellis is a Czech-Slovak, who has been in this country but one week. He served in the army over there for four years, finding upon returning home that his wife had died and his home had been broken up. He is very much interested in learning English, and is making good progress.

Michael Hennelly is back to work after having being ill for a week.

A daughter, weighing seven and one-half pounds, was born to Thomas Gallagher of the Curry whiteners last Monday at the Salem hospital.

The next monthly foremen's meeting is under the auspices of the Hide department foremen, and will be held on Thursday, March 11. A committee is hard at work on the plans for the meeting, and expect to offer a good program.

John Waldron has been transferred from the Chrome Tan Glove department to the Hide Shaving department.

The sympathies of the mechanical department are extended to Jack Sinclair of M building, who suffered the loss of his mother this week.

John Daley has been transferred from the Book Leather to the Cut-stock department.

A delegation of A. C. L. safety men are expected to attend the State Safety Council's conference at Worcester next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

CRANE STARS FOR STRAND

The Strand theatre basketball team defeated the Father Mathews second team last night by the close score of 15 to 13. The playing of both teams was fast, with Hennessey of the losers featuring, by scoring nine points for his team. Norman Crane and Fennessy featured for the Strand. The score:

STRAND FR. MAT. 2ND.
Crane, r. f. r. f., Griffin
Bent, l. f. l. f., Hennessey

Ask O'Shea To Remain As Trustee

The withdrawal of Mr. O'Shea's resignation will upset Atty. Sheehan's calculations, but that is one of the exigencies of politics where politics are allowed to hold sway.

The press agent's story that Atty. Sheehan was a candidate for the Trusteeship prevented a prominent business man and bank director from allowing his name to be used as a possible successor to Mr. O'Shea entirely on the grounds that he would not be a party to any contest. The Trusteeship calls for a man of business experience, in the opinion of those familiar with the needs of the hospital.

SAD DEATH OF OLIVE GOLDTHWAIT

The passing of Olive Elizabeth Goldthwait, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Goldthwait, of this city, has cast a deep gloom over her hundreds of girl friends, and the deepest sympathy goes out to the stricken parents in the untimely loss of their accomplished daughter.

A leader in her class at the Peabody High school with a perfect record of attendance and high in her studies, she would have been the valedictorian of the graduating class next June. As a dancer she had achieved much commendation, and in many of the recent campaigns for funds, she was found one of the most diligent and successful workers. The suddenness of her death has caused a severe shock to family and friends.

She was to enter Smith college in September to pursue an academic course that would have fitted her for her life's work, presumably that of a teacher. She was a girl of truly sweet characteristics, and amiable, and always radiated sunshine. In any group she was a leader and held in popular regard by her classmates and friends. Her death, ascribed to pulmonary meningitis, followed an illness only from Monday. She was prominent in the Girl Scouts at the Universalist church, which she attended, as usual, on Sunday. She was born July 25, 1902. She is survived by her parents and two brothers, Fred W. of Peabody, and Carl E. of Lynn. The funeral was from her late home this afternoon, at 2.30. There were many handsome floral pieces.

John Andrews, formerly of the finish assorting room, is now working in the Pigskin tannery.

LEGION FIVE AT NAHANT TOMORROW

Tomorrow evening the Legion five will play the postponed game with the T. O. U. Club of Nahant, at City Hall. If this game is anything like the last contest between these teams, it should be a hummer.

Frank Horan will probably play regularly with the Legion five for the remainder of the season in the place of Sam Bernstein, who has joined the Athletics.

Tommy Ray, who has been out of the game for the past three weeks is expected to make up for his inactivity, when he gets back in the game this week. Tim Shea has also been under the weather during the layoff.

The Legion seconds who have been showing so much class lately, deserve some mention. Jim Murphy has developed a snappy outfit from the raw material handed him by Coach Fyfe.

LYNN TEAM BEATS LEGION

Peabody Legion's basketball team was badly walloped by St. Mary's of Lynn last night by a score of 41 to 7. Peabody was outclassed.

Charlie McGhee of the Lynn team is manager of the St. Mary's team, which played here last night.

The score:
Goals from floor, Fogerty, 11; Rea, 2; Collins, 2; Griffin, 3; Magee, O'Brien; B. Shea, 2; Connors. Goals from fouls—Fogerty, T. Shea. Referee—McNiff.

NOT EVEN THANKS

Charles Berry, employed at the Central Fish Market, picked up a pay envelope containing $42 one day this week in the store. Three hours later the owner came in, proved his property and without so much as a thank you, hurried away.

FARMERS' DAY CANCELLED.

Farmers' Day, which was to have been held at the County Agricultural School, Hathorne, on Wednesday, March 10, has been cancelled owing to transportation service.

ATHLETICS TO PLAY AGAINST COLLEGE STARS

Next Tuesday evening the local basketball fans will be able to witness what promises to be the best game yet staged at City Hall, when the strong Watertown K. of C. team lines up against the Peabody Mats. The Watertown team have defeated some of the big clubs in and around Boston and come to Peabody with an enviable record.

In the Watertown lineup will be found the Wright brothers, a pair of fast basketball players, and Shanahan, one of the stars of greater Boston. A large delegation of followers will accompany the K. of C. team to this city.

The Mats, although disappointed last Thursday night on account of no game, have been going through practice regularly, and are fit to go on the floor and give a good exhibition of basketball.

The Mats are out to bid for the championship of Essex county, and are confident that they can defeat the Saltonstalls of Salem, and the Hamilton Legion, when they come to Peabody for return games. The Mats will have their regular lineup including Jim Gilmore, Joe O'Connor, Bill Meade, Tim Shea and Frank Horan.

The second team of the Mats and the Strand theatre team will play between the halves. There will be no advance in the price of admission.

The Weeping Mice.

A friend of mine was engaging a cook lately, and inquired why she had left a certain place. "I couldn't stop there, madam," was the reply. "I don't mind rations, and I believe I'm economical, but in that house they were so saving that the very mice used to run about with tears in their eyes."—London Daily Express.

Offended the Herring.

In the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries Helgoland was a center of the North sea herring fisheries. Then the herring veered back to Scotland's coast and the islanders handed down a tale of the emptiness by which they forfeited the boon. Yearly they would form in procession to march about the island to invoke the coming of the fish. One spring, when they had gone but half the route, the herring were sighted. They abandoned the rite and made for the boats. The herring never came again.—National Geographic Magazine.

SALTONSTALL WINS SECOND

About 500 basketball enthusiasts witnessed a first-class exhibition at City Hall, last Tuesday night, when the Peabody Athletics defeated the strong Saltonstall team of Salem by a score of 28 to 20. The contest was fought hard from start to finish, and was a very clean exhibition, not a single foul being called by Jim McNiff, who refereed.

The game attracted a number of old-time followers, and about 25 ladies were noticed in the balcony, showing that a good clean basketball game can be enjoyed by both sexes.

The East End club is represented by a quintet of players that is the fastest that has represented the city since several years ago, when a professional team played for the Father Mathews at City Hall. The team at that time was made up of some of the best players in the country, two of them coming from New York state. The Athletics are composed of Farmer and Dun, two Gloucester boys; Joyce and Shanahan, two Holy Cross players, and Sammy Bernstein of this city. The second game of the series was played at Salem Thursday evening, resulting in Saltonstall 29 and 16 for the Athletics. The next game will be at City Hall, Monday evening, March 8, where they will play Malden Legion.

WHEREAS, a petition has been presented to said Court to grant a letter of administration on the estate of said deceased to Lyman P. Osborn, of Peabody, in the County of Essex, without giving a surety on his bond.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Newburyport in said County of Essex, on the twenty-second day of March, A. D. 1920, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And the petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Peabody Enterprise, a newspaper published in Peabody, the last publication to be one day, at least, before said Court.

Witness, HARRY R. DOW, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this second day of March, in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty.

Big A. C. L. Trucks Open Lynn and Foster Sts. So People Can Get To Church

South Peabody residents would have been isolated as a result of last Saturday's blizzard, had it not been for the heroic work of four monster trucks of the A. C. L. Lawrence Leather Co., which ploughed open the whole length of Lynn and Foster streets.

The trucks beat their way through the drifts on the highway, not using the hollows of the car tracks, and by the time the four trucks, with their game drivers, reached Peabody square, they had been on the job 26 hours. Lynn street and Foster street were made passable by the big trucks for hundreds of church goers.

The big A. C. L. trucks left Peabody for Boston at 5 o'clock, Saturday morning, while the rain fell in torrents as the forerunner of the blizzard, and at noon time they were ready to start back. Meanwhile the blizzard had done its worst and travelling was like snailing along with the result that the trucks reached Wyoma Square car barns at nearly midnight Saturday. There the forward truck gasped and died in a drift that glued the tires to the ice-bound street.

Percy Robinson, the driver of the first truck, got into communication with Master Mechanic Joel E. Ballentine, and the latter loaded a pung with shovels and picks and a gang of men, and went to the rescue of the snowbound trucks. It required nearly seven hours to traverse the distance from Wyoma car barns to Peabody Square, because the drivers had to shovel their way whole stretches at a time, levelling drifts mountain high and through which the motors could not send the big rubber-tired wheels.

The trucks returning to Peabody were loaded with beef from the Boston packing houses, consigned to Lynn and Salem agents. Some of the meat was destined for Peabody dealers, and it was because the A. C. L. trucks got through Saturday night, that Peabody housekeepers found the local provision dealers able to serve their special roasts, chops and what not on Monday.

It was a great achievement for the A. C. L. Co. and its drivers, any one of whom could "take the message to Garcia," if sent.

LEGION HONORS SHOW MEMBERS

Peabody Legion gave a banquet last night to members of its minstrel show with about 150 in attendance. Harold Dunney was toastmaster and the principal speaker was State Organizer George Wilson, who said there were 120,000 Legion members in this State. Other speakers were Attorney Elmer J. Foley, William Armstrong, Charles M. Boyle, Commander Osborn Palmer, Andrew Pyfe and Leonard Cassidy. Musical numbers were contributed by members of the recent show.

Members of the Woman's Relief Corps of the G. A. R. post will visit the Chelsea Home for Soldiers next week Thursday. The Corps will cater for the firemen's show again this year.

CITY COUNCIL VOTES PENSION FOR POLICEMEN

Peabody's City Council adopted the police pension act of 1903 last night, which provides for the retirement of any disabled policeman on half pay. The motion was introduced by Chairman Sullivan of the finance committee and found instant favor at the hands of the 10 Councillors present at the meeting. Councillor Jones is ill at his home on Mason street.

The adoption of the legislative act paves the way for the city to retire Patrolman Robert Patterson, who recently had his leg amputated, following injuries caused by being run down by a fast-speeding Lynn chauffeur, last November on Lynn street. The officer had signalled the driver to stop because he had no lights showing on his taxi-cab. Instead, the driver ran into the policeman and dragged his body some distance before the machine was stopped. Failure of the bone to knit properly made necessary the amputation last week, and the plucky policeman will leave the Thomas hospital, a cripple. He is 63 years old. The Enterprise, in its issue of last week, urged the City Council to adopt the pension act for the police, citing the case of Officer Patterson, one of the most popular members of the force, and whose duty took him through South Peabody.

Councillor Ryan moved to amend the motion so that firemen and street employees could benefit, but as the act was for police alone, he withdrew his amendment.

O. K. 1920 SALARY BUDGET FOR ALL CITY OFFICIALS; CONFIRM ALL APPOINTEES

Confirmation of all the Mayor's 1920 appointments and adoption of the new 1920 salary lists featured the meeting of the City Council last night. The only outburst of opposition to any appointment came from the lips of one of the Councillors, who has a personal grudge against City Engineer Emerson.

Councillor Giles declared no city official was more deserving of an increase in salary than the City Engineer, and the confirmation was passed, 9 to 2. Councillor Hogan thought that the pay of the City Collector was too high, and he also voiced opposition to the appointment of Alfred A. Hall, as field assessor. The complete list of salaries is advertised today on page 8 of this issue.

Dogs Over-run EastEnd Says Ward 4 Leader

Declaring that the Eastend is over-run by dogs most of which canines are not licensed, Councillor Hogan waxed enthusiastic last night, as he moved that Mayor Donnell be requested to appoint a dog constable with a salary. He said he feared some epidemic might follow if the city did not rid itself of so many stray dogs.

Ask Veterans To Register

Peabody war veterans, who have not yet registered at City Hall on their return from military duty, are urged to do so at once, in order that they may receive banquet tickets to be given by the city on March 22. Only 186 have registered since last June. The banquet will be served in Moose hall and boxing bouts in the big City Hall will be the form of entertainment. "Jack" McCluskey will stage the bouts.

VOTE POLICEMEN SHOWER BATHS

Councillor Brown got through a motion looking to the installing of shower baths for the police department at the Council meeting last night. The committee on public property was given power to make plans.

WARREN NATIONAL BANK

(On the Square for 87 Years.)

With the Employees of A. C. LAWRENCE LEATHER COMPANY

Mrs. Katherine J. Murphy was the fortunate winner of the first prize of $150 in the Limerick contest, now being conducted by the Boston Post, her clever prize-winning last line being published yesterday, together with a picture of Mrs. Murphy. Mrs. Murphy is the wife of Dennis Murphy, foreman in the Sheepskin Department of the A. C. L.

Austin Pease of Danvers entered the employ of the Alum Tan Department of the company this week.

Gordon Curtis of the Book Leather, who was married recently, was the recipient of a purse of gold from his associates at the plant a few days ago. Mr. Curtis is a popular employee, and both he and Mrs. Curtis are well known in Peabody, Danvers and Middleton.

A number of A. C. L. and National men attended the three-day Safety conference at Worcester this week, among them being H. A. Batchelder, Joel E. Ballentine, Harry O. Hunt, Arthur Ellis, John Church, Emmanuel Auen, Edgar L. Paine, William Collins and Arthur Rowe. This conference was conducted by the Massachusetts branch of the National Safety Council, and several new ideas on industrial accident prevention were brought back by the A. C. L. and National delegates.

Michael Donovan of the Curry Department severed his connection with the company this week.

E. K. Newhall of the Sheepskin department, exhibited one of the largest hen's eggs ever seen at the plant, yesterday. The egg measured eight inches around and weighed nearly three and one-half ounces.

The sympathies of the Acloesuede department are extended to Jeremiah Whalen, who lost his wife a few days ago.

William Walsh, of Salem, entered

COMMUNITY HOUSE CLASSES WELL ATTENDED

The boys' department held an inter-club tournament with the Salem Fraternity on Tuesday evening. Two basketball games were played and contests were run off in checkers and shooting. Honors were about even. The Community House Junior basketball team won from the St. James team of Salem, while the Salem All-Stars triumphed over the Senior team. The Community House boys won all games in checkers, while the Salem boys won out easily in the shooting gallery. The Peabody boys go to Salem some time next week to play a return tournament.

Last week in the High school basketball league the Red Tops forfeited to the Rovers, while the Ramblers won their first game from the Lightning Five. The standing is now:

Rovers.....	714
Lightning Five.....	714
Red Tops.....	428
Ramblers.....	143

A cup suitably engraved and inscribed will be awarded the winning team. The new class in drawing held its first session Wednesday evening. This is a class for boys, and the teacher is Miss Helen Hagar. The class is open to any boy who likes to draw, and has some ability.

The class in social dancing will meet as usual, Saturday night. The class last week was postponed on account of the storm.

The class in cooking for women held its first lesson Monday evening. Miss Doris Nelson, a resident of Salem, and instructor in cooking in the Wakefield schools, is the teacher.

The third and last course of 10 lessons in dressmaking begins March 31, at 7 P. M.

The third and last course of 10 lessons in millinery begins March 19, at 7 P. M.

Mrs. Rena L. Miles, a primary teacher at the West school, is ill at her home. She is expected to be able to teach next week.

Rev. Fred D. Gealy was ill Sunday and Monday at his rooms in Boston. He was reported Tuesday as nearly recovered.

John McDonald of Newbury street, frost-bit his face while walking home from Beverly in Saturday's gale. Mr. McDonald has for many weeks walked to and from his work at the United Shoe Machinery Plant.

Monday night's excellent coasting was enjoyed by 30 young people, who gathered at Southwick's Hill, Winona street, from different sections of the neighborhood.

Saturday's snow seemed to sweep clean from the fields and to drift only on the railroads and streets. The only way out of town, aside from sleighs, was the Salem branch, as no passenger trains went over the Newburyport branch from late Saturday to 4:15 Tuesday afternoon. There was no mail service, as the first class bags are carried on the latter branch, only. B. P. Danforth called Saturday's blizzard the most disagreeable he has ever had on the road as R. F. D. carrier.

The Sewing Class, which is receiving lessons as a project under the Essex County Agricultural School, has met on three occasions, in spite of weather difficulties, and will meet at least three times more. The seven members of the class are very enthusiastic, and call the course well worth while. It is limited to such a small group because of the close personal supervision which is given. Visitors have been present several times, and are welcomed, and those caring to observe, will find the class in the sewing room of the West school each Thursday from 12 to 5 o'clock. Miss Gladys E. Stratton, the instructor, together with an assistant, has been teaching drafting from measurements, pattern enlargement, and sewing and fitting of plain articles of clothing. Mrs. T. A. Martin is the local manager of the class.

Miss Evelyn Brown of Middleton was the guest of Mrs. Louis Durkee last week.

A Grange meeting was held Friday evening in spite of bad weather. County Agricultural Agent Gaskill, who was to have given an address, arrived, but was forced to return to Danvers by next train because he was not able to spend the night here. The social portion of the evening was devoted to a candy pull and to games.

At the last preceding meeting of the West Peabody Grange, Mrs. George Fleet, the pianist, was presented with a beautiful piano bench, as a token of the society's gratitude to her for her faithful and generous service.

Mrs. John McDonald returned Monday from a week at Wollaston.

Miss Carrie F. Welch died in Danvers last Saturday. She will be remembered by many, as their former teacher at the West school.

Prize Stories Written By Peabody High School Pupils

Two interesting and well written articles mark the resumption this week of the prize story contest offered by the Enterprise for Peabody High School students. The first prize of $2 goes to Katherine Underwood, member of the senior class, whose theme is "The Lincoln Highway," and the second prize of $1 is awarded to Robert E. Hayes, a sophomore, whose article on athletics in Peabody High is both timely and well set forth. Miss Underwood is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Underwood of Emerson street. Robert Hayes is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick C. Hayes of 73 Wallis street.

The prize stories:

THE LINCOLN MEMORIAL

(By Katherine Underwood, 1920.)

A highway across the nation! It seems almost impossible, and yet it has been accomplished, after about five years of labor. Today there stands a road of the best and most enduring construction known—memorial to Abraham Lincoln, whose memory will never die.

The financing of this great project was done by the Lincoln Highway Association, and the states through which it passes, Ohio alone having spent over $900,000. The road is made of different materials, but all are chosen for their durability.

In Ohio there are 66 miles of concrete construction, and in Iowa the route is hard-surfaced construction, with an almost uniform width of 30 feet. In many of the Western states a large amount of grading, leveling, widening and straightening of the route was necessary, thereby increasing the cost of construction.

The importance of a good road between the extremities of our country is very great. It encourages automobilists, who bring about social and commercial intercourse and the exchange of ideas. All this tends to a fuller development of the country. Besides the importance of this national highway in times of peace, consider its importance in times of war. Troops, guns, military supplies could be transported across the country on a good road in one-half the time that it would take on a road in bad condition. There would be no halts because of washouts, sand or ruts, but always a clear road ahead.

Because of the formation of the Lincoln Highway Association, and the general encouragement for better roads, other public organizations have been formed. Many of these have built, and are building, roads which either lie parallel to, or connect with, the Lincoln highway, and eventually the country will be covered by a net work of good and lasting roads. BLOUSE IN FAVOR

Garment Retains Popularity With Majority of Women.

Vast Array of Materials Including Silks, Laces, Velvet, Metallic Cloth, Chiffon, Crepe.

Much interest is shown in blouses, and never were there more varied and delectable models displayed than those now on view.

Probably this is partly due to the advent of the chemise blouse, Russian blouse, smock, whatever one chooses to call the blouse falling outside the skirt.

These garments to be worn outside the skirt seem to have reacted upon the regulation models, to be tucked inside the skirt, and both are alluring enough to tempt women into extravagant buying.

The vogue of the separate skirt, a by-product of the popularity of the chemise or chemise blouse, works round in a circle to complement the enthusiasm over the blouse; and so it goes.

There is no end to the different materials used for these blouses—silks, laces, velvet, metallic cloth, chiffon, crepe. Often one sees a blouse of velvet or crepe drawn into a deep girdle of Chinese or Japanese embroidery or metallic cloth.

Another charming blouse is a long model of black Satin velvet, opening over a blue and silver waistcoat. The neck is high and fastens with several buttons to the upper part of the opening. There is a girdle of silver inset with imitation sapphires. There are two flounces of the black velvet.

One of the new French designs recently displayed was a straight chemise blouse of bright blue Jersey printed in violet and black. There was a narrow jet girdle, and the edges of the garment were outlined with narrow black silk fringe.

A blouse which would answer admirably for evening wear is of white crepe over green silk. The bodice is made in surplice effect, the right side crossing over to the left, where it is caught by a large flower at the waistline. A hip extender is placed at the sides of the bodice where the silk is joined to a deep band of silver lace which encircles the lower part of the blouse. Silver lace also forms the short sleeves and fills in the V at back and front.

Equally charming is a blouse of pale pink silk. The silk forms the bodice and short sleeves which are cut in one. To the lower part of the bodice are attached two flounces of silver lace—falling in form of cascade at the left side.

TWO PLATOON SYSTEM CONVERT FIREMEN INTO HUMAN BEINGS

Introduction of the two-platoon system in Peabody's fire department has had about the same degree of efficiency added, as the exchange of the horse for the motor-driven apparatus, and the central fire station today is on a par with any fire headquarters these days, outside of the Hub of the Universe.

Doing away with the dog watches of 24 hours a day for five straight days has already had its effect upon the older permanent firemen, and the young blood that has jumped into the

The destiny of the business section rests in the hands of these paid firemen.

The firemen maintain a watch of two hours on the floor, each doing guard duty to answer telephone calls for still alarms and otherwise be alert for quick action. Off duty the four or five men are generally upstairs, learning the art of bridge, auction pitch or rehearsing some chorus from the latest opera. And speaking of music, the men have pitched in and bought a grafanola, which is ex-regular service, is exuberant with pep. Things are different at fire headquarters these days, and it all goes back to the recent change to the two-platoon system.

Eleven doughty firemen wait the twice daily roll call that will probably be inaugurated some day with six on one watch and five on the other. There is no going home for dinner, and the 10-hour day finds each man bringing his noon-day or midnight lunch.

The first division is headed by Capt. “Bill” Brown, and “Con” Duggan, the intrepid firemen, who joined the regular force, a couple of years back.

The remaining four men are world war veterans, and they include Charlie Lawrence, Arthur Flynn, Ray Skinner and Fred Sherry. The second watch is in charge of driver Dan Hannon with Jimmie Carr, Charlie Fox, Chester Carlin and Timothy Roche, the last two, also war veterans.

pected to arrive just as soon as express transportation gets its breath from the last blizzard.

The musical voice and pleasant smile of Bill Morgan is gone from the Central station, and no longer are tales of how we captured Matanzas, Cuba, heard from the lips of Dick Emerson. He, too, is missed from fire headquarters. Morgan is sharing the honors at Hose 3, with Free Bodge, and Dick, who sports the handsomest moustache in the whole department, puts in his vigil at Hose 4, with the veteran driver, John Costello.

Fire apparatus shines like a new silver bell, and even the horses at headquarters have perked up, as if determined to show the motorkit adherents, that horses' hoofs are still the best music that charms the populace, when the fire gong announces them in action. Yes, things are different at headquarters. The firemen are at last human beings again.

BEAL'S SHIP SPRINGS LEAK

The many friends of Lindsay Beal, son of Rev. Dr. Beal of St. Paul's church, will be glad to know the correct facts of his narrow escape. The United Fruit Co.'s Steamship Plainfield, of which he is Chief Purser, sprung a leak 500 miles off the coast of Florida, during the great blizzard, and was obliged to wireless for aid. The revenue cutter Algonquin stood by while temporary repairs were made.

The Plainfield then made Jacksonville under her own steam, where she will be put in shape to steam to Boston for dry dock.

Putting an Egg in a Bottle.

An egg may be put into a bottle which has a mouth much smaller than the egg, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. First soak the egg in vinegar until the shell becomes soft and pliable. It will then be easy to force the egg into the bottle. Pour cold water into the bottle and allow it to remain until the shell becomes hard again. The bottle can then be shown to friends, who are certain to be greatly mystified by the sight of an egg in such a place.

HIBERNIANS SURE TO PLEASE HOUSE IN IRISH DRAMA

Judging from the advance sale of tickets for the Irish Drama, “Captain Jack” or “The Irish Outlaw,” which Division 11, A. O. H., will stage on St. Patrick's night, City Hall will be taxed to its capacity, and the committee in charge feel confident that the audience will thoroughly enjoy the performance.

City Councillor Richard Horrigan, who comes to Ireland in command of His Majesty's soldiers to hunt an Irish rebel, finds true love in an Irish Colleen, and is well satisfied with his bargain. Henry F. Duggan, as Captain Jack, makes love to the Squire's daughter, although her father is his deadly enemy, and with the aid of his paid informer, Teddy Burke, is hunting up evidence to convict him as the rebel leader, and when the same is secured, and he thinks he has Captain Jack in his power, Barney, (Frank Sonigan), finds a way for his master to escape.

John J. O'Brien takes the part of the Squire and Edward J. Sullivan, that of his paid informer, Teddy Burke.

Dancing will be in order in A. O. H. hall, after the show. Music in the upper hall will be furnished by the Waverly Orchestra, and Irish bag pipes will be the feature of the evening for Irish dancing in the lower hall.

Tickets will be exchanged at A. O. H. hall between 2 and 7 P. M., tomorrow.

LET'S HAVE ACTION

Building of Junior High school in this city is to be considered another step in municipal progress, and calls for an expenditure of money that will make Peabody a handsome return for its investment. The proposed new building which will take care of the upper grades in the grammar schools is necessary to keep pace with the growth in population, and to give an adequate housing for the public school children. The Junior High has the endorsement of the earnest educators in the country. It is not an experiment, but a tried proposition that has increased the efficiency of the public school system, wherever it has been instituted. It is going to cost some money, but by a bond issue allowed under the terms of the special act of the Legislature, it is not going to be a burden on the present taxpayers. The cramped condition of Peabody High school, as it is today, is a disgrace and a condition that no self-respecting community can afford to tolerate. Action looking to the building of the proposed new school cannot come too soon to suit a big majority of the citizens.

THE NEED FOR RELIGION

Last Sunday was designated by the Protestant churches all over the nation as Go-to-church Sunday. This is in itself a recognition that the average Protestant family is not a church-going family. It seems too bad that this condition should exist, especially today, when the need for religion is as great or greater than at any period in our history. We need religion in our everyday dealings with our fellow man; we need it in the conduct of our industries; we need it in some of our trade unions, that they, in their eagerness to better themselves, may not do harm to a great many more people than they benefit. It is absolutely essential that we apply the golden rule a great deal more than we do now. We do not for an instant mean that church attendance is enough. It will only bring to our attention more frequently the ideals for which we should strive. Unless we put into practice the teaching that the church is based upon, we are no better for having attended. The reasons for the gradual but steady falling off in attendance at the Protestant churches are many, but not so strong but what they should be overcome. Unless the average family, the backbone of the nation, has the church-going habit, the future of the nation is none too secure. It is encouraging to note that since the armistice was signed, and the A. E. F. boys got back, that the churches, as well as most fraternal organizations, have received new members in large numbers, as well as those other organizations, as are teaching brotherhood, unselfishness and service. To those who have gotten out of the habit of church-going, we urge the necessity at the present time of again forming the habit for the good of the community and the nation, as well as yourselves.

CITY POLITICS

City politics are simmering. There are good reasons for this condition for Mayor Donnell states he will relinquish the reins of his office as Mayor soon, perhaps sooner. Should he do so before July 1st, it will mean an election. After July 1st the President of the Council takes the position until the end of the year. When the budget is passed, the main business of this year will have been completed. As District Attorney the Mayor has his time well occupied. Naturally there are several candidates in the field for the position to be vacated. We will not mention the names for the reason they are handed to us by hearsay, which might mean the parties mentioned do not wish their names used. But it is evident there will be a contest for the nomination which will create considerable interest to say the least. It is our belief that it is most important and essential to the welfare of our city to select a man who will play at least 75 per cent. welfare and less than 25 per cent. politics, in the executive chair. This may seem impossible to a politician and even to those who are familiar with the workings of a city government. Should it happen, it might seem too good to be true. If the time has arrived when a Mayor cannot play welfare, our city or any city, is indeed in a bad way. We have in mind several cities run on the political principles wholly, and not one citizen of Peabody would like to see our city in the same predicament. So we appeal to all citizens to come out and vote, and deliver that vote to the ballot box with welfare stamped on the names selected. To those who pay only a poll tax it matters little. To those who own their homes, and by so doing help to pay the taxes, this election is of great importance. Politicians will be on the job; they are always on the job, but only a few are led by them, and that few cannot muster a majority. Peabody, a baby city, should continue the road to welfare, and not take the other road to extravagance and misgovernment.

influence has been of especial value to the West, where formerly there had never been state roads.

The tourist following the road across the continent, passing through the states of California, Utah, Wyoming, Iowa, Nebraska, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York, can not but think of many incidents connected with the life of President Lincoln, as boy and man.

He spent part of his boyhood girls in Indiana. His father obtained a tract of land in that state, country then, but sparsely settled, and here he helped to build their one-room log cabin. Here also his beloved mother, Nancy Hanks Lincoln, whose memory Lincoln always revered, died, overcome by hardship.

In Ohio, too, he spent some years as a ferryman on the Ohio river, where he first came in contact with the real world, rough as it was.

Illinois was very prominent in Lincoln's political and legal career. He was four times elected to the Legislature of that state, and was first licensed to practice law there.

Many cities and towns, every state in the Union, have erected memorials to Lincoln, but what could be more fitting as a national remembrance, than a highway embracing our great land from sea to sea? What more symbolic of Lincoln's life, the life of a man who, although he lived in times of secession and unrest, and although he did not avoid war, when he felt it was necessary, strove in every way for the peace and union of his country.

Thus the highway, built, as it is, of lasting material, embodies two great principles of Lincoln's life: Service to the people and the union of the nation.

ATHLETICS AT PEABODY HIGH

(By Robert Hayes, 1922.)

Are athletics at Peabody High simply going to remain at the standard they have always kept, or are they going to materialize into something better? This is the question in the minds of Peabody High students, and in the minds of many citizens interested in athletics. At the present time this question is an important one. There is talk of a stadium, a Junior High school, and a professional coach, who would be supervisor of athletics.

Both the boys and girls of Peabody High are unanimous in their opinion, that these accommodations are needed. It would stir up interest in studies, as well as in sports. Pupils would think twice before leaving school of their own accord. Restrictions could be made, so that no pupil could partake of the enjoyments resulting from these accommodations, unless he was passing in studies. But these things will cost money and perhaps our future mayor will want to keep down the tax rate. Let's hope, however, that the future mayor will think more of beautifying the city and keeping the school children content, than of keeping down the tax rate.

Graduates of the Peabody High school, merchants and manufacturers, along with other public-spirited citizens, should put their shoulder to this movement and place Peabody on a level with other cities. If these projects could be put through, not only the pupils, but also the city, would draw crowds to Peabody, and the stadium would repay every cent expended on it.

If a Junior High school was built, there would, necessarily, be a gymnasium in it. Then there would be basketball games between the classes, and a team would be formed representing Peabody High. These games would bring in money, as basketball is getting more and more popular as the years progress. Outside teams could play there also. Teams, as the Athletics, the Father Mathews' C. T. A. Society, the American Legion, and other teams who are now playing in City Hall, would gladly take the opportunity of playing in a regular gymnasium, where the best equipment for the game could be procured.

With such strong arguments, won't every citizen, at least on second, sober thought, agree that we should have a Junior High school and a stadium.

ROUND ABOUT

Congressman Phelan has sent the Enterprise a pouch of government seeds, which will be given to any of our readers who call for them. No seed will be given to children.

One of my readers declares Lowell street residents would relish a tennis court kept in condition at the J. B. Thomas hospital, and this particular reader says he would be willing to pay a fee for the occasional use of the court. He thinks that other residents near the hospital would be glad to contribute something, also for the use of the court. A tennis court in action would afford some pleasure and entertainment to patients whose condition would permit them to view the matches. The hospital once had the court, but it was allowed to grass.

I am told that Miss Althea Wilson, private secretary to District Attorney Donnell, has made a host of friends among the attaches of the County Courthouse at Salem, entirely through her affable and courteous treatment accorded everyone who has any business with the office. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Murray Wilson, and is an accomplished violinist.

Earl W. Weaver, who, with John J. Gallagher, edits the A. C. L. magazine, that has now reached a monthly circulation of 6000 copies, is a glutton for work. The W in his name stands for w-o-r-k anyway, so I am told, but be that as it may, the fact remains that Weaver is a human dynamo, when it comes to keeping busy. He is called on to fill many different positions at the big A. C. L. plant, and I am told that, no matter how pushed, he is always willing to jump into any emergency and deliver. Weaver used to be up at the Waters River plant, but was recently transferred down to the Main office.

Manager Hardy of the Bay State bested the blizzard of last Saturday by clever manipulation, and while some time was necessary to combat the drifts, he managed to keep the Peabody-Salem line open for travel. It was a difficult feat, but he accomplished it, and many Peabody patrons were benefited.

Cards have been received, announcing the arrival in California of Mrs. Caroline Hamblet, owner of the Hamblet Hardware store, in this city. She plans to return home some time in April.

A sleek black cat, apparently a household pet, has joined the Enterprise staff. "Nig," a name the feline responds to, arrived on the day of the blizzard, last Saturday, and since then has made himself right to home.

I observe that Lyman P. Osborn, President of the Warren National bank, is to give an address before the Historical Society, next Tuesday evening on the history of banking in Peabody. Under his direction the local bank has made rapid strides in progress during the past six years.

There are many former Center school pupils, who will always cherish the name of Miss Carrie Welch, a former teacher, who answered the final roll call at her home in Danvers some days ago. For 34 years she was a teacher in the Center school, giving her best effort to instruct her classes in the elementary studies that fitted boys and girls to become useful and honorable citizens of Peabody.

Daniel C. Manning, former assistant district attorney of Essex county, is meeting with fine success in the investment field, so I am told, and is glad to be out of politics. I am told that an effort is being made to get him to allow his name to be used as Mayorality candidate this year. His friends would like nothing better than to see him enter the field. During the campaign for district attorney, Attorney Manning declared he would not be a candidate for Mayor of Peabody, as proof of his loyalty to former District Attorney Wells. No one acquainted with "Dan" Manning questions his spirit of loyalty. His friends hope he will listen to their pleas to have him run for Mayor, and with the county fight a thing of the past, he can consistently change his mind, say his supporters.

A WOMAN'S OWN WASHER

at some time washed out a valued article of clothing or lace that she feared to trust to another's hands. Every woman has learned that the ideal way to cleanse valuable laces and delicate garments is by dipping them up and down in warm, soapy water, squeezing the suds through the fabric, rinsing, wringing and hanging to dry. By this process she was sure of two results—first, that all dirt would be flushed out of each piece and that it would come out clean; second, that the gentle dipping would not harm the delicate threads.

"DERE MABLE" AT TREMONT

Next Monday at the Tremont theatre, Boston, Marc Klaw will present his big musical attraction, "Dere Mable." In a season which has brought so many brilliant musical attractions this announcement will come as most pleasing news because advance reports have proclaimed that this attraction ranks in quality with the best of the season's offerings. The hallmark of Marc Klaw is sufficient recommendation of this fact, and the further instance of its presentation at the popular Tremont theatre substantiates the degree of its quality.

"Dere Mable" has been suggested in characters by the famous letters of Edward Streeter, who made of his hero, "Bill," one of the best loved of comic personages. This was gained through his letters to his sweetheart, whom he has affectionately termed in his bad spelling, Dere Mable. The plot of the present piece concerns Bill's adventures once he has returned home, fresh from his triumphs as a decorated war hero. His honors were easily and pleasantly borne while in the service, but it is a different story when he lands home.

The part of Bill is taken by Louis Bennison, a young comedian of quick rise to fame in his craft, who first burst upon Broadway with consequent enthusiastic acclaim in "Johnny Get Your Gun," and who has since starred in many photoplay successes. He is said to have contributed in this character a gem of comedy. Sam Ash, the young singer reputed to have the best tenor voice on the comedy stage, and to be an excellent comedian, as well, will also be seen in the cast. The beautiful Norma Brown will bestow her breezy and charming personality on Mable.

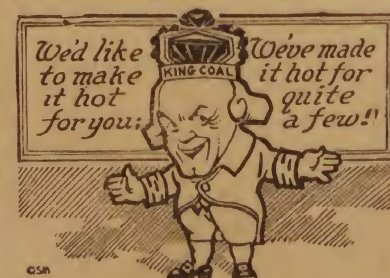

The engagement is limited to three weeks only. The usual Wednesday and Saturday matinees will be given, and mail orders will be carefully filled.

Rotarians Plan Stunts For Big Tri-City Meet

Willard Lansing, Vice President of the international Rotary clubs, will be the principal speaker at the Tri-City meeting of Lynn, Salem and Peabody Rotarians in this city next Tuesday. The dinner will be held in Odd Fellows hall, with a banquet served by Percy Hicks, the caterer, and brother Rotarian of Lynn. The visiting Rotarians will be the guests of the Peabody Rotary club and President Edward H. Merrill has outlined an entertainment, which will feature the get-together meeting.

"Les" Porter is chairman of the entertainment committee. He has acquired a quartet of sterling voices composed of Deke Sanger, Bill Dodge, Roger Smith and Jim Ingraham, with Harry Dadmun, ex-Harvard varsity football captain, in the role of pianist. It is reported that Les Porter will do the black face makeup, if there is need of any further pep being put into the program of amusement for the dinner.

Pat Woods may make his debut in the musical world preparatory for his campaign for the next Mayor by emulating Caruso in his pet song, "I Want a Girl Like the One, Who Married Dad." Jack Ames, who helps to enliven breakfast crowds at Billy Shea's, may make his first platform speech on "What We Should Do to Help Along the Peabody Playground Movement This Year."

Bill Fay, exponent of jurisprudence, may tell the gathering how a Democrat can elect a Republican District Attorney for dear old Essex. John Fitzgerald, recently back from Germany, may divulge some inside dope on what ailed Willie Fritz, who at last accounts, was sawing timber in a Holland haunt. Mark Kelley and George Barnaby (closed corporation) may give a dissertation on the need of more sidewalks in Peabody, and if none of these numbers brings down the house, Lou Osborne may be called on to tell how the war could have been won three months before it was.

The Peabody Rotarians are laying themselves out to do full honors to their visiting brothers, and there'll be plenty of fun and good fellowship.

At its meeting this week the Peabody Rotary club voted to hire Masonic banquet hall for its regular Tuesday dinners, and will meet there on March 23.

Dr. L. K. Kelley and Ralph E. Thomas are to represent the Peabody Rotary club at the Rotary club convention in Springfield on March 30 and 31, and a number of other members may take in the big time.

MOOSE FAIR WILL YIELD NEAR $2000

Peabody Moose lodge will give a banquet next Tuesday evening to the members and ladies who assisted in making the recent fair a big success. The banquet will be at 8 o'clock. The net proceeds of the fair will reach $2000, to be turned into the treasury of the lodge. John Thomas was chairman of the hustling committee. The yield from the fair this year, which was run entirely by the lodge members, was almost $1000 more than that under the paid promoters of other years.

nate Leonard Wood of Massachusetts at the Republican national convention, and a Kansas delegate will second the nomination. Except for the first three months of his life, Wood has been a legal resident of Massachusetts, and he is an honorary citizen of Kansas by act of the Legislature of that state.

"My advice to them (the women), is that they go into one of the regular parties, whichever one they believe in, and go on equal terms with the men. Do not split up into little rainbow groups.

WOOD LOOKS LIKE WINNER

Some people object to Leonard Wood as the Republican nominee, because he is a general in the United States army. George Washington was a general; McKinley was a major; Roosevelt was a colonel; Grant was a general, etc.

Leonard Wood is a graduate of the Harvard medical school, and never attended the West Point Military Academy. He was a medical officer in the army until the Spanish War, when he was transferred to the line and was appointed colonel of the First U. S. volunteer cavalry (Rough Riders.)

"We want an America that is ready to help a world in trouble, but it must be an American, working and acting under the dictates of her own conscience, and under the mandate, and none other, of American public opinion."—Leonard Wood.

Leather Trade Admits Raw Stock Price Lower

(By Energy)

In conversation with several members of the leather trade recently, it appears to them that a few weeks will reveal in what shape the industry is for good or bad. Raw stock has dropped off amazingly in the last few weeks. Calfskins, which were held for 80 cents a pound, sold for 50 cents. The quality of these skins may have been off, but such a decline means something. It means a weakness which is liable to affect the whole leather situation. The selling price of the skins in question is high, as compared with normal times. It means such skins sell for over $4 each, when they have formerly been purchased for $1. But when an avalanche starts, it generally goes to the bottom of its destination.

I cannot see a comparison of leather to land slides, but pessimism is a disease which grows faster than optimism, and it is surely spreading in the leather trade. Far be it for me to try to solve or penetrate the conditions. There are so many things that should be considered, from a political, economic and general condition standpoint, that no one can prophesy only to the extent of guessing. There is no such thing as a healthy state today. The league of nations, from all I can gather, are as much at sea, as are the individual governments and their people. Unrest may be waning, but it is a slow process. And being a slow process, it is no doubt a healthy one. Father Time has been the real doctor of such ails since Adam and Eve's time. He will still continue, and while he may stub his toe, it is out of his line.

A study of conditions since the war ended, will show that improvement has been made in the fundamental things which keep the world moving. Just so long as it keeps in this direction we need not worry. Money has been one of the largest factors in the mending of the world's war ravages. With the big money interests of the United States working to solve the problem, I think we can safely assume that credit on a proper basis means much to our leather industry. We must have an outlet for our shoes and leather, and I believe we will be doing business with Europe much sooner than many anticipate.

They tell us of leather being manufactured in England and Germany, and some of it coming to this country. But remember there were several hundred thousands of men taken from the leather industry to fight. A large army of them have not returned, and many that have, are incapacitated from further work. Germany may have plenty of materials to manufacture leather. It would not be unreasonable to say that they do not possess all that are necessary for the business. Father Time comes in again. So it will take many, many months before either of these countries will be back to their normal output of leather. Meanwhile, we are equipped to do the trick, and do it we will.

Another new building has been added to the A. C. Lawrence plant. When the carpenter's shop bid good bye to its surroundings, it must have felt like an Indian in the presence of royalty. It had some company, I admit, but the office building and many others are in another class. So each year this corporation keeps adding and bettering their real estate, which means everything to Peabody. When Spring gets here, which must be soon, the new storehouse at the National will grow like a mushroom and soon count as one of the up-to-date structures in the leather game. Storehouse does not seem to be the proper name for the best structure in a large plant, but I did not name it.

One trade magazine no longer calls the market a seller's market. For at least two years, shoe manufacturers have begged for leather. No matter the price, but give me the leather, has been the cry during this period. Today, salesmanship must be shown, to get results. The old trick of dating bills ahead has been revived, which can only mean a weakness. Loaded with high cost leather will worry the whole leather trade. It is evident all have been doing all their capacity would admit, and the leather in process stands them prices that are three times those of normal times. Will they get out or face big losses?

As I said above, those who have given the situation much thought, believe the answer lies in the solution of the foreign trade. Shoe salesmen who have taken the road early and are called "early birds" have not met with big success in selling their shoes. It is pointed out that this is not a barometer of what the trade will be. Naturally the shoe retailer, knowing conditions, will not place orders with such an uncertainty of prices. Therefore, he, with the shoe manufacturer, is playing a waiting game. Congress has made a move to investigate prices of shoes. It may make interesting reading.

The Wonders of America

By T. T. MAXEY

THE MOST POWERFUL LOCOMOTIVES.

At the time of their completion, the locomotives used for hauling the long, heavy coal and other trains over the steep railroad grades in the mountains of Virginia were the most powerful in the world.

The enormous size, weight and power of these leviathans of the rail are positively astounding. Each engine (and tender) weighs almost 900,000 pounds, is considerably more than 100 feet in length, has 20 driving wheels, is fired by machinery, exerts a straightaway pull of 178,000 pounds and, 'tis said, will haul any load that the coupling pin will hold.

The boilers of these giants on wheels are about 9 1/2 feet in diameter. Each boiler contains 381 two and a quarter-inch tubes, which, placed end to end, would reach almost two miles; also seventy 5 1/2-inch flues, having a total length of more than a quarter of a mile. The fire boxes are 15 feet long and 9 feet wide.

The shipment of these large locomotives from the point of construction to the point of service presented an unusually peculiar and difficult problem requiring great care and attention, for the reason that the tracks and bridges of the various railroads over which they had to move were not, in all cases, built to withstand such tremendous weights. They were shipped in a partially knocked-down condition and approximately two weeks were required to move them from Schenectady, N. Y., to Princeton, W. Va. Three cars were necessary to carry the loose and detached parts belonging to each locomotive.

MARY PICKFORD IN 'HOODLUM' STRAND FEATURE NEXT WEEK

Playing the fascinating role of a London music hall dancer, who finds romance in the heart of India, the superb Nazimova will appear at the Strand today and Saturday in the star's newest screen vehicle "Stronger Than Death." Advance accounts of this production describe it as the most ambitious yet done by Nazimova. "Stronger Than Death" was adapted from the widely read novel by I. A. Wylie. It recounts the adventures of Sigrid, the dancer, and the man tion Block." John Barrymore in "Here Comes the Bride" will also be shown Sunday evening.

A period of poverty is the best tonic in the world for the over-wealthy, who are afflicted with gout and bad dispositions. This is the lesson learned by Mary Pickford, as Amy Burke in the production "The Hoodlum," the second of her pictures from her own studio, which will be presented at the Strand on Monday and Tuesday.

However, Amy Burke does not come by this impression through experience among the poor and hearsay about the rich. In a series of ludicrous events she is voluntarily taken from a mansion, where powder puffs, silk lingerie, French heels and the marcel hair wave are all the rage and dropped into the grime of a tenement street. Her father, a sociological writer, whose life demands that he absorb the environment of the poor, and her grandfather, whose trend of life vibrates between a love for heavy dough and his devotion to Amy, are the circumstances which give Miss Pickford the opportunity of her career to demonstrate an assortment of comedy versatility in advance of anything she has ever achieved.

This marks the first time "The Hoodlum" has been offered to the public at popular prices, it having played at the Tremont Temple in Boston for weeks at a dollar top.

Mary Pickford in "The Hoodlum"

she adores—the hermit doctor of Gaya. He is a physician who devotes his time to fighting a cholera epidemic among the natives.

Nazimova's biggest scene, is her dance on the steps of the temple, a weird dance in the moonlight, which strikes terror to the hearts of the blacks, and causes them to delay their uprising until the British garrison comes to the rescue of the civilian community of Gaya. In the splendid supporting cast are Charles Bryant, Herbert Prior and Millie Davenport. In the many turbulent scenes of massed action several hundred persons take part.

"The Star Boarder," one of Mack Sennett's inimitable comedies, starring Louise Fazenda, and Ruth Roland in the Adventures of Ruth" will be the other attractions on the big program the Strand offers for today and Saturday.

Ruby De Remer, the well known stage beauty, will be presented in "Dust of Desire," as the main attraction for Sunday evening. Miss De Remer will be remembered as the star of Rex Beach's picture "The Auc-

But Sleeves Were Handy. Handkerchiefs were unknown before the early part of the sixteenth century.

MAKE HANDBAG YOURSELF

Black Velvet or an Old Piece of Seal-skin, With Beads, Used to Advantage.

Some bags look exactly right with one costume, or perhaps with two, but it's a big task to choose a bag which will strike the right note for every costume.

Such a bag may be made at home with little difficulty. Black velvet, or, if one is lucky enough to have an old seal-skin cap or collar; seal-skin can be shaped into an odd, sensuous bag. Jet beads on silk foundation may be applied on the seal or velvet in two bands. A tassel of the same beads finishes the lower part of the bag, while four chains of jet beads brought together with a small ring from which they lead to a larger wrist band, conclude the bag. An ordinary ring may be bought at any shop and bound with silk, covered with beads, to form this wrist band.—Betty Brown.

A Cough on the Lungs
CANNOT BE CURED BY COUGH SYRUPS OR BALMS

You have wondered why the cough remedy that has always helped you had no effect this time. Simply this, your present cough is on your lungs, out of reach of such remedies. Ordinary a remedy that helps a cough in the throat has no effect on the lungs. Why? Because its action is local and it does not come in contact with the lungs.

Allen's Lung Healer

Cures the lung cough because its specific action is on the lungs. Its action is entirely different from all other remedies. It first impregnates the blood, which carries it to every part of the lungs, healing, invigorating and restoring them to a healthy condition. It builds up the tissues and fortifies them against disease. Restores lost appetite and strengthens the body. It is purely vegetable, being composed entirely of oils and extracts from trees and plants. Contains no narcotics or dope of any kind. Sold on a guarantee of satisfaction or money back.

Sold in Peabody by H. J. Push-

High School Notes

Frank O'Keefe of the senior class has been elected captain of the baseball team for 1920. It is well known that he has made a record for himself and Peabody High by playing half back on the football squad. He will undoubtedly fulfill his new position to the utmost of his ability. He is one of the many players which Peabody High loses this year by graduation.

Mrs. Buckley substituted for Miss Ursula Bailey on Monday, as she was unable to get down from Topsfield.

The senior class has lost one of its most brilliant honor pupils through the recent and sad death of Olive Goldthwait. Miss Goldthwait would have had the honor of being valedictorian of her class, and is deeply missed by many of her classmates.

All of the teachers have returned to their duties, and matters are running smoothly once more. The list of absences has also decreased notably among the students.

Harry Silverman has returned to school after a short absence.
Miss Helen Johnson of '19 was a visitor at school on Tuesday.

The Misses Moriarity reached school from Danvers on Monday by hiring a sleigh to bring them down.

Miss Paulman deplores the fact that her Roman History class is affected more than any other class by absence of pupils.

Miss Masterson, teacher of French, recently visited friends in Jamaica Plains, during vacation.

Miss Alice Mulcahy of the senior class attended the theatre in Boston, Wednesday with her brother, James, where they saw Elsie Janis and her gang in her Review.

Miss Francis Merrick of the junior class spent Monday and Tuesday, as the guests of Miss Louise Burbeck, also of the junior division.

The Peabody High school paper
"Pep," to be issued by the junior class, is coming along rapidly and will soon make its first appearance. It is to sell for 15 cents a copy. The pupils should be sure to secure their copies early, as there will be a limited number, and already there are signs that they will sell fast.

Miss Catherine Ellis of '19 had as her guests at Sargent college, recently, the Misses Alice Mulcahy, Ethel-wyn Meagher and Alis Sinclair.

Superintendent Robinson visited school on Monday.

Miss Louise Andrews of the junior class is employed at Hanson's jewelry store during the afternoons.

Miss Viola Eldridge of the freshman class exhibited one of her many pretty solo dances at the Universalist church fair this week.

Some snappy posters are out in the High school advertising "Pep."
It is said that one of the teachers of the High school arose Tuesday morning at 5 o'clock, and walked three miles from Danvers in order to reach school, as no trains were running.
Doubtless some of the other teachers can tell of similar methods.

PERSONALS

Driver Daniel Hannon of fire headquarters, and wife, are entertaining
Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Pope, formerly of Salem. Capt. Pope was formerly connected with the Salem fire department.

Mrs. John Thomas of Aborn street has recovered from a three weeks' illness of the grippe.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Whidden, who are sojourning at Barbadoes in the West Indies, are due home the latter part of the month.

William Berry is confined to his home on Aborn street with an attack of siatica.

Charles P. Kelley, General Superintendent of the A. C. L.; Lester F.
Peabody, Superintendent at the National, and Edward H. Merrill, Superintendent at the Japan Works, returned home Sunday, after a week's visit to Omaha, where they represented the A. C. Lawrence Leather Co., at conference of superintendents.

Dr. S. Chase Tucker, who has been escaping the northern blizzards at West Palm Beach, Florida, is due to reach Peabody next Tuesday.

Lyman P. Osborn, President of the Warren National bank, will be speaker before the Peabody Historical society, next Tuesday evening, at the rooms 35 Washington street. He will read a paper on "The History of Banking in Peabody." An interesting evening is promised, as certainly no man in Peabody is more conversant with banking in all its processes, than is Mr. Osborn.

Origin of the Jazz Band.
The jazz band idea, according to a French paper, originated in the time of the Directory. At the concerts of the Cat orchestra were twenty cats, heads in a row on the keyboard of a harpsichord. The performer by striking the keys pulled the cats' tails, causing a caterwauling which sounded like a jazz band.

THE CAR THAT IS GOOD CLEAR THROUGH

A Few Facts about the Columbia Six

While there are any number of distinctive features about the COLUMBIA SIX, such as Distel Wheels, Thermostatically Controlled Radiator Shutters, Non-Synchronizing Springs, and many others, the main fact to remember about the Columbia Six is that it is "good clear through."
It is founded on the sound basis of mechanical excellence even to the smallest details.
Check the specifications yourself. You will not find a weak link in the entire chain—Timken

Axles, Continental Red Seal Motor, Detroit Pressed Steel Company Frame, Radiator with "Sylphon" Thermostically Controlled Shutters, Spicer Universal Joints, Borg & Beck Clutch, Durston Transmission, Detroit Steel Products Company's Springs, Gemmer Steering Gear, Auto-Lite Starting and Lighting, Atwater-Kent Ignition, Stromberg Carburetor, Prest-O-Lite Storage Battery, painting and trimming by The American Trimming Co., Pantasote Top, Firestone Tires.

The automatically controlled radiator shutters are an exclusive feature of the Columbia Six.

They are opened or closed automatically by a thermostat placed inside of the hood.
Thus the amount of air rushing in around the motor is regulated, keeping the motor temperature practically constant—about 180 degrees—Winter or Summer.

Think of being able to operate your car all Winter long at Summer efficiency—no hood covers, no hard starting, slow warming up, or increased gasoline consumption.

Many leading automobile engineers believe that non-synchronizing spring suspension is one of the four greatest improvements made in motor car construction during the past decade, comparable in importance with electric starting and lighting, the counter balanced crank shaft and automatic motor temperature control.

CITY HALL GOSSIP

The thrill of beauty contests inoculated City Hall this week and attaches of the busy municipal theatre of Peabody progress are all expectant, waiting the finished pictures which will be suitably framed and made to adorn the sanctum sanctorums of City Hall. A commercial house sent its "war" camera artists here this week and took a picture of every departmental office, showing the busy folk who toil over figures and forms, and get out the data for the city. Proofs which were exhibited Wednesday pleased the critics.

City Engineer Frank Emerson and Supt. Jesse F. Barrett of the water division attended the New England Waterways convention at the Brunswick, Boston, Wednesday.

Is your dog licensed? There are still 19 days more this month in which to call at the City Clerk's office and deposit your fee for this year's keep of the best little friend some men are heir to. After March 31 look out for the constable.

Fireman Arthur Hay of the pumping station got back to work this week after a layoff of three weeks, a victim of the grippe. Engineer "Sailor" Conroy was glad to see him, for covering a period of 18 days, sailor has been emulating the routine of a lighthouse keeper, hard and fast to the station, so he says.

Mayor Donnell still hopes to see the new tax rate nearer $20 than $25 this year, and the chances are pretty good for this city seeing itself among the few cities of the state, that will not face a $30 rate or better, this year.

The work of fitting up the new police guard room started Wednesday by dismantling the steel clothes closets in the corridor of the basement, and moving them into the old court room. Chief Grady is quite elated over the prospects of a decent guard room for his men.

The old Worthington pump which was recently ordered junked, is now removed from its foundation at the pumping station, waiting for the man who got the job to get it out of the station. This for the new foundation for the new Alms-Chalmers pump will be opened March 13, and work of building this will be started before April 1. The new $40,000 pump will probably not be here for service much before the middle of the summer. Water experts admit Peabody is lucky that it got plenty of snow this winter.

John Doyle, fireman at the Electric Light station, resumed his duties Wednesday, after a brief illness from the grippe.

Despite the blizzard of Saturday the Electric Light plant got but two distress calls from darkened homes. Both calls came in Saturday night.

MISS SABINA BURNS

The funeral of Miss Sabina A. Burns was held from her late home, 32 Tremont street, this morning, followed by requiem high mass at St. John's church, at 9 o'clock. There was a large attendance of friends, and a profusion of floral pieces and spiritual bouquets, attesting the high esteem in which this beautiful young girl was held.

She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard B. Burns, and was born in this city, 23 years ago. She attended the public schools here, and was graduated from the Salem Commercial School in 1915, having completed the stenographic course.

She possessed an unusually sweet disposition and had the happy faculty of making friends and keeping them. Her untimely death, followed an illness of only two weeks' duration with pneumonia, and her heart-broken parents, brothers and younger sister have the deepest sympathy of their many friends in their sad bereavement, which followed so closely the death of her oldest brother, John, three weeks ago.

Notice is hereby given that Book No. 38656, Warren Five Cents Savings Bank, Peabody, is lost, and application for payment made. Chap. 171, Acts 1912. (Mar. 12.)

One was from upper Andover street, and the second from Salem street, Lynnfield.

Charles Holden and Dr. John Seale of Salem were appointed inspector of animals to succeed themselves.

Councillor Brown's motion may induce the Mayor to fix $5000 more in the supplementary budget for street light extensions.

The bulk of the 1920 budget was adopted by vote of the Council last night and further time asked in the electric light departments, contingent fund and a few other items.

An ordinance making the pay of the city laborers $4.40 a day was passed as an emergency order last night by the Council.

The City Council last night voted to award a contract to John Meagher, the granite man, for memorial slabs to be erected in City Hall corridor.

Miss Louise King, clerk in the Electric Light office, is to leave next week for a sojourn in California.

Lowell Street

Andrew Sheehan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Sheehan of Perkins Park, returned home yesterday, after a successful operation for appendicitis at the J. B. Thomas hospital.

Warner Davis is a member of the cast to present "Mrs. Temple's Telegram" to be given in Institute hall on the evening of April 9, under the auspices of the Peabody Teachers' Association.

The Friday Evening Sewing Club will meet with Miss Dorothy Cooper of Main street this evening.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Little have returned from their wedding trip.

Mrs. H. V. Hunt is confined to her home with acute indigestion.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Richardson (nee Marion Osborn) of Lynn are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son Saturday at the Boston Homeopathic hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacobs and family have moved into the house on Endicott street, recently vacated by the Duncanson's.

Mrs. Katherine J. Murphy of Thorndike street was the winner of the Post limerick contest which was printed in yesterday morning's Post.

The Misses Mabel and Abbie King entertained the Tuesday Evening Whist Club last week at the home of Miss Abbie King.

Frank D. Hutchinson has recovered from the grip and is now able to be out a little.

Bert Pitman and Ned Donovan received numerous cuts while sliding on Buxton's hill last week. Ned Donovan is confined to his home.

Mrs. Chandler of Kosciusko street drew the luncheon set which has been on chances for the candy table at the Universalist church fair.

Several Lowell street couples are attending the dancing class held Friday evenings at the Masonic hall, under the direction of Mr. Haines of the A. C. L. Miss Norma Peirce is the instructor.

James Morris, clerk at Edgerly's, is now living with his mother on North-end street.

Residents of Lowell street have expressed themselves ready to answer the call for volunteers to shovel out the upper end of the street. The car goes only as far as Kosciusko street.

CITY OF PEABODY

Preamble

Whereas in the opinion of the City Council of the City of Peabody, a special emergency exists, involving the health and safety of the citizens of Peabody and their property in that the compensation for the current year for the employees of the street, water and sewer department has not been fixed, now therefore:

Be It Ordained by the City Council of the City of Peabody as follows:

The employees of the street, water and sewer departments shall be paid at the rate of $4.40 per day, dating from February 7, 1920, together with time and one-half for overtime, Sundays and holidays.

Ordained March 11, 1920.

CATHOLIC WOMEN OF PEABODY TO AID DIOCESAN BAZAAR.

Members of the League of Catholic Women of the arch-diocese of Boston are busily engaged in perfecting plans for the bazaar to be held in Symphony hall, Boston, April 27, 28 and 29. The object of this bazaar is to obtain sufficient funds for the establishment of a Diocesan Center for Women. It will be situated in the central part of Boston, and will be for the protection of all women, regardless of creed. Those traveling through, visiting or working in the city may make it their headquarters for any length of time. It will embrace both educational and social activities, and there will be departments for instruction in cooking, millinery, dressmaking, etc.

Mrs. P. S. Fennessey is chairlady of the local committee; Mrs. Arthur Millea, secretary; Mrs. John Meagher, treasurer; Misses Marion Ellis and Mary L. McCarthy, press correspondents. An enthusiastic meeting was held last Monday evening at St. John's church.

The first social will be held on the afternoon of St. Patrick's Day, in K. of C. hall, when a "Skull Whist" will be featured. Mrs. Felix Carr and Mrs. P. S. Fennessey are in charge of the first social.

Mrs. P. J. Sheehy, Mrs. John Tivnan, Mrs. Charles Cassidy and Miss Abbie Sherry were appointed to arrange a number of socials to raise funds for the local committee.

PERSONALS

Holten lodge of Odd Fellows will hold an entertainment and dance next Tuesday evening. Prof. C. E. Wallace, impersonator, will furnish the entertainment.

Peabody basketball fans are on edge for the series between the Mats and the Athletics, which opens in City Hall, Monday night, for the championship of Peabody. The Mats will be strengthened and the Athletics will stand pat.

Mrs. Mary Murphy of Gardner Park has returned to her duties as teacher of the sixth grade in the Thomas Carroll school, following an absence of several weeks on account of illness.

Navy Blue Printzess Suits Modish, Individual, Distinctive and Reasonable

- For the first days of spring
- For extreme smartness in clothes
- For the practical business woman
- For all round, every-day wear

NAVY BLUE Solves the Problem

And "Printzess" assures satisfaction in style, quality and workmanship. We are ready for the Spring shopper who is interested in a Tailleur of Navy, and even if you are not interested beforehand we feel sure you will be after you have seen the good looking models in tricotine and serge. Many of the new suits are belted with the narrow tie belt, and the Tuxedo collar gives the dainty blouse an opportunity to show itself.

Silk braids have been lavishly used and buttons are still among "those present" in the world of fashion. The skirts are not any wider, the sleeves are slimmer, and the coats are tighter—indeed the new spring suit is a trim, trig affair of exceeding neatness.

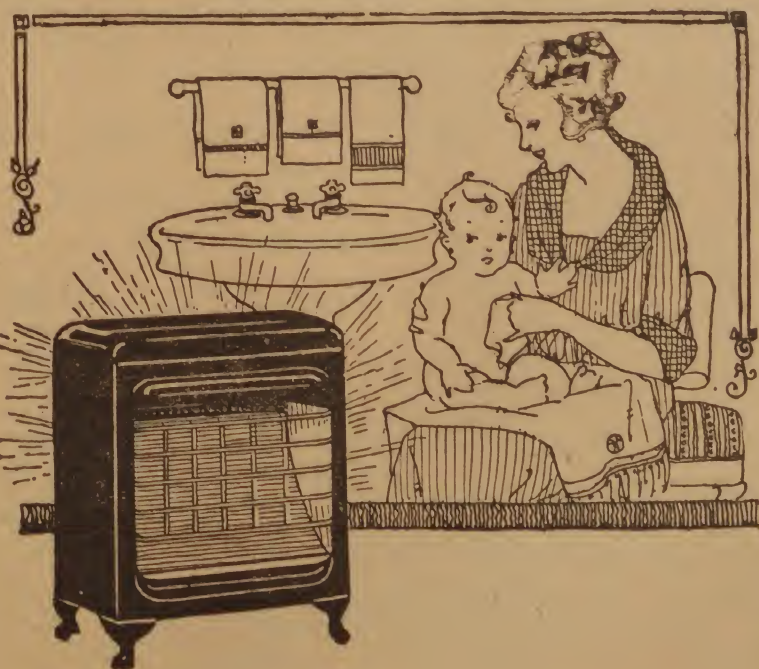

We would like very much to have you try on the smart Printzess models of navy blue which we are showing.

Priced $75.00 and $65.00

Topcoats are Important

Since fashion has decided that women will wear their suits just as a man does—without taking off the coat when indoors—why of course women must have top coats. The first arrivals we are showing are swagger affairs of heather jersey, English mixtures and the fashionable Polo cloths. These will do duty over the serge street frock, and with the dainty summer muslins and voiles.

Priced $39.50 to $65.00

Lansing Tells Why He Loves Rotary Club

Over 150 Rotarians of Lynn, Salem and Peabody joined hands in this city last Tuesday for a tri-city dinner in Odd Fellows' hall in the first gathering of its kind ever held in Peabody, and the dinner speeches, all of which defined the ethics of Rotarism, were most inspiring. Peabody is the baby city in Rotary in New England, and that occasion made the Tanners the hosts of the day, and the visiting brothers from Lynn and Salem were warm in their praise for the initial performance of the local members.

Willard Lansing, a lumber dealer of Providence, who styled himself "an old-fashioned lumber dealer," and who is also a vice president of the International Rotary Clubs, made the chief address of the day. Possessing a fine personality and a well modulated voice, the principal guest of the tri-city meeting eulogized Rotary and appealed to the members about the banquet tables to get the spirit of Rotary.

"I love Rotary because of its principles, and it is through such organizations as Rotary, he said, that progress of New England depends. There should be a linking together of all forces in New England for the purpose of advancing all our commercial and social interests, and what is true of New England, is true of all

Swift Buys Showplace In Peabody

One of the largest real estate deals was consummated yesterday, when Charles L. Swift, the well known heating engineer of Salem, acquired the John H. Symonds estate, one of the show residences of the city, located on Andover street. The sale was made through the office of William F. Carlin. The amount involved in the transaction which changes the title of both house and land is not given out.

The Symonds estate is admittedly one of the finest in Peabody, and commands a clear view of Beverly, Danvers and Middleton. The property consists of an 18-room house, garage, barns and nine acres of valuable land. It is understood that the upper end of the land will be made later into select building lots which make the location one of the best residential districts in the city. The price of the

CITY HALL GOSSIP

Mayor Donnell will be asked to call a meeting of representative citizens to start a campaign for funds in Peabody for the Near East Relief Committee, which has the work of raising money in hand for the people of Armenia and Syria. John T. Theodore of the Massachusetts State Committee was in this city yesterday conferring with local men. He is to confer with Mayor Donnell. Mayor Sullivan called a meeting together in Salem yesterday.

Councillor Joseph A. Ryan will reach his 38th birthday next week Wednesday, and will probably have several reminders of the anniversary date. The day that the giant Councillor was ushered into the world, Poet Henry Longfellow died, and the Peabody solon is among the best informed on the once Cambridge poet. He was born in historic Danvers, where he attended the public schools with Councillor Walter H. Brown.

Since May, 1915, City Clerk Francis L. Poor has united 54 couples in marriage at his office in City Hall. One couple, so far this year, have requested him to tie the knot. He makes an ideal parson and showers his blessings on the "newlyweds."

With the discharge of Patrolman Robert Patterson from the hospital, minus one of his legs, as a result of injuries while on duty, and the city placing him on the pension list under the recent adoption of the act, comes the question of who will be designated by Mayor Donnell to succeed this plucky officer, as a permanent member of the police force. Friends of Sunday Officer Thomas Quinlan, who is always on the beat in South Peabody, Sundays, are advancing his candidacy for the appointment. He is one of the reserve list under the civil service. He is married and has two children. He joined the force, July 5, 1912.

Action looking to shaping plans for the Junior High school for Peabody will not be taken for some weeks, it is said, or until the 1920 budget is handled by the City Council.

Henry Crump, brother of Charles Crump, Chief Inspector of Water Meters, has this week entered the employ of the city under his brother, and will be put to work reading and repairing meters. Henry has had experience. Edward Quirk, who has been employed reading water meters, is proving a valuable man for the water department. He covers a lot of ground.

"Har? What's that? Well, don't call me up again, it's agin the orders" echoed the shrill voice of Ray Skinner over the telephone at Central station some days ago, and the boys are still joshing him about it.

Miss Margaret McGrath is to be new clerk in the Electric Light office, taking Miss King's place, next week, during her absence in California.

PEABODY TO AID AMERICA'S GIFT TO BRAVE FRANCE

Governor Calvin A. Coolidge has accepted the honorary chairmanship of the Massachusetts State Committee for "America's Gift to France." The local chairman is Lyman P. Osborn.

"America's Gift to France" will be a colossal statue by Frederick MacMonnies, the distinguished American sculptor, to commemorate the first battle of the Marne, September 6, 1914. The final design of the monument has not been determined.

It will cost $250,000 to erect the memorial, and March 22-27 a collection, a free will offering will be taken up throughout the country.

The National Committee in charge of the project includes Thomas M. Lamont, of J. P. Morgan & Co., chairman; Cardinal Gibbons, General Pershing and John H. Finley and other well known Americans. The statue will be placed in the town of Meaux on the Marne, the high water mark of the great German advance of 1914. The site will be selected by Marshal Joffre and Marshal Foch, both of whom fought in the battle, Marshal Joffre commanding.

PERSONALS

Many of the members and friends of the Nazarene church gave a birthday surprise to Mrs. D. Rand Pierce, the pastor's wife, on Wednesday evening. A very pleasant program was enjoyed, consisting of music, recitations and brief addresses. Refreshments were also served and a substantial purse presented on behalf of the friends by Miss Ruth Manning.

Mrs. Mary C. Russell, mother of John Russell, janitor at City Hall, fell near her home on Fulton street this week and received injuries requiring four stitches to be taken. She suffered a severe shock.

Miss Ruth Burbeck was showered at the home of Miss Dorothy Cooper last Friday evening. She received many nice things from friends in the Friday Evening Sewing Club. Miss Burbeck is to be married soon to Ernest Frye of Lynn, a traveling salesman, and ex-service man, and will make their home in Buffalo, N. Y.

INTERCHURCH MOVEMENT GETS HEARTY SUPPORT

Churches all over Massachusetts are putting themselves in united alignment under the Interchurch World Movement, as a result of the State Pastors' Conference in Boston. There was hardly a community or a town in the state from which one or more of the ministers did not go to this big gathering, where over 1000 Bay State preachers discussed the religious situation of the world, advocated team-play, and finally went on record in favor of cooperation in place of competition.

The harnessing of churches, large and small, all over the State, in the endeavors of the Interchurch World Movement, is the word that has come back to the office of the State Executive Secretary, Rev. George F. Harvey, since the close of the conference. The churches of the State are now getting ready to play a strategic part in the approaching county conferences of the movement.

Peabody churches were represented by Rev. Jason G. Miller of the South Congregational, Rev. I. F. Lusk of the Methodist church, Rev. Herbert L. Howard of the Baptist church and Rev. Robert A. Bakeman of the Second Congregational church, South Peabody.

"TIYAGA" GIRLS IN FUNNY SKIT

The comedy drama which is to be presented by the Tiyaga Camp Fire Girls in the Methodist vestry next Wednesday evening contains three acts: Act 1, the mysterious Indian maiden; act 2, the capture of the ghost; act 3, the council fire.

The following girls have a part in this play: Mary Little, Hilma Cook, Theresa Hayes, Esther Reid, Ruth Bradstreet, Marion Bradstreet, Bessie MacDonald, Ida Keniston, Cora Frost, Lavinia Ingalls, Doris Hudson and Jessie Dunn.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

PIGS IN WINTER.

"Well," said Mrs. Black Pig, "winter is with us; we'll soon feel the cold."

"What is winter?" asked Mrs. Brown Pig.
"Winter is winter," said Mrs. Black Pig.
"Why you don't say so," said Mrs. Brown Pig.
"Yes, I do," returned Mrs. Black Pig.
"I don't know any more than I did before," said Mrs. Brown Pig.
"You were never great on adding to what little learning you had," said Mrs. Black Pig.

"My dear Mrs. Black Pig, don't be rude; I'm your neighbor and your friend."

"Ah," said Mrs. Black Pig, "that shows you're stupid. Just because I am your neighbor, it doesn't mean that I'm your friend."

"It should," said Mrs. Brown Pig.
"Maybe it should, but it doesn't," said Mrs. Black Pig, "and you ought to be wise enough to know it."

"Well, I'm glad to learn," said Mrs. Brown Pig. "I'm very glad to learn. Just let me reach for that piece of weed you have there," she added, trying to grab a piece of weed from Mrs. Black Pig. She had to admit that she was trying to do it for Mrs. Black Pig, had seen her out of her right eye, which had been looking straight at her.

"If you were neighborly and a friend at the same time," said Mrs. Black Pig, "you wouldn't try to get my food away from me. Instead you would say, 'My dear neighbor, Mrs. Black Pig, and at the same time, my dear friend, Mrs. Black Pig, may I not give you some afternoon weed or some morning vegetable or some between-time carrots?'"

"I wouldn't be myself if I said such a thing," said Mrs. Brown Pig. "You wouldn't have me change my ways, would you?"

"I would like you to change yours and have everything for me," said Mrs. Black Pig.

"That would be quite unfair," said Mrs. Brown Pig. "So I will never change my ways."

"Neither will I," said Mrs. Black Pig, "so I guess we'd best be just neighbors and leave out the part about being friends."

"Perhaps it would be wiser," said Mrs. Brown Pig, "for you would not understand the meaning of friendship."

"It's just what you wouldn't understand," said Mrs. Black Pig.

"Your idea of friendship," said Mrs. Brown Pig, "would be to have everything your own way and have everything done for you and never bother about anyone else."

"Isn't that your idea of friendship, too?" asked Mrs. Black Pig.

"Well, yes," agreed Mrs. Brown Pig. "Well, I'll tell you," said Mrs. Black Pig, "we can never become great friends in the pig family. We can get along all right, but we can't become beautiful friends, and I'll tell you the reason."

"We are selfish, and if creatures are selfish they can't really understand friendship, for friendship means doing things that are often hard as long as they're being done for one's friends, friendship means being unselfish and thinking of others and getting pleasure out of doing for others. And that is quite beyond the pig family."

"Oh, quit," said Mrs. Brown Pig. "We won't even talk about it any more, as long as you won't be the sort of friend who'll give me everything and not expect me to act friendly in return."

"But you were going to tell me what you meant by winter?"

"Winter is the cold time of the year," said Mrs. Black Pig, "when we stay indoors all the time."

"Oh, I understand," said Mrs. Brown Pig. "But what difference does it make whether it is winter or not? As long as there is eating and sleeping to do the seasons make no difference."

"No difference at all," agreed Mrs. Black Pig. "Eating and sleeping are the things that make life worth while!"

His Idea.
Little Sydney was very upset about his mother's headache.

"Mumie," he said, "when you have toothache, to get rid of it you have your teeth pulled out?"

"Yes, dear," wearily replied his mother.

"Well," replied Sydney brightly, "why not have your hair pulled out to stop the headache?"

High School Notes

George Watts of the Senior class is working at the Public Library in the afternoon.

Louise Andrews of the Junior class plays the piano in the hall every Thursday, when Miss Hartwell conducts her singing class.

Miss Helen Johnson of the Class of '19 was a visitor at school, Tuesday.

A play in three acts, "Mrs. Temple's Telegram," will be given in City Hall, April 9, under the auspices of the Teachers' Association. The cast is as follows: Mrs. Temple, Hazel R. Johnson; Mrs. Fuller, Elene Masterson; Mrs. Brown, Marion Dunham; Dorothy, Ivy Sinclair; Mr. Temple, Warner Davis; Mr. Fuller, Ralph Blair; Mr. Brown, Franklin Haines; Capt. Sharpe, Leonard Cassidy.

Mr. Luscomb held an orchestra rehearsal in the hall last week Thursday. This is Mr. Luscomb's first rehearsal at the High school since his recent illness.

The following senior girls are serving ing on the lunch counter this month: Lois Crowley, Phyllis Mason, Katherine Underwood and Elizabeth Mackintosh.

About 100 pupils were late on Monday morning. This was caused by delay in transportation, as both the South Peabody bus and the Lynnfield train were late.

Edward Ferguson of the Junior class is seriously ill at his home with an abscess just above the knee. His classmates have expressed their sympathy by sending him some flowers.

Mr. King of the faculty returned to school Monday after a short illness.

Mrs. Lyman Osborn substituted for Miss Alice Teague of room one, the last few days of the week.

Miss Elene Masterson of the faculty took a very prominent part in the play, Captain Jack, the Irish Outlaw, given at City Hall, Wednesday night.

The sophomore class held a meeting Thursday noon in room 8 to make arrangements for their dance.

BUSY PROGRAM AT COMM. HOUSE

The attendance in the boys' department in both gymnasium and game rooms is greater than at any time during the season. Now members are joining daily.

The standing in the High school basketball league is as follows:

Rovers, F. Hennessy, Capt., 750
Lightning Five, W. Crean, Capt., 625
Red Tops, M. Harris, Capt., 500
Ramblers, L. Buckley, Capt., 425

Return game tournaments were played with the Salem Fraternity at Salem, Wednesday night. In a couple of hard-fought games the Peabody boys were the losers. The Salem I-AI Stars beat the Peabody seniors, 30 to 10, while the Fraternity juniors had a shade the best of the Community House juniors, winning 7 to 3. In the other games Peabody won in pool and checkers, while Salem again triumphed in the shooting gallery.

The first lesson in the last course of lessons in millinery is Friday night, this week, March 19th, while the last course in dressmaking begins Wednesday night, March 21.

Both the boys' and girls' gymnastic classes will hold an exhibition in City Hall some time the first of April.

CANADIAN VETS URGED TO ATTEND

A meeting of Camp Parker, American Volunteers, C. E. F., will be held at their headquarters, Carpenter's hall, Munroe street, Lynn, on Sunday, at 2.30. Important matters will come up before the Camp, and all men in Peabody and Danvers or Salem, who served in the Canadian forces, are urged to attend, as it will be to their advantage.

The first annual dance of the Camp will be held at the Casino hall, Lynn, on Friday, April 9th. Tickets may be obtained of the Commander, G. Andrews, 6 Spring street, Peabody, or Vice Commander J. Charlton, Holden street, Peabody.

ENTERPRISE TRAVELS

Charles H. Aechtler, one time manager of the Strand theatre, and well known employee of the A. C. Lawrence Leather Co., is sojourning on the Pacific coast, after a visit to Florida. He was sitting in the hotel Oakland lobby in Oakland, California, and the man seated next to him was reading a copy of the Peabody Enterprise.

Aechtler was overjoyed, and promptly sent the Enterprise a note. This is what he wrote:

"Gee, how your paper does travel. I was sitting in the hotel lobby in Oakland, and a man sitting in the next seat was reading your paper. Glad to see it, as I had not seen one for two months. Traveling from Palm Beach to here. Glad I missed all of the snow storms."

Yours,
C. AECHTLER.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS

At the regular meeting of the Knights of Pythias this evening the rank of Knight will be exemplified by the newly trained degree staff. A large attendance is looked for by the entertainment committee, which is planning a good collation at the close of the meeting.

MINUTE MEN HERE

The Minute Men team from the First Baptist church, Lynn, will open the local campaign of the inter-church movement in Peabody, Sunday evening, at the Baptist church.

THAT OBSTINATE BRONCHIAL COUGH

YIELDS TO

Allen's Lung Healer

THE MOST OBSTINATE WORRIESOME COUGH IS THE BRONCHIAL COUGH

It drags on for weeks and months, and sometimes for years, baffling medical skill and resisting all the old tried remedies. It not only annoys and distresses you, but it worries you. Your friends are constantly asking you why you don't do something for it and recommend this and that remedy. You try them all, with the same result. You become discouraged. Finally some good friend recommends Allen's Lung Healer and is so positive it will help you that you are constrained to try it. Your faith is weak, but, glory be, this seems to be real medicine. It seems to reach the spot, to relieve the irritation and loosen the phlegm in a way that gives you renewed courage. Your cough begins to ease; sometimes it goes quickly, at other times more slowly, but quickly or slowly, it disappears and you join the legion of boosters for Allen's Lung Healer.

These results are guaranteed by the makers.

Rev. Robert A. Bakeman, pastor of the Second Congregational church, is confined to his home on Maple street, with a severe attack of rheumatism. It is believed he contracted the malady while doing war work in France.

Mrs. May A. Murray of Lynn street attended a banquet of the Dames of Malta of Lynn Lodge at Worcester, last week.

Miss Thelma Curtis of Winnegance avenue is spending the week at the home of her grandparents in Danvers.

Miss Florence Holden of Lynnfield street is confined to her home this week by illness.

Miss Mary Somes of Maple street is spending the week at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Frank Russell of Salem.

Mrs. Annie Newhall and Mrs. Annie Castle of Lynn spent Tuesday at the home of Orlando Newhall of Lynnfield street.

Mrs. Mabel LeCain of Carlton street is out again after an illness of several weeks.

Mrs. Charles Smith and daughter of New Bedford is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Robert A. Bakeman of Maple street.

Mrs. Sarah Swett of Lynnfield street spent a few days last week with friends of Natick, and stopped at Wellesley to attend the burial of her niece.

Miss Dora Knights of Bartholomew street is confined to her home with illness.

Charles Hobbs of Lynn street has accepted a new position as night watchman at the A. C. Lawrence Leather Co.

The Ladies' Aid of the Lake Shore Park church met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. E. Hetherington of Lynn street, and made plans for the reception of their pastor, Rev. Thomas Burns, which will be held May 4 in the vestry of the church.

Howard Batchelder of Lynn street is confined to his home with a bad cold.

Mrs. Sarah A. Gatchell of East Boston was the recent guest of Mrs. Geo. Hanscom of County street.

The monthly business meeting and social of the Epworth League of the Lake Shore Park church, will be held Monday evening in the vestry.

A rehearsal for the "Old Folks Concert" will be held this evening in the vestry of the Second Congregational church.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith and daughter, Myrtle, spent the week-end at Portsmouth, N. H., with Mrs. Annie Hardy Voss.

Much excitement occurred last Monday afternoon and was due to a fire on Needham's hill, supposed to have been set by boys. It spread rapidly and burned over most of the hill. A. D. Powers' house on Bay State road caught on the roof, but was soon extinguished by the South Peabody fire apparatus. The Seagrave combination was also kept busy during the afternoon. The Boy Scouts deserve credit for their splendid services.

Mrs. Cora Griffin returned to her home on Winnegance avenue, Tuesday from the Brookline hospital, where she underwent an operation.

Raymond Lognercio, of 11 Timson street, Lynn, and Miss Ellen Mae Evans, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Evans of Lynn street, were united in marriage, Sunday, April 18, at the home of Rev. D. Emery Burton of Lynn. The bride is a popular young lady and organist of the Lake Shore Park church.

Little Raymond Carpenter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Carpenter of Brown street, has been ill this week.

Earl Newhall of Lynn street is confined to his home with a cold.

Thin People Should Take Phosphate

Says nothing like plain Argo-Phosphate so put on firm, solid, stay there flesh and muscle and increase strength, vim, vigor and nerve force.

Physicians claim there is nothing that will increase weight, strength and endurance like organic phosphate commonly known by druggists as argo-phosphate; it is inexpensive and is sold by all leading druggists everywhere under a guarantee to give satisfaction or money refunded. Weakness and thinness are usually due to starved nervous conditions.

Our bodies need more phosphates than are contained in the foods we eat.

If you wish a more rounded figure and plump, well-developed arms, neck and bust in place of hollows you should simply take plain argo-phosphate, as it builds up and restores run-down nervous conditions by phosphatizing the system. It transforms the appearance and an increase in weight is often times quickly produced.

The increase in weight also aids in improving the general health. Sleeplessness, nervousness, lack of energy and ambition quickly disappear.

Pale cheeks are changed to rosy ones and dull eyes become bright.

Miss Lena Brown of Atlanta, Ga., who only weighed 90 pounds reports that she gained 10 pounds in two weeks' time and says argo-phosphate has made a different person of her and she has never felt better in her life.

SPECIAL NOTICE:—Owing to the fact that so many physicians and druggists are recommending argo-phosphate for relieving all nervous, worn-out debilitated conditions and the unusually large sale for argo-phosphate there will be found in the market numerous substitutes for the genuine article. All imitations are inferior preparations, and owing to its unusual flesh producing qualities it should not be used by any one unless they desire to put on flesh and increase in weight.

MARY PICKFORD IN POLYANNA OPENS AT STRAND ON SUNDAY

An attractive comedy story about a young bride who teaches her husband a lesson in over-confidence will be presented at the Strand today and Saturday, entitled "Easy to Get," and starring popular Marguerite Clark. As Milly Morehouse, Miss Clark is the happiest bride in the world, but on the honeymoon journey she overhears her husband tell his college chum that she was "easy to get." Determined to punish her cocksure husband she jumps off the train at a siding and hides herself in a bungalow nearby.

It is her plan to appear kidnapped and compel her husband to forfeit $5000 to insure her return. She will teach him that she was not easy to get. Completely humbled, Bob does as he is bid. He deposits the money at the designated spot, and at the psychological moment Milly appears from her hiding place and embraces him. The plotters who have helped her carry out the plan, turn the tables on her and calmly tell the honeymooners that they intend to keep the money. And Bob declares it worth the price to have his bride back. The picture breezes along with plenty of humorous incident which is all revealed spontaneously. It unfolds one startling adventure after another. Miss Clark plays the part of Milly with charming grace and humor and receives excellent support from Harrison Ford. William Duncan in "The Silent Avenger" and "The Heart Snatcher," a Fox-Sunshine comedy will be the other attractions for today.

Mary Pickford, queen of all screen stars, in her latest and greatest success, "Pollyanna," an adaption of Eleanor H. Porter's famous novel and play by the same name, comes to the Strand for Sunday and Monday only.

In "Pollyanna," Miss Pickford portrays the role of a little orphan girl about 12 years old, who comes to live with a New England aunt, and there converts a whole household to the gospel of "gladness."

This has been called the "glad" play and in this thought Miss Pickford has given the most expressive performance of her career; better than "Daddy Long Legs," because of its whimsical interest compelling story is what everyone terms "Pollyanna."

In order that the school children might have an opportunity to see this famous picture, the management of the Strand has arranged to give a matinee starting at 4 o'clock on Monday.

WARREN NATIONAL BANK OPENS NEW INDUSTRIAL LOAN DEPARTMENT

The Warren National Bank is to open an industrial department, something new in Peabody banking, and a movement which will have a tendency to bring still closer the people to the bank.

The purpose of the new department is the accommodation of those who wish to borrow small sums of money, such as $50, $100 and $200, or more if required.

The plan is to loan the money on a note, satisfactorily indorsed, at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum. No investigation charge is made, as is the case with most in this line of business. The requirements are that the borrower deposits a stated amount each week at the interest department window of the company and at the end of 50 weeks the note is paid.

The plan has been tried in other Massachusetts cities and is said to have been a success everywhere.

In a general way, industrial banking is that form of conducting the banking business, with the minimum of expense and the maximum of flexibility, meeting the requirements of 87.94 per cent., according to the 1910 census, of all American people who lack banking connections, and at a legal rate of interest, allowing the repayment of loans made under this plan in small systematic weekly payments, thus making it possible for deserving thrifty people to secure money for any emergency which may arise, or to liquidate obligations previously contracted.

In speaking of the opening of the new department, President Lyman P. Osborn yesterday said:

"It is interesting in a study of banking to find that banks were originally formed to help the peasant or individual who had not possession of lands or other valuables. When we delve into the past we find banking originated as a force virtually to combat feudalism. And thus in its early inception it was the means of helping the serf against the overlord.

"Later on we find the banker conducting his business in what were known as 'coffeehouses' in those days. Time passed and the era of the private banker arrived.

"In the primitive days of commerce banking began as a side issue of some other business. The Chemical National Bank of New York was originally the financial department of the New York Chemical Manufacturing Co. In small towns a merchant operating a general store often employed in his own business money entrusted to him in the way of loans or deposits. Any citizen could become a banker in those early days if he could get his neighbors to trust him. Public control gradually became necessary both as to the organization and operation of banks and today 95 per cent. now operate under public supervision. So, gradually, we see the system of today evolved.

"One hundred years ago the first savings bank was organized in New England. Then the troubles of 1863 gave us our national system. And finally we see the modern trust company, which is a product of the last 30 years.

"It is strange to note the evolution, and frequently find a tendency on the part of the banking institutions to draw away from the original ideas as a means of financial assistance to the great mass of the people. Gradually we find the banks coming closer once again to the people, and today the up-to-date institution places its services within the reach of the great mass of the public."

ST. JOHN'S CHAMPS.

The final games in the Grammar School Basketball league played at the Community House gymnasium resulted as follows: Wallis 19, South 1; Bowditch 24, Center 7; St. John's 8, Carroll 7.

This makes the St. John's team the champions of the league, they having won all their games. The final standing is as follows:

WENTZELL IN $600 BOWLING MATCH HERE

"Spooch" (John) Wentzell, champion bowler of Essex county and "Pat" Randall of Wakefield, one of the stellar pinfall reapers in old Middlesex, open a 20-string match at Manning's alleys, Monday night, for a purse of $600. The first 10 strings will be rolled in this city and the second in Wakefield on Tuesday night.

Chuck Burns of this city arranged the match, and will look after Wentzell's interests. An admission fee will be charged, two of the alleys being screened off for the big match.

Wentzell is a great favorite in Peabody. A resident of Salem, he will bring a large crowd of bowling fans here for the match.

Both bowlers are evenly matched, and are two of the best in New England, and some good scores are looked for. There is plenty of money in Salem and Peabody to back Wentzell.

Judging by the number of ladies who are engaging the Victor Private Alleys, it is evident that many of the fair sex are availing themselves of the opportunity of taking one of the best exercises for muscle building. Some of the ladies are getting quite proficient at the game.

Explorer With Peary On Last Dash To Pole

The last lecture in the Peabody Teachers' course to be given in the Institute on May 6, is to be delivered by Donald MacMillan. The lecture "The Riddle of the Arctic" should prove of great interest, and is worthy of calling out a larger gathering of people than is often seen in this city. Mr. MacMillan is one of the enroll number of college graduates who has risked his life in explorations these many years in the Arctic with Peary and later at the head of his own expeditions, especially fits Mr. MacMillan to answer the query, "Why Men Risk Their Lives in Polar Exploration?"

The lecturer is a native of Provincetown, a graduate of Bowdoin, and has lately been appointed professor of Anthropology in this college. This summer Mr. MacMillan is to head another expedition to the Arctic circle.

MEMORIAL STADIUM.

There are many citizens who favor the new Junior High school project, but who are opposed to the city building a stadium or athletic field in the rear of the High school. A more central location for the proposed stadium, it strikes us, would be on the city's land at Emerson Park, and it will be argued with some logic, we contend, that a more distinct memorial to Peabody's hero dead of the late World's War can be erected on Emerson Park, than could be obtained by making the stadium an adjunct to the new High school. The Athletic field or stadium would make an ideal memorial, it is held by many, and for this reason, it might better be made a separate proposition. The need for the Junior High school is most urgent. The stadium can wait for a time.

YOUR LIBERTY BONDS.

Not only is it the patriotic duty of everyone who purchased Liberty Bonds and Victory Notes during the war to hold them, but it is sound business judgment also, in view of the prevailing low prices for the bonds and notes in the Stock Market, according to John R. Macomber, President of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, and President of Harris, Forbes & Co., the well known bond house. Certain market conditions have depressed the current selling price of the bonds, but Mr. Macomber takes pains to point out that no one with good sense can question that the United States treasury will pay the bonds in full at their par value of 100 cents on the dollar, when they mature, or that the Government will take care of the interest coupons as they fall due.

ASH COLLECTION.

The line of demarcation in the collection of ashes cannot be drawn too sharp, either by the municipal authorities or the contractor, who sought the job. Ever since Peabody inaugurated an ash collection there has been more or less complaint at the methods employed by the contractors, and there will always be criticism, in our opinion, until the city takes over the important task of collecting ashes. The Enterprise has consistently advocated the city taking over the work, and it is still our candid opinion that until we have a collection made by city employees, under direction and control of the proper officials, we shall continue to hear more or less criticism regarding the manner in which the contract is followed. The contractor has our support when he refuses to cart away old junk, bedsteads, mattresses and other cast off articles which too frequently are put out in the hope that the collectors of ashes will save the expense of having it carted away by an expressman. People who throw garbage into ash receivers are not complying with the provisions of the city regarding its ash collection, and the contractor, with perfect right, can refuse to be made a "goat" in this particular. But the line of demarcation should be somewhat elastic, and by that we mean that the ash collector must expect to find a bit of broken glass, a tin can and sundry other refuse matter in the ash barrels. He is not called on to cart away excelsior from stores nor other similar bulky material that does not mix with ashes. The collection of ashes under contract must remain a pure business proposition, this being its constant reminder if the contractor is to make a dollar. The new contractor has not yet had the best chance to get the contract in hand. Some people object to the night collection, because of the attending noise, but perhaps the criticism in this respect may be less, as the new contractor gets the work well in hand. He is entitled to a chance to correct some few defects that may now appear. The householder can aid in the success of the ash collection, if a proper regard is shown in the utilization of the ash collection.

WINDOW EXHIBITS.

During the past week a number of people have expressed themselves as being very favorably impressed with the work that our schools are doing, basing their judgment on the exhibitions of drawings and other work that were displayed in connection with the Art, Needlework and Crafts show. Some of the most deeply impressed were the young men and women who, through force of circumstance, were unable to complete their schooling, and left to enter industry, after attending school for a few years only. These young people, particularly, had an opportunity to see what they had missed by being unable to continue their education in our public schools, and some of them expressed the desire to study in some way to make up for this lost knowledge. We doubt if many Massachusetts people realize that the State has provided for this very exigency through its Department of University Extension. This department has an extensive list of courses of study in subjects ranging from languages to higher mathematics, and which are taught either by correspondence, in the case of the individual, or in class, provided several people group together for instruction. Here, then, is the opportunity for self education, limited only by the diligence of the pupil, who may acquire almost a college training at a minimum of expense. The State charges a small fee only for each of its courses, covering the expense of stationery and books. Is it mechanical drawing you wish to brush up on? Very well, a thorough course may be had for nine dollars. Perhaps the young man is interested in electrical engineering. A variety of courses are offered, from the rudimentary up to the more intricate. In addition to the State courses, there are at present dozens of good correspondence courses at reasonable rates, that are fitting young people for better positions later on. So to the one who may have regretted his having had to leave our public schools at an early age, we offer this encouragement—if you are willing to learn, opportunity is still at hand—grasp it.

Massachusetts Pastor Leader In Interchurch Movement

DR. JOHN YOUNG AITCHISON.

Rev. Dr. John Young Aitchison of Boston, Mass., executive secretary of the $100,000,000 New World Movement of the Baptist Church, has been made one of the principal representatives of his denomination in the higher councils of an alliance of World Movement for an alliance of American Protestant Churches in World-wide missionary advance. Dr. Aitchison is now associate general secretary of the Interchurch movement and is a member of its general and executive committees. He still retains his position at the head of the National movement of the Baptists, which is part of the Interchurch campaign. For three years Dr. Aitchison was secretary, in Chicago, of the American Baptist Home Missionary Society. Since 1916 he has been in Boston as joint district secretary of the American Baptist Home and Foreign Missionary Societies. He was born in Cascade, Ia., and educated at Central College, Pella, Ia., Des Moines College and the Divinity School of the University of Chicago. He has been pastor of Baptist Churches in Milwaukee, Wis., Shenandoah, Ia., and Galesburg, Ill.

ROUND ABOUT

I understand that General Francis H. Appleton is planning to reopen his summer home on Prospect street early this coming month, after a winter spent at his town house in Boston's Back Bay. He will return in splendid health, so I am told. He will find a hearty welcome here from his many friends.

Charles E. Fish, well known in insurance circles of Boston, gave one of the best talks before the Peabody Rotary Club last Tuesday noon, eulogizing Rotary and describing the real benefits that come from the organization in various cities and towns. Mr. Fish's home is in Winchester. The local club members invited numerous business men of the city as their guests at the weekly dinner. The address given by Mr. Fish was most inspiring.

Chief Grady was observed giving a lecture to a dozen odd gypsy looking women Monday of this week, whom he found entering yards of house-holders in quest of dandelions. Some of the women were very brazen. Several ill-kept children were with them.

I have heard many compliments for the zeal with which Mrs. Louis P. P. Osborne has supervised the publicity for the big May festival, which is to be held in City Hall, tomorrow afternoon and evening. She has kept the papers supplied with the best kind of newsy publicity, and by her other efforts has done much to insure the success of the big party, which is to aid the work of the Community House. Mrs. Osborne is the mother of three lovely children, a fact which has not deterred her from giving yeoman's work to her committee efforts.

Here's a tip for the Chamber of Commerce, that taken up, could give Peabody some good publicity. A student of the Hutchinson High school in Buffalo addressed a letter to the Enterprise this week, setting forth the list of manufactured products of the city, the parks, and various other points of interest that help to make Buffalo a great city. The letter was interesting and a good advertisement for Buffalo. It was also a good lesson for the pupil to become a booster for his home city.

WHEN WE GO SWIMMIN'.

Boy! it's great to shed your oxfords,
And to shake your happy rags,
When the summer sun is boiling in the sky!
And it's swell to trim your toe-nails
On the rocks and river snags,
And to bid the blistering bank a brave Good-bye.

Fellows, we must hit the by-way
That goes winding in and out,
Wriggling right up to the waters, willow-girt,
That's the road that suits a scout
And bids by-by to troubles, duds and dirt.

How you dash in, how you splash in!
How you dive in, if you dare;
Oh the happy thrill, the pulse-beat,
The delight.
How your head does split the water;
How your heels do hit the air;
How you vanish, as by magic, out of sight!

Then you bob up with a shiver
Gently creeping down your spine,
Like a little tiger-kitten hunting game.
Oh, the quiver of the river
When you shiver, ain't it fine,
Don't it make the bloomin' bath-tub Blush for shame?

CLEAN UP YARDS

The Board of Health will do its part to make Clean-Up Week in this city a big success and it asks the co-operation of all property owners and householders toward that end.

Free Collections

Beginning Monday teams in the employ of the Board of Health will call at every home to cart away yard refuse matter. Ashes will not be taken. All yards should be raked and the refuse matter deposited in barrels not larger than a flour barrel. The Clean-Up Week Campaign is to be a general movement next week. Let's have all Peabody back yards 100 per cent cleaned-up.

PEABODY DOUBLED PRODUCTS

Peabody doubled its manufacturing business from 1915 to 1918, and also doubled its wages. So show the recent reports of the State bureau of statistics.

Peabody made, in 1918, goods worth $41,000,000. It made in 1915 goods worth $20,000,000. Its average wage increased from $560 in 1915 to $1019 in 1918.

Leather is the chief product of Peabody. The city made in 1918 leather worth $32,000,000. In 1915 it made leather worth $15,000,000. Its average wage for the leather trade increased from $573 in 1915 to $1062 in 1918. The total wages paid in the leather trade increased from $2,400,000 in 1915 to $5,000,000 in 1918.

The big gain was due chiefly to the rise in values. Each foot of leather made in 1918 cost about twice as much to make, as it did in 1915.

Peabody High At Stoneham Tomorrow

Captain "Hank" Keefe will take his bunch of Peabody High school ball tossers to Stoneham tomorrow to play a Middlesex League game.

It will take a fast bunch to beat "Marty" Donovan's boys, which number 20 strong—"Swede" Holden and Doc Jordan—receivers of exceptional ability. "Hubby" Lawrence, J. V. Sweeney, Frank Dennis and "Tansey" Fennessey, deliverers of wonderful control and hooks. Captain "Hank" of football fame, covering sack No. 1, will be a big loss, when he graduates next June. Bill Crean and Matty Condie, sharing honors for No. 2 sack, both of clever ability. Bob Johnson "short," is good material and possesses a fine arm, as does Eddie Connors, covering the hot corner.

Out on the green are Joe Murphy, Dick Lynch, "Duck" Hennessey, "Hines" Sullivan, Dave Shaktman, who was recently put on the casualty list by a sprained ankle; Francis Blaney and "Count" Martin.

With the first man mentioned for every position, on the field it will take a mighty fast bunch to beat them. All the deliverers are good fielders and some can play in on the diamond.

Out of these 20 men there are 13 that made their letter on the football squad under Coach Gilmore last year, and guarantee to do better in this line of sports than in football, so you can see that it will be missing a wonderful treat to miss any of these games, so follow the team wherever it goes, and you will not be sorry.

Faculty Manager King has arranged games for the second team, and they also will have to work hard. Both teams are out to win the cups, and some good games are looked forward to when they play.

Chinese Wheelbarrows.

Probably more freight and more passengers are transported in China by the wheelbarrow than by any other land method. The wheelbarrow there used differs from that used by us, in the fact that the wheel is set in the center, and thus supports practically the entire load, while the handles are supported in part by a strap or rope over the shoulders of the man who operates it. As a result, the wheelbarrow coolie in China will transport nearly a half-ton on his vehicle.

Another Victory for

Allen's Lung Healer

Lung Cough and Pneumonia flee before the conqueror.

Desiring to add her testimony for the benefit of sufferers from Lung Colds, Mrs. Froberger of 21 Grove St., Lynn, has given us permission to publish this letter.

Mr. H. J. Allen:

Dear Sir: I have used Allen's Lung Healer for several years and have always found it very effective for all lung affections. Early in the Fall of 1916 I contracted a very severe cold on the lungs that soon developed into a harsh, rasping cough. I could find nothing to relieve me and I lost weight and became badly run down. My lungs finally became congested and I was on the verge of pneumonia, if not actually in its grip. Just at this time your Lung Healer was recommended to me and I got a bottle and began to use it. The congestion disappeared in a few days and in a few weeks the cough was entirely cured and my general health restored. I heartily recommend your wonderful medicine to anyone suffering from a cough or cold on the lungs. I am now giving it to my baby for whooping cough with beneficial results.

DAY WORKERS WIN INCREASE FROM MANUFACTURERS--- STRIKE LESS LIKELY TO COME

(By Energy)

May first is near at hand. No one seems to know just what will happen, for rumors are plenty that a strike will take place, and others prophecy there will be no strike. The National Company which includes in this city A. C. Lawrence Leather Company and the National Calfskin Company, have delivered their ultimatum to the Union. While I may not have the details of that ultimatum, this concern, who employ 4000 people, have granted an increase to the day workmen, which amounts to 5 to 15 per cent. Piece workmen are not given an increase. The Manufacturers' Association are no doubt in touch with these proceedings, but I am not qualified to give the why's and wherefore's.

The beamhouse contains perishable stock. The tanhouse contains skins which must be cared for in a reasonable time. From what I can gather the manufacturers have arranged to have those departments in shape for a shut down should it become necessary. With the leather market in its present shape, no time in the last four years has a shut down been so acceptable. I presume the leather workers realize this condition, but whether they will heed it, remains to be seen.

The class of workmen who are receiving the smallest wages are the day men. It has been recognized that they should receive an increase in all fairness. But as I have said in former letters, the wages in Peabody are much higher than in many western factories. Without starting an argument as to the rights of the workmen, and they surely have those rights, unless wages are equalized throughout the trade, something must happen. That is the story as I see it, and any fair-minded man must agree, that I am right. A strike in Peabody May first will cost thousands of dollars. It will come harder on the working man than anyone else. If he can get his demands it will be well worth trying for. If he does not succeed, it will be the beginning of a downward course, to end where? Let some one predict. I am not qualified.

Business is slow. Some kinds of stock are moving well, others lagging. Cheap grades have come into their own, which can mean but one thing, a cheaper shoe is asked for. This condition is a healthy one. It also helps to clean up lots which is greeted by the manufacturer with pleasure. There must be a collection of cheap stock in the market. In fact there is no cause for alarm about a shortage, which did exist a year ago.

Foreign business is fair. Those countries not directly affected by the war are buying shoes and leather. England is making a bid for the business, and Germany, with all its troubles, is doing something in that direction. We must expect this competition, but should fare better now than in former years, because of having our trade established. I do not hear of many large orders for shoes and leather from Europe. There can be no doubt but what much leather is needed there, but the wherewith to pay for it holds up the business. I presume Germany is making plenty of leather. In fact, their leather factories were busy throughout the war, and are now producing normal quantities.

John E. Fitzgerald is on his way to Germany to visit the interests he represents in the Turner Tanning Machinery Company. This concern owns a large machinery plant in Germany, and their foreign business is a big item. During the war this plant was isolated from the rest of the world. It was presumed the business continued, for the machinery was needed by the Germans, to shoe their soldiers. The Turners have have representatives in England also, and sell the Englishmen much machinery.

While there appeared to be little building in 1919, the sum total of new buildings, new machinery and additions will be as much as in former years. In fact, there has been more new machinery installed in the factories in the last year than in many years in the past. And this machinery is of the expensive kind, in fact all machinery is of the expensive kind today. But the idea of labor saving has gained a strong foothold in all plants of size. Measuring machines are the same old nightmare. Loss of measurement is the story most of the time. Think of one concern this week who finished 500 sides daily and lost one quarter of a foot to the side, because their machine was out of order. One case of many.

The freight situation is some better, I am informed. This does not mean that there is a clear line, but in another month it is predicted that one can get better results. When leather will not be taken for New York City, which is the main artery of the trade, it is more than serious. Meanwhile motor trucks have reaped a harvest, and with their winter's experience they need a rich one. Country shoe factories have suffered the most by those embargoes, even to shutting down for lack of leather and supplies.

John E. Hasseltine, who started in business a few months ago, in a factory on Bridge street, reports a business which warrants more space. The specialty of this concern is to refinish leather by the smuffing process. Mr. Hasseltine's venture has proved to be a winner, and we wish him success.

HOME TO IRELAND

William Draper, a resident of this city for the past 37 years, sailed last Saturday for Liverpool, en route to his old home in County Cork, Ireland, to spend the remaining years of his life. He had resided on High street for many years, and was employed at the Hunt-Rankin Leather Co., as a fireman. He buried his wife last winter. There were no children. It took two months for him to get a passport.

Ernest Dodge has purchased a Buick car, and is getting down some of the fine points in driving.

200 Children Entertain At May Festival

Peabody's May festival to be held in City Hall tomorrow afternoon and evening will be one of the best entertainments ever presented in this city, and a record house is sure to attend both functions. The afternoon session will open at 2 o'clock, with an attractive program of dances, sketches and musical numbers. The children of the primary grades will participate during the afternoon, crowning the May Queen, as the conclusion of the party. In the evening a similar program is scheduled, with pupils of the High school giving the entertainment.

The committee in charge announces today additional numbers on the program as follows: "Butterfly dance" by Pheobe O'Connor; "Newsboy and Aviation girl," Alice Elliott; a sketch, "In the park" by Florence and Marguerite Goodwin; musical review by Alice Duffy; "Chinese romance" by Eva Lonas and Alice McPhee, and a Russian dance by Alice Elliott. The "Gold Dust Twins," a sketch presented by Judith Barnes and Nathalie Lane, will be given both afternoon and evening. This is one of the big feature numbers on the program.

More than 2000 tickets have been sold for the big festival and the committee in charge is elated at the success of its rehearsals for the party.

There will be a lunch table with everything that goes to make a buffet lunch, and people planning on seeing the evening performance, as well as the matinee, can be served in the hall, without being obliged to go home. The evening entertainment will open at 8 o'clock. It is expected the gallery will be well filled with spectators.

Edward Simon of 16 Sherman st. is in the J. B. Thomas Hospital with a case of anthrax with splendid chances of recovery. He is being attended by Dr. Lawrence K. Kelley. Simon worked at the Verza Leather Company.

REFERENDUM ON SUNDAY SPORTS.

If the City Council over-rides the Mayor's veto on the Sunday sports, notice of a referendum will be filed with the Council, according to a report now going the rounds. Mayor Donnell has had a large number of complimentary letters on his veto from people in and out of the city.

The Basis of Optimism

Somebody described an optimist as a man falling from a twenty-story window, and saying as he passed the tenth floor: "I'm all right so far."

It is all right to be an optimist, but we should have some basis for our optimism.

PEABODY TO SEE MORE STREETS BUILT THIS YEAR

Peabody may build some more permanent streets this year, if official data in the hands of the Mayor allows him to go before the City Council at their next meeting and ask their cooperation in bringing about the necessary appropriation.

As a result of his interview at the State House Mayor Donnell has reason to believe that the income tax returns from the foreign corporations will yield much more revenue to the city than was expected some months ago. In addition to this the city has $30,000 more surplus in its treasury than had been anticipated, and the receipts from the water department are so much greater, owing to increased consumption, that the Mayor sees a way in which to build more permanent streets this year.

The unexpected cash revenues in sight make the Mayor confident that Peabody can have a tax rate which will be at least $10 lower than any other city of similar size in the State, which holds promise of the 1920 rate being announced at not more than $20.

Because all corporations enjoyed an unprecedented year last year in prosperity, the income tax yield to the State will greatly exceed the early figured amount of revenue, and it is this fact that will return much more money to the cities and towns, where foreign corporations do business.

Peabody paid a State tax last year of $60,000, and it is not believed the increase this year will exceed more than 10 per cent. of that amount, making it $66,000. The county tax, Mayor Donnell believes, will be about the same as last year.

Mayor Donnell will be prepared to

NEEDLE WORK EXHIBITS HAVE BOOMED MERCHANTS WEEK SALE

Peabody merchants report a good business as a result of the window exhibits arranged this week by the Chamber of Commerce, and while the rainy weather of the earlier part of the week kept trade away, the first merchants' week is held to have been successful.

Hundreds of people have inspected the various windows arranged for the merchants' week and much praise is heard for the promoters and the exhibitors of the handsome array of needlework and drawings.

Beginning at the Standard Hardware Co., 59 Main street, the exhibit of a hand-braided rug, done by Mrs. Frank W. Carleton, has evinced much favorable comment, and the drawings by S. Rafey, the proprietor of the store, have come in for much commendation.

Lace work done by Mrs. Annie L. Gannon of 114 Foster street makes a pleasing exhibit in the Robinson Five and Ten Cent store. The drawings by the school children of the primary grades occupy windows in Sawyer's and Lawrence Bros., while some clever poster work and drawings by High school pupils, make a most attractive exhibit at Raddin's.

A collection of writs, bearing the date of 1763, and some Confederate money, taken from Gen. Lee's army train at his surrender, made an exhibit by Capt. Norman W. Torrey in the Warren National Bank window. Another interesting collection in the same window are some Greek coins, believed to have been in circulation during the time of Christ. These are exhibited by A. Couris, who dug them up in Sparta, Greece, when he was a young boy.

Unquestionably the most artistic needle work shown in the exhibits are those of the pupils of the Sisters' School, connected with St. John's parish. Windows of Curtis' drug store and Parke Snow Co. set off this handsome fancy needle work, that attests only too well, the innate ability of the Sisters in the instruction work.

That Peabody has a painter who can rate as no mean artist with the brush and palette, is shown at the George H. Jacobs Co. store, where one of the show windows is filled with handsome paintings from the work of

CITY HALL GOSSIP

Jere J. Quirk, chairman of the Board of Assessors, returned last week from a week's visit in Washington, D. C. While at the Capitol he occupied a seat in the senator's gallery as guest of Senator Walsh, and was a guest in the House gallery of Congressman Phelan. Assessor Quirk has a number of close friends in the Capitol. He reports a very pleasant visit in Washington.

It looks as though there would be some sparring to avoid the $5.00 poll tax this year. It is surprising how many there are who want the other fellow to pay the expenses of governing. It will require quick work to get poll taxes this year. The city is bound to lose some of them which means a loss of $8.00 a head.

When we read of the hold up at South Braintree it gave us food for thought. To be shot down in cold blood without a chance to defend one's self is tough. It may never happen in Peabody, let us hope not. But if it was recognized that most people could shoot a gun or revolver accurately such men would not take chances. The fact is policemen should be made to shoot well. It may be our force can do the trick, but it is not generally thought so.

Charles H. Cotton will be a candidate for Councillor-at-large this fall. He should make a strong run and be elected.

What about the new telephone system for the police?

What about that leak in Ward 4? Some say 1,000,000 gallons of water run to waste each day and the department contend that this water came from the sewer. The water being so clear, looks more like city water than sewer. Anyhow fix it Mr. Emerson.

Mayor Donnell will probably soon name the new permanent policeman to take the place of Patrolman Paterson, who will be retired on a pension.

Engineer Emerson's car is hardly in keeping with the rest of his outfit. Not only is the city engineer's name eliminated but the whole front of the car looks like a camouflaged battleship. There may be some methods in it so they cannot see him coming.

We do not hear about coal for public buildings of late. That unsightly pile back of City Hall is missing and from some standpoints all is well. But coal must be forthcoming even if it costs a cent for each pound.

When the large hall is filled as it was at the fireman's ball, many wonder if the building can well carry the enormous weight. If state inspectors say yes that must settle it, but a building erected in 1883 must be more than well built to stand the enormous strain.

Peabody's new two-platoon system in the fire department is giving every permanent man a chance to learn the art of driving a motor, which accounts for the frequent appearance on the highways of the fire apparatus.

Col. James J. Ray, head of the health department, appeals to all citizens, to clean up yards next week during the campaign to dress up the city in its new Spring garb.

West Peabody

Miss Evelina G. Martin visited friends in Dorchester over the weekend.

Miss Susan E. Danforth of Lowell street is visiting her sister, Mrs. Bernard Love of Sandown, N. H.

The following pupils of the West school have had perfect attendance during the month of April. Grade eight: Doris Durkee, Verna Brown, Lillian Rankin, Louise Small and Ruth Walker. Grade seven: Clyde Brown, Harold Durkee, Helen Peterson, Evelyn Rogers and Henry Ziskowski. Grade six: Herbert Johnson, John Mason, Emily Miller, Frances Monson, Nancy Mackie and Elmer Moody. Grade five: Irene Durkee, Catherine Houghton, Bertha Lane, Mildred Tenney and Daniel Small. Grade three: Grace Houghton and Edward Moore. Grade four: Angela Kogut, Alice Leach, Albert Miller and Arthur Moore. Grade two: Muriel Macdonald and Arthur Gebow. Grade one: John Morse, Alice Macdonald, Lena Kawalski, Sophie Kogut and William Oelcher.

Don't forget the dance and whist party tonight in the school hall. Music will be furnished by Potter's orchestra.

There will be a concert in the school hall, tomorrow evening by Rev. Leslie Miller, accompanied by Rev. Fred D. Gealy. Stereopticon slides will be shown.

J. L. Morris, overseer of the A. V. Phillips farm, is visiting in Nova Scotia.

Irving Hatch, and family have moved from Newbury street to Forest street.

The books of the West Congregational Sunday School library are now ready for distribution. The books can be obtained after church or Sunday School.

The magazine table is also in running order, and anyone can have a magazine by signing their name in the note book left there for that purpose.

Virginia Carten, with a few of the Soewampansett Camp Fire Girls, is spending the vacation at Sagamore Beach.

The Dressmaking Class, which met last Monday afternoon, under the supervision of Gladys E. Stratton and Mrs. MacIntire, will discontinue until fall.

Mrs. H. H. White and daughter Mariana left for Plainville, N. Y., where they will join N. H. White.

Mrs. Imogene Covey, daughter of Gilbert E. Lane, who has been ill for the past few months, is steadily improving.

Mrs. Hannah Keegan, who was taken to the Salem Hospital, Monday, where she underwent an operation for appendicitis, is improving.

A rehearsal of the third degree of the Grange and the tableaux was held Tuesday night. The next rehearsal will be held Monday night next.

Miss Susan Danforth acted as substitute teacher in the West school of the fifth and sixth grades.

Friends of Mrs. Lewis A. Felt and Mildred McKenzie extend to them their deepest sympathy on the death of the brother, Orlando McKenzie. Mr. McKenzie was ex-Representative from Norfolk county to the State Legislature. He died very suddenly of heart failure. The funeral will be Sunday at his late home in Foxboro.

Mrs. Mary W. Rankin and daughter, Lillian, are visiting relatives in Cliftondale for a few days.

Mrs. Lawrence Durkee and daughters Irene and Mildred, are visiting in Belmont.

West Church

Services are as follows: Morning service at 10.30, theme, "Vicarious Living." Sunday School at 11.45; Y. P. S. C. E. at 6.30. Stereopticon slides will be shown for the evening service at 8 o'clock, instead of 7.30 o'clock on account of Daylight Saving plan.

'Len' Cassidy Accepts Offer In West Indies

Leonard B. Cassidy, World's War veteran, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Cassidy, of 11 Sutton street, sails for Santo Domingo, West Indies, next month, where he will enter the employ of a public service corporation, financed by a Boston banking house. Another Peabody boy may accompany him to enter the employ of the same concern. He is due to sail from New York on May 19.

Cassidy was formerly employed at the A. C. L. Leather Co., and numbers many warm friends. He has been one of the best amateur players in local theatricals. In the war service he tried several times to enlist, only to be turned down for some minor defect, but finally got into the service and obtained the rating of a sergeant, attached to the department of the Northeast. The United States government is supervising the collection of customs' duties in San Domingo and U. S. marines police the island.

Camp Fire Girls Need Secretary

This section needs a field secretary to help organize new Camp Fire Girl groups, and also to strengthen weak Camp Fires. It also needs to keep its splendid headquarters in Boston. Teachers in the different crafts are needed to visit the different groups. A large camp is needed to accommodate Camp Fire Girls of all Greater Boston.

The drive will start May 10th and will continue two weeks. Every town and section will welcome the opportunity to show the Camp Fire Girls their appreciation of the services they have rendered, and Peabody will feel under obligation to the girls who worked so hard on the Community House drive for funds.

One Camp Fire alone raised over $800. The work of the Peabody girls was noted and written up in the columns of the Sunday Herald, under "Camp Fire Girls." This account has called forth much comment and praise for the work of the girls. Peabody will not be slow to recognize their indebtedness to Camp Fire Girls, and with its usual generous civic pride, will assist the girls in raising their quota. The local committee will be announced next week.

MAY FESTIVAL TO BE GRAND AFFAIR THIS YEAR

The committee in charge of the May Festival have practically completed arrangements for the biggest and gayest affair ever held in Peabody, and it is expected that several hundred dollars will be turned over to the Community House. There will be an entertainment in the afternoon and also in the evening.

There will be the following booths placed around the hall: South church—Flowers, Mrs. S. Howard Donnell, chairlady; Universalist—Cake, Mrs. Frank Childs, chairlady; Unitarian—Fortune Telling, Miss Nellie Merrill, chairlady; Episcopal—Tea room, Miss Anna Taylor, chairlady; Baptist—Popcorn, Miss Alice Lawrence, chairlady; Woman's Club—Jumble, Mrs. Frank Lindsey, chairlady; Red Cross—Punch, Mrs. Millette, chairlady; Camp Fire Girls—Candy, Mrs. Sadie Porter, chairlady; Girl Scouts—Mystery, Mrs. George Howes, chairlady; Boy Scouts—Groceries, Mr. Ernest Sprague, chairman; Methodist—Ice cream, Mrs. Harrison Foster, chairlady.

Women's Auxiliary American Legion

At the meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of the American Legion held at the Legion headquarters, Tuesday evening last, the following officers were elected for the year 1920:

President, Mrs. Katherine F. Cassidy; Vice President, Mrs. Elizabeth Palmer Little; Secretary, Miss Anna T. Carbery; Treasurer, Miss Helen M. Sullivan. Executive Committee—Mrs. Jessie Fife, chairlady; Mrs. Catherine F. Boyle, Miss Mary V. Carbery.

The first big undertaking by the Women's Auxiliary will be to provide a lunch for the American Legion on participants in the Memorial Day parade. Miss Catherine M. Sullivan and Miss Mary R. Mathews head this committee.

The Auxiliary, under the supervision of Mrs. Rennie, Mrs. Hutchinson, Mrs. Della Wells, Miss Ethel Boyle and Miss Catherine F. Rossley, will hold a public novelty party on the evening of April 29, at the Legion hall, O'Shea block.

The next meeting of the Auxiliary will take place on Monday evening, April 26.

DISCOUNT WEEK--- EXHIBITION READY

The exhibits from St. John's School, which will be on exhibition in windows of Park Snow and George Curtis' Drug Store, are under the direction of the Sisters of Notre Dame.

The free hand and mechanical drawing by the High school pupils under the direction of Miss Grace E. Lord will be on exhibition in the window of Altona Raddin, and the exhibits of the Grammar schools, under the direction of Miss Berry, will be in the following windows: W. F. Sawyer, Lawrence Bros.

The sewing exhibition of the grammar schools under the direction of Mrs. Edith Holman will be in the modern 5 and 10c store window.

The Community House Cooking exhibition will be in W. A. Shaw's cigar store window.

Community House manual training exhibition will be in S. H. Ware's window and the dressmaking and millinery in the windows of the Young Men's Shop.

Individual exhibitions as follows: Window of Chamber of Commerce, Article war relics, displayed by Robert A. Babson; W. P. Elwell, hand-made cards; Patrick P. O'Keefe, Men's Style Shop, inland boxes; George R. Jaudon.

The Basis of Optimism

Somebody described an optimist as a man falling from a twenty-story window, and saying as he passed the tenth floor: "I'm all right so far."

It is all right to be an optimist, but we should have some basis for our optimism.

If a man's money is piling up constantly in his Savings Bank, he is an intelligent optimist.

COUNCIL ADOPTS SUNDAY SPORTS

The acceptance by unanimous vote of the city council, last evening, of Chapter 240 of the Acts of 1920, which permits of Sunday sports, led to a warm discussion which was started by Councillor Sullivan, who said that the mayor would veto the action of the council and it would be submitted to referendum. He therefore moved that the proposition to appropriate $5000.00 for a new high schoolhouse be submitted to the voters at the same time and that a special election be held on June 8 to vote on these questions.

Councillor Reed replied that if the people wanted a referendum they should take the initiative but that the councillors were there to act and they should first vote on the school proposition. Councillor Hogan said if the mayor vetoed their acceptance of the act, the council was going to fall down after the unanimous vote it had taken, if it did not pass the act again over his veto. There was no need of a referendum.

Mayor Donnell addressed the council briefly and recommended selling the old steam road roller, which the city engineer said was not needed, and which was appraised at $2000. A contractor named Nelson, who has work on the Andover turnpike was ready to buy it and had offered $1750 for it. The council voted to leave the matter with the mayor and committee

Holten Lodge To Celebrate 101st Anniversary

Holten Lodge, No. 104, I. O. O. F., will celebrate the 101st anniversary of Odd Fellowship in Peabody Institute on Wednesday evening the 28th.

The entertainers are from the Redpath Lyceum Bureau, and the concert will be one of the finest ever offered in the city.

All members of the order, also resident members of other cities who have not called for their tickets, may obtain same from the committee: Charles Putnam, D. W. Combs, Walter Beckett, Horace Dodge and A. E. Sillars.

Pupils Collect $105. In Junk

The pupils of the Wallis school collected junk and old paper during the past 10 days, that netted them the sum of $105.35. The eighth grade won the prize for collecting the most junk, and will be given an ice cream party.

FAREWELL BANQUET

Company E held a banquet at the State armory, and theatre party at Empire theatre, as a fitting windup of its career as a company, as it will soon disband in favor of the National Guard, which is now forming. The wives and friends were the guests of the evening. Among those from Peabody who attended were: Mr. and Mrs. Louis Nichols, Mr. and Mrs. Drinkwater, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Newhall, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Raymond and Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Raymond.

With the Employees of A. C. LAWRENCE LEATHER COMPANY

William Dorn of Jacobs street, kneestaker in A building, passed away Wednesday, after a very short illness with double pneumonia. His family have the sincere sympathies of his many friends at the plant.

Frank Bowden of Marblehead has returned to his work at the Curry department, after an illness of two weeks.

Russell Murphy, who was attached to the A. C. L. baseball team for a period last summer, has been appointed coach of the Marblehead High team for this season.

Albert Arsenault, foreman in the Mechanical department, is the proud father of a baby daughter, born this week.

Miss Katherine Graham of the sheepskin department has resigned her position in order to go back to her home in Nova Scotia.

John Doherty of the Curry department, was one of the end men who starred in the minstrel show of the firemen this week. Ed Carbery of the National storehouse was musical director of the show.

Miss Doris McMahon has been absent from her duties at the main office for several days on account of illness.

George T. Fuller has accepted a position as clerk in the pigskin office, and has entered upon his duties.

Miss Mary Buckley of the National office spent the holidays in New London, Conn., visiting friends.

The new storehouse and administration building at the National is beginning to assume proportions, and an excellent idea of the size of the structure may be had now that the first floor has been laid.

The monthly meeting of the superintendents and foremen, which was scheduled for this week, has been postponed, owing to the unavoidable delay in laying the new floor in the restaurant, caused by the recent freight tie up.

Miss Nellie Crowley of the Japan office spent the holidays in Fall River with friends and relatives.

Arthur Ellis of the A. C. L. Americanization Committee, taught the Chamber of Commerce Citizenship class last evening, having volunteered his services during the illness of Mr. Bakeman, the regular instructor.

William Higgins of the hide shaving department had the misfortune of losing his Ford touring car while in Salem the other evening. The season for auto thieving seems to be open, but public sentiment favors little short of hanging for his particular brand of snake.

A. E. Durkee of the finished Nubuck sorting room appeared this week with a seven-passenger Chalmers touring car.

The question of amateur or professional baseball to represent the plant this year is occupying the minds of the fans at present, Sporting Editor Sonigan having asked the opinion of the "A. C. L." Magazine readers in the last issue.

Plowing is being done on the A. C.

Lowell Street

Elizabeth Ingraham spent the holiday in Reading.

Mrs. Henry Pushard has returned from a month's visit in New York.

Miss Ilene Masterson spent the week-end in New York.

The Friday Evening Sewing Club will meet with Miss Doris Kingsley of King street, this evening.

Mr. and Mrs. John Dow are making their home with the former's father on Endicott street with whom Mr. Dow will engage in business.

Mrs. Warren Shaw entertained her whist club Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Little spent the week-end in Walpole.

Miss Eliza Osgood of Orchard street and Mrs. George King of Forest street spent the holiday at the Newhall camp on the Ipswich river.

Mrs. Tumulty of Thorndike street has been visiting for the week, including the holiday, but has now returned.

Karl Woodman left Sunday for a business trip through New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Crane of Woonsocket, R. I., were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Crane over the weekend.

Mrs. Howard Kneeland and Miss Sylvia Wentworth of Malden were the guests of Mrs. C. H. Wentworth, Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Glackin of Endicott street and Miss Mary Ratcliff of Franklin street are among the persons taking part in the Springtime frolics given by the Now and Thens in Salem next Tuesday and Wednesday.

Arthur Glackin is the owner of a Commonwealth touring car, having sold his Ford runabout this week.

Arthur Brown of the Curry department left this week to take a position at his profession as chauffeur for a retired shoe manufacturer in Salem.

James D'Entremont of Salem is a new comer to the beamhouse this week, as is also Walter Baker of Danvers.

William Bluett of Elm street entered the employ of the company this week in the embossing department.

Mathew Comisky of Church street has started to work in the mechanical department at the Waters River plant.

David O'Neil is a new man in the white alum department this week.

Court George Peabody, No. 207, F. of A. will hold a meeting this evening at 8 o'clock. Every member is requested to be present as business of importance will be transacted.

Holten lodge, I. O. O. F., will observe their 101st anniversary next Wednesday evening.

Division 11, A. O. H. attended mass in a body at St. John's church last Monday. The service was in memoriam for the deceased members of the society.

Loyal Order of Moose held a very successful stag party at their hall last Tuesday evening. The lodge expects to resume this popular form of entertainment again in the fall.

Jordan lodge has accepted an invitation of Wor. and Rev. Dr. Beal to attend the morning service May 16 at St. Paul's church.

Peabody lodge, Knights of Pythias, third rank team will hold a meeting in Odd Fellows' hall, Sunday A. M. Every member is requested to be present.

WOMEN OF MOOSEHEART LEGION

The women of Mooseheart Legion will hold a public costume dancing party at Moose hall on the evening of May 5th. The Waverly orchestra will render music for the dancing. Four prizes will be awarded for the cleverest costumes. The judges will be Mrs. Charles P. Cooney, Lawyer Horace Farnum and Thomas Langan, Jr., Dictator of the L. O. O. Moose. Mrs. Sarah Kelly and Miss Helen M. Sullivan are in direct charge with active committees assisting.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts, Probate Court. To the heirs-at-law, next of kin, creditors, and all other persons interested in the estate of Stefanos Andreadon, late of Peabody, in said County of Essex, who died in Lynn in said County of Essex, intestate, leaving estate in said County of Essex to be administered, and not leaving a known widow—or heir in this Commonwealth,—and to the Treasurer and Receiver General of said Commonwealth:

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court to grant letters of administration on the estate of said deceased to Guy C. Richards, public administrator in and for said County of Essex:

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Lawrence, in said County of Essex, on the tenth day of May, A. D., 1920, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And the said public administrator is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Peabody Enterprise, a newspaper published in Peabody, the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and by serving a copy of said citation on the Treasurer and Receiver General of said Commonwealth, fourteen days at least before said court.

Witness Harry R. Dow, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twenty-first day of April, in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty.

West Peabody

A large brush fire in the rear of Goodale street attracted a large crowd. Chemicals of Peabody and West Peabody turned out. The residents of neighboring houses and companies of Boy Scouts did good work in preventing the spread of the fire. The properties of Frank Gowan, John Macdonald, Daniel Flint, Frank Kiley, Gus Fischer, Frank Grant and Clarence Tibbetts were greatly endangered.

John Jarvis, five-months-old baby of Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Tenney was christened in the West church Sunday, April 18.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jolly and children, former residents of this town, have moved into the house owned by Joseph Norvak on the corner of Lake and Lowell street.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Fischer and daughter Arline of Forest Hills, Boston, spent the week-end with Mrs. Fischer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kruger.

Misses Florence Martin and Mildred Calhoun of Waltham and Mrs. F. W. Graham and son, Robert, of Melrose, spent the holiday at the home of Mrs. T. A. Martin.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Leach spent the holiday with Mrs. B. P. Danforth.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Young are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter, at the Thomas hospital.

H. H. White took his Sunday School class to hear the large organ in Memorial hall, Melrose, last Sunday. There are only three such organs in the country.

The following candidates took the first and second degrees in the Grange last Friday evening: Audrey Macdonald, Raymond Macdonald, Verna Brown, Mabelle Leach, Mrs. Jennie Whitehouse, Mrs. Minnie Bishop.

Mrs. Gertrude Durkee, John Monson, Walter White, Ernest Southwick, Arthur Legro, Mr. and Mrs. Levi Hadley, Robert Fischer and Louise Broderick.

Lewis A. Felt has accepted a position with O'Keeffe in Salem as auto mechanic.

Several members of the West Peabody Grange took the fifth degree at Beverly last Wednesday evening.

Dorothy Bixby spent the week-end holidays at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Sheen of Broad street.

William Pierd and family moved from their home on Lake street to Wakefield, on Wednesday.

Frank Orman, who has been living at the home of C. E. Leach for more than a year, is now living in Lynnfield.

Maud Macdonald spent the holidays with her relatives in Beverly.

Robert Gallup of Broad street has purchased a new Maxwell touring car and is awaiting its arrival.

Gladys Durkee will spend the week-end at Danvers, where she will attend the "Junior Prom."

A good attendance is hoped for at the Whist party and dance to be held at the schoolhouse hall next Friday evening, the 30th, under the management of Everett E. White. Music will be furnished by Potter's Orchestra. Dancing will be enjoyed from 8 until 12.

The friends of Mr. and Mrs. Cushman of Forest street extend their heartiest sympathies at the recent death of their five-months-old son.

The friend of Mr. Daniel Sheen are glad to hear that he is fast recovering from his recent illness.

Great improvement has been made on the grounds about the house, owned by Roy Felt, by the tearing down of several old buildings.

Jackson Stevens, who has lived at the home of Mrs. Prime of Newbury street for nearly two years, has gone back to his home in Maine.

Miss Nellie Taylor will be at the home of her brother in Melrose for a time as she is unable to attend her work.

The friends of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Green extend their sympathies at the death of their son, William, who died Sunday morning at the Thomas hospital. He was a sergeant in Co. D of the 30th supply train, and saw much heavy fighting while in France. He was buried Wednesday morning.

PRIZE STORIES WRITTEN BY HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS

An Interesting Trip Through Historic Salem, written by Elizabeth Thompson, a sub-freshman, is the best story this week, and a good idea of the Present Problems of Emigration and Immigration is given in the second best essay by Bertha Guillemette, a junior. Miss Thompson is the daughter of Joseph J. Thompson, 35 Glendale avenue, and Miss Guillemette is the daughter of Arthur Guillemette of 18 Oakland street.

"THE OLDEST CITY IN NEW ENGLAND."

(Elizabeth Thompson, '25.)

The oldest city in New England is Salem, Massachusetts. It was settled within six years after the arrival of the "Mayflower," at Plymouth, by Roger Conant and his little band of settlers, the first white people to settle the wilderness of Massachusetts. Landmarks in the way of houses with that first century of Salem's history are naturally not many, for building and rebuilding to take care of the increased growth in population for 200 years has caused them to be replaced by less aged houses, but there are still standing a few old dwellings that were erected before the year of 1700, retaining their quaint architecture and original timbers.

In the old burying ground on Charter street, one can walk about among the headstones that mark the graves of those brave pioneers of that early day. In the fine museum of antiquity at the Essex Institute, one can see the specimens of the wigs they wore, the queer bonnets for the ladies, the tinder box, the old pewter dishes and blue china they used, the foot stove they took to church to keep their feet warm, flax wheels and quilting frames used by the housewives, sun dials and many other interesting utensils.

Essex street was originally an Indian path through the forest. Near the corner of Essex and Washington streets is the spot where Roger Conant erected the first house built in Salem, and near here also was the first meetinghouse. On Gallows Hill, in 1692, the condemned witches were hanged. Up Washington street, a few paces, was located the Whipping Post, where all public offenders were beaten with the lash. Here in the old city have Generals Washington, Lafayette, Gage and many other eminent men paraded as invited guests of the city.

Salem's crowning glory was her shipping and commerce. A time there was when China and Japan were well known to Salem. The ships that Salem built and the ships she manned were penetrating every port in the world, carrying to many of them the flag of a new and unknown country. As early as 1629, fishing had become an established industry, and 20 years later, Salem was sending her exports to the West Indies and even across to Spain, France and Holland. When Salem's commerce had become progressive, Salem's ship builders supplied the demands. Ship yards crowded upon one another, and fleet after fleet of Salem's-built, as well as Salem's-built vessels of all kinds began to increase in number.

Large houses, large even for the present day, were also built. The days of Salem's shipping is past, but if one would want to visit the scenes of that busy activity, a walk down Derby street would be of interest, for Just Where and How Is the Money to be Spent?

A businesslike answer to a businesslike question

THIRTY denominations cooperating in the Inter-church World Movement have budgeted their needs. No business could have done it more scientifically.

They have united to prevent the possibility of duplication or waste. At least a million dollars will be saved by the fact that thirty individual campaigns are joined in one united effort.

Each denomination has arranged its budget under six main heads:

1 FOR THE CHURCH'S WORK AT HOME. A score of items come under this head. Consider only one. Five and a half million people in the United States cannot even read and write the English language. Who is to carry forward this vast work of Americanization if the church does not?

2 FOR HOSPITALS AND HOMES. Every year thousands of men and women seriously ill are turned away from Church hospitals because of lack of room. The children's homes are compelled to turn away more children than they can receive.

3 FOR HIGHER EDUCATION. Of the 450,000 American students in institutions of higher grade, one-half are in institutions founded and supported by the Churches. Many of these institutions have had no great endowment campaigns, but their needs are just as pressing as the needs of larger schools; and you have only to read their list of alumni and alumnae to measure the value of their contribution to America.

4 FOR RELIGIOUS TRAINING. At least 12,000,000 children and young people under 25 years of age are entering American life without any religious training at all. Remembering the faith of Washington and Lincoln, do you think that America will continue to produce Washingtons and Lincolns if faith dies out of the hearts of its youth?

5 FOR THE CHURCH'S WORK ABROAD. Influenza came first from the Orient thirty years ago; nearly all plagues are Oriental plagues. So long as China has only one physician to every 400,000 people the Orient will continue to be a menace. So long as one-third of the babies of India die before their second year our own babies are not safe. A Christian doctor or teacher sent abroad is working for America as truly as though he worked at home.

6 PREACHERS' SALARIES. The preacher is called the "forgotten man," and well he may be. Eight out of ten preachers are paid less than $20 a week!

Each denomination has its own detailed budget, and will administer its own funds. Your pastor has copies of the budget; examine them for yourself. In the week of April 25th-May 2nd you will be given your opportunity to help. You can do it with the full satisfaction of knowing that every dollar of your gift has its post assigned to it in advance.

Every dollar for better America and a better world. When your church calls on you give—and give with your heart as well as your pocket-book.

LEATHER NOTES

(By Energy)

The leather business in Peabody at this writing is slow. Some class of stock is in demand, but there is no real life to the business. As May 1 is near at hand and the demand for increase in wages faces the manufacturers, perhaps some of the dullness might be attributed to this factor. But judging from the past, if business warranted a raise in wages, and as it has been granted, there appears no reason why it would not be at this time but for the fact that conditions will not warrant a raise. I have dwelt on this matter before, but it does not take much figuring to find out that competition makes prices, and if one section of the country can manufacture leather for less than other sections, that advantage cannot be overcome for any length of time.

The high cost of living gives all but the rich man much to think about. The profiteers appear to be barefaced today, with little restraint coming from the government to stop high prices. Supply and demand has always been the rule to govern prices. But there are ways to smother the supply thus holding prices. We are wending our way with our rudder not working. So the workingman is facing times where clear judgment should be used as to wages.

The strike of railroad men has apparently come to an end. It will take many weeks to straighten out the tangle of freight which has collected mountain high at shipping points, but there seems to be nothing in sight now to stop our returning to normal conditions. Leather manufacturers here and elsewhere have been short of materials, particularly those which come from long freight points. Motor trucks, which during the winter were of little use, now have come into their own, and have transported big freight to help out the embargo. I cannot estimate the number of trucks which ply between Boston and Peabody. But there are scores of them and the combined amount means several carloads. As the tendency is to increase, I wonder if eventually the business will be all done that way. For years in the 80's Munroe and Arnold kept a two-horse team on the road between these places. And so we are simply copying the old ways.

The new National Calfskin building is excavating is practically completed and each day will show from now on. The building for the mechanical department at the A. C. Lawrence plant is moving along fast and will be a good addition to that plant from a building standpoint. The Densten Hair Company have added a mill constructed building to their plant which has increased the appearance 100 per cent. Hunt Rankin Leather Company have a power plant the equal of any for up-to-date construction. One who has visited power plants expects to see powerful engines at work. At this plant there is an engine they told us but all that could be seen was a case of steel without motion. If a lot of Chinese figures were placed before one, he would know more about them than this power plant, unless it was one acquainted with the mysteries of electricity. This concern has improved their plant 100 percent in the last three years. The Snyder's who own the former O'Shea plant on Main street have indeed a modern plant. They are equipped to finish many thousand dozen skins daily, the number varying according to kind. I used to visit this plant when Edward Jacobs run it. Afterward Patrick Lennox made combination goat there with a reputation of the best. There are two cellars, one below the other. They have been greatly improved, and there was plenty of cause for improvement. The large addition on Caller street gives a big increase in floor space, while the ell toward the Morrill Leather Company completes a plant of modern proportions. This concern's a decided addition to Peabody's leather business. Thomas H. O'Shea had nearly completed a new plant on Grove street before his death. Thomas J. O'Shea, his son, has assumed the reins and reports are circulated that he will enter the leather game. These take in about all of the new property of this kind in 1919. With the high cost of building, few have thought it good judgment to spend money in this way. New building will be high for years to come.

The A. C. Lawrence Company last year allotted over 40 acres to their employees for vegetable raising. The demand this year is large, and these 40 acres contribute enough to help dent the high cost of living. The expense this concern went to so that their employees could get the benefit, will be better appreciated when that privilege is taken away from them.

The piece leather game which attracted 100 or more to start in it, has taken a slump. Where there was that number a year ago, two-thirds have disappeared like the lonely Turk.

Speaking of Turks, many of these people are returning to their native land, and more are to follow. With a roll that would choke an elephant, they leave to return to their native land where they can live easy they think. I wonder if they know the true conditions at home? There is no doubt big changes there as well as here, for the English and French armies who dominate that region have no doubt brought about changes in living. However we should not miss them.

In Ward 4 an influx of Portuguese is noted. Bringing their families of a baker's dozen or more, they will easily dominate that ward in a short time. They are evidently taking the place of Turks in the factories, and from their past reputation they will be better substitutes. We always called that section Dublin but that name must go soon for Lisbon.

MERCHANTS MEAN BUSINESS

The new slogan of the Peabody merchants—Trade in Peabody and Save Dollars—differs from most of the hackneyed "trade at home" appeals in that Peabody merchants have every intention of backing up their slogan and making it mean exactly what it says. To this end they have just organized an extremely live division of the local Chamber of Commerce and are staging this week and next as the first step in their campaign for more business, an original sales idea that will save the purchasing public of Peabody many dollars if they take full advantage of it. There is every reason why the shops of Peabody can be made the equal of any within a radius of several miles. We have live, progressive merchants and finely located stores on better and wider streets than any of our neighboring cities. The purchasing power is here, fed by the weekly payrolls of all kinds of industries. The new Merchants' Division of the C. of C. is going to give the Peabody people reason to be proud of their retail establishments. As one means of finding out what points of their service they can improve upon, blanks have been distributed in connection with the 5% discount sale upon which patrons may make suggestions for the improvement of the shopping service. They are trying to show in every way possible that their slogan—Trade in Peabody and Save Dollars—is no idle phrase, coined to feebly instruct the people where to trade, but a genuine attempt to put Peabody on the map in retail merchandising, the same way that the manufacturers have with their industries and the city government has done in civic growth. —Here's hoping that they succeed.

OUR WATER SUPPLY.

If any one had taken the time to examine the brook that flows to the North river during the recent wet season they would have seen such a quantity of water running to waste as to cause food for thought. It meant that easily 10,000 gallons run to waste each twenty-four hours for at least four weeks. There is no reason why each year this water could not be conserved at a low cost figure. There is no reason why the manufacturers could not use this water and the cost of pumping it saved, for it would run by gravity to the largest users of water in the city, the glue factories, the Danvers Bleachery and leather plants situated near by. There are many low places through which the brooks travel. Each one of them could be made a basin by dredging which would be the big expense. To tackle this proposition at a big cost would be fool hardy. But at a minimum expense where can the city obtain water so cheaply? When engineers are employed to give advice in such matters, they naturally have in mind all parties in whom the project can help, the city who hires them and the contractors who do such work. If a private corporation tackled such a job, is there any one who thinks that an architect of the type employed by cities would be chosen for such a minor undertaking? No; get your dredgers to work and the rest is simple enough. If Peabody had but Spring and Brown's ponds together with Suntaug lake to get water then we should feel obliged to seek more water elsewhere. But with the several brooks which our city is fortunate to have within its borders, we should wake up to the fact that economy begins at home, therefore do not let this waste of water occur in our midst. Figures tell us there are at least two months' supply running to the sea, which is one-sixth of what we use. We can see this proposition only one way. We are not experts on water supply. If we can be shown that the expense of getting basins is unreasonable, then up go our hands. But we must be shown, and with all the arguments that have been heard for 14 years on this matter, no one has suggested anything that appeals to us as does conservation of what water we have before buying elsewhere.

SPECULATION SHARKS

Along with other prosperous industrial cities, Peabody is being preyed upon at present by 57 varieties of speculation sharks, who are endeavoring by "oily" and other schemes to get some easy money while the getting is good. The arguments they offer in favor of their "propositions" are almost ludicrous in some instances, but they continue to do business and thrive in spite of all warnings to the public against them. A good test to give them is to ask where you can sell their stocks should you wish to dispose of them, and insist on being shown that this can be done. A better and safer test is to ask them for an endorsement card from any of the local banks or the Chamber of Commerce, which they can easily get if their proposition is legitimate. It is only natural for people to wish to put their money to work for them by investing it in good-paying securities, but care should always be taken that there is something substantial behind the enterprise to which your money is entrusted. Fly-by-night companies can make hard-earned coin disappear with even more rapidity than their promises made the profits appear (on paper.) There are plenty of good and reasonably safe investment opportunities today without giving your money for a prettily engraved paper with nothing behind it, but the glowing fairy tales of glib-tongued salesmen.

CAMP FIRE GIRLS.

Camp Fire is an organization made up of groups of girls who want to make life just as splendid as possible. They are seeking to develop the spirit of the home, so that it will influence the entire community. It is an army of girls who accomplish things.

Camp Fire has been in existence eight years, during which time, it has been proven to be a powerful factor for good in the life of the adolescent girl.

Unlike many girl's organization it ties the girl up closer to the home, and teaches her the laws of health and the value of the great outdoors, camping and hiking, and the care of her own body.

It also develops a splendid sense of civic obligation in the girl, teaches her patriotism. It also develops the business side of a girl's nature by stimulating promptness and industry. Hand craft is encouraged and the girls are interested in making their own gowns and hats, and also decorating the same, with many touches of hand work.

Honor beads are given the girls in seven different crafts. These beads are not given as rewards, but as symbols of attainment.

In every community, Camp Fire Girls have made themselves valuable. Their record of war work has never been excelled. Camp Fire Girls planted 70,488 gardens, $3,356 contributed money and co-operated with Red Cross. They sold over $12,000 worth of Liberty Bonds and thousand of dollars worth of Thrift Stamps. In their own communities Camp Fire Girls have always been ready to help in any worthy cause. They have worked on all the drives, sold tags and seals, with unflagging zeal. They have knitted for Red Cross and given wonderful service in Community House work.

Now, after eight years of standing solidly on their own feet and never asking help of the public, the organization finds itself obliged to ask the public to reciprocate the many kindnesses they have received by assisting them to raise funds for their extension work.

PROPER COOKING IS SECRET

When Well Cooked Cornmeal and Oatmeal Are Most Delicious Porridges for Breakfast.

Cornmeal and oatmeal are among the cheapest of cereals, and when well cooked make delicious breakfast porridges. The dislike which many people have for them is because they are too often served half cooked and insufficiently salted. In this condition they are among the most unattractive of foods, but when well cooked and served with cream or rich milk they are delicious, and there are few who find them unappetizing.

To make a delicious cornmeal mush for five people use 1½ cups of cornmeal, 2 level teaspoons of salt, and 5 or 6 cups of water. Bring the salted water to a boil and stir in the cornmeal very slowly. Be careful not to let it lump. Cook the porridge at least 30 minutes. The flavor is greatly improved when it is cooked for 3 hours or over night. This should be done in a double boiler on the back of the stove or in a fireless cooker.

For oatmeal porridge, use 2½ cups of rolled oats, 2½ level teaspoons of salt, and 5 or 6 cups of water. When the water is boiling, stir the rolled oats slowly into it and cook the porridge for one hour, or, still better, over night.

PREPARING FIGS AND DATES

Fruits Should Be Carefully Washed Before Eating Because of Exposure to Contagion.

Dried figs and dates should be washed carefully before being eaten as they have been exposed for an unknown length of time to possible contagion by flies and dirty hands. In how many houses are oranges washed before they are brought to the table, or the lemons before they are sliced for tea or lemonade, or before the skin is grated for flavoring? Yet orange and lemon skins often are very dirty. Shelled nuts purchased in the market should always be washed, scalded, and dried by a clean cloth before they are used.

OF INTEREST TO THE HOUSEWIFE

Whites of eggs should be beaten with the spiral eggbeater.

Oysters chopped and served in the gravy of a juicy steak are delicious.

Always be sure, when you buy meat, to have the butcher send home the trimmings.

ROUND ABOUT

I observed as one of the prominent participants in the Greek anniversary celebration last Sunday, the Rev. Robert A. Bakeman of South Peabody, who has made hosts of friends among the foreign-born of Peabody in connection with his work in the community citizenship classes.

The number of applications for permits to erect private garages is a good indication of the growing popularity of pleasure cars, and incidentally helps to make business good for the hustling auto supply dealers in the city.

I was amused to hear one of our factory superintendents tell of his experience with a speculation shark this week. It seems that the shark was trying to throw down all legitimate investments, not knowing that his prospect was pretty well booked. Among other things he attempted to show how the co-operative banks paid but 3% on the investment, claiming that the people were being buncoed by the claims of 5% and better of these banks. He picked the wrong man, however, and lost several "suckers" at that particular plant on account of his extravagant falsehoods.

I am told that antique collectors made quite a good-sized haul when the old buildings were torn down over at the National to make way for the new well that is to be driven. It seems that the houses were well over 100 years old, and contained many specimens of colonial architecture which were seized upon by the lovers of antiques around Essex county.

I understand that Ralph E. Thomas, the popular secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, is a mighty busy man these days at the rooms on Lowell street. Between the membership drive, now on, the new merchants' division, just being organized, the art, needle work and crafts exhibit, 5% discount sale, also on now, and his regular duties, he finds plenty to do and then some. He tells me that the prospects for the new year in the Chamber are very bright, as the new blood coming in is going to be a real addition to the fine body of men that made the Chamber successful in its first year of reorganization.

I observed that the benches at the Park are in a very bad condition and should have attention before somebody gets injured.

President Wood of C. of C. was seen taking a batting practice last Monday afternoon, and we presume he is getting his batting eye ready for the annual C. of C. ball game.

It may not be generally known that Peabody boasts of two brass bands, one under the name of the Peabody Cadet, and the other known as the Peabody Brass Band. Ed Spence, the local letter carrier, heads one organization, while Anthony Silva leads the other. Both bands have been given a chance to show their worth in connection with the Art, Needlework and Crafts exhibition this week, one Thursday evening and the other Saturday.

I am told that the A. C. L. laboratory has the distinction of having among its force, two editors of high school magazines, John Anglin of Peabody, who is editor-in-chief of the new "Pep," published by the Juniors at the local institution of learning, and John Moser of Salem High, who represents the "Advance."

I noticed that Capt. Arthur Barry of Exeter was there with the stick in the Exeter-Peabody High baseball game a week ago, as well as in other departments of the national game. Several fans have expressed themselves, as hoping to see him playing summer baseball under the colors of a team here in Peabody.

It is quite interesting to most of us to see, through the exhibits of the Community House in the store windows this week, what is being done by the various classes in the line of practical work. The displays of millinery, dressmaking, cooking and manual training speak for themselves in praise of the excellent constructive work of the local enterprise.

Mr. Growcher Speaks. "Some of these problems they keep putting up to us," said Mr. Growcher, "make me think of old-fashioned conundrums. You're supposed to keep guessing, 'What's the difference?' when it doesn't make much real difference whether there's any difference or not."

South Peabody

Matthew Comisky of New York was the week-end guest of Mrs. Frederick Jellison of Maple street.

Mrs. Walter Wright of Summit street has been visiting at the home of her mother of Moosup, Conn.

The Busy B's and Butterfly Girls went on a hike Saturday afternoon. Games were played and basket lunch was served.

Henry Cawley and family are moving from 39 County street to their new home at Newhall place.

Mr. and Mrs. William Nichols of Winnegance avenue went to Lowell one day last week to attend the funeral of one of their friends.

The Blue Birds met Thursday at the Second Congregational church.

Miss Mammie Carney spent the week-end with her sister, Mrs. Guy Ricker, of Winnegance avenue.

The Boy Scouts of the Second Congregational church went on a hike Monday, covering about 14 miles. About 30 of the boys went, and made Crystal Lake their headquarters for the day. Each boy took something uncooked, and had the fun of preparing their dinner. Games were played and each reported a fine time. The Boy Scouts are on the alert to do one good deed a day and during Monday they were able to do their stunt voluntarily. They put out two fires that were rapidly spreading. One was very near a gas tank, which might have done some little damage. The other in West Peabody, where they were conveyed on a big truck to do their fine work, which they did spontaneously.

The Community House drive is on this week for South Peabody, and everyone is most earnestly invited to have a part in this big game. Rev. Robert A. Bakeman of Maple street was an invited guest at the 99th anniversary of the Greek Colony, Sunday afternoon, April 18th, at the City Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Eade of Winnegance avenue and Miss Mary McCarty and John MacDonald motored to Lexington, April 19th.

Plans are being made for an "Old Folks Concert." Anyone wishing to take part, kindly give your name to Edward Spence of County street, who will be the director. The proceeds will help the Community House fund along. Everyone who can sing is invited to take part.

Miss Thelma Curtis of Winnegance avenue spent the week-end with her grandmother in Danvers.

Miss Ellen Comisky of Boston spent the week-end with Mrs. Frederick Jellison of Maple street.

Mr. and Mrs. William Wolloff and son Raymond, and daughter, Elsie, of Jamaica Plain spent the week-end with Mr. Wolloff's sister, Mrs. Rose Holden of Lynnfield street. Both son and daughter served overseas.

Reginald Leach of Brown street has returned from a short business trip to Whitefield, N. H.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Carpenter of Brown street attended a banquet and welcome night at West Lynn I. O. O. F. lodge, Wednesday evening.

The Men's Club held their monthly business meeting and supper at the Second Congregational church, Wednesday evening. Supper was served at 7 o'clock with much credit due to following committee: Mrs. J. F. Jordan, chairlady; Mrs. Robert A. Bakeman, Mrs. Harry Morse, Mrs. Carl Curtis, Mrs. John J. Eade, Mrs. Carl Newhall, Mrs. Henry Shaw and John Barrowclough. The Boy Scouts were the guests of the evening and gave a fine exhibition of their work.

Mrs. Frederick Carpenter and son, Shirley, of Brown street, spent Tuesday with friends in Lynn.

Mrs. Reginald Leach of Brown street attended a whist party Wednesday afternoon, given at the home of her mother, Mrs. George Hull of Salem.

The Ladies' Aid of the Lake Shore church met Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Jennie Gould of Bay Stateroad.

The Rockville Camp Fire Girls held their ceremonial meeting at the Second Congregational church, Tuesday evening.

Ellbridge Carbox of 7 Hillside avenue met with a serious accident last Sunday afternoon. While riding his bicycle around in the Park, he was making a turn, when the wheel skidded, and in some way caught his leg, throwing him off and breaking one of his legs. Two Lynn doctors were immediately called, and he is comfortable at this writing.

The Wapomio Camp Fire Girls went on a hike Monday, April 19th. Basket lunch was served.

Harry Patten of North Conway, N. H., has been visiting Mrs. Jonathan Brown of Lynn street this week.

DR. FRED B. FISHER.

Heading an investigation into the causes of the present industrial unrest in the United States is the Rev. Dr. Fred B. Fisher, former pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church of Boston, Mass., and one of the leading Methodist clergymen in the country. Dr. Fisher is director of the Industrial Relations Department of the Interchurch World Movement, which is conducting the investigation for its program of co-operative activity for the Protestant Churches of America. He is also associate general secretary of the movement.

Dr. Fisher has helped to conduct a number of national religious movements. He was executive secretary of the National Commission for the Methodist Missionary Centenary campaign which won $168,000,000 in pledges for a five-year program. He was general secretary of the Methodist Laymen's Missionary Movement, and associate general secretary of the Interdenominational Laymen's Missionary Movement.

Dr. Fisher was educated at Ashbury College, Wilmore, Ky.; Boston University School of Theology and the Harvard Divinity School. Previous to his Boston pastorate he served as a missionary in India for the Methodist Church.

DOCTORS SAID HE HAD CONSUMPTION

CURED BY

Allen's Lung Healer

We have always claimed that Allen's Lung Healer cures when all other remedies fail. Here is a case that confirms our claims. We have many other similar letters.

Mr. H. J. Allen, Dear Sir: Several years ago I contracted a heavy cold on my lungs which hung on until I began to lose weight. I tried every remedy that I could find and all that were recommended to me but continued to get worse. Finally I began to lose weight so fast that all my friends told me I had quick consumption and I was pretty well discouraged of ever being cured. I went to several doctors and the verdict was all the same, that I was rapidly going into consumption. A friend told me that your Lung Healer was doing a lot of good for different people and I resolved to try a bottle. After using one bottle I felt so much better that I took several more, with the result that the cough was cured and today I am a well man. I never fail to recommend your medicine to anyone with a bad cough.

Yours-truly,

Wallace Reid and Pauline Frederick Star in the Strand Programme

"Excuse My Dust," with Wallace Reid featured will hold the place of honor on the bill the Strand will offer for today and Saturday. The style of picture comedy that Wallace Reid has won him a firm place in the hearts of the local fans. The story of this picture affords him the opportunity of appearing in another high-speed comedy—one similar to a previous release,

"The Roaring Road." The present tale originally appeared in the Saturday Evening Post and presents Mr. Reid in the role of "Toodles Walden, the manager of the Darco automobile agency and son-in-law of J. D. Ward, president of the concern, and commonly called 'The Bear'."

The Darco car is a marvel for speed and power and a rival concern is determined to secure a sketch of its motor. This incident furnishes the melo-dramatic action, especially after "Toodles" is arrested. The Fargot people have bought some of the rival models and the hero buys one and enters it in the big race. "The Bear" hears that the Fargot drivers plan to wreck the young man's car, so he starts out in one of his new Darco's in pursuit. "Toodles" finds trouble ahead, but manages to finish second to his employer. The picture gets off to an excellent start and finishes with a burst of speed. It goes without saying that it is the best racing car story ever written. The climax is electrifying and keeps the spectator in terrific suspense. Mr. Reid makes the hit of his career in the part of "Toodles." Others who render capable aid are Theodore Roberts, Tully Marshall and Ann Little.

The first of the "Bringing Up Father" comedies, adapted from George McManus' celebrated cartoons will be another attraction for today. This one is entitled "Jiggs in Society," and is something new in the line of comedies. William Duncan, another local favorite, in "The Silent Avenger," Vitaphone new serial which was completed at a cost exceeding one million dollars, will round out the program for today. Manager Chet Bent claims this is one of the finest programs the Strand has offered in months.

Baby Marie Osborne in "The Old Maid's Baby" will head the bill for Sunday evening. This clever little child stands alone among all the infant prodigies, and her actions are always good for countless hearty laughs. May Allison in "Castles in the Air" will be the other playtop for Sunday.

Pauline Frederick and Charlie Chaplin will divide the headline honors on Monday and Tuesday. "The Loves of Letty" is the title of Miss Frederick's picture, and it is in every way an ideal vehicle for this famed emotional star. Charlie will appear in a revised edition of his comedy, "A Dog's Life." "Tempest Cody Turns Detective," starring Marie Walcamp, rounds out the bill.

William Farnum in his latest photoplay "Heart Strings" will be shown on Wednesday and Thursday.

No Shoes for Traveling.

A few of my friends and I went to a station nearby to camp and pick blueberries. On the first day, while traveling through some swamp land our feet became wet. That night I built a fire and placed my shoes and socks on a log near the fire, intending to watch them until they dried. I fell asleep and my footwear burned. The next day I went home on the train barefooted, to the amusement of all the passengers.—Chicago Tribune.

while the dingy shops and tenements crowd the old buildings, there is still evidence of the old days in the stately mansions near the custom houses and in the old wharves, which still run out into the harbor. Derby wharf, the largest, is the most interesting and picturesque. The few buildings still standing on it, once so necessary when its sides were lined with home returned craft, are fast falling to ruin, and so it is today a gray ghostly relic of the past.

Almost every home in Salem has some curiously wrought piece of furniture, some gem of inlaid work, some bit of priceless embroidery, or other treasure brought back from over seas.

The House of Seven Gables, the Witch house, where several trials were held, are also of much interest. Nathaniel Hawthorne was born in Salem, in 1784? The name of Hawthorne is growing more and more in fame as the years go by, and it has already been noted that two-thirds of the many sightseers that flock to the old city every season, are more interested in places associated with him, than in anything else here. At 14 Mall street is still standing the house in which he wrote the "Scarlet Letter."

The architecture of a land is said to be "the highest expression of its people."

Ancient Greece is chiefly famed for its architecture. Though Salem has waited for the 20th century awakening in architecture for this recognition, American architects now state that, here in this old colonial city of Salem, there is to be found more of the best examples of the old colonial architecture than in any other community in the United States.

There are many other subjects of interest in Salem if the visitor has time at his disposal. Many distinguished men have had their homes here, including Governor Endicott, who was the second Governor of the colony; Roger Williams, who was the pioneer settler of the state of Rhode Island; Governor Bradstreet, twice Governor of the colony, and Timothy Pickering, who was Secretary of the State in Washington's cabinet, whose house is still standing on Broad street.

Salem came very prominently before the world in June, 1914, when she was threatened by an enormous conflagration, which swept over and destroyed one quarter of the city. Hundreds of thousands of people who visited Salem in those wild days of smoldering ruins and military law, and who saw thousands living in tents, will indeed be glad to take a ride through the "burned district," and see how rapidly the old city has recovered from her trial.

"PRESENT PROBLEMS OF EMIGRATION AND IMMIGRATION."

(By Bertha Guillemette, '21.

The World's War had great effect upon emigration and immigration. Before the war there was an average of over one million immigrants and from eight hundred thousand to nine hundred thousand emigrants. In the first year of the war only three hundred thousand immigrants came in this country; in the second year and third year less than three hundred thousand immigrants came in the country. In nineteen hundred seventeen about forty-two per cent of the immigrants were rejected. Our country became greatly alarmed at the number of aliens which entered our country, so we decided to make a law to prevent at least the undesirable aliens from coming here.

The law was called the illiteracy law. It excluded from this country all persons who could not read the English language or any other language. However, any alien who is admitted to this country can bring in any relatives, whether they are able to read or not.

This law was vetoed by President Wilson. He said that he vetoed it because it was not a test of the aliens' characters, and it would only punish them for the lack of opportunity in their countries. He also claimed that the immigration officials would have to pass judgment on the laws and the policy of the foreign countries, and it might lead to friction between the United States and the foreign governments.

The House of Representatives passed it over the President's veto.

In 1918 over 90,000 left the United States for their homes in Europe, and about 100,000 immigrants arrived. Immediately after the signing of the Armistice there was a great deal of emigration. The greater part of the aliens were Italians, Greeks and Serbians, who have worked in shipyards, munition plants and other places, relating to hostilities in Europe. They represent a new kind of war profiteer. There are over 1000 leaving New York every day. Some are going to buy farms in their own countries and others have enough money to live in luxury for the rest of their lives. Others intend to come back within four or five years. Many have hopes to build up industries like those which we have here.

All aliens have to pay a tax of 12% of their money before they go to their country and most of them have from $1500 to $7500. An Interracial Council has been formed to bring the aliens into harmony with the Americans, and also to give them right ideas about American life, to teach them the American language, and to put the foreign press in this country under American basis and point of view. Everything in Europe is as dear as it is here and this condition may cause all these aliens to come back. On account of the lack of laborers and the great reconstruction work which is to be carried on, Europe may urge her people to go back and may prevent immigration here.

There are about 15,000 Germans who are trying to cross the sea, but the United States is trying to send them to South America and other places, but many of them want to join relatives who live here.

President Wilson has asked Congress to exclude all immigrants from the country.

Nippon Has Its Salvation Lassies, Too

East may be East and West may be West, but the twain meet under the colors of the Salvation Army.

Here one sees evidence of the Army's labors in the "Cherry Blossom" land of Japan. The color of the skin or the slant of the eyes of these Salvation Army officers makes no difference in their purpose and endeavor. The men wear the same uniform as their western brothers, but the women have adapted the Army's garb to the kimono robes of their native land.

The pictures give testimony to the work of the Salvation Army in but one of the 66 countries in which that organization has its posts, and Japanese is only one of 40 languages spoken by those who wear the uniform in these scattered lands.

SOEWAMAPENESSETT CAMP FIRE GIRLS

Soewamapenasset Camp Fire Girls held a ceremonial meeting at the home of the guardian, Mrs. Sadie P. Porter, this month. Five girls, Elizabeth Mackintosh, Emily Mansfield, Doris Allen, Esther Hallowell and Louise Burbeck, received the highest Camp Fire rank attainable, that of Torch Bearer. To win this rank each girl was obliged to lead a group of smaller girls for three months. Two new girls were admitted to the Camp Fire, Dorothy and Marjorie Cowdrey.

These girls, with the Iroquois Camp Fire, hiked to Page's hill last week, where they roasted hot dogs and marshmallows over an open fire.

A group of the Soewamapenasset Camp Fire Girls are to spend vacation week at the summer cottage of Miss Francis Merrick of the junior class at Sagamore. They are the following: Virginia Carten, Sylvia Gaines, Louise Burbeck, Dorothy and Marjorie Cowdrey.

MATINEE WHIST AT WARDHURST

The matinee whist held at "Wardhurst" on Wednesday was a decided success socially and financially. It was the last, and undoubtedly the most enjoyable of a series of socials held in this city recently in aid of the Diocesan Centre Bazaar to be held in Symphony hall, Boston, next week Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Bridge and progressive whist were enjoyed and prizes were awarded to Mrs. Thomas O'Keefe and Mrs. Walsh for bridge, and Mrs. Thomas Greene, Mrs. James Danforth of Danvers, Miss Katherine Deery of Salem, Miss Minnie O'Rourke and Miss Jennie Marchant for progressive.

The party was under the personal direction of Mrs. Alice Fennessey, assisted by Mrs. John Meagher, Mrs. A. T. Miller and Miss Katherine Meade. Mrs. "Hap" Ward was an ideal hostess and her guests were made to feel the cordial welcome she extended them.

Several amusing recitations were given by Miss Halloran of Lynn, and "A Dream" and "An Irish Love Song" sung by Miss Mary McCarthy of this city, were greatly enjoyed.

The following young ladies marked and served: Ethelwyn Meagher, Anita Smith, Alice Mulcahy, Katherine Ellis and Louise Ellis.

RETAIL DIVISION

Chairman A. P. Ames appointed George S. Curtis, William A. Shea and Harry F. Whidden as a committee of three to nominate directors of this division. This committee will meet and report at another general meeting of the merchants, Tuesday, April 27, at 2.30 P. M. All merchants in Peabody who are members of the Chamber are invited to attend the meeting next Tuesday, at which time several questions of interest, no doubt will be taken up by this division.

At the meeting of the Universalist Men's club on Monday evening, April 26th, Charles M. Merrill, who has recently returned from Europe, will speak on his experiences as a Y. M. C. A. worker in France and Italy during the World War.

CHICKEN SUPPER.

A delicious chicken supper was served at the home of Mrs. O. K. Goodwin, 9 Aborn street, last evening. There were 85 people in attendance and all enjoyed a most delightful evening.

WILLIAM A. GREEN

Peabody Post, 153, American Legion, paid their last respects Wednesday morning to their departed comrade, William A. Green, who passed away Sunday morning at the J. B. Thomas hospital. A guard of honor was maintained at the home of the deceased by the local veterans. A military escort accompanied the remains to St. John's church, where funeral mass was sung by Rev. W. J. Shaughnessy, who also conducted the committal services at the grave, which were made doubly impressive by the fact that the relatives were accompanied by a large number of friends. The casket draped with the national colors was carried by comrades in uniform. Full military honors were paid the departed by a firing squad of eight, who fired the regulation three volleys over the grave. Many were deeply moved as Taps was sounded by Post Musician Edward J. Carberry. Commander Osborn Palmer was in charge of the military detail, which consisted of Vice Commander Leo B. Murphy, Adjutant Frank T. Matthews, Historian Fred Shea, George Burns, William F. Carlin, Leonard B. Cassidy, John Cooley, Patrick Cooley, Lawrence Daley, John J. Doyle, Andrew H. Fyfe, Philip L. Hunt, Nathan Master-son, Timothy Maroney, Frank McDermitt, Richard Murray, Clifford Shea, William G. Shea, Roswell C. Taylor and George Singleton.

Dr. and Mrs. Henry M. Fox returned this week from a two weeks' honeymoon spent in Washington, D. C., and will reside at 41 Andover street. Mrs. Fox, who was Miss Marion Norton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Norton, of 100 School street, Salem, is very popular among her many friends in Peabody, who wish them every success.

ALBERT TRASK

The funeral of Albert Trask, age 72 years, was held at Holden, Mass., last Tuesday. Mr. Trask was a member of the Holten Lodge of Odd Fellows, and was a former resident of Peabody. The officers of the lodge, J. Sandy MacCracken, Henry A. Lord, Melville Hallowell and Foster Begg, represented the lodge at the funeral.

SUNDAY SPORTS

on public property, with authority to sell, if they thought best, but at auction.

The mayor was questioned as to the East End playground and said he desired to have a plan made by a landscape gardener of a park in that section, and was not at present prepared to make any recommendation but would do so at the next meeting when he would submit a financial statement and the probable tax rate.

The budget was adopted and carried a total of $832,820, including $178,805 for schools. The amount voted the American Legion for Memorial Day was $350.

Chairman Eagan of the committee on police reported the present arrangement of the police patrol and ambulance as satisfactory. The committee was given further time on the one day off in eight for the police. Chairman Reed of the fire department committee reported that the Seagrave fire wagon had been thoroughly tested and stood the trial well and had been put into commission by the chief engineer.

City Solicitor Fay gave the opinion that the power to appoint police officers rested wholly with the mayor, subject to the rules of the civil service commission.

A petition was received for the acceptance of Sanborn street as a public way. A large number of applications for licenses of various kinds were received.

Charles D. Sullivan was appointed and confirmed an election inspector in Ward one, to fill a vacancy.

On motion of Councillor Sullivan the mayor was requested to place in his supplementary budget an appropriation for setting out trees in the parks, to be marked with tablets commemorating soldiers who paid the supreme sacrifice.

The session dragged along until a late hour and the last sensation was sprung by Councillor Eagan who wanted to know whether all applications for permits and licenses should come before the council. The city solicitor replied that he believed there were exceptions. The councillor continued by saying that there was a so-called circus at the East End playgrounds this week, which had been granted a permit for the week for $50 and last year the same show paid the Legion $500. He thought something should have been received this year from that show either for the Legion or the playground.

Councillor Hogan waxed warm on the subject, and said it was an outrage to allow them there anyway. That they were a detriment to the district, pulled a lot of money out of the people, left the grounds in bad condition, and were there for a whole week for a paltry $50, without paying any land rent, while a circus in Salem paid $100 for one day together with rent of grounds. He believed this thing should be stopped, and went on at length venting his bitter feelings against the show. He finally got through a motion that the ordinance committee draw up an ordinance fixing the maximum and minimum fee for field entertainments.

Councillor Jones of Ward two was present last evening for the first time in many weeks.

Mrs. Helen Lewis, who has been confined to her home with a serious throat ailment for the past three weeks, is able to be out again.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie R. Porter leave Monday for Canada.

Charles M. Boyle and James A. Donovan of Lawrence were endorsed by Senator Walsh yesterday from the Seventh Congressional district for the national convention. The above named are members of the American Legion.

FOSS-POETON.

The marriage of Miss Lovetta Foss of Salem and Bertie R. Poeton of this city took place at St. Peter's church, Salem, Monday evening. Rev. Charles W. G. Lyon officiated.

The ceremony was followed by a reception to the immediate families at the home of the bride, after which the couple left on a trip to New York. Mr. and Mrs. Poeton received many beautiful gifts, including a chime clock from the associates of the groom.

Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Poeton will reside at 9 Nursery street, Salem.

Rev. Robert A. He was one of a committee of ministers, who reported in favor of the legislative bill before its adoption. Dear Mr. Editor:

It really isn't square for us who agree with your position on the "Sunday Sports" question to leave you and the majority of the "Social Welfare" Committee in the open alone to receive a change in the Sunday Laws. And I submit that it is more important even than the discussion of this concrete issue that nothing, not even the repeated charge of giving comfort to the Bolsheviks, keep back a frank expression of the convictions that have grown out of experience. MAYORALTY CANDIDATES LINING UP WORKERS

Mayorality candidates, who seek to succeed District Attorney-Mayor Donnell, as administrator of the City of Peabody in 1921, are already beginning to line up their forces for the fray next December. It remained for Former Representative William H. Mahoney to hold the initial pow-wow last Friday night, when he invaded the peaceful haunts of Overlea, South Peabody. He didn't make a speech nor did anyone put his name before the large gathering of voters, but the conference abounded in good fellowship, and there was a generous repast. The only plea for suffrage came from the lips of Charles M. Boyle, who is making a great fight to be elected a district delegate to the Democratic national convention.

Ex-Rep. Michael J. Sherry's hat is in the ring, but he is not yet ready to take off his coat and join the gun-slinging squad, for he figures it is a bit too early to be bothering the electorate, and rests his candidacy right now with his many friends.

William F. Carlin, who, in a short few months, has become one of Peabody's busiest real estate dealers with a fine record of property transfers to his credit, is going to be in the race, entering the lists in place of former Selectman Patrick J. Sheehy, twice the opposing candidate to Mayor Donnell. Carlin's friends are doing an effective work, it is said, and pledges of support to his banner are being given in all parts of the city.

The friends of Councillor Cornelius A. Giles are insisting on his name going before the city primaries. He has not said he would not be a candidate, and in the meanwhile it is known that he has his ear to the

"Voters Should First Act On Sunday Sports"

—MAYOR DONNELL

Mayor Donnell believes the citizens are the ones to say by their ballot if Peabody will allow Sunday afternoon sports, and for this reason he will veto adoption of the legislative act by the City Council at its next meeting, provided the Council so votes.

"Personally, I am in favor of the act, if properly supervised, declared Mayor Donnell to a reporter for the Enterprise. But I represent the citizens and this is a question, I feel, which they, by their vote, should determine so far as it effects Peabody. I can see where some homes will be disturbed with crowds at ball games on Sunday afternoon. These people have a right to express themselves at the polls, the same as I and other citizens." I do not know that the Council will adopt the act. If they do, I shall exercise my right to veto."

When the time for filing applications for garden lots was up last Monday, every available lot had been applied for on the basis of one lot to the applicant. This is the fourth season that gardens have been awarded, and they are proving more popular every year.

The final game between the Main Office Girls' bowling team and Team Two of the A. C. L. Bowling League was rolled in East Lynn, Monday night and resulted in a victory for the fairer sex by the score of 1443 to 1265. Miss Gorham was high single for the evening with 106.

A miscellaneous shower was given Miss Helen Rideout last Tuesday evening, when 40 young ladies from the Main Office poured useful gifts on the bride-to-be. Miss Rideout leaves today, after having been a most popular member of the office force for the past few years.

Several A. C. L. young people attended the dancing party given by Mrs. Roy Gourley in Masonic hall this week.

The old beamhouse is being reconstructed, the plans calling for a thoroughly modern room to replace the one that has been outgrown the past few years.

Alphonso Demerit and Frank Jenkins of the black split department have been transferred to the Curry Finishing Department.

Billy Harrington, last year's pitcher on the A. C. L. baseball team, left Saturday to join his club at Albany. His work will be watched with much interest by Peabody fans.

Tony Bedingo of the Curry Department is back from Providence, where he has been awaiting the arrival of his son from Portugal.

George Watts of Peabody is a new-comer to the Sheepskin Department of the Main Office.

Gene Madden competed in the amateur championship wrestling contests in the Cambridge Y. M. C. A. last Saturday evening. Eddie Anderson, also of the plant, acted as his coach.

A bunch of keys, presumably belonging to a member of the K. of C., was found on Railroad avenue, and may be had by calling at the employment office.

Warner Davis of the Beamhouse starts today on a two weeks' trip to Detroit, from where he and a chum will motor through the middle West and return.

Barney Smallwood, who was injured five months ago in an auto accident, returned to work this week.

James Cronin, formerly of the Finished Nubuck room, who left to act as a substitute letter carrier, is back at the plant this week.

Edward Breare of the night embossing force, will be married tomorrow evening to a Miss Shepard of Revere. His friends in the embossing room extend their best wishes for a happy married career.

Randall Ferguson has been transferred from 4C to Q7, his place as clerk in 4C having been taken by Will Poitras of the Main Office.

Herbert Powers is the new clerk in A building, succeeding Arthur Russell, who leaves this week.

Michael Coyle of A building is re-joining over the arrival of a bouncing baby boy.

E. J. Higgins of hide shavers suffered a painful accident on Wednesday, having caught his fingers in the knives of the machine.

Frank Haines and Warner Davis made a hit as actors in the play "Mrs. Temple's Telegram," Wednesday evening.

George Hayward of B building received a visit from his wife and daughter this week. Mr. Hayward's home is in Gloversville, N. Y.

PERSONALS

Miss Mae Thomas of Washington street is with the Chamber of Commerce, temporarily.

Mr. and Mrs. Newton E. Johnson of 15 Osborne street are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son, Lewis Elton.

Rev. Herbert Walker, former pastor of the Second Congregational church, was a visitor in the city, Wednesday, renewing old acquaintances. He is now pastor of the Holbrook Congregational church, and is held in popular esteem.

Had Bronchial Cough 20 Years Cured by Allen's Lung Healer

The following letter from Mrs. C. C. Maxwell speaks for itself:

H. J. Allen Co.,
West Lynn, Mass.:

Gentlemen—I am so enthusiastic about your Lung Healer that I want you to know what it has done for me. I had given up hope of curing a cough that began 20 years ago. It was a hard, rasping cough that kept me awake 4 and 5 hours every night. My throat was parched and filled with bunches. Other medicine, even cod liver oil, had no more effect than water, but the Lung Healer seemed to clear a path through the fullness and allay the irritation as nothing else had ever done. The first bottle relieved me wonderfully and the bunches disappeared and I slept without coughing a bit. After a few weeks I was rid of the cough and today I have no lung trouble or cough at all and I give the Lung Healer all the credit. I have given it to my children at different times with just as effective results. It is also a splendid body builder.

Yours gratefully,
MRS. C. C. MAXWELL, Danville, Me.

PERSONALS

Henry Osborn, former teacher at Peabody High school and now of the University of Michigan, is home for a short visit.

John E. Fitzgerald, vice president of the Turner Tanning Machinery Co., sails this week for Europe on an extended visit in the interests of his concern. The Turner people are building a new plant in France and making a large addition to their plant in Frankfurt, Germany. Mr. Fitzgerald will visit both countries, and will probably be gone two months.

Associate Justice William H. Fay returned this week from a business trip in New York and Washington. City Clerk Francis L. Poor is confined to his home on Chestnut street following an operation performed last Saturday. He hopes to resume his duties at City Hall within another week.

William F. Carlin, Peabody leading real estate dealer, is to visit several cities in the middle West the last of this month, to attend trial as a witness for the government. He will give evidence gathered while he was an inspector in the post office department.

Harper and Donovan, Essex county agents for the Columbia 6 automobile, which has met with popular favor this Spring, have opened a salesroom in Lynn on Broad street, where they will be glad to welcome any of their Peabody friends.

SPORTING GOODS STORE

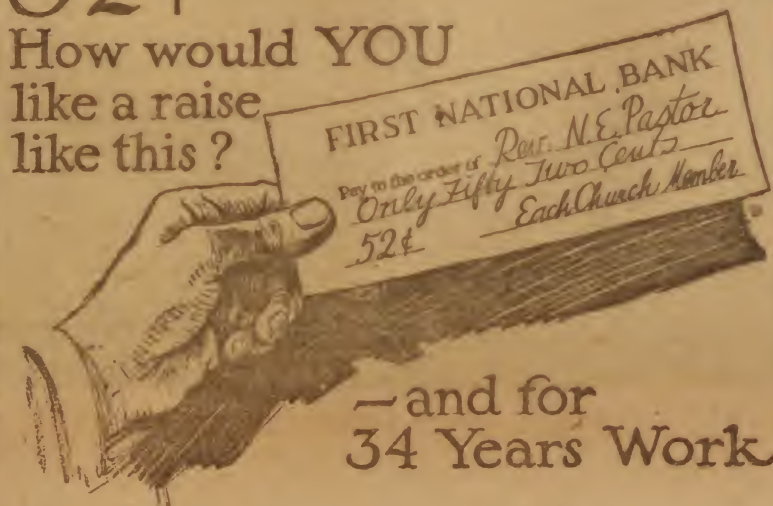

Peabody may soon have a sporting goods and rubber store, if suitable location can be found. It is understood that prominent Lynn men are behind the possible venture here, and are taking steps to establish. A conference was held this week with local real estate dealers with a view to securing the right kind of a store. The prospective owners plan to carry everything an up-to-date rubber goods store does, and also a complete line of sporting goods.

Here's the choice of selection from the Boston Day Nursery; she's typical of the small folks whose welfare is one of the Salvation Army's big jobs of today. Maintenance of hospitals, maternity and rescue homes, day nurseries, fresh air camps, milk distributing centres, etc., are some of the reasons for which the Army will make its appeal throughout New England May 19 to 20 for a million and a quarter.

How would YOU like a raise like this?

—and for 34 Years Work

THAT is the kind of increase in salary the minister has received. His living expenses have risen just as fast and as far as yours.

But he is paid on the average just 52 cents more per church member than he was paid 34 years ago.

The Minister Never Fails You

Every officer of the Government with a war message to deliver appealed to the ministers first of all.

But 80% of the ministers receive less income than government economists figure as a minimum for the support of an average family.

When hospitals need money they enlist the support of the ministers—and receive it.

But when sickness visits the minister or the members of his family they must be treated in a charity ward. His pay is less than a day laborer's.

8 out of every 10 ministers receive less than $20 a week—about half the pay of a mechanic.

We Pay Him Half the Wages of a Mechanic

And of these pitifully inadequate salaries, how much do you contribute? Nothing if you are outside the church; an average of less than 3c a day if you are a church member.

All of us share in the benefits of Christian ministers to the community. They marry us; bury us; baptize our children; visit us when we are sick. In their hands is the spiritual training of the youth.

We Are All Profiteers at Their Expense

Part of the Interchurch World program is this—a living wage for every minister of Jesus Christ; an efficient plant, and a chance to do a big man's job.

If you want better preachers, help to pay the preachers better. It's the best investment for your community—and for your children—that you can ever make.

DEMAND FOR CHEAPER SHOES BOUND TO EFFECT LEATHER OUTPUT DECLARES 'ENERGY'

(By Energy)

Visiting factories has been my poor results more or less, according to business this week. By so doing I have been able to size up the conditions of business and get an idea as to how some of the leather workers feel about May 1st. It is now the tendency throughout the country to let well enough alone. What has happened in the railroad strike, what is happening at the United Shoe Machinery Co. plant, and so on down the line is that the conservative element feel that to let well enough alone is the best way. In saying this, I am giving opinions of many workmen who belong to the union, and are as loyal to that organization as are any of its members.

It is plain enough to any one who studies the situation of business at the present time, that limit of prices particularly shoes, has been reached. In fact there is a growing demand for the cheaper grades of leather. Until recently the higher grades would sell only. The public were demanding the best shoes without regard to prices. Evidently they have come to their senses and have commenced to practice thrift, so far as the high cost of living will allow them. Investigation has proved that shoe prices are too high. They are much higher than conditions warrant. The non-producer has been the guilty one in most cases, too many profits from the maker to the buyer.

There are many places in a shoe that can be cheapened without taking much from the wear of the shoe. Linings, innersoles, tops, are some of these, and if that shoe has good sole leather in the vamp that will stand the leather in the vamp that will stand the wear, one has a shoe that will give service. They will tell you that calf is better than kip or side leather. Granted as to looks. But no one will claim but what side leather makes a good wearing shoe, and many times the purchaser knows not one from the other.

Getting my information from a source which is unimpeachable, I am laying stress on this change from the best to cheaper grades as a sign of far-reaching importance. It seems to me to mean that the public are coming back to pre-war principles, and it means much to the country, as a whole. Surely they will not practice economy on shoes alone.

In the leather trade there is a large per cent. of poor grades. This is a natural consequence for animals, like persons do not produce all good hides. If it were possible to take the hides of persons, I know some who whose hide would not produce a leather that I should want to wear. Then there is considerable stock in process that is not finished, as it should be. I care not where the factory, they all get

When transportation facilities were getting on their feet again, the new strike has put another cog in the wheels. Service to New York is far from normal, and has added more troubles to the manufacturer. One darn thing after another has made business life far from what it seems.

William Blaney was in town this week for a flying trip, and his answer to conditions in Philadelphia was, the leather men have all become rich, so business is not taken so serious, as formerly.

The Peabody Press Co. has been awarded the contract for publishing the annual report of the North Shore Babies' Hospital of Salem.

MAY FESTIVAL

For years the annual May Breakfast has been an event in Lynn and an agency by which the people of the whole city have become better acquainted. It has been the means of breaking down all class barriers in the concerted effort by the whole people to hob-nob over the breakfast tables, and find real satisfaction in the knowledge that their quarter or half dollar was to go for the betterment of the city's poor.

By the same token can the May Festival to be held in this city on May 1 be a means of getting the whole citizenship together in a common cause, that of fostering the great work of the Community House, which is catering to the boys and girls of our city, and providing them gainful exercise and self application on arts and crafts. The exhibition held this week in City Hall was a glowing testimonial to the good that the Community House is doing in this city.
There is no more potent factor in molding the future citizenship than this institution, which is supported by the citizens.

The coming May Festival will see every denomination represented, and the program of entertainment will find included the sons and daughters of the people of Peabody. Let's get behind the May Festival and make its success so great that the work among the boys and girls who receive benefits from the Community House, may embrace wider activities and redound to the welfare of our youths, the boys and girls, who will be the future citizens of Peabody.

THE NEXT MAYOR

With the next mayoralty campaign in the offing, Peabody citizens are manifesting some interest in the lining up of candidates seeking the suffrage at the primaries next November, since it is pretty generally believed that Mayor Donnell will remain in office until the end of his term. That it is not a far cry to November, when the fateful primaries will be held, is evidenced by the activity of the several candidates who are alert building fences and advancing their own particular qualifications for the highest office within the gift of the Peabody citizens. There are large problems ahead for the successor to Mayor Donnell. The office will call for a man well schooled in affairs municipal, if progress of the city of Peabody is to be the watchword, and the prestige of the great leather city kept emblazoned. The right Mayor in 1921 can help to boost the fair name of our city and assist Peabody to continue its industrial growth and prosperity.
The unselfish citizen will want to see the most capable man chosen to direct our municipal affairs. A broadgauged man is needed, a man who honestly deserves the respect of every citizen, even though one disagrees with his political logic. Above all else, an honest man is needed, one who is honest with himself and his neighbors and friends.

AUTOMOBILES AND ACCIDENTS

Unless the slogan that is becoming better known every day—Safety First —is in the minds of automobilists and pedestrians alike during the next six months we will soon be reading the old familiar stories of auto tragedies on the first pages of our Monday morning newspapers. In almost every accident that has happened in the past, a little more judgment on the part of either the driver or, in case of a pedestrian being hit, on his part, would have prevented the accident.
Statistics tell us that the number of auto fatalities has increased with the number of cars manufactured. In 1920, however, one big cause of accidents will be to a great extent eliminated—booze. If, in addition to having this big factor in the toll of casualties out of the reckoning, the good old doctrine of Safety First could be preached and practised this summer, hundreds of lives could be saved and automobile could be freed from its chief stigma, the danger of accident.
It costs nothing to be careful, either behind the wheel or crossing the street. The man or woman with open eyes and alert mind is rarely involved in a case of this kind. It is time now to be doing some thinking on this subject, and time also to instruct the children so that they may not figure in the 1920 accident toll. We have had more of this type of fatality here in Peabody than most municipalities of our size on account of the numerous railroad crossing tragedies of the past two years. It is particularly up to us to do something to offset our bad record so that the average will be comparable with other communities.
We want the autos, but we do not want the accidents.

Improved X-Ray Photography.
A glass for X-ray photography has sorbs only from 10 to 15 per cent of the rays, permitting much sharper pictures to be made than heretofore.

BIG STRIDES IN WOOD CAMPAIGN

Support Coming From All Sections of the Country for His Presidential Nomination.

New York.—General Leonard Wood's campaign for the presidential nomination on the Republican ticket is gathering strength and momentum more rapidly than even his most ardent supporters believed would be possible this far in advance of the National Convention, June 8.

From an humble, informal beginning in the minds of a few of General Wood's friends and admirers a few months ago, the "Wood for President" movement has spread throughout the country and there is a nation-wide demand for him as the next occupant of the White House to pilot the country through the trying days of readjustment which lie ahead.

LEONARD WOOD.

General Wood's campaign managers are daily in receipt of the most gratifying reports from the thirty-five or more states in which there are flourishing and constantly increasing Leonard Wood Leagues. The movement is spreading so rapidly that General Wood's managers are working night and day to keep up with it. Not only are the states in which there are Wood organizations bubbling with enthusiasm over his prospective nomination, but from the native states of favorite sons, who are opposing General Wood, there continue to come the strongest and most sincere assurances that he is the popular choice of a majority of the voters. All the indications are that the people throughout the nation intend commandeering him as their leader in the White House because of his remarkable record as an executive, his marvelous powers as an administrator, abundantly shown in Cuba, the Philippines and during the world war, and because of his frank and fearless stand on the paramount issues of the day.

BE KIND TO ANIMALS

In Massachusetts, Friday, April 16, will be specially observed at Humane Day, and we ask school authorities throughout the country to hold appropriate exercises in all the schools on that date. Ministers, too, are urged to make at least some reference to Humane Sunday in their pulpits on April 18, and if they are willing to do so, to preach a special sermon in behalf of God's helpless creatures.—Our Dumb Animals.

It seemeth such a little way to me Across to that strange country, the Beyond;
And yet, not strange, for it has grown to be
The home of those of whom I am so fond;
They make it seem familiar and most
dear,
As journeying friends bring distant countries near.
So close it lies that when my sight is clear
I almost think I see the gleaming strand,
I know I feel those who have gone from here Come near enough to sometimes touch my hand.
I often think but for our veiled eyes.
We should find heaven right round about us lies.
I cannot make it seem a day to dread
When from this dear earth I shall journey out
To that still dearer country of the dead,
And join the lost ones so long dreamed about.
I love this world, yet shall I love to go,
And meet the friends who wait for me
I know.

I never stand above a bier, and see
The seal of death set on some well loved face,
But that I think, one more to welcome me
When I have crossed the intervening space Between this world and that one over there.
One more, to make the Strange Beyond seem fair.

And so for me there is no sting to death,
And so the grave has lost its victory;
It is but crossing with abated breath
And white set face, a little strip of sea
To find our loved ones waiting on the shore,
More beautiful, more precious than before. —Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

ROUND ABOUT

Councillor Cornelius A. Giles, who must be reckoned with, if he runs for Mayor, and Postmaster Dennis J. Du-lea are good friends despite the wide divergence of their politics. Both reside in Ward 1, better known as South Peabody, the district that is very likely to hold the balance of power in the next city election. I observed this pair of public men engaged in conversation on Lynn street last Sunday, presumably thinking up some new plan, whereby Peabody could be made to progress.

George S. Curtis, the druggist, has been recipient of many felicitations on his unanimous election as Trustee of the J. B. Thomas hospital. His long business experience will make him a valuable member on the board, with each of whom he has enjoyed a long friendship.

Inability to secure a private room at the J. B. Thomas hospital kept a prominent citizen from entering the hospital this week, as a repetition of what has happened on numerous occasions, because of the fact that out of town patients are occupying the extra rooms. I am told that one Salem doctor has two patients in the hospital now. Salem has refused to permit Peabody doctors to take their patients to the Salem hospital.

Three old landmarks in Peabody are disappearing, to make room for the growth and progress of the National Calfskin Co. The three houses on the corner of Walnut and Upton streets are being torn down by Mc-Carthy Bros., to clear the land preparatory to driving a well. Plans have been made to drive to a considerable depth by methods never before employed in this vicinity, and the results will be watched with much interest by local people.

Miss Rena Jeffers, Franklin street, enters the Lynn hospital, April 15, to become a professional nurse. Her pleasing and obliging manner will be much missed in J. W. Trask & Co.
store, of which she has been a clerk for three years. Her many friends will wish Miss Jeffers every success in her new work.

Rev. Jason G. Miller, the retiring pastor of the South Congregational church, left many warm friends behind, when he removed last week to his new home in Wrentham, and these are not likely to let him soon forget his several years' pastorate in this city. The Playground Commission will miss his services in instructing amateur farmers how best to garner in crops on the various city garden lots this summer. Rev. Mr. Miller is an expert in farming, in addition to being a good preacher. He was prominent in various war drives that saw Peabody go over the top.

The poor condition of the Boston &
Maine freight yard, as viewed from Central street, last Sunday, was little short of disgraceful, first to the railroad officials and second to the city, for allowing it to present such an un-sanitary and unwholesome aspect.
The Spring muck was bad enough, but the banana stalks and leavings of all sorts dropped from freight cars, made the yard a veritable eyesore, that reflects no credit on the railroad.

Fate alone rules over Bleachery square on a Sunday. One who passes by that section will so opine for there is no district in the city where the kiddies abound in greater numbers in the street, than there. With the heavy traffic that crosses by, coupled with the fact that the street car turnout frequently sees three and four cars passing, it is remarkable that no child is run down.

Dr. Henry C. Doyle, dean of the Peabody dentists, who gave relinquished active dental practice sometime ago, hopes to be the first man to find a Mayflower within the confines of Peabody.
He is familiar with the haunts of the coveted Spring blossoms, and is taking a hike daily into the fields in quest of the prize.

I am told that the several women guests at the Sutton Home for Aged Women are finding much more enthusiasm in their new abode, formerly the Thatcher estate, Sewall and Holten streets, because of the passing of hundreds of children to and from the Wallis school.

Alfred Boettner, the worst maimed war veteran to return from overseas, is back home from Long Island, N. Y., hospital, where he went under a skillful operation. He is still badly lame and probably always will be. He is to enter the Parker Hill hospital in Boston for further treatment, following a visit at his home on Lowell street.

Among the epigrams enunciated by William F. Fitzgerald, President of the Turner Tanning Machinery Co., in his address before the Chamber of Commerce last week, none stood out more prominent than this "The financial, political and labor interests should work in the open. There is

SEAT OF LEARNING NOW WHERE EMPERORS SAT

Ancient Building Where Chinese Rulers Stored Their Plate and Jewels, Is Now a Christian College.

The ancient treasure-house of the Sung Dynasty, which under the imperial dragon ruled China more than a thousand years ago, now carries the Cross of the Church. The treasury has become a Christian Normal School; and in it the young Chinese are taught to put aside worldly treasure rather than to accumulate it. This odd building is located in Kaifeng, the most historic city in the great province of Honan, and once the capital of the empire. So important was the treasure gathered within its walls that in 960 A. D. the emperor had dug a tunnel fifteen miles long running from the treasury into the mountains, so that in time of invasion the national riches could be saved.

If the young Chinese mind considered learning such an imposition as his American cousin he would probably play hooky and 'beat' it out through this tunnel. But he doesn't. He considers it a blessing and privilege to be allowed to learn, and he concentrates all his energies on it.

Because of this eagerness of the young Chinese, and the vast field open to educational possibilities, the Inter-church World Movement, in which America's Protestant churches are cooperating, plans, as a part of its early program, to establish five Christian universities in different parts of the republic.

PEABODY HIGH LOOKS SURE TO LAND CHAMPIONSHIPS IN BOTH SCHOOL LEAGUES

Peabody High baseball supporters believe the Tanners have a wonderful chance to capture the North Shore and Middlesex league pennants again this year. So does Coach Marty Donovan, former Brown University star athlete and local favorite in Essex county ball. He is depending on the veterans of last year to bring along the new aspirants and make the 1920 team not only a contender in High school ball, but insure a championship aggregation of diamond heavies.

With such stars as Hubby Lawrence, Frank O'Keefe, the latter this year's captain; Eddie O'Connor, Dick Lynch and Swede Holden, the ground work for the team this year carries plenty of assurance that the Tanners will mow down their rivals and bring home the bacon.

SO. PEABODY WANTS SOCIAL CENTER

A memorial playground and Community House for South Peabody is the goal which a committee of the South Peabody church is seeking. The committee in charge which has been at work for the past three months, figures that $12,000 will carry the project through. The church stands ready to give the land, and it hopes the city will purchase an addition on which to erect a Memorial Community House suitable for playground work.

South Peabody is asked to contribute $5000 toward the project. The balance will be raised throughout the city by voluntary contributions. The plan includes assembly hall with gymnasium floor, motion picture equipment and theatre, enlarged kitchens, bowling alley, pool tables, basketball court, social rooms and room for South Peabody branch of Public Library.

Benedict Fitzgerald of the War Camp Community service will be the speaker at a mass meeting in the church next Sunday.

WILL HOLD FOOD SALE

Peabody Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, will hold a public food and cake sale on Monday, April 19, at 3 o'clock, in Masonic hall. Mrs. Lizzie S. Forness, 6 State street, has the affair in charge.

VACUUM CUP
CORD TIRES

Not High Priced

DEALERS tell us that many people infer Vacuum Cup Tires and "Ton Tested" Tubes are high priced, assuming that quality and high prices naturally go together.

To the contrary, they are very moderately priced, due to a perfected factory organization operating in a plant utilizing every modern improvement and practical labor saving device, and marketing under an independent zone selling system which makes possible highest quality at economy prices.

Compare these prices—standardized net and uniform throughout the United States—with those of ordinary makes. Pay no more for Pennsylvania products—do not expect them for less.

STRAND THEATRE OFFERS ROUSING HOLIDAY BILL

Two notable war veterans appear in "Jack Straw," the photoplay which the Strand will offer for today and Saturday. One of them is Major Robert Warwick, the star, who served overseas with great honor. The other is the leading woman, Carol McComas. Miss McComas gave three shows a day entertaining members of the A. E. F. in France, and later journeyed with them into Germany. "Jack Straw" is a wholesome light comedy which is cleverly sustained with a pleasant vein of romance. Mr. Warwick gives a breezy portrayal of the title role and receives fine support from a competent cast. The final episode of Ruth Roland's serial "The Adventures of Ruth" is another number listed for showing today, that is worthy of special mention. Those who have seen any of the previous episodes of the serial will not want to miss this

RUTH BURBECK IS BRIDE IN MONSON

In the Universalist church at Monson, Saturday noon, was solemnized the marriage of Miss Ruth Burbeck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Burbeck of Peabody, and Ernest B. Frey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Frey of 19 Holyoke street, Lynn. The ceremony was performed by Rev. George W. Penniman, formerly of Peabody, in the presence of the immediate families. Howard Burbeck, brother of the bride, now attending Amherst college, was best man.

Following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served at Hotel Worthey, Springfield. Mr. and Mrs. Frey will reside in Buffalo, where Mr. Frey is employed as consulting engineer.

Mr. Frey is a graduate of Dartmouth, 1916-17, and a member of Lambda Chi Alpha and Gamma Alpha. He served as lieutenant with the 101st engineers in France. The bride is a graduate of Essex Agricultural school, where she was an assistant instructor for some time.

TRIBUTES FOR GREEK PATRIOTS

Several hundred members of Peabody and Salem Greek societies will commemorate the independence of Greece, Sunday, at a mass meeting in City Hall. There will be a short parade of the societies, preceding the meeting, which will be called together at 3 o'clock. Some important speakers will deliver orations and pay tribute to the martyred Greek patriots who helped to throw off the yoke of the Turk. A large reception committee will receive the guests of the day. There will be special music. John Vuvunas is secretary of the committee.

smashing climax. One of the funny Fox-Sunshine comedies "Her Private Husband" rounds out the program for today.

Sunday marks the beginning of an All-Star week at the Strand. Bert Lytell in "The Lion's Den" and Carlyle Blackwell in "The Golden Wall" will be presented. Both pictures rank high above the average Sunday feature, and the management call it an unusually fine bill.

Norma Talmadge in "The Isle of Conquest" will top a special double feature bill for the holiday and Tuesday. The story tells of Ethel Harmon (Miss Talmadge), who is unhappily wedded to a man whom she despises. Shipwrecked, she is cast upon a desert island with a single male companion, formerly a stoker on her husband's yacht, and while there learns true love and happiness. Their vicissitudes, both during their stay on the island, and after they have been rescued, and the way that happiness ultimately comes to them, makes a fast moving story, interesting and absorbing. Miss Talmadge's supporting cast includes Wyndham Standing, Natalie Talmadge and Garreth Hughes.

Ethel Clayton and Harrison Ford in "The Young Mrs. Winthrop" is the other attraction on this big holiday bill. Miss Clayton is seen in the role of a jazz-mad young wife and Mr. Ford plays the part of her equally business-mad husband. A five-year-old daughter is all that holds them together until her tragic death seems to widen their differences. At last, through the offices of a wise lawyer-friend, the two are brought together. Raymond Hatton, Charles Ogle and J. M. Dupont, the "Dope" in the "Miracle Man" are in the supporting cast.

Elsie Ferguson in "His House in Order" will be the feature picture on Wednesday and Thursday. Miss Ferguson is a great favorite here in Peabody and the announcement of her coming will be received with delight. Harold Lloyd's latest comedy "From Hand to Mouth" will also be shown.

WOODMAN TALKS ON TIRE SAVING

How to get the wear out of tires was the knowledge imparted this week to many Peabody automobile owners at the hands of Willard P. Woodman, conservation expert in the employ of the Goodyear Tire Co. of Akron, Ohio. He spent several days at the company's local service station, owned by Roger H. Smith, and Tuesday noon he gave an interesting discourse before the members of the Peabody Rotary Club.

His description of the growing of rubber and how it is made into tires, made up an address worth while. Data concerning the great allied industries of the Goodyear Co. were set forth, showing their big cotton mills and plantations.

Mr. Woodman, graduate of Peabody High, is the older son of Principal Woodman of the High school. He leaves tomorrow for Akron, where he will spend a few weeks in the plant. His promotion with the concern has been rapid. He served as an officer in the coast artillery during the World War.

RADIO CLUB.
The Essex County Radio association, a club of all amateurs from Salem, Marblehead, Beverly, Danvers and Peabody, met Tuesday evening, at Salem Fraternity House, Salem. The association officers are desirous of getting enough Lynners interested to hold a meeting in Lynn sometime.

HAIRDRESS FOR YOUNG MISS

This is a beautiful coiffure for the debutante or youthful miss.

Paisley Vogue.
The vogue of paisley has come back, and some of the smartest of new hats are showing the use of the paisley colors and weave. You will remember that for some reason when paisley was popular a few years ago it never became popular to the extent of commonplaceness, so there is no feeling against it, as there might have been had it been run to the ground at that time.

Postillon Cape Coat.
Keep your eyes on the coat with wide shoulder cape or with a waist length circular postillon cape. This style was launched two seasons ago and last season, but until now has met with little success. For the spring season, however, the postillon cape coat is arousing much attention.

NOTES OF FASHION

Round collars are used much in children's frocks.

The evening gown occasionally features a very light waist.

The popular length for skirt is eight inches from the floor.

Caramel-colored felt hats and also those in straw with footwear of the same color are apparently in high favor.

Raffia combined with very narrow strips of leather, braided together, form whole hat crowns. To replace the leather, shiny new straw is often used.

The fashion of trimming fur cloaks with pelts running otherwise is most successful and has been adopted by a number of houses this season.

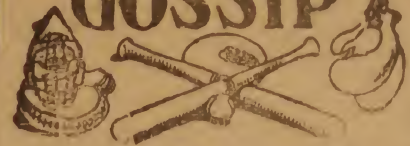

Brocades continue to be the fabric de luxe for evening gowns. This wonderful metallic fabric has inspired a chiffon broche that consists of velvet flowers or figures woven on a background of chiffon cloth.

Ribbons are employed in countless ways. Wide ribbon belts are simply knotted at the sides so that the falling loops give a pannier effect, or at the back with long trailing ends, forming a substitute for the fishtail of last season.

SPORTING GOSSIP

Peabody baseball fans, who followed the success of the A. C. L. team last year, will wish Russ Murphy, the Lynn player a good season with Marblehead High this Spring, where he is to whip into play, what he hopes will be a championship nine. The 'Heads' are in the North Shore League and will play Peabody, and the fans may be certain of a top notch game. Murphy played with the A. C. L. team a few games last year before going back to Marblehead A. A. with Chick Davies. He has been engaged as a teacher coach, and under his leadership Marblehead hopes to have its best team in baseball.

Shorty Dee, nephew of Patrolman Thomas Grady of this city, has joined Terra Haute for the Spring training, and his Lynn and Peabody friends are sure he will stick. Billy Hamilton of Ocean Park fame, wants to sign Dee for his fast semi-pro team this summer, but Terra Haute has first call. Dee is an infielder, at home on either third or second bag.

There is some talk that the Father Mathews may put a fast team on the park this summer, if the A. C. L. doesn't. It is believed that enough strong players can be secured in this city to perfect a town team, that can battle with the best of the amateur teams.

BOY SCOUTS WILL GIVE GALA SHOW

Peabody Boy Scouts will find a record house at the Strand on May 4, when they present their sketch "Twelve Old Maids," and the audience is assured of one of the best entertainments of the season. The play is a laugh from start to finish with well known boys impersonating the gentler sex. The advance sale of tickets has been very heavy. A feature film will be shown by the theatre management.

What "Slow" Accounts Mean

'SLOW' ACCOUNTS mean something more than the mere matter of delay in receiving payment of bills.

THEY MEAN DUPLICATION OF EFFORT, the maintenance of records and additional officework that would be unnecessary if such accounts were paid within the reasonable specified time.

BUT MOST OF ALL they mean that effort which might be devoted to necessary tasks essential to the comfort, convenience and efficiency that you derive from your telephone service, is wasted on what should be unnecessary tasks.

ORDER OF QUARANTINE NO. 11 RELATIVE TO EUROPEAN CORN BORER

WHEREAS, a dangerously injurious insect, the European corn borer, (Pyrausta nubilalis Hubner), has been found in the following cities and towns in Massachusetts, namely: Abington, Amesbury, Andover, Arlington, Ayer, Barnstable, Bedford, Belmont, Beverly, Billerica, Braintree, Bridgewater, Brockton, Boston, Brockton, Brookline, Burlington, Cambridge, Carlisle, Chelmsford, Chelsea, Cohasset, Concord, Danvers, Dennis, Duxbury, Eastham, Easton, Everett, Falmouth, Framingham, Georgetown, Gloucester, Groveland, Hamilton, Haverhill, Hingham, Hudson, Hull, Ipswich, Kingston, Lawrence, Lexington, Lincoln, Lowell, Lynn, Lynnfield, Malden, Manchester, Marshfield, Mattapoisett, Medford, Melrose, Merrimack, Methuen, Middleboro, Middleton, Milton, Nahant, Needham, Needham Heights, New Bedford, North Andover, North Attleboro, North Attleboro, North Duxbury, North Scituate, Norwell, Orleans, Peabody, Pembroke, Plymouth, Provincetown, Quincy, Randolph, Reading, Revere, Rockland, Rockport, Rowley, Salem, Salisbury, Sandwich, Scituate, Scituate, Somerville, Stoneham, Sudbury, Swampscott, Tewksbury, Topsfield, Truro, Tyngsboro, Wakefield, Waltham, Watertown, Wayland, Wellesley, Weymouth, West Newbury, Weston, Weymouth, Wilmington, Winchester, Winthrop, Woburn, Yarmouth.

And, whereas, this insect has been found to infest certain plants and plant products, hereinafter named, and it is likely to spread to other portions of this State and other states through the movement of such plants and plant products, now, therefore, I, R. Harold Allen, Director, Division of Plant Control, with the approval of the Commissioner of Agriculture, by authority of and under the provisions of Chapter 95 of the General Acts of 1919, and of the several acts amendatory thereto, do hereby order, that it is hereby prohibited, under penalty of fine and imprisonment, for any person to move, transport, or cause to be moved, transported, or in any manner to be introduced, into this State, from any place outside of this State, any of the following plants and plant products, namely, corn and broom corn, including all parts of the stalk, celery, green beans in the pods, with tops, spinach, rhubarb, oat and rye straw as such or when used for packing, cut flowers or entire plants of chrysanthemums, aster, cosmos, zinnia, hollyhock, and cut flowers or entire plants of gladioli and dahlias, except the bulbs thereof, without stems, except under such conditions as are designated in the regulations supplemental to this order.

This order shall supersede quarantines Nos. 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9 and 10, and shall take effect on April 12, 1920, and shall remain in full force and effect until further notice.

R. HAROLD ALLEN, Director, Division of Plant Control.

Approved: ARTHUR W. GILBERT, Commissioner of Agriculture.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE

By virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage given by Rufus C. Danforth and Eliza J. Garnet to Carrie P. Call, dated July 6, 1918, and noted document No. 5445 on Certificate of Title No. 2572, registered in Essex South District Registry of Deeds, for breach of the condition in said mortgage contained and for the purpose of foreclosing the same, will be sold at public auction on the premises hereinafter described on Monday, May 3, 1920, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of said day, all and singular the premises by said mortgage conveyed therein, described as follows:

A certain parcel of land with the buildings thereon situate in Peabody in said Commonwealth and bounded and described as follows:

Northeasterly on lot 235, as shown on plan hereinafter mentioned, one hundred (100) feet; northwesterly on lots 373 and 374, as shown on said plan, fifty (50) feet; southeasterly on Glendale avenue, fifty (50) feet; and southwesterly on lots 229, 230, 231 and 232, as shown on said plan, one hundred (100) feet. Containing, according to said plan five thousand (5000) square feet. The above described land is shown as lots 233 and 234 on plan entitled, "Lake Shore Park, in Lynn and Peabody, Mass.," dated March 28, 1904, Charles D. Elliott, C. E., as modified and approved by the Court, filed in the Land Registration Office, a copy of a portion of which, being plan No. 857-B, is filed with Certificate of Title No. 134 in said Registry.

Said premises will be sold subject to unpaid taxes and assessments.

Terms, two hundred dollars in cash at the time and place of said sale; balance in ten days upon delivery of deed. Deed will be delivered at the office of Sisk Brothers, 145 Munroe street, Lynn, Mass.

CARRIE P. CALL, Mortgagee.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

So many pupils have been needlessly tardy that a new rule has been made. Pupils now tardy without a good excuse are to learn selections from masterpieces, and to be debarred from class until the work is done.

Mrs. Buckley substituted for Miss Elsie Chandler last Friday. The fact that a great number of pupils have been tardy lately has caused a new rule to be made. All pupils reporting late must learn selections from masterpieces, and are debarred from classes until the work is satisfactorily done.

Season tickets for the home games for the baseball season have been on sale all this week at school. The tickets are only 50 cents and good for all home games. The students are strongly urged to buy them, as they receive them for almost half price.

Alice Mulcahy of the Senior class was absent for a few days suffering with a sprained ankle.

A meeting of the Board of Editors of "Pep" was held in Room 2 last Monday noon.

Miss Hazel Clarke and Miss M. Esther Curry of the faculty of the Junior High School of Lynn visited Miss Elene Masterson at school last Friday.

Sylvia Gaines of the Junior class has returned after a few days' absence.

Mr. Woodman had as a visitor last Friday, the principal of the Gorham High School, Maine.

Amy Wiggins of the Senior class has been absent during this week.

Henry Osborn, formerly of the faculty of Peabody High, visited school, Tuesday. Mr. Osborn is now teaching in Michigan, and is enjoying a 10 days' vacation.

The Senior class is completing its plans for the Senior play, which is to be given soon.

Mr. Willard Woodman gave a lecture in the assembly hall, Wednesday, to some of the classes, on the "Goodyear Auto Tires." Mr. Woodman is interested in this work, and the talk was very interesting.

The Junior class regrets the fact that the Peabody Chamber of Commerce will not support it in its attempt to produce the High School paper, "Pep" by giving it its endorsement. This fact has proved a great hindrance in securing "ads" for the paper, and this is its chief financial support. "Pep" presents a fine educational value, both from a literary and business viewpoint, and the Junior class feels that it should receive support from the Peabody Chamber of Commerce.

Miss Catherine Ellis, who is attending the Sargent School in Cambridge, visited school last week.

Gladys Proctor of the Sophomore class has moved to New Hampshire.

Miss Amy LeRoy, formerly teacher of French, was present as a guest at the teachers' play, Wednesday evening.

Every Blemish Removed In a Few Days

By a New Method, and Thin, Pale People Increase Weight Quickly By Simply Using a Few 5-Grain Argo-Phosphate Tablets. They Act Like Magic.

Even in many stubborn cases that have baffled physicians and beauty specialists for years. You have never in your life heard of anything like it. They make muddy complexions, pimples, eruptions, red spots, blackheads vanish quickly. Your complexion can be clear and you can have a beautiful rounded figure. Your face, hands, arms and shoulders can be made beautiful beyond your fondest dreams in a few days by this wonderful new discovery which phosphatizes the system. Its effect many claim is marvelous, this treatment is absolutely harmless to the most delicate person and pleasant to use.

SPECIAL NOTICE—Ladies wishing to increase bust development should secure one or two ounces of Rostone from their druggist and apply once or twice daily. This is a most effective remedy and perfectly harmless when used in connection with argo-phosphate. It will round out your form and increase your weight like magic; unless you desire to increase your weight do not use argo-phosphate. Dispensed by Lee Pharmacy, Geo. S. Curtis Co.

METHODISTS PRAISE PASTOR

The annual session of the M. E. conference of the Methodist church which convened in Boston last week was attended by a great many of the members of the local Methodist church. The appointment of Rev. I. F. Lusk to the Peabody charge for another year by Bishop Hughes, was a recognition of the splendid work accomplished by Mr. Lusk, during his pastorate, and in accord with the request of the members who voted him an increase of $400 in salary.

The past year has been one of the best in the history of the church. The church budget was in excess of $6000. Much of this money was spent along recreational and educational lines. The attendance at all the church services has been in excess of other years, while the increase in attendance and interest in the Sunday School and young people's societies has been very marked. There were numerous additions to the membership during the year.

It has been repeatedly said by big men in both business and political life that the church and the principals for which it stands is the only answer to Bolshevism, and the social unrest which is disturbing all countries. It is the purpose of the Methodist church in Peabody, under the capable leadership of its pastor to use all its resources in such activities as shall be helpful to the community at large, as well as its own members.

I do not believe in being "stamped" either by the cry that the "popular trend" is in the direction of a more liberal Sunday; or by that other raised by the opposition, that any legislation will furnish an "entering wedge" for commercial interests. The first cry should make us scrutinize more carefully our fundamental bases and see if they are still sound; the second should make us doubly watchful that commercial interests are not allowed to enter.

I believe that the bill, allowing amateur sports in the afternoon, just passed by the Legislature, is in the interests of a better Sunday. To my mind it needs no other argument than that it will furnish a means of wholesome physical expression to our youth—an essential plank in a religious platform that faces toward today.

Isn't it about time that our churches began to look to the atmosphere of justice and love and self-direction that they create for their source of strength rather than to negative and repressive legislation?

LOWELL STREET

CITY HALL GOSSIP

The Assessors have their work cut out for them this year. The high prices paid for real estate about Peabody square and Main street means an increase in valuation in these districts. So much valuation has been taken from the city it would appear that the rate must advance. But a ray of sunshine appears when an official in the Tax Commissioner's department predicts our return from the State will be more than anticipated. However, figures must be obtained from that department before the rate can be figured.

All kind of good things are being heard about Inspector Pierce. Peabody has more cases for inspectors than other cities of its size. Chief Grady for years did the bulk of this work, and to the uninitiated it amounted to little work. But the story reads different now for publicity has brought out the fact that gum shoeing is an important part of the police department.

City Clerk and Treasurer Francis L. Poor has been through a successful operation. He was booked to have it performed at the J. B. Thomas hospital, but there was no room when the time arrived. Complaints of this kind are frequently heard.

A quiet canvass is being made by aspirants for the mayoralty. There are so many changes going on, that conditions will have much to do with the result. A man of proper calibre is needed, for to tear down what has already been accomplished would be serious to our city.

City Sealer T. Hadley Sawyer now receives $1400 per annum. His job requires much work and it increases each year. The red tape in this office is some tape, and some of it would seem to be superfluous. However, in 10 years the pay for this position has risen from $100 to $1400. When the people see the real work of his work, and it will come, then the pay will be in accordance with results obtained.

When the city acquires the property around the High school they will have land enough for all purposes. There are many tracts of land in the rear of Central street available, and it is the idea of the school committee to have a real ball field, and for all other outdoor sports. Never mind the expense John.

The Mayor has practically completed the budget. The few remaining items to be passed by the Council are minor in importance.

Some of the field assessors have a grievance with the principle assessors because they have not brought in correct names. One in particular made a mess of it, and was obliged to do his work over. To present a poll list with names wrong, yes wrong, arouses the ire of many citizens and rightly so.

Assistant Janitor Duggan is making good at City Hall. The duties of the janitor and his assistant are many. There is always plenty to do and then some. Some day a new floor will be laid in the large hall, but a combination of an amusement and dance hall do not mix any more than does oil and water.

The police have better quarters in the old court room. It gives Captain McCarthy and Inspector Pierce elbow room to do their work. Dive is wrestling with an Oliver typewriter. He has tackled most everything in the wrestling line, and come out on top. For a starter the typewriter floored him.

An order went through the Council a short time ago to remove the guns and ammunition from the case in the City Hall corridors. We note they are still there and a real menace to life should some one choose to take them. There are 14 guns and 22 boxes of shells. Get busy somebody.

It does not look as though Peabody was in right with the Massachusetts House of Representatives. The bill to have poll tax payers register, received no backing by the Committee on Taxation. The chairman of that committee, although an official in a company who own and run a large plant here, claims his concern is taxed too high, therefore nothing doing. A concern who feels that way about their taxes should at least file a complaint, which they have not done with the present Board of Assessors.

THOMAS CURTIN.

Word was received in this city yesterday morning by Mrs. Michael McCarthy of 20 Granite street of the death of her cousin, Thomas Curtin, Lord Mayor of the city of Cork, Ireland. The Honorable Mr. Curtin met his death in a horrible way, being shot to death by a band of men who invaded his home at late hour. His remains were held in state for three days, when he was honored by the people from various counties, who held him in highest esteem.

CANDIDATES

ground, noting all of the signs of Spring and Fall elections. Giles' long record of consistency in office, being both a progressive and conservative, make him a most dangerous man, it is held, in the coming mayoralty race.

Unofficially it is announced that William A. Shea has been long casting furtive eyes on the Mayor's job. He may make at least the fifth man, after the primary nomination, and next city election for Mayor. Shea went into office a firm supporter of Mayor Donnell, but after a few weeks as President of the Council, he withdrew his support.

That a prominent business man will be another candidate is going the rounds of Dame Rumor, now flitting into back rooms or club circles, in which politics are prime subjects for debate.

Meanwhile Mayor Donnell is not picking out his successor.

MERCHANT'S WEEK

sale. At close of sale, a drawing will be held and the holder of the lucky card will receive $10 merchandise order form the Chamber. Each card contains a coupon numbered in duplicate which must be filled out by the merchant after a purchase of $1 or more is made and sent to the Chamber offices.

The merchants also want suggestions as to what they can do to improve the service of their stores and a blank for that purpose is also being sent to the buying public; the merchants will appreciate a frank opinion from trading public as to what they should do to improve conditions in Peabody.

This blank should have the careful attention of all, so that if conditions are not what you think they should be, steps will be taken, if possible, by the merchants to overcome them, and to accommodate the buying public. The merchants have adopted the slogan "TRADE IN PEABODY AND SAVE DOLLARS," and from information secured, we know that you can SAVE DOLLARS by trading in Peabody.

A list of the merchants who have agreed to allow the 5% discount will be found in the Chamber's advertisement in another column of this paper. Persons who do not receive a card allowing them this special discount can secure cards at Chamber of Commerce offices, or from any of the merchants, whose names appear in the Ad.

THE ART, NEEDLEWORK AND CRAFTS display committee report that some very interesting exhibits will be made. The public and parochial schools are preparing to make extensive displays of the drawings and needle work of the various grades, and the Community House will exhibit some of the work of the various classes conducted by them.

On the opening night of this exhibit, April 22, a band concert will be held at Chestnut and Lowell streets with dancing on Chestnut street.

The Chamber's committee on forming a Retail Merchants Division have called a general meeting of all merchants for Wednesday, April 21, at 2 P. M., for the purpose of discussing the advisability of forming a Retail Division and to consider questions of interest to the merchants of Peabody. The committee has secured T. M. B. Hicks, Jr., secretary of Retail Trade Board of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, as the speaker for this evening. Every merchant in Peabody is invited to attend this meeting.

WILL HOLD STAG NIGHT

The Peabody lodge of Moose will hold a stag night next Thursday, which will probably be the last one this season. The committee has arranged something special, and a large attendance is expected.

CAMPFIRE GIRLS

The Saquasipi Camp Fire Girls held their weekly meeting last Friday evening. Rehearsal of their play, which is to be given in the near future, took place.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

About 20 friends of Miss Charlotte E. Skinner of 10 Wallis street, gathered at her home last Wednesday evening in honor of her 11th birthday.

Jere Quirk left yesterday for Baltimore, Md., where he will spend several days, and will visit friends in Washington before returning home.

FIREMEN TO SEE, "RAW RECRUIT"

One of the big features of the annual firemen's show scheduled for next week Friday night in City Hall will be the comedy sketch, "The Raw Recruit" which is being perfected as one of the screaming headlines of the entertainment. The scene is an army recruiting office in Boston with Leo B. Murphy, who was gassed at Chateau Thierry, in the role of recruiting officer.

Miss Lena Fish will play the part of the Salvation Army lass. Timothy Marooney, John Cy McCarthy, John
Doherty, Joseph Hingston, Thomas McCoy, the latter a professional familiar to Keith's circuit, and Eddie Simmonds complete the cast. During the sketch two songs will be rendered by Miss Fish and Cy McCarthy. The latter is shaping the rehearsals for the big entertainment, in which 40 men and 20 girls will take part. Musical Director Edward Carbrey is in charge of the lyrics.

It's going to be one of the very best shows ever staged for the benefit of the Peabody Firemen's Relief

MAY FESTIVAL COMMITTEES

With the Chamber of Commerce backing the big May festival and the Rotary Club pushing the advertising end, there seems no doubt that the people of this city are assured of the largest time they ever experienced.
Mrs. Mabeth C. Lambert has the af-mittee consisting of Mrs. Louis P. P.

Osborne, Mrs. Natalie Eaton, Miss Edith Porter, Mrs. Edith Holman,
Mrs. Lyman P. Osborne, Mrs. Edward Merrill and Mrs. Clarence Joll.

This committee has aroused so much interest and enthusiasm in the Festival that it promises to be the biggest community affair this city has ever undertaken, 12 separate organizations having already signed up to help the work along.

EX-BOSTON COPS FLAYED BY COUNCIL

Ex-Boston policemen called "strong armed strike breakers" were bitterly condemned by the City Council last night following a petition of South Peabody residents asking for police protection and Chief Grady was put on the carpet by Councillors Giles and McKeen for alleged failure to abate disorders in that section. Councillor Giles declared the lack of Peabody police effort was an outrage. Councillor Ryan favored having a Peabody policeman stationed on duty near the strike trouble 24 hours a day until the matter was settled.

The "strong armed" methods of the former Boston cops was the sensation before the Council last night. Councillor Eagan flayed the ex-Boston cops declaring that they had been beaten on a law and order vote following their strike and that they had come to Peabody and were running rough shod over the rights of citizens.

He did not believe another city would stand for any such tactics as employed by these outsiders.

How interference on the part of Driver Edward Dullea of the police patrol had saved two citizens from a clubbing while en route to the police station was told and several of the Councillors went on record in severe condemnation. Councillor McKeen said he had appealed to Chief Grady to take action and that both the Mayor and Chief had promised to act.
Councillor Hogan raised the point as to whether the Mayor or Chief of Police had the right of appointing

CITY HALL GOSSIP

The Enterprise is glad to see the News give Police Inspector "Dive" Pierce due credit for his work since becoming a plain clothes man in the department. The creation of the rank of inspector had the public endorsement of the Enterprise from the first, and the results of the service have justified the support for that office by this paper. The appointment of Inspector Pierce at the hands of Mayor Donnell found many warm supporters, but none more active than George R. Nelson, clerk of the assessors, who has always been a great booster for Inspector Pierce. A police sergeant and a few more regulars with the eight hour day and $5 a day pay will give Chief Grady a department that in efficiency, will compare with the best police system. All that Chief Grady needs is patience.

MATS COP FLAG

Before the largest crowd of the series at the North street rink, last Tuesday, the East End rooters saw the Mats conquer their last hopes of gaining any laurels in the line of basketball. The score was Mats 34, Athletics 26.

As usual both teams put two of the fastest professional basketball teams on the floor, the Athletics being represented by the Gloucester Stars, while the Mats played the Shawmuts, as they did a week ago.

Lowell Street

The Friday Evening Sewing Club will meet with Mrs. Philip Osborn of King street this evening.

Miss Alice P. Woodman has been home this past week from "The Sargent School."

Ralph Beals is one of the field assessors and has part of Ward Six as his territory, to cover.

Miss Louise King is visiting a former classmate at Abbott, Miss Frances Jones of Portland, Oregon.

Allan B. Munroe of Orchard street entertained one of his classmates, Mr. Cashman of the Eastern Radio Institute, one day this past week.

Mrs. Philip Osborn and son, Frederick, leave Saturday for a month's visit with Mr. and Mrs. John Winchester of Newark, N. J.

Mrs. John Young of Kosciusko street is convalescing from a three weeks' siege of the grip.

Miss Jeanette MacDonald attended the tea Sunday afternoon given by Miss Lucy Fowler of Salem, at which she announced her engagement to William Cobb Mills of New York City.

Arthur Glackin attended the Massachusetts State Plumbers' convention held in Boston on Monday and Tuesday.

The many friends of Miss Evelyn Chandler will be pleased to hear of her rapid recovery, and she expects to come home very soon.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Emilo have returned from their trip to California.

Mrs. Hadely Sawyer has been confined to her home for the past few days with a very bad cold.

Daniel Sheen has been seriously ill at his home on Broad street, but is at present much improved.

Miss Cora Hill of Paterson, N. J., was the guest this week of Mrs. H. H. White.

Thomas Cousins of South Middleton, was taken ill at the West school on Monday and was carried home.

William Green of Forest street was taken to the hospital Monday, suffering from a severe attack of appendicitis. His condition at the present writing is said to be critical.

Grafton Thurrel was at home last week. He is now a fireman on the B. & M. railroad and is sent for duty to varying points.

A large truck has stood beside Russell street for several days, where it is held by mired wheels and locked with a railroad crossing sign-post.

Miss Edith Bragdon of Boston was a recent guest of Mrs. Lewis Felt.

Any young people wishing to join the party which Rev. Fred Gealy is going to escort through the Boston Art Museum, are notified to take the 11.54 train for Boston on Saturday.

A large pond has stood for a fortnight beside the eastern end of Pine street, backing water into nearby cellars. The railroad has replaced the faulty culvert, which has caused the trouble, with a small bridge.

Elmer Moody, a young boy, is making his home with Mr. and Mrs. F. K. McIntire.

The engagement of Miss Ethel McDonald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John McDonald, to Everett E. White, was announced recently.

AGNES L. EAGAR

The funeral of Miss Agnes L. Eagar, an undergraduate nurse, who died at the Long Island hospital, Boston, Mass., was held last Friday afternoon at St. John's church, at 2.30, and was largely attended.

Many nurses from the Long Island hospital were present, eight acting as escort to the body.

The Red Cross flag draped the white hearse in which the body was borne.

The pallbearers were Bernard Lyons, James Curran, Charles Reagan, Ollie Lee, William Higgins and John Williams.

There were many floral offerings including a pillow from the class of 1920. Pillow from the matron of the L. I. hospital, standing wreath from the employees of the Hygrade Lamp Co., cross from the Danvers Bleachery, wreath from the S. M. G. Club, wreath from the Echo Club and standing cross from Marr's Brothers Leather Co. There were also 80 spiritual bouquets.

THE RIGHT OF WAY

Sir Gilbert Parker's master romance of the Canadian north woods

Starring BERT LYTELL

Scenario by June Mathis

Directed by Jack Dillon

Kathleen knew in her heart of hearts that "Beauty" Steele was not the man she loved. But when he was with her, the sheer force of his personality, the undeniable charm of the man, his spectacular brilliancy, got the better of her. There was the craving he had for drink, too, that was ominous. She must decide quickly. How did she choose? This is just one of the big scenes.

Another time Steele had said, "I have had no proof of Heaven." "Show me a sign from Heaven, tailor man, and I will believe in your God."

And while Steele slept, the fanatical tailor crept upon him, a white hot cross in his hand... A sign from Heaven branded on his breast... with that he would believe. This is just another of the thrilling climaxes in "The Right of Way."

Butterworth Made Supt. Lynn Factory

The United States Upper Leather Tanning Company, a new concern for the purpose of converting sole leather bellies into upper leather by a secret process discovered during the war, will occupy the property at 378 Broadway, Lynn. The company, recently incorporated, has a paid in capital of $50,000, and will prove a valuable addition to Lynn's industrial life. The Lynn Chamber of Commerce was instrumental in bringing the new concern to Lynn.

The secret process which, it is claimed, will revolutionize leather making, was invented by Ernest Day of Marblehead and Sydney F. Butterworth of Peabody. The entire production of upper leathers will be used exclusively by the United States Leather Co. and the new concern also will engage extensively in retanning India tanned goat and sheepskins for Boston leather houses. The daily output of the company will be from 250 to 300 skins. The Broadway proper consists of more than six acres of land and numerous buildings which contain about 75,000 square feet of floor space. The plant will be in operation on May 1 and now is being thoroughly refitted.

The officers of the new concern are: Arthur W. Wellington of Weston, president, who is also president of the United States Leather Company; Ernest Day of Marblehead, vice president, who is also in charge of the upper leather department of the United States Leather Company, and will be general manager in full charge of production, as well as buying and selling; James B. B. Smith of Weymouth, treasurer of the United States Leather Company, treasurer. Sydney F. Butterworth of Peabody will be factory superintendent. He was previously superintendent and part owner of the Formal Leather Company of Peabody and at one time superintendent for A. J. Mulholland Leather Company of Salem. Walter F. Lawton of Quincy will be secretary of the company in charge of the office. The incorporators will also constitute the board of directors.

As each member of the concern is a specialist in his line and financial backing behind it is unlimited, big accomplishments seem assured.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS

Peabody lodge, Knights of Pythias, will work the rank of Esquire on a number of candidates tonight, the work being conferred by the uniform rank team of the Paul Revere lodge of Lynn. Chancellor Commander, Hyman Isenberg urges all members of the order to attend the meeting. A collation will be served at the conclusion of the degree work.

DEACON'S SECOND WIFE.

"The Deacon's Second Wife," a comedy in three acts, is bound to attract a large audience at the First Baptist church on Wednesday evening, April 21, when the Elite club will perform. In the cast are Marjorie Howard, Mary Ratcliff, Buelah Howard, Jesse Fyfe, Clara Risten, Ella Sabean, Levi Larrabee, Milford Risten, Stanley Morrill, William J. D. Ratcliff, Raymond Punchard and Eldon Risten.

Irving Pitman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Pitman of South street, is expected home tomorrow from Newark, N. J., where he has been critically ill with typhoid fever for the past several weeks. He is an overseas veteran and contracted his malady the day he landed in Hoboken. He is one of the last Peabody veterans to return from France.

Lungs Sore From Coughing

ALLEN'S LUNG HEALER
Banishes Cough and Heals Lungs

Mr. Alfred Husson of 17 Cedar Street Has Found This Remedy a Friend in Need

Mr. H. J. Allen:

Dear Sir—I have used Allen's Lung Healer a number of years and as I have always found it very effective in all kinds of coughs and colds, especially on the lungs, I want to write and tell you that I would not be without it in the house.

It was recommended to me at a time when I was severely ill from a deep-seated cold on the lungs which had run me down badly. At times I was unable to work because of the distress in my lungs from coughing. The first bottle greatly relieved me and the second cured me entirely so that I felt like a different man. I consider it a most remarkable and reliable lung and cough medicine.

Gratefully yours,
ALFRED HUSSON,
17 Cedar Street, Lynn.

PEABODY NOW SHY ONLY 300 METERS

The City Engineer's office is fast completing the entire metering of the city's water supply service to consumers. Today there are 2700 meters in play, with 3000 supplies. The introduction of the meter system in Peabody took shape in 1912, and each year the number have been increased.

Former Public Works Commissioner James Goggin deserves much of the credit for the extension of water meter service in Peabody.

hat the meter has taught the consumer to conserve water and take speedy action to remedy leaks is shown by the record of the meter department, which was never in better condition than today under Charles Krump. The accompanying illustration of the benefits of the water meter system speaks for itself.

OFFICER BOWEN 13 YEARS ON FORCE

Funeral services over the remains of the late Francis J. Bowen, police officer, will be from St. John's church tomorrow morning, and will be largely attended. His death came yesterday morning, after a long eight months of intense suffering from cancer of the stomach, at his home on Caller street. He had served 13 years as a regular Sunday patrolman and had given the best of his efforts in the discharge of his duty. He was for many years in the employ of the B. N. Moore & Son, leather manufacturers. He is survived by a widow, a daughter, Catherine, and a son, John J., the latter of Marlboro, also a sister, Mrs. Michael Bowen of Peabody. He was 61 years old.

Sidney H. Lipka and his business associates in the Kromene Tanning Co., have acquired the leather business of Frank Ulrich, who had been turning out splits for the shoe trade.

Wm. Armstrong Will Address Lynn Shoemen

About 100 superintendents and foremen of Lynn shoe factories attended the weekly meeting of their association last week in the Hotel Seymour. The speakers were: Dr. Charles H. Bangs, Fred Gannon and Edward Howard.

Dr. Bangs delivered a powerful address on Americanism. Going back to the early days of the Colonies, he told of the Mayflower Compact drawn up by the Pilgrim Fathers, whereby master and servant were recognized as equals.

Paul Krippendorf of the Krippendorf Kalkulator Company of Lynn will speak on cutting room methods and William Armstrong of the Armstrong Leather Mart of Salem will talk on the making of upper leathers at the meeting on April 15.

OUR BOYS

The world's war taught us no better lesson than the need of constructive training of the youth of our country, and the issue now before Congress looking to a national law which will compel all cities and towns to take hold of the problem along definite and constructive lines deserves the support of the public and ready compliance with the legislation. The development of our youths, particularly the boys, although with a due regard for the health of our young girls, is the big issue that concerns the Peabody Rotary Club just as it is concerning the 600 odd Rotary Clubs of America. Progress is being made by the local Rotary Club through its committee, and letters were sent this week to Senators Lodge and Walsh and Congressman Phelan urging their support of the boys welfare bill. Playgrounds are a waste of money unless the supervision is made worth while and takes on a definite program of endeavor and physical training. It is not a boy's job, this supervision of hundreds of young girls and boys, and the city of Peabody through its past efforts to maintain playgrounds has for the most part expended money from which but very little benefit has accrued to the youths of our city. The position of instructor is most important and without a course of training in the care of boys and girls in outdoor exercise the efforts of the majority of instructors is nil. Playgrounds can be made and should be made to yield a big investment in the proper training of our youths and the success of the venture should be the concern of every parent in Peabody. The Rotary Club movement is now a national effort which bids fair to bear fruit this year and it is bound to merit the earnest support of the Mayor and Playground Commission. Progress of the movement will be awaited with much interest on the part of every father and mother in Peabody.

THE NEED FOR CITIZENSHIP

At the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce, about forty men are meeting every Thursday evening to study citizenship. These men represent twelve different nationalities, have all declared their intentions of becoming American citizens by taking out their first papers, and are putting their time one evening a week into making a study of the government that they expect to take an active part in as soon as they achieve the ballot. The country needs such men as these as its citizens. They will make much better individuals for the community in which they live by virtue of their citizenship. It is to be hoped that more men will be encouraged and assisted to take on the privileges and responsibilities of American citizenship. We must not forget, however, our duties and responsibilities as native-born citizens. It is our duty to look upon our citizenship and our ballot as being given us to be used for the benefit not of the individual, not of the class, but of the community, state or nation as a whole. It is to be feared that we have not considered our responsibilities as citizens during this past few years as carefully as we should. We have gotten farther away from the idea of the government of, by and for the people and have instead thought more of selfish reasons when casting our ballots, regardless of the injustice that might be done to our neighbor or fellow-citizen. It would do no harm and might accomplish a great amount of good if more of our native-born citizens made a little study of the principles of our form of government, brushed up a little on the constitution and read some of the great speeches made by our greatest statesmen from Washington to Roosevelt. The country needs this type of thought today more than it has for many years. Let us keep pace with the new citizen who is being better grounded in his citizenship than some of us who have taken it as a matter of course.

HER ARGUMENT

By JOSIAH GILBERT HOLLAND

"Donald's dead," she murmured, smiling, as she met me at the door. "Come and see the little fellow ere we carry him away!" Then she turned with queenly gesture, and walked firmly on before, To the chamber where the coffin and its lovely burden lay ***

I had come to bring her comfort, but I stood in dumb amaze, For her peace was like a river and her joy too full for speech. I had come to lead her sobbing through the dim and doubtful ways That philosophy discloses and the hackneyed schoolmen teach.

She had learned a better logic; she was mistress of the hour; And I stood before her, humbled, knowing that my scheme was vain. "Tell me, woman," said I, trembling—"tell me, if thou hast the power, How thou knowest that this little boy of thine shall live again."

"Sweetest thing in earth and heaven"—made she answer to my quest—"Life of Godhead, breath of angels, every good and gift above, Was bestowed upon my Donald—lived and throbbed within his breast—God had given him love for largess, and had given him power to love!"

"If He had not loved my Donald, would He, think you, have bestowed What was best in all his kingdom—what was royal and divine—On the little earthly nature, till I knew it the abode Of the presence of the Master, and revered it as a shrine? ***

"Oh I know it: God loved Donald; and He will not let him die. Even I had saved him living if my love had had the might. Did the God of earth and heaven love my darling less than I? Having loved him will He damn him to the everlasting night?"

"That is not the way of loving. Every instinct of love's power Moves to shield its precious object from destruction and decay; And I know that God loved Donald, and that Donald has for dower Immortality of being, in the everlasting day!"

ROUND ABOUT

Election of Thomas J. O'Shea, as director in the Warren National Bank, to succeed his lamented father, has elicited much favorable comment for the board of directors, with whom the late Thomas H. O'Shea was so closely identified. The son becomes the youngest bank director in Essex county, and one of the youngest in the State for that matter, at the age of 24. His election carries with it a tribute to his father from whom the son received many valuable instructions in business. He is a graduate of Harvard University and was a volunteer in the World War service.

To be in most any business venture today, one has to be somewhat versatile and often times the more this ability is cultivated, the more successful the man. I overheard a Peabody business man remark the other day, that he had to hurry home to help milk six cows, as the choreman had taken to jakey or some other insidious habit.

I expect that one of the hobbies which former Councillor Charles H. Cotton will pursue when he takes office, as one of the Playground Commissioners, will be to foster a plan, whereby Ward 3 may have a worthwhile play area for its hundreds of boys and girls, who have to do or die in somewhat of a prison yard at the Wallis school.

I observed that C. Frank Hathaway of Lynn, for several years assistant district attorney under Messrs. Attwill, Cox and Wells, made his initial appearance in the Peabody district court Wednesday, as attorney in a local case. Attorney Hathaway is one of the best known and popular members of the Essex bar, with the happy knack of when once making a friend, of keeping him. He numbers many Peabody friends, among whom is Mayor Donnell, and this mention calls to mind the recent political battle from which Mayor Donnell emerged the victor in the district attorney contest. Some days before the Peabody Mayor threw his hat into the arena of votes for the office he was entertained at the home of Attorney Hathaway. Politics were not discussed, the chatter ranging over a long list of subjects from early history of Grecian athletics to the Versailles treaty terms, and when the hour of departure came the two attorneys parted fast friends. Then came the Peabody Mayor's announcement that he was going to be the next district attorney of dear old Essex. Attorney Hathaway was an appointee of District Attorney Wells, and in keeping with his character, loyal and true to his chief, and he put his shoulder to the Wells campaign wheels, and worked as hard as he knew how to re-elect Wells, and, of course, defeat Donnell. Hathaway resides in Swampscott, home of some thoroughbreds and while the vote was only slightly in favor of Wells, it was a victory for Hathaway. He left no stone unturned to defeat Mayor Donnell, and those who know him never questioned where he stood, for his bounden duty was to advance the candidacy of Wells. The latter official never questioned the loyalty of Hathaway. All of which goes to prove that while politics don't always allow a man in office to be influenced by outside friendships, one can still retain his friends, although he oppose them in quest of votes.

A well known Peabody business man is telling this joke on himself. Returning from Boston on the "owl" train, one night this week, accompanied by his wife, he left the train at Grove street, Salem, mistaking it for Caller street, Peabody. The wife tried to question him, for she recognized the stop, but in vain, and the train went on its way, leaving the Peabody couple a mile from their home off Aborn street, this city. Hardly had they gotten to Boston street, when a big yellow cat joined them, and despite their efforts to shake him off, the feline followed them to their door. The cat was shut out, but found an open window, through which he crawled, and curled upon a chair to make up lost sleep. Now this business man threatens to ask the railroad to do away with the Salem Grove street station.

To explain the purpose of the Interchurch World Movement, a conference of church leaders in this country is about to be held. In practically every county in Massachusetts a similar convention will take place. The procedure is nation-wide, these meetings having been prepared for in 3000 counties of the United States.

The dancing school conducted by Mrs. Olive Teel Mills of Salem, concluded its winter season last Saturday afternoon in Masonic hall, where the 40 little boys and girls gave an exhibition. Ice cream and favors featured the final class.

The Butterfly Girls and Busy B's went on a hike last Saturday afternoon to the Lookout with Misses Agnes Glencross and Agnes Jordan, who are their guardians. Easter chickens were served with basket lunch.

Mrs. George Reed of Lynnfield street is quite ill.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Second Congregational church will meet Wednesday evening. A short entertainment will be given, after which games will be enjoyed. Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Walker of Holbrook are expected to be guests of the evening.

The many friends of Mrs. William E. Reed are pleased to see her out again after several weeks of illness.

Mrs. A. E. Paine of Amherst, N. H., is visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. Sarah Swett of Lynnfield.

The Wampanoic Camp Fire Girls met Monday evening at the home of their guardian, Mrs. Ester Walker, Thursday evening. They met at the Second Congregational church for a rehearsal for the drama, entitled "Miss Fearless & Co.," which is to be presented by them in May to benefit the Ladies' Aid Society.

Mrs. George O. Williams celebrated her birthday at her home on Lynnfield street, Tuesday, April 6. She received many nice and useful gifts.

Mrs. Frederick Carpenter and son, Raymond, spent Wednesday with Mrs. Minnie Drew of Lynn.

Cards of announcement have been received of the marriage of Miss Beatrice Childs, formerly of South Peabody, to John W. Southwick, which took place March 31. A reception was held Saturday evening, April 3rd, at the home of her parents, 12 Ashton terrace, Lynn. Mrs. Southwick was a graduate of Peabody High.

The F. S. C. Club met Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Robert A. Bakeman of Maple street.

Miss Mabel Simms of Lynn spent the week-end with her aunt, Mrs. Oliver Parker of Brown street.

Rev. T. R. Burns of the Lake Shore Park church attended the Methodist conference at People's Temple, Boston. The people of Lake Shore Park wanted Mr. Burns to return for the fourth year. Since his pastorate the church has been both finished, furnished and dedicated last year. The membership has largely increased under his leadership and the members have worked unitedly and accomplished much. Rev. Mr. Pauling, the Salem Evangelist, will occupy the pulpit next Sunday.

Miss Helen Hardy has returned from Portsmouth, N. H., to the home of her sister, Mrs. Wilbur Smith, where she will make it her home, and has accepted a position at the General Electric Co. of Lynn.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Curtis, who have been the guests of Carl Curtis of Winnegance avenue for two weeks, have returned to their home in Danvers.

A special meeting of the Epworth League of the Lake Shore Park church was held Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Ava Cronin of Lynn street, and plans were made for a supper to be held April 17. John Hense, vice president of the league, will have charge of the supper.

Miss Dorothy Whitworth of County street has been confined to her home this week by illness.

Mrs. Lloyd LeCain, who has been at the Thomas Hospital, where she underwent an operation returned Wednesday to her home on Carlton street.

Mrs. Annie Kennedy and family of Braintree have moved to Bartholomew street.

Daniel Booker of Lynn street met with an accident at his home last Thursday. He took a fainting spell near the stove on which he fell, knocking the stove over and receiving serious burns on his body. Mr. Booker has not been well all winter. Mrs. Booker discovered the accident and immediately called the family physician. Mr. Booker is quite comfortable.

Mrs. R. H. Knights gave a party at her home on Lynn street, Friday evening, April 2, in honor of her birthday. A large number of relatives and friends were present. The evening was very pleasantly spent with a musical program consisting of vocal solos by Mrs. Helen Douglas, Walter Russell of Lynn was pianist and played many beautiful selections, showing remarkable talent. Chorus singing concluded the program. In behalf of the many friends present Mrs. Margaret Marriner of Lynn presented Mrs. Knights with a beautiful silk bag, to which she responded in a pleasing manner. A delicious supper was served in the dining room.

West PeabodyHope Workers and Bosses Will Straighten Out All Disputes Without Strike

(By Energy)

The all absorbing talk among the leather manufacturers today is what is going to happen May 1st, when the new schedule is adopted or rejected. Cellar workmen are demanding $36 a week against $29 they now receive. Raises in all other departments are called for in the new schedule, and these prices are 25 per cent. more than in the West in the same business. If a uniform price is paid over the country there is nothing to talk about they say. But in competition, paying this amount more than their competitors places the conditions out of reason.

In 1885 the last big strike in Peabody took place. It lasted one year and was disastrous to both the manufacturer and workman. It was the beginning of the end of the old way of making leather. For 15 years after 1885 the business went from bad to worse, until none remained of the manufacturers of that time with few exceptions. A new era showed itself about 1900, when chrome tanning became a staple tanning. While a slow process, so far as growing is concerned, it practically pushed out bark tanning. When 50 cars of bark could be seen on the side tracks any day, now none are visible. There is some vegetable tanning going on, however, but extracts of hemlock bark, of quebacho, of zumac and gambax have superseded the material itself.

I am not qualified to predict what will happen May 1st. So many stories are being circulated that this and that one is going to shut down, and again that they will accept the schedule as presented, that one cannot form an opinion which seems reasonable. I heard of stories that two local manufacturers attended meetings of the manufacturers recently and spoke in that meeting that they would accept this schedule. Another one who was present gave this statement the lie, by saying he attended that meeting, and those men did not voice their opinions at all. In fact, if there is to be a lock out, a strike or that everything will go on as it has, one can take their choice. Both sides of the question have everything at stake, the manufacturer, because of unfair competition, the workmen because to lose means loss of wages which he cannot afford to lose.

In this letter I am not assuming to give advice to anyone. If I did I am not egotistical enough to think it would be heeded. But the effect as to what will happen in case of trouble, will not be over in a short time. It is liable to change the whole trend of affairs in our city. The United Shoe Machinery have some competition, but it is so little as not to affect them. But leather manufacturing has big footholds, not only in Peabody, but throughout the United States. Philadelphia, Milwaukee, Newark, have always claimed to be bigger than Peabody in the business, and figuring one way they are larger. A shut down here means the business will go elsewhere, more or less, according to the time taken up by the trouble. So gentlemen all go slow.

Patent leather during the war was more or less draggy. Of late those interested are gambling perhaps that patent leather is to be a ready seller. This week I had occasion to visit many leather factories. In one I saw more leather piled than ever before in my experience in the business. The piles were so many and higher than one's head, that to estimate the number would require time and patience. But as I had no reason to count the stuff, I simply had time to wonder where so much leather would go, to be made into shoes and specialties. One not familiar with leather and asked to pick what they thought was the best in the finished piles, would surely pick some that was japanned on a split. Split leather takes a much brighter finish than does grain sides. It makes a leather for belts, women's hats and scores of other specialties that finds a ready market. And when 40 cents a foot is realized for it, the return warrants the process.

The feeling among the local manufacturers is far from optimistic. Those who take in leather to finish for other parties are not doing the business of former months. In fact, there are times when there are not enough skins to keep the factory running near full. Six months ago anyone who had a place could get all the skins they could finish at any old price.

The A. C. Lawrence Leather Co. built a chimney at the Main Plant, 267 feet high. It evidently worked so well that a second one was built at the Water River plant, 250 feet high. Stunning patent leather with cinders falling on it does damage, but a chimney as high as this one stops the cinders to a large extent, so claim those interested.

CANADA MAY PAY BONUS

Peabody men who served in the Canadian forces during the World War are interested in the progress of the petitions filed by war associations, seeking a bonus for their services. The petition asks for a bonus of $2000 for overseas vets, $1500 for service in England and $1000 for service in army camps of Canada in preparation for overseas. There are some 25 men in Peabody who enlisted under the Canadian flag during the World's War.

SOUTHWICK—CHILDS

John W. Southwick, a well known employee of the General Electric plant, Lynn, and Miss Beatrice L. Childs, a popular employee of the Littlefield & Moulton box factory of Lynn, were married by Rev. Dr. Walter Healy at the parsonage of the St. Paul's Methodist church, Lynn, Wednesday evening, March 31. Frank Childs, brother of the bride, was best man, and Miss Eva Lary of Peabody, was bridesmaid. The bride was prettily gowned in white georgette crepe and carried a shower bouquet of Killarney roses, and the bridesmaid was gowned in yellow organdie and carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses. The following Saturday evening about 70 of their relatives and friends coming from Lynn, Peabody, Salem and Reading, availed themselves of the opportunity to see that they were comfortably installed in their new home, 12 Ashton terrace. When the reception line was formed the bride and groom took their places in a decorated window alcove and were assisted by Frank Childs and Eva Lary. The ushers were Benjamin Scutiere, Claire Robertson, Ruel Giles and Ralph Southwick. Following the reception a luncheon was served, being in charge of Mrs. Gertrude Giles, and the punch bowl in charge of Miss Gladys Giles. The guest book and gift room were in charge of Miss Gladys Giles. The music was furnished by an orchestra, with piano selections and vocal solos. Among the presents was a player piano and cutglass punch bowl from the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Childs; a chest of silver from the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Southwick; a cutglass water set from the bride's associates of Littlefield & Moulton's factory, and many other presents, including cutglass, silver, china, linen and jewelry.

Gilbert Parker's "Right of Way" Big Strand Headliner Today

A photoplay made from Sir Gilbert Parker's celebrated story, "The Right of Way," will be presented at the Strand today and Saturday, with Bert Lytell as the star. This novel reached enormous popularity, it having been read by millions. And its success may be said to have resulted from its strong dramatic flavor, its rich vitality, its remarkable characterization, and its profound message.

It presents a modern Canadian life, the narrative of the great romance of Charlie Steele, the brilliant lawyer, irresistible in his personal charm, dissolute and unprincipled, uncannily skillful in his profession . . . at once the pride and despair of Mon-from the fact that it is adapted from James Oliver Curwood's story "Wapi, the Walrus," which was published in the Good Housekeeping Magazine a short time ago, it has the distinction of having been made further north than any other picture in the history of the screen. The majority of the scenes were taken north of the 56th parallel, with the thermometer registering as low as 60 degrees below zero. Nell Shipman has the leading role, assisted by Wheeler Oakman, Wellington Playter and Charles Arling. In support of the above are to be seen two dozen animals, consisting of bears, lynx, fox, deer, mountain lions, raccoons, porcupines and other forest beasts, trained to perfection by expert animal trainers. Probably no picture ever released has had such an unusual array of animal talent. Critics have placed a high mark of approval on "Back to God's Country," and the local management promises that it will be one of the most pleasing attractions in weeks.

One of the Christie comedies, "Her Bridal Nightmare," will also be shown on Monday and Tuesday. Dorothy Dalton in "Black Is White" and Tom Moore in "Lord and Lady Algy" will be the program for next Wednesday and Thursday. Both stars have a large following here in Peabody, who will welcome this chance of seeing them on the same bill.

Timothy Carroll and Wilbur Hutchinson, two golf experts, who have been at Palm Beach all winter, are expected to return home within a few weeks.

Thin People Should Take Phosphate

Says nothing like plain Argo-Phosphate so put on firm, solid, stay there flesh and muscle and increase strength, vim, vigor and nerve force.

Physicians claim there is nothing that will increase weight, strength and endurance like organic phosphate commonly known by druggists as argo-phosphate; it is inexpensive and is sold by all leading druggists everywhere under a guarantee to give satisfaction or money refunded. Weakness and thinness are usually due to starved nervous conditions.

Our bodies need more phosphates than are contained in the foods we eat. If you wish a more rounded figure and plump well-developed arms, neck and bust in place of hollows you should simply take plain argo-phosphate, as it builds-up and restores run-down nervous conditions by phosphatizing the system. It transforms the appearance and an increase in weight is often times quickly produced.

The increase in weight also aids in improving the general health. Sleeplessness, nervousness, lack of energy and ambition quickly disappear.

Fale cheeks are changed to rosy ones and dull eyes become bright. Miss Lena Brown of Atlanta, Ga., who only weighed 90 pounds reports that she gained 10 pounds in two weeks' time and says argo-phosphate has made a different person of her and she has never felt better in her life.

SPECIAL NOTICE:—Owing to the fact that so many physicians and druggists are recommending argo-phosphate for relieving all nervous, worn-out debilitated conditions and the unusually large sale for argo-phosphate there will be found in the market numerous substitutes for the genuine article. All imitations are inferior preparations, and owing to its unusual flesh producing qualities it should not be used by any one unless they desire to put on flesh and increase in weight.

MILITARY SERVICE AND ALASKA SUBJECTS OF BEST PRIZE ESSAYS

Compulsory Military Service, showing the advantages in a course of outdoor training, written by Roger Trask, a sophomore, and a sketch of Alaska, with an intimate pen picture of its vast mineral and vegetable wealth, from the hand of Elsie B. Colby, a senior, are in order the prize winning stories this week in the Enterprise contest for the two best stories contributed by Peabody High school pupils. A prize of $2 is awarded the best story and a dollar for the next best one. The essays:

COMPULSORY MILITARY TRAINING

(By Roger Trask, 1922.)

The need of compulsory military training in the United States is great, not only for the protection of our shores, but for the protection of the American. Although it would cost large sums of money to carry this on successfully, health is a more important factor than money.

The average boy and man today spends the larger part of the day on inside work, in offices, in factories, and in stores. A large part of them leave school and spend their life indoors. If these boys who leave school were made to take six to eight months of good stiff training out of doors, in the fresh air, they would be better fitted for their future life and work.

If need came, they would be ready at the call of the country to take up arms in her defense. They would not have to spend such a long period of time in the training camps, or go into the fight unprepared.

The discipline alone would be worth the training. It would teach them to be better Americans and better citizens. Take, for example, the State guard. In almost every state in the Union they have proved their worth in the last two years.

Look at these fellows who have been in the army and navy during the great war. Who can say that these boys have not returned stronger, healthier, and better men than when they left here to go to the training camps? A large part of these men did not get any further than the training camps, but any one can see how they have been made better in health, in strength and in morals.

Compare a man who has had a military life, with a man who has spent his life in work, that kept him in offices or buildings, where he did not get the necessary fresh air, or the physical exercise. You will find that the man with a military life is healthier and stronger in every way.

Why not, therefore, give every American boy the start that will help him along through life, that will show up the physical defects which may be remedied before they are too far advanced? Hundreds of men who never knew that they were not perfect, physically, were greatly surprised when they were told by the medical examiners, that they had heart trouble or some other defect.

For betterment of health and preparedness, not to mention other strong arguments, should we not have compulsory military training in our United States?

ALASKA

(By Elsie B. Colby, 1920.)

We hear very little about Alaska nowadays; there seems to be so much of everything else going on at the present time. But we mustn't forget she belongs to the United States, and is a valuable possession.

Alaska was purchased from Russia in 1867 for $7,200,000, and given a territorial district government. In 1912 Congress passed an act creating a legislative assembly. The population is estimated at about 66,356 (this census was taken in 1914), and Juneau is the capital. The territory is 14 times the size of the state of New York in area, or twice as large as the German Empire.

The climate of Alaska is very severe in the interior in winter, and the heat is intense in summer. On the Pacific coast the climate is mild and moist. The principal river is the Yukon, and the highest mountain in the United States is Mount McKinley, (20,464 feet), of Alaska.

The waters of this possession contain over 100 species of food fish, and some of the sea products are: Seal, salmon, halibut, cod, herring and whale are also caught.

Besides the fishing industry, Alaska has a valuable fur trade; lead is produced, and coal is worked. Alaska is estimated to have half as much coal as the whole United States. Gold and silver are mined in several localities. There are large timber resources, mostly spruce, hemlock and cedar; and there are agricultural experiment stations.

Some of the agricultural products are: Wheat, rye, barley, as cereals; potatoes, turnips, onions and several kinds of vegetables. There are also many kinds of fruit.

On March 12, 1914, by an act of Congress, President Wilson was authorized to build and operate a system of railroads in Alaska, at a cost not exceeding $35,000,000. In 1915 the President adopted the Seward route, and the work was to be carried on by the Alaskan engineering commission. This route extends from Seward on Resurrection bay, to Fairbanks, on the Tanana river, a distance of 471 miles. At the close of 1915 about 45 miles of railroad had been completed.

Alaska is indeed a valuable possession and not one to be neglected.

"12 Old Maids" By Boy Scouts

In response to the many requests by people who failed to see the farce "Twelve Old Maids" presented by the Boy Scouts of Troop 2 at the South church, it has been decided to produce this laughable sketch at the Strand Theatre, May 4.

In addition to the play one of the best motion pictures will be screened.

The late applicant for garden lots at the plant this season is going to be out of luck, judging by the way the lots are being snapped up. The time for filing applications for gardens is up next Monday, April 12, and all those desiring to obtain a lot should apply at once. No seed will be handled by the garden committee this year, so all lot holders should make some arrangement for procuring their own seed.

Arthur Russell, clerk in the sheepskin department, leaves the employ of the company soon to take up his profession as landscape gardener at the estate of Gardner Lane in Hamilton.

Miss Madeline Sullivan has entered the service of the main office as a clerk in the cost department.

Frank Sonigan will appear in a sketch at the Empire theatre next Saturday afternoon with Mrs. Veta Brown. The playlet is of their own writing, and is entitled "The End of a Perfect Book."

Miss Ella Barry is a newcomer to the main office this week, having been attached to the cost department.

The final bowling match between the Main Office Girls and Team Two of the bowling league will be rolled Monday evening at the East Lynn alleys. This game is for blood, hence the neutral ground. It is expected that a goodly number of royal rooters will accompany the rival teams to the shoe city.

Miss Mary Sullivan sang in the Salem Oratorio Society's "Samson and Delilah" last Wednesday evening, and a number of plant people were present to enjoy the performance.

Miss Bertha Goodwin of the Main Office was given a miscellaneous shower on Wednesday evening, several of her main office friends helping to make the affair the success it was.

Miss Alice Wilson has resigned her position in the main office to take of poor health.

Henry Weinberg of V-7, and Miss Theresa Feeney of Salem, will be united in marriage tomorrow evening. Mr. Weinberg, who is an ex-serviceman, has the best wishes of his many friends at the plant in his new life.

John Carr of the Curry department was called to Spokane, Wash., last Saturday on account of the death of his mother. Mr. Carr, who has been at the plant but a few weeks, has the sympathies of his fellow workers in his sad bereavement.

Thomas Reed and William Graves, both of the Mechanical department, have returned to Brown college, where they were attending until the epidemic of scarlet fever made it necessary to close the school.

CHAPTER 240

The Commonwealth of Massachusetts
In the Year One Thousand Nine Hundred and Twenty.

An Act to permit, under Public Regulation and Control, Certain Sports and Games on the Lord's Day.

Whereas, it is highly desirable that this act should take effect immediately, in order that its benefits may be enjoyed during the summer months of the current year, therefore it is hereby declared to be an emergency law, and by the authority of the same, as follows:

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:

SECTION 1. In cities and towns which accept the provisions of this act it shall be lawful to take part in or to witness any amateur athletic outdoor sport or game on the Lord's Day between the hours of two and six in the afternoon as hereinafter provided.

SECT. 2. Such sports or games shall take place on such public playgrounds, parks or other places as may be designated for that purpose in a permit or license issued by the mayor and city council or body exercising similar powers in cities or by the selectmen in towns; provided, that if, under any statute or ordinance a public playground or park is placed under the exclusive charge and authority of any other officials, such officials shall, for that playground or park, be the licensing authority; and provided, further, that no sport or game shall be permitted in a place, other than a public playground or park, within one thousand feet of any regular place of worship.

SECT. 3. The said sports or games shall be conducted subject to such regulations and restrictions as shall be prescribed by the mayor and city council or body exercising similar powers in cities and by the selectmen in towns, and the same shall be stated in the license or permit.

SECT. 4. This act shall not be construed to prohibit participation at other hours on the Lord's Day in other outdoor exercise not involving the element of contest, nor shall it be construed to permit horse racing, automobile racing, boxing or hunting with firearms.

SECT. 5. No admission fee shall be charged directly or indirectly, and no business or other enterprise shall be conducted, and no collection shall be made at any such sport or games.

SECT. 6. The respective authorities described in section two may at any time and without previous notice revoke permits to conduct the said sports or games if they have reason to believe that any provision of this act, or any regulation or restriction prescribed under section three, is being or will be violated.

SECT. 7. For the purposes of this act an "amateur" sport or game is defined to be one in which the contestants do not receive and have not been promised any pecuniary reward, remuneration or consideration whatsoever, directly or indirectly in connection therewith.

SECT. 8. This act shall take effect for the current year in any city upon its acceptance by the mayor and city council or body exercising similar powers, and upon its acceptance by a majority of the voters of any city voting thereon at the municipal election in the current year, or in any subsequent year, it shall take permanent effect in such city, subject to the provisions of section nine. At every city election in the current year, the question of such acceptance shall be submitted to the voters, but in any subsequent year said question shall be submitted only upon a petition signed and filed as provided in section nine. It shall take effect in any town upon its acceptance by a majority of the voters voting thereon at an annual or special town meeting, and the selectmen of a town shall, upon the petition of not less than ten per cent. of the registered voters thereof, call a special town meeting for the purpose of voting upon such acceptance.

SECT. 9. In any city or town the voters of which have accepted this act as above provided, the act shall again be submitted to the voters at the municipal election held in any year subsequent to the year in which the act was so accepted, provided that a petition to that effect, signed by not less than ten per cent. of the voters, is filed with the city or town clerk not less than thirty days before the election. If upon such re-submission a majority of the voters voting thereon vote against the act, it shall cease to have effect in that city or town until reaccepted by the voters as herein provided.

police officers and Judge Fay will give his ruling at the next meeting.

Finally, after about all of the Councilors had been heard, the strike situation as it affects the citizens on Lynnfield street was referred to the committee on police and some action was expected today. It is alleged that the strike breakers who are boarded at 139 Lynnfield street, disturb the residents by loud noises late at night and the petition urged police action to abate what was called a nuisance.

"Bunko Park"

Chairman Angus J. McDonald of the Park Commission appeared before the Council last night and asked them to vote to sell "Bunko Park" in Ward 2 and acquire the Bresnahan lot off Washington street for a playlot for both Wards 2 and 3. The Councilors manifested a willingness to comply and voted to have the committee on public property inquire into the project. Following the discussion of the playgrounds, Councillor Sullivan, chairman of the finance committee, declared the Park Commission should have five or six thousand dollars to promote welfare work among the boys and girls and on his motion the Council voted to request the Mayor to add $2000 to the $3500 now allotted. It was on motion of Councillor Ryan that the committee on public property will confer with the Park Commission.

On motion of Councillor Giles, the committee on public property is to confer with the Mayor to secure an appropriation to repair the Methodist church clock for the benefit of the citizens.

The Council voted to allow the City Solicitor the use of the vault in the committee room together with desk room for his legal business for the city.

William F. Collins was appointed a weigher, to be confirmed April 24. Edward Quinlan was given a license to sell second hand autos.

A supplementary budget calling for $7500 for snow removal and $4800 for 1919 unpaid bills in the school department was referred to the finance committee.

The Council voted to hold the Presidential primaries from 10 o'clock to 8 on April 27, on motion of Councillor Giles.

The Whole World of Fashion Echoes
NAVY BLUE

The trim, trig air of the tailleur emphasized by the rich, deep shade of navy make the new suits for spring and summer a joy to the woman who chooses her clothes with care and discrimination.

Navy, Tricotines, Serges, and Poiret Twills are shown in our newest models, and many of the jackets are generously braided. Practically all of the suits have a defined waist line with a self belt which buttons or ties. Buttons, too, are much used this year, and cord tucking, embroidery, and arrow head seams are distinctive features.

Fancy linings are noticeable in the jackets, and the smartly embroidered gilet, is again favored. Snug shoulders and slender sleeves give an air of trimness.

CITY HALL GOSSIP

Peabody's next election is due to arrive in December. Meanwhile candidates are shaping their campaigns and building wire fences where possible. It's going to be some election, make sure of that, with one or two surprise candidates in store, so it is reported.

Peabody is right now afflicted with too much water. The ponds are overflowing, the brooks are mountain streams, cellars are inundated and Mayor Donnell is not claiming credit for it. He is perfectly willing to pass along credit to Citizen Edward A. Blaney, if the latter wants it.

From present figuring Peabody's tax rate this year will be $10 lower than in most cities and towns of the gerald, President of the Turner Tanning Machinery Co., and well known Boston banker. Supper will be served promptly at 6.30, Mrs. Brooks catering. Reservations for the supper must be in the Chamber offices not later than Monday noon.

A meeting will be held in the Chamber offices Monday evening, April 5, at 7.45, for the purpose of starting a school in retail salesmanship. This class is open to any persons in Peabody, who desire to take up this study, and the only expense is the cost of the books and supplies, which is $2.50. The University Extension Department of the State Board of Education is furnishing the instructor.

The Americanization Committee of the Chamber has started another class in Civics for Naturalization, which meets each Thursday evening at the Chamber of Commerce offices. This class is being well attended, and is under the supervision of the City and State Boards of Education, with Robert Bakeman of South Peabody as instructor.

FIREMEN'S SHOW

Thomas O. R. McCoy, champion baseball roofer, who made New England ball pay at Lynn, while he was on the stands, is one of the big attractions for the annual firemen's show, April 16. McCoy is a professional actor, well known on the vaudeville stage as one of the best comedians acts on Keith's circuit for many years. He is a resident of Marblehead. He appears in the funny sketch, being shaped by Director Cy McCarthy. McCoy has many friends here, and is at present employed at the National Calfskin Co. The rehearsals for the big show are being held twice a week. There will be 30 girls in the cast and 20 men.

IROQUOIS CAMP FIRE

The Iroquois Camp Fire met at the Community House, Wednesday afternoon, and made plans for their ceremonial, which will take place at 6.45 o'clock next Monday evening. Last Wednesday this camp fire attended the eighth anniversary of the Camp Fire in Lynn.

Commonwealth. We have Mayor Donnell's word for this.

Peabody police say they will be satisfied if their pay is increased to $5 a day from July 1. Here's a tip for the Mayor. Salem and Saugus pay their police $5 and Peabody is oceans ahead of either place and the police here do twice the work and yield much more revenue. Let's give 'em $5 a day and have them satisfied.

The new service car of the Fire Chief, which made its appearance this week, is the handiwork of P. F. O'Hara, the Beverly auto painter, and the car has elicited much favorable comment.

Councillor John A. Jones of Ward 2 has so far recovered from his recent malady, as to get out, and will attend the next meeting of the City Fathers.

Supt. Wyman and his merry fellows in the street department are making a good showing in Spring cleaning and their handiwork is noticeable in various sections of the city.

Mayor Donnell, who had a personal acquaintance with the late Col. Theodore Roosevelt, has received this week, a handsome picture of the great American, which he is to hang in his law offices.

There are about forty-eleven candidates hustling for the appointment of a regular policeman to succeed Patrolman Bob Patterson when the latter is officially retired on a pension as a result of his loss of a leg.

MUSICAL TALENT AT K. OF C. BALL

The stage is all set for the banner entertainment and dance of Leo Council on Easter Monday night.

A live committee has the affair in full swing, and a large crowd is expected. Attention is called on another page to the appearance in Peabody of New England's famous tenor soloist.

Other features will be dancing by Paul Peicotte and partner, and little Miss Alice Duffey of Salem.

Miss Irene Ford, one of Salem's popular soprano singers, will do her best to please, as will also George Duffey of Lynn, in his famous soft shoe dancing.

Edward Dunney, Leo Council's baritone singer, will be a leading attraction.

The committee has gone to the expense to bring to Peabody the now famous Bowles Ferncroft Novelty Orchestra, a colored team. They will be accompanied on Easter Monday night by one of Al Jolson's famous end men, Harry Cook, who will sing and dance in front of the orchestra, all the evening.

The committee in charge is headed by Francis F. McLaughlin, as secretary.

A delegation from the Sagusapi Camp Fire Girls was sent to Lynn to hear Miss Kemphorn, Field Secretary of the Camp Fire Girls, speak on her work here and in New Zealand and Alaska.

Reports were made at the meeting Friday evening.

A night letter from Wisconsin was received Monday by Mr. and Mrs. Warren D. King from their daughter Louise.

Word has been received from Mrs. William Durland (nee Warner) of her safe arrival in San Domingo. She also states she is living in a hotel, 200 years old, which is the residence for the Americans there. The city is surrounded by a high wall and contains many historic things, including a tree which is said to be the one connected with the landing of Columbus on the island.

Miss Annie Lee of King street is able to be out after her recent illness.

C. H. Wentworth of Endicott street has purchased a Ford runabout.

Albert Poor Stevens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Stevens of Emerson street, underwent a slight operation on his jaw, Tuesday.

The Friday Evening Sewing Club will meet with Mrs. C. H. Wentworth of Endicott street this evening.

The Jacobs family, which recently moved into the house recently occupied by the Duncansons on Endicott street, have moved out.

Miss Sally W. Teague is spending a few weeks visiting in Maine and New Hampshire.

Miss Mary Donovan is enjoying her vacation from her studies at the Castle-on-the-Hudson school. She entertained one of her classmates over last week-end.

William C. Munroe of Orchard street is home from Brown University one week earlier on account of the scarlet fever epidemic, and will return April 8th.

Miss Evelyn Van Dyke of King street has as her guest, Miss Alice Quarles of Kansas City for the Easter vacation. They are both students of Wheaton College.

Miss Henrietta Winchester of North Eastern Massachusetts is visiting her niece, Mrs. Phillips Osborn of King street.

Mrs. William Dustin of King street is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Fred Marsden of Monson, Mass., who has been sick recently. She expects to return home Sunday.

Mrs. Samuel Gilman of Franklin street is now able to be out, after her recent illness.

Mrs. James Wolfe (nee Southwick) has returned to her home in Butte, Montana, after a long visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Southwick.

Mrs. Norman Crane is entertaining Miss Mildred Crane of Woonsocket, R. I.

Mrs. H. H. Macdonald expects her niece, Margaret Macdonald, from Cambridge, over the Easter vacation.

Mrs. J. F. Ingraham, Mrs. William Law and Mrs. Arthur Upton of Lynnfield, are spending a few days in New York, starting out Thursday morning. Clara McNeil of Holten street is visiting Mrs. Arthur Owens.

High School Notes

Miss Winifred Johnson, teacher of Spanish, returned Monday, having recovered from an attack of the gripe.

The play "Mrs. Temple's Telegram," to be given by the Teachers Association in City Hall, April 9, is to be postponed until April 14.

There was no school today, as it is Good Friday.

Elizabeth Lummus of the sophomore class has been absent the past few days.

The sophomore class has arranged to hold its dance in Moose hall, April 23. Potters Orchestra will furnish music for the occasion.

Doctor Shanahan made his bi-monthly visit to the school on Tuesday.

Lucy Aguiar of the commercial seniors returned to school Monday, after her recent illness.

Kenneth Hill is substituting for Miss Fairchild in the Annex. Miss Fairchild was called away because of the death of her brother-in-law.

Mr. Robinson, superintendent of the High school, is arranging to stage "Miles Standish" for the Peabody Grange. Many of the junior pupils have been asked to take part.

Tuesday morning the seniors and juniors held opening exercises in the assembly hall. The school orchestra played the opening march; Robert Johnson, the senior president, read a selection and Marjorie Cowdrey spoke about the school paper "Pep."

The same exercises were held Wednesday and Thursday for the sophomores and freshmen. Ralph Holden read a selection. Supt. Robinson was a visitor at school Wednesday.

Miss Doris Tucker of '16 and Miss Esther Power were visitors Thursday. Miss Tucker is attending Smith and Miss Power is a graduate of Colby, Maine.

Irene Osborne of the junior class was a visitor at school, Thursday.

DIOCESAN FAIR

A theatre night to be held next Tuesday at the Strand is the next attraction planned by the social committee of the Peabody branch in aid of the Diocesan bazaar to be held in Boston the latter part of this month.

Members of the Peabody committee and their friends are assured of an excellent program at the local theatre on that night, and a capacity house is anticipated.

"The Eyes of Youth" in which the screen favorite, Clara Kimball Young, is starred, will be the feature picture, and the remainder of the program will be fully as attractive.

The committee in charge: Miss Abbie Sherry, Mrs. Felix Carr, Miss Mary Griffin, Miss Theresa McGrath and Miss Marion O'Keefe.

MOOSEHEART LEGION

Women of Mooseheart Legion will hold a public whist party at Moose hall, Wednesday evening, April 7, under the supervision of Mrs. Charles Wilson. Tickets may be procured from members or at the door. Members of the women of Mooseheart Legion will hold a meeting at 7 P. M. on the same evening.

AGNES J. EAGAR.

Miss Agnes J. Eagar, undergraduate nurse at the Long Island (Boston) hospital, gave up her life in the care of influenza patients, her death following an attack of pneumonia contracted while serving as nurse in the Boston hospital. She was 22 years old and the daughter of the late Henry A. Eagar of 37 Holten street. She would have graduated as a trained nurse in June. She leaves a mother, two sisters, Mary and Isabelle and two brothers, John and James. Her funeral was held this morning from St. John's church. Her father was killed by being run over by the chief's car of the fire department while the latter was responding to a needless still alarm at a Main street leather factory last fall.

The Peabody American Legion Basketball team will play the Marblehead Legion team at City Hall next Tuesday evening.

HIGH SCHOOL SOPHOMORES SECURE PRIZES FOR STORIES

"Farming, Its Present and Future," written by Miss Helen E. Southwick, and "The Daylight Saving Law" from the pen of Miss Evelyn P. Hall, both girls sophomores at the high school, are in order the prize winning stories in the weekly contest being conducted by the Peabody Enterprise. Miss Southwick is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar C. Southwick of 155 Lynnfield street, and Miss Hall is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Hall of 89 Endicott street. The prize stories:

FARMING: ITS PRESENT AND FUTURE.

(By Helen E. Southwick, 1922)

The farm produces all food and clothing; and these are the two outstanding factors in a great problem of today, called the High Cost of Living, which will remain with us until an equilibrium, between the producer and the consumer, is reached.

The three greatest reasons for its continuance are: One—High cost of land; Two—High price of labor and scarcity of same; Three—Cost of equipment.

Taking up the first reason: The land valuation has risen so, in the past few years, due mostly to speculation, that the small farmer's profits are not great enough to allow him to increase his acreage. Therefore—little or no increase in production.

Secondly comes the labor question which looks rather dark at present. It is a very complex situation but probably the root of a great share of it is with the middle man, or, rather the middle men. The products go through the hands of so many middle men, from the large wholesaler down to the small retail stores, each one naturally charging some extra, so as to gain no small profit, that in the end, the farmer receives only a fraction of the price paid by the actual consumer for the article. Now, that being the case, how is the farmer to pay high wages for help? Of course, it is impossible, therefore, to retain any number of farmhands when they can earn a good living wage in the city and still have time to enjoy life. Also the majority of city labor is unskilled and to have any success at farming, it must be done on a scientific basis which would require somewhat skilled labor.

But the farmer's inability to pay high wages is not simply because of the forestated reason but because he, in turn, has to pay high prices for equipment and repairs, which amount to a great deal on a farm of any size and it is only the farms of large area which control the market.

In short, the present day condition of the average farmer is the same as that of the manufacturer about 40 years ago. While all other industries have co-operated and done away with the old-time hand labor, thus obtaining a 100 per cent increase in output, the farmers have remained independent, each one tilling his few acres of land and trying to compete with his neighbors.

There are millions of people in this country, especially in the crowded city districts, who must be supplied with food, which means that in time, those people will be undernourished because of the fast spreading decrease in food production.

To obviate this, co-operation in the near future is necessary.

Or there is a still more central

Every Day

Central Fish Market

plan. That of having the government take up large areas of land and operate each one as an immense farm.

Under those conditions, food and clothing could not be otherwise than cheap or at least reasonable in price; because anything manufactured on a large scale, can be sold more directly and for a much lower price to the people than in the case of individual ownership and operation.

DAYLIGHT SAVING

(By Evelyn P. Hall, 1922)

The "Daylight Saving" plan that is being so much talked about should interest the young as well as the old. The high cost of living affects us all, and as the first cost of everything begins with the farmer, whatever works to his disadvantage adds to the cost. Although the extra hour of daylight gives us more time for outdoor enjoyment, we ought to consider the former, whom we have to depend on for our living.

Taking the former's viewpoint for a moment we see that it is very inconvenient for him to set his men to work while there is still dew on crops. It is not only very disagreeable to work on crops that are wet with dew, but it is very harmful to the crops. Now for instance, string beans cannot be picked while the dew is still on them, because they will rust. Thus the farmer has to wait until all the crops dry before setting his men to work, so loses quite a sum of money as he has to pay his men for waiting. Another thing, the crops have to be gathered reasonably early in order to have them sent to market.

The farmer is not the only one who is hit by this "Daylight Saving" plan; our mothers whose day of work is already long, are given another hour in which to work. The little children, who cannot very well go to bed before dark are obliged to get up an hour earlier, and so they are robbed of an hour's rest, which they need so much.

This "Daylight Saving" plan is also very inconvenient to the milkman, who has to get up an hour earlier to start delivering his milk because most people object to having their milk delivered to them late in the afternoon.

This "Daylight Saving" plan is of a great advantage to a man who works all day in a factory, because during the planting season it gives the working man an extra hour of daylight in which to plant and care for his garden.

Many people claim that a great deal of heat and light is saved by this "Saving" plan, but this saving is more than offset by the amount of gasoline consumed on the extra joy rides that are permitted.

A resolution has come before the Legislature in Boston for the purpose of establishing this "Daylight Saving" plan. If this resolution is passed it will take effect in April and continue through October.

Some of the European countries, France in particular, are talking about adopting this "Daylight Saving" plan.

LEO GUILD LADIES WILL BE GUESTS

About 50 members of Leo Guild will attend a luncheon to be given at the "Art Craft," 270 Boylston street, Boston, next Wednesday afternoon. The Guild president, Mrs. Alice Fennessey, is in charge of the affair, which will begin promptly at 1 o'clock.

The Leo Guild Millinery Class met Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Felix Carr, Ayer street. The next and final lesson for the season will be given on Tuesday evening, April 13th, when the members of the class will meet at Mrs. Thomas Mulhern's home, Main street.

First Baptist
At 10.30 A. M.:
Prelude, "Resurrection Morn."
This is a descriptive work in which the composer portrays, in a beautiful and most realistic manner, first, the gloom and the sorrow occasioned by the crucifixion of our Divine Lord; following which is portrayed in the same delightful way, but with music of a brilliant character, the great joy and gladness, because of our Lord's triumph over death and the grave. This notable organ composition introduces the well-known hymn, "Christ, the Lord, Is Risen Today" which leads up to an inspiring theme of exaltation and praise, which is the finale of the masterpiece. The grand organ in this church meets admirably, the requirements for an impressive execution of this sacred work.
Anthem, "Be Comforted Ye That Mourn," Solo, "O Light From Yonder Tomb." Organ solo, "Cauzone in A flat." Sermon, Rev. Herbert L. Howard.

Here's Proof That Allen's Lung Healer PREVENTS PNEUMONIA

Read Mr. Rhodes' Statement and You Will Realize That Our Claims Are Based on Convincing Proof.

H. J. Allen, Dear Sir: I have found Allen's Lung Healer very effective in warding off an attack of pneumonia. I contracted a severe cold, which developed so rapidly that by night my lungs were congested and breathing difficult, with a distressed cough, which racked my whole system. I was convinced from the symptoms that I was in for an attack of pneumonia. Having used Allen's Lung Healer before and having great faith in its effectiveness, I decided to use it over night and call a physician in the morning if I was no better. The improvement was so marked by morning that I decided to continue with the Lung Healer and by night, or within 24 hours after taking the first dose my lungs were practically clear of congestion and inside of a week my cough was gone. I feel positive that the Lung Healer saved me from pneumonia and I am recommending it at every opportunity.

Yours truly,

Mrs. Carl Coleman of Brockton is the guest of George Coleman of Lynn street.

Mrs. Annie Manson of Lynnfield street, who has been ill all winter, has recently undergone an operation at the Thomas hospital.

Mrs. Ralph Goodwin of Lynn street has been quite ill with the grippe.

Rev. Robert A. Bakeman of the South Peabody church spoke last Monday morning to the Universalist ministers of Boston on the Inter-church Movement.

Miss Ella Reed and Mrs. Ester Walker attended a Camp Fire meeting at Boston last Thursday evening.

Miss Alice Pyne of Salem spent the week-end at the home of Mrs. John Tedford of Lynnfield street.

The South Peabody Dramatic Club appeared again this week Tuesday and Wednesday evenings at the Second Congregational church in a three-act comedy drama "Moses Margin's Arrival," under the direction of William Weld, and under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society. The drama was full of laughter and each part was taken in a very pleasing manner.

Tonight a union service will be held at the Baptist church. All who can go are most cordially invited.

Mrs. James McLean, formerly of South Peabody, now living at Saugus, was the guest of Mrs. Grace Raddin one day last week.

The Baptism of children will not take place Easter Sunday, as has been reported, but will be postponed until children's day.

Mrs. Angie F. Carter of Beachmont was the guest of Mrs. G. W. Hansom of County street, Friday.

Many South Peabody people were interested when the S. of V. Auxiliary was visited last Friday evening, and the following officers installed by the Division President, Mrs. Myrtle Stoddard of Chelsea Auxiliary; Past President Lillian E. Carr, President Lizzie M. Knights, Vice President Angie F. Carter, Treasurer Sadie P. Clark, Secretary Belle M. Estes, Chaplain Eleanor I. The Ladies' Aid Society of the Lake Shore Park church met Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Mary McQuinney, Bay State road.

Miss Mable Simms of Lynn spent the week-end with her aunt, Mrs. Hannah Parker of Brown street.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Stoddard of Lynn spent Sunday with the latter's brother, George W. Hanscom of County street.

Mr. and Mrs. William Nichols and children of Winnegance avenue are visiting at the home of Mr. Nichols' parents at Lowell.

Mr. and Mrs. George Green and daughter Marion, and Edwin Bergstrom, motored to Haverhill, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Freeto of Marblehead spent the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Galucia of Lynn street.

The Blue Birds met at the Second Congregational, Thursday afternoon.

Miss Abbie Wickwire, who was found unconscious at her home on Lynn street has been sent to Tewksbury. Arthur Reed, who lives in the other part of the house, went for his washing, which she had always brought to him Friday. Mr. Reed found the door open and Miss Wickwire paralyzed in a chair. He called at once for help and notified Dr. Jordan, who tried to have her taken to the Thomas hospital, but they would not admit her, claiming it to be a chronic case.

George Stewart of Lynnfield street is confined to his home with a sprained ankle.

FIRST PRIZE WINNER

Marion Elizabeth Gourley, daughter of Roy Gourley, Mechanical Dept.

Marion Elizabeth Gourley and Donald Rathburn were declared the handsomest babies in the recent contest conducted by the A. C. L. Magazine, announcement of the winning awards having been made in the April 1 issue of the magazine. The Gourley baby is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Gourley of Milk street, and the Rathburn child is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rathburn. More than 50 babies were entered in the contest, the pictures being published in the two issues of the magazine in March. The outside judges had much difficulty in making the choice for the prizes.

STRAND OBSERVES GOOD FRIDAY --BERT LYTELL HERE TOMORROW

No performance will be given at the Strand today. For tomorrow only the Strand will offer Bert Lytell in "Faith." This is a picture that can best be described as human. It truthfully depicts the story of a young man who was afraid to face the truth until the faith of two women turned him to it with a new light in his eyes. Bert Lytell in the principal role fits into the general atmosphere with an ease and grace that is admirable. Mr. Lytell, it will be remembered played the feature part in "Lombard Ltd." at the local playhouse a few months ago. His support is of a high order with Rosemary Theby as the girl. "Her Naughty Wink," one of the funny Sunshine comedies and Ruth Roland in "The Adventures of Ruth" will also be shown on Saturday.

June Elvidge in "Coax Me" and Hale Hamilton in "In His Brother's Place" will be the attractions for Easter Sunday. "Coax Me," June Elvidge's starring vehicle is a clever little comedy-drama that sparkles with fun and laughter.

Clara Kimball Young in her special production "The Eyes of Youth" will be presented on Monday and Tuesday. This is branded by critics as the most wonderful picture that Clara Kimball Young has ever starred in and they say that it gives her a wide scope for emotional acting. In the east are such well known artists as Milton Sills, Gareth Hughes, Pauline Starke, Sam Southern, Ralph Lewis and Edmund Lowe. The star appears as Gina Ashling, the daughter of a business man who is fast losing his hold financially and urges that she marries a certain wealthy man. She loves a young man who leaves for South America to try for the fortune and success that will enable him to provide for her in the environment she has been accustomed to.

There is another persistent suitor that she does not care for. He advises her that her place is at home with her father and sister instead of the grand opera career promised her by a visiting director who has heard her beautiful voice.

It is then that a Hindu appears and places before her the crystal globe which he declares will reveal the future in each of the three choices. The first shows her the outcome should she stay at home, the second shows her graphically just what will occur if she accepts the grand opera career. The third gaze shows her the fate she would meet if she married the wealthy man.

Nothing quite like it has been offered the to the public before. Julien Johnston in the Photoplay magazine of the year. Owing to the great excellence this picture one of the four best pence incurred in bringing this picture to Peabody the Strand announces a slight increase during its run.

Douglas MacLean and Doris May in "Mary's Ankle" and Geraldine Farrar in "The World and Its Women" will be the attractions on Wednesday and Thursday.

Mary Pickford in "Pollyanna" will be shown at the Strand in a few weeks.

MUSICAL COMEDY AT THE TREMONT

At the Tremont Theatre, Boston, Gilbert Miller's great London production of "Monsieur Beaucaire" will be seen on Monday, April 5, continuing for a limited engagement with Wednesday and Saturday matinees. New York and Boston are the only two cities in America in which the notable attraction will be presented this year, and the big English organization of 70 people and magnificent scenic production come direct to Boston from the New Amsterdam theatre, New York, where "Monsieur Beaucaire" attracted the greatest audiences in its history.

"Monsieur Beaucaire" is founded on the world-famous story by Booth Tarkington, and the beautiful score for this light opera was composed by the celebrated French composer, Andre Messager, of Paris.

For the limited engagement of "Monsieur Beaucaire" at the Tremont the orchestra will be augmented to 40 pieces, and the elaborate production will be presented exact in every detail with its London and New York performances, with the same scenery, costumes and effects. "Monsieur Beaucaire" will be the greatest musical comedy event of the Tremont's season.

Brought Body From Chicago

The funeral service of Mrs. Ellen M. (Siner) Ray, who died in Chicago, was held at the West Church, Monday afternoon, and burial followed at Oak Grove cemetery. Death resulted from a clot on the brain.

Mrs. Ray was formerly a resident of West Peabody. She was an unusual woman, having traveled extensively and possessing a wide circle of acquaintances and friends.

She was born in Danvers, December 16th, 1851, her parents early moving to West Peabody, occupying a house which stood near the site of the house now owned by F. C. Ziskowsky. When a young woman she worked in the Winona mills, the ruins of which are still visible. She later married Thomas Ray, a cabinet maker, and they made their home in Roxbury, Mass., until Mr. Ray died, when she returned with her sons to a house on Newbury street, West Peabody. Here she lived until her sons grew up, when the family went again to Roxbury.

Upon the marriages of her sons, Mrs. Ray broke up her home and lived sometimes with them and sometimes with relatives and friends. During this period of her life, she made her home in California, Montana, Illinois and Maryland. She periodically came to West Peabody to visit, and to look after the grave of her husband. Wherever she went, her gracious personality made her welcome to friends and to the younger generation, to a wide circle of whom, she was "Aunt" Ray. She was a member of the first West Peabody C. E. Society, and was a Sunday School teacher here. A true Christian, she was active at the time of her death in a small Chicago church. She leaves one brother, William Siner of Marblehead, Mass., a son George, of Chicago, Ill., and a son Frank, of Washington, D. C., together with nephews, nieces and grandchildren.

Leather Dealers Not Worrying Over Probe Of Shoe Profiteering

(By Energy)

A meeting of the Allied Shoe and Leather Industries was held in New York recently to launch a national advertising campaign on the high costs of shoes and leather. The claim of this organization is to show the people, if possible, why shoes cost so much. Most people know that shoes should be higher than before the war. Many are aware that leather and everything that goes to make a shoe has advanced. They know that labor on these shoes costs more than double former prices. They should also know that profits have doubled, as well. Every shoe and leather man doing a staple business in shoes and leather has made more money in the last three years than he ever dared to think he could make in 10 years of ordinary business. You may call it profiteering if you like, but it enters into any business proposition.

I heard of a case recently where a local concern raised the price of finishing one cent a foot. The owner of those skins added two cents because of that raise, and got it. And so from the beginning of the story of making leather and shoes. Everybody connected with the business with the exception of the unfortunate book-keeper and some foremen, have been getting the plums. Make no mistake but what the bosses got some of it and why not? Then we must look over those who had no part in the shoe until it is sold. Commission merchants, retail stores. They are attached to the business and their profits count much toward high prices. There is no law to prevent this, but like the farmers, the outsider gets most of the profits. This condition is fundamentally wrong. It is one of the processes that is superfluous. The public pay the bills, however, and if they do not wish to change, it why complain?

Congress is making an investigation of shoe prices. They are causing some worry among the guilty ones, and steps are being taken to place a limit on shoes, but the trade says this cannot come about during 1920, as prices have been fixed. But the retail men promise everything to keep down prices, and what Congress will do is problematical. Some people would rather pay $15 for a pair of shoes. I am of the opinion they would rather visit a store where rent is a dollar a minute and give them the extra for the same shoe they could purchase in a two by twice store. Pride is one of the big assets of many, many people, as depicted on the stage and in the movies. We pay 15 cents to see them and laugh at such mortals when we have forgotten to look in the glass. Inhuman nature.

Englishmen representing the shoe leather industry are here to do business. Whether their efforts will be crowned with success has not developed, as yet. With foreign exchange, as at present, they can undersell us. But will the public fall for the English shoe? Style enters into the business so largely that I do not believe much in this line will be accomplished. But it may have a tendency to make our manufacturers concede something on prices. We want to sell England shoes, but these wants do not look rosy now. But we may sell them leather, so that one branch of the business will derive benefit.

It appears foreigners are looking over our factories to better their's. It shows that the world recognizes that we have ways better than their ways, or they would not come here for that purpose. Incidentally it pays a tribute to the United Shoe Machinery Co., for no one can deny but what they are the pioneers in shoe-making, so far as machinery goes, and surely machinery is the big factor in the shoe game today. Tanners and I presume shoe men have secrets in their business which are guarded. This does not follow in shoes, as much as in leather. But the fact remains that there are innovations coming before the public frequently, as a ringer, to sell shoes. Most of them come and go. In leather manufacture it is a different story. Chemical tanning has so many crooks and turns that no two tanners work their stock alike. This particularly applies to the beamhouse and tannery. One concern has a tannage which is chemically wrong, yet that tan makes a leading leather in the market.

Trade papers tell us that indications of a further downward swing in prices of raw material has been checked. In fact prices are firmer, due in part to the better quality of the offerings. February calfskins, the poorest of the year, are practically out of the market. They will no doubt bring the lowest prices of the year, and they should do so. But with prices of raw material firmer there can be only one answer to the price of finished stock. It has given everybody courage to start business again. Leather is selling much better.

Thomas Green of Green and Hayes was the first local man to make chrome leather for the trade. Most any one can imagine what difficulties he encountered. But the fruit of his efforts has produced wonders, for all is chrome in calf side, goat and much in sheep leather manufacture. Acid was always a dangerous part of chrome tanning but little is heard today of trouble from that source. Years of experimenting has brought chrome tanning to the point that one must know it to be in the swim.

HAS PRAISE FOR SUPT. OF STREETS

Peabody Enterprise. Mr. Editor: I believe in praising those that deserve it.

Last Wednesday evening, March 24, on my way home, I passed through Sutton street. The sidewalk between John's store and Putnam street was mud, ankle deep. I went to the nearest telephone I could get and rang up Superintendent of Streets Wyman. I told him my story about that sidewalk. He said he would attend to it, and to my surprise the next day he had it all covered with cinders and today it is a credit to him. Now we are very apt to know public officials when they do not do things, therefore I think it is my duty to give this official credit for the good job he did.

"THE STRANGER WITHIN OUR GATES"

Capt. Daniel A. McKay of Boston, World War veteran, who saw at first hand the Americanization of the United States armed forces, told 400 Peabody men at a Republican gathering here last Wednesday night, that he disliked the name alien or foreigner applied to the immigrant to America, and he urged his audience of American citizens to call the aliens, "Strangers within our gates." His remark prefaced his appeal to all citizens to get the "stranger" naturalized, and thereby help him to become a citizen of his adopted country, and made to feel that he is welcome here, if he is anxious to comply with the laws and constitution. We are prone to think of alien as suggesting the Reds and exponents of mob rule, when the great majority of the newcomers to America are actuated by quite the same spirit as the Pilgrims, who reached Plymouth 300 years ago. They have come here to live better, to give their precious children a chance to secure an education, and in short, the great majority of immigrants are very desirous of becoming naturalized citizens. Those of our citizens whose travels have found them "strangers within the gates" of distant countries appreciate more keenly just what a big mission there is ahead of the citizenship in America and in Peabody for that matter, if the process of assimilation is to be effectually handled. If America means anything to the newcomer, it means a land of liberty and of education, two priceless assets of which this country well may boast. There is much work ahead for Peabody citizens and it is a pity that some concrete plan which invites and urges the personal interest of every citizen, cannot be mapped out, whereby the "strangers within our gates" may be made to feel that we want them to become citizens. The Chamber of Commerce has started the ball rolling, but it needs the assistance of the entire citizenship, if the object is to be best realized in the years to come. Let's promise ourselves to give the "stranger" a chance to assimilate by a kind word and a helpful suggestion. Invite some "stranger" to your club, to your home, or society rest room.

Let him see you are interested in his becoming a bonafide citizen.

JOIN THE C. OF C.

Peabody's Chamber of Commerce members are combing the city with purpose of obtaining 500 new members to get behind its construction program. There was never a need of a large citizenship together in just such an organization, than there is at this very time, with all of the problems ahead of us. You do not need to be a big business man. Neither do you have to be an employer of labor to be of service to this worth-while and necessary unit. All that you need, to paraphrase one of the Red Cross campaign slogans is "a heart and a dollar." If you believe there is work ahead for citizens of Peabody to insure growth of the city and promote civic betterment, then you have the heart right to listen to the appeal of the members who are soliciting new blood. The work of this unit, like any other organizations, calls for expenditure of money. Your dollar is needed, the amount of the yearly dues. It's a cheap investment for any right-thinking citizen to belong to the Chamber of Commerce. You are needed for your ideas and assistance. Join today.

ART AND CRAFTS

The people of Peabody will pause for a brief period from their strictly commercial pursuits during the week of April 22-29 to stage an exhibition of their handicraft, under the Chamber of Commerce. It has been said that the American people have almost entirely lost sight of the arts in their rush to become financially successful. Only recently we read of a brilliant American sculptor giving up his chisel to take up a more lucrative position in a machine shop! We hope, however, that this condition is not wholly true of all Americans, and believe that we still have a fine appreciation of the best in art, music and literature. At any rate, we will have an opportunity during the Art, Needlework and Crafts exhibition to compare the work of several nationalities and see how all of them cherish the beautiful along these lines. It is planned to place the exhibits in the store windows, the Made in Peabody exhibit of last year, having been so successful under this plan. It is expected that visitors from far and wide will motor to Peabody to witness the display, which will include the work of individuals all over the city. The Woman's Club, Community House, schools and committees from the various races are co-operating with the Chamber in the coming exhibits.

ROUND ABOUT

There were 734 patients treated at the J. B. Thomas hospital during the year 1919. There were 404 surgical cases and 179 medical. There were 124 babies born at the hospital during the 12 months. There were 24 patients when the year was ushered in, making the grand total of 734. The largest number of patients during any one day was 44, and the smallest, 13. These figures are set forth in the annual report of the Trustees, which went from the printers this week.

I observe that Joseph J. Thorndike, director in the Warren National Bank and State street broker in Boston, is to reopen his summer residences at Mt. Pleasant this coming week, after spending the winter down town.

An appeal is made to Enterprise readers to donate a book, fiction or historical preferred, to the Peabody Post of the American Legion for its library. The local Post is gaining rapidly in membership, and has excellent headquarters in the O'Shea building. Already a number of books have been donated, and these have been much appreciated by the World's War veterans.

Ernest A. Woolfel, the leather embosser, tells me he rescued one of his prize hens the other day from the jaws of a hungry fox, that had entered his poultry yard, picked out the plump specimen of egg-layers, and was making his getaway with his cackling forage. Mr. Reynard, however, lost his nerve and meal at the crack of a rifle shot, and the hen, mangled and weak from the encounter, was dropped by its captor. The fox got safely away. Examination of the wound led Mr. Woolfel to emulate the role of surgeon when the result that several stitches applied are responsible for the fact that this battle-scarred hen is queen of the Woolfel poultry yard today, as she gobbles worms and continues to earn her keep by an egg most every day.

Edward A. Croughwell, leading sign painter of Essex county, who has made rapid strides in his profession since opening up business in Peabody, is sending out to his customers this week a handsome desk souvenir in the shape of a six-inch ruler, equipped with blotter strips. It is easily one of the neatest novelties distributed in a long time.

I observe that James Osgood of the firm Dole, Osgood & Co., has returned to his business this week, after being confined to his home for the past several months, with rheumatism, having been an intense sufferer from the malady. He was given a fine welcome back to his office.

Peabody leather exhibits at the Lyons, France, shoe and leather fair, now in progress, are from the A. C. Lawrence Leather Co., H. S. & M. W. Synder Inc., Hunt-Rankin Leather Co., Donnell, Carman & Mudge and the Thayer, Foss Co.

The City of Peabody officially recognized the advent of Spring on March 31, by watering Peabody Square and approaching streets.

Frank H. Sanger, member of the firm, N. H. Poor Leather Co., leaves next Tuesday for an extended vacation on a trip which will take him to the Panama canal and San Francisco. He is a prime booster for the Peabody Rotary Club, and will make it a point to visit every Rotary club he can on his trip.

One of the smartest appearing store fronts in the city is that of Bennie's shoe store in the Levin block, now known as the Men's Style Shop, with Joseph Levin, the well known tailor and his son, Bennie, the owners. The new display windows added to the store have made it most attractive.

DADDIES

I would rather be the daddy
Of a romping Roguish Crew,
Of a bright-eyed, chubby laddie
And a little girl or two
Than the Monarch of a nation
In his high and lofty seat,
Taking empty adoration
From the subjects at his feet.
I would rather own their kisses,
As at night to me they run,
Than to be the King who misses
All the simpler forms of fun;
When his dreary day is ending
He is dimly alone;
But when my sun is descending
There are joys for me to own.

He may ride to horns and drumming,
I must walk a quiet street;
But when once they see me coming
Then on joyous, flying feet
They come racing to me madly,
And I catch them with a swing,
And I say it proudly, gladly,
That I'm happier than a King.

You may talk of loft places,
You may boast of pomp and power;
Men may turn their eager faces
To the glory of an hour;
But give me the humble station,
With its joys that long survive,
For the daddies of the Nation
Are the happiest men alive.

ANNUAL MEETING OF C. OF C.

The annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce will be held in the I. O. O. F. hall, Wednesday evening, April 7, at which time five Directors will be elected to serve for three years. The nominating committee has selected the following candidates: A. P. Ames, A. Couris, B. E. Cox, E. A. Croughwell, H. F. Duggan, J. S. Gallagher, L. P. P. Osborne, R. H. Smith, M. P. Stone, G. F. Woodbury, the By-Laws provide that any 10 members of the Chamber may nominate a different ticket by posting the same over their signatures on the bulletin board not later than three days previous to the annual election.

The committee in charge of the annual meeting has secured Hon. Charles L. Underhill of Somerville, a former member of the Massachusetts Legislature, also a retired merchant and manufacturer, as the speaker of the evening. From the reports that the Chamber has received, Mr. Underhill is a very pleasing and instructive speaker. The committee also hopes to secure William F. Fitz-

Mayor Favors $40,000 More In Concrete Roads

Mayor Donnell wants to expend $40,000 more for concrete roads this year, and he will send a communication to the City Council at its next meeting, urging that they vote to support him in his purpose to complete unfinished work in several sections of the city.

"I am convinced that Peabody's best asset, declared Mayor Donnell to a reporter for the Enterprise, lies in its good roads, and I shall ask the Council to finance $40,000 of new concrete construction this year. Wallis street should be completed from Walnut to Tremont street. Tremont street extended as far as English street this summer, the city laying a new water service main to take the place of the cement lined pipe now on that thoroughfare. Endicott street from Lowell to Warren street also should be resurfaced and a concrete bridge built over the brook that meets Crowinshield pond. Sawyer street from Lowell to Railroad avenue is the other remaining unfinished concrete work. All of these streets are heavily travelled.

PATRONESSES FOR MAY FESTIVAL

The May Festival to be held in City Hall on May day, the proceeds of which are to go to the Community House, will be one of the biggest and gayest affairs the children of Peabody have ever witnessed. Following is a list of the patronesses: Mrs. S. Howard Donnell, Mrs. Walter Williams, Mrs. Fred N. Moore, Mrs. Herbert V. Hunt, Mrs. Thomas A. O'Keefe, Mrs. John Meagher, Mrs. George C. Farrington, Mrs. John E. Hayes, Mrs. Albert Robinson, Mrs. E. Hershenson, Mrs. J. B. Palmer, Mrs. Prokus P. Kutubus, Mrs. Harris S. Pomeroy, Mrs. Max Korn, Mrs. Frank Taylor, Mrs. Lawrence K. FAVOR PLANS OF NEW JUNIOR HIGH Action looking to the building of a Junior High school may be taken at the next meeting of the Council, when the finance committee will report favorably on the petition of the school committee. A conference was held last night between the finance committee of the Council and the school committee. The finance committee is unanimous in approval of the plans, and will probably so announce themselves at the Council meeting, Tuesday night.

DONNELL READY FOR MURDER CASE

District Attorney Donnell goes into court Monday with his first murder trial since taking office last January. He will prosecute the charge of first degree murder against William Viron, who shot and killed Mary B. Lovoie, a young Salem girl, on December 12, 1918, while the latter was being escorted home from a dance. Judge Callahan will preside. Former Assistant District Attorney William H. McSweeney represents prisoner. Defense will be insanity at time of murder, it is said. A venire of 100 jurors including five Lowell street men, has been summoned.

PEABODY PASTORS IN CONFERENCE

The Protestant churches of Peabody will meet in a "Get-to-Gether" union service at the First Baptist church this evening at 7.30. The pastors of the churches represented, will make addresses on various phases of inter-church community work. It is hoped that this meeting will promote a spirit of Christian fellowship.

With the Employees of A. C. LAWRENCE LEATHER COMPANY

David O'Donnell, for the past several years employed in the Curry finishing department, has been transferred to the crust assorting room.

Frank Burton of the National sorting room, is rejoicing over the arrival of a new member of his family. Mr. Burton is an ex-service man, and has been employed at the National for 15 years.

Miss Carolyn Poor of the Main office, who has been ill for five weeks with scarlet fever, returned to work week.

Charles G. F. Coker, office manager of the National, is out with a new board of the same type of his previous car.

Mrs. Lillian (Thode) Dennis, a former Main office young lady, was a visitor to the office Monday.

John Devaney of the sheep tackers was elected as vice president of the F. M. C. T. A. S. this week.

The plant is beginning to resume its summer-time appearance, as the autos belonging to plant employees are being parked in steadily increasing numbers each morning now.

Word has been received that the appropriation asked for by the Garden Committee has been approved, and at a meeting held yesterday they perfected plans for conducting the gardens this year. Application blanks will go out immediately, and the early applicants will be the lucky ones, as the demand is expected to be big, and the time for preparing the land is very short.

Benjamin Grover, for the past 13 years employed in the cutstock and sheepskin departments of the A. C. L., resigned his position this week to accept an offer as manager of a plant in Lynn.

Danny Silva, who played shortstop on last year's A. C. L. baseball team, got into the big basketball game in Salem the other evening and gathered a couple of baskets for the losing side.

Yesterday's B. C. Fordham baseball game was of local interest, inasmuch as Jimmy Fitzpatrick, Luke Urban, Billy Dempsey and Billy McLaughlin, all former A. C. L. stars, were in the lineups of the opposing teams.

The many employees holding shares of National Leather stock were pleased to get the first annual report of the company this week.

Frank Cronin of the sheepskin department has been confined to his home for a few days with an attack of pleurisy.

Horace Wilson, employment manager at the big plant, hired Christopher Columbus this week. The plant is rapidly becoming quite celebrated as a place to work, when such famous men apply for positions.

Al Demeritt of the fourth floor of the Curry shop has won considerable reputation at the plant as a maker of paper flowers. Some of his creations are remarkable for their likeness to the originals, and his table usually bears a few samples of his really excellent work.

The sympathies of the entire plant are extended to William Murphy, the well known foreman of the black finish department, who buried his wife Wednesday.

Titan Shastope of the book leather department suffered a painful and unfortunate accident this week, when he lost his thumb in an embossing machine. This is the first accident on such a machine for considerable time.

Chester Lee, formerly of the Curry, is back with the company in the sheepskin department.

Ernest Killam of Salem is a new-comer to the welt department this week.

Jerry Murphy, foreman of the sheep tackers, has the sympathies of his many friends in his bereavement. Mr. Murphy's mother passed away this week.

Carl Waters, formerly of the Nubuck department, is now at the book leather.

Teachers' Ass'n To Present Show

The Peabody Teachers' Association announces a change in the date of its entertainment from April 9 to April 14, when it will present "Mrs. Temple's Telegram."

A Walt Mason Account of "Mrs. Temple's Telegram."

Be sure to see the teachers' play, (tis "Mrs. Temple's Telegram.") I think I'm right when this I say—The City Hall will be "Cram-Jam" the night this comedy takes place.

In fear of his most jealous wife, good Mr. Temple ducks disgrace, and meets instead, domestic strife by telling lies about his plight, when an unruly Ferris wheel detains him for a joyless night. His innocence, in truth, is real. But there he sits in the same chair beside the wife of his best friend, suspended high in the mid-air. Upon a "now dead" Ferris wheel. There's naught to do but to pretend to unbelieving wifely dear, he'd spent the night with a sick friend. She entertains a secret fear, and thinks that soon all doubt she'll end by sending out a telegram to hubby's fake and ailing friend.

The fun begins as you may guess, and tears are shed (they are all sham.) There rages fierce confusion dire, and indignation, and disgust. There seems to be no pacifier to stop a general distrust.

'Twould make you laugh if you could see Ralph Blair and Warner Davis weep. "Art" Manning and "Len" Cassidy from out the mix-up cannot keep. Miss Johnson and Miss Dunham, too, exchange ere long an icy stare. Miss Masterson gets in a stew; Miss Sinclair falls in deep despair, and Franklin Haines (quite well he means), with his lognacious, prating tongue, demurely spills the pot of beans. Behind the scenes, these folk among Miss Bailey moves, and eggs them on.

'D hardly dare to tell you more. You'll see these acts yourself anon, and give these stars a big encore.

Be sure to come and see this play, April 14th is the date. Don't wait! But buy your seats today, tomorrow will surely be too late.

BUILT ON INTEGRITY

For The Easter Bride's New Home

She will want GOOD furniture. She will want the best that the money to be spent will buy. She will want it all in good taste. You know that such furniture costs more than it used to. And you are willing to pay more, but you want to be sure of getting what you pay for.

When you buy your furniture you will have to take somebody's judgment. We offer you ours. We believe that it is good judgment. We know that it is honest judgment. We tell you frankly that our furniture is dependable, that it is beautiful, that it will give you the fullest measure of satisfaction and value. And she and you will be happy living with and using it.

A Crawford Range

For her kitchen—No other range will quite satisfy her. The CRAWFORD is the only range that has the wonderful coal-saving invention known as the "SINGLE DAMPER." With one sliding motion you control both the fire and the heat of the range. We know that she'll want one of the styles that has the coal and the ash hod in the base of the range—out of sight. Size No. 8 with tea-shelf costs $104. Other CRAWFORDS for less and for more.

A Chamber Suit

As illustrating some of our splendid values in chamber suits, we are offering a three-piece suit—low panel bed, dresser and chiffonier, both with mirror—in American walnut for $216. It is made and finished well, even to the inside of the drawers. We have other suits that are just as good values. Some priced more, others less.

A Living Room Suit

We have a splendid line of suits at various prices from $65 to $450 per suit. Your attention is invited to a pretty suit that is priced $100. It has dainty, but strong mahogany frames, seats and backs upholstered in a lovely shade of green velour. The backs of each piece are tufted.

9 x 12 ft. Grass Rugs $15

For the Spring and Summer she will want grass rugs on her floors. For your delightful selection we offer a fine assortment—plain and medallion centers, Japanese designs, Grecian and other borders all in Summer colors to harmonize with the furniture. The price is unusually low. Compare the rugs with those offered elsewhere at a higher price.

May Breakfast To Aid Welfare

Plans are being completed for a May breakfast to be held in City Hall on May 1 to derive money to promote the welfare work among the boys and girls at the Community House. A feature of the entertainment will be a Maypole dance with the crowning of the Queen of the May, and 200 children are to be rehearsed for the affair. Every church and many societies will have a table at the breakfast at which the public will be served.

Mrs. Louis P. P. Osborne has charge of the publicity for the May breakfast, and she has invited the Rotary Club to assist in the work. The club at its dinner this week voted to do so, and every measure will be taken to make the affair a big success.

REPUBLICANS WILL ORGANIZE

Organization of a Republican League in Peabody is scheduled for next Wednesday evening in Moose hall, when a banquet will precede the business meeting. The dinner will be at 6.30, and the addresses will follow. There will be several notable speakers. Albert E. Brown, one of the State organizers of the league, has the meeting in charge. Chairman Angus J. MacDonald of the Republican City Committee promises a large attendance of the G. O. P. disciples in Peabody. Louis K. Liggert of Boston is President of the State organization. The objects of the league are to help along naturalization, urge registration and thirdly to get out the full vote on election day.

COMMUNION BREAKFAST

Leo Guild will serve a Communion breakfast to Leo Council, Knights of Columbus, at their hall on Sunday morning, after the 7 o'clock mass.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS

The Knights of Pythias will work the rank of Page at the lodge meeting tonight.

COUNCILLOR RYAN PAYS TRIBUTE TO SCHOOL TEACHERS

Peabody teachers found a staunch supporter in Councillor Joseph A. Ryan last night, when he went on record as being willing to give the use of the big City Hall to the Teachers' Association at any time they requested its use. A discussion followed an application from the Teachers' Association for the use of the hall at cost, dates to be announced later, and Councillor Brown, who had knowledge of the communication, injected the remark that something was in error in the letter in that it was his understanding the teachers merely wanted the use of the hall on two nights.

COUNCILLOR JOSEPH A. RYAN.

Whether for two nights or every night in the week, if possible Councillor Ryan said he favored giving the use of the hall at cost to them. He declared the citizens owed much to the teachers, and that he felt it his duty to assist them in any way he could. Councillor Brown felt that Councillor Ryan had misunderstood him, for he too, was eager to assist the teachers at all times. The matter went to the hall committee for action.

Six Lowell St. Men Drawn For Jury Duty At Meeting of Council

Six of the eight jurors drawn for Salem last night by the City Council are residents of Ward 6. They are: George Taylor, Lowell street, West Peabody.

Andrew Dow, 89 Lowell street.
Byron B. Bishop, Lake street.
Phocian J. Ingraham, 235 Lowell street.
J. Ben Palmer, 171 Lowell street.
J. Peter Carlin, 11 Perkins street.
Fred W. Brown of 39 Clement avenue and Thomas F. Farley of 7 State street were the other two jurors drawn.

STATE HIGHWAY

Mayor Donnell was authorized by the City Council to sign an agreement with the highway commission that the City of Peabody would meet all claims for damages for land taking in the widening of the Newburyport Turnpike within the city limits. He appeared before the Council last night, and stated that the City Engineer's department had reported less than one acre would be taken in the work of the highway commission, and that the damages at best would be negligible.

The State proposes to rebuild three miles of the Turnpike each year, and this year will complete the road in Peabody. Councillor Ryan made the motion which allowed the Mayor to enter into the pact with the State. It was stated by the Mayor that the cost of upkeep on the new highway would be $200 a year as against $2000 now expended.

City Solicitor Fay will procure releases from the property owners, and may be given an assistant if the work requires.

Debate Licenses.

Councillor Hogan took Chief Grady to task last night when the question of granting sundry licenses came before the City Fathers, on the ground that the Chief had failed to report to the Council arrests of storekeepers charged with selling jakey.

As Chairman of the license committee, Councillor Hogan read off the names of several residents with foreign names, some of which could only be pronounced by sneezing, and recommended the granting of the sought for permits. This motion brought Councillor Brown to ask if Chief Grady had vided the license applications, and Mr. Hogan responded in the negative. Some little debate ensued with Councillor Hogan in sharp retort. The upshot of the debate was the granting of the licenses for a period of 13 months, the coming month of April being thrown in for good measure, since all licenses expire on May 1.

When Councillor Ryan, Chairman of the committee on ordinances introduced one which reduced the fee of a Sunday license from $5 to $1, he declared himself opposed to the change on the grounds that no request for a reduction had been made, and

FORMER PEABODY GIRL IS ENGAGED

Miss Meriel F. Thomas of Winchester, daughter of Elmer Thomas of this city, is the week-end guest of Mrs. Elmer Cowdrey on Central street. Her engagement was announced this week by her mother, Mrs. Phillips C. Simonds of Sheffield road, Winchester. Her fiancé is Burnam G. Preston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Preston of Winchester.

Miss Thomas is a graduate of Winchester High school, and attended Abbott Academy at Andover. She is the great-granddaughter of the late J. B. Thomas of Peabody, who presented the city with the Thomas hospital. Mr. Preston is a graduate of the Huntington school, Boston, and served in the naval aviation corps during the war.

DR. FOX TO WED

Dr. Henry M. Fox, Peabody dentist, will become a benedict April 6, when he will take for his bride, Miss Madeline Norton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Norton of Salem. The ceremony will be performed at 10 o'clock at St. James church, and will be largely attended by Peabody and Salem friends of the couple.

NEW CONSTABLE WILL ROUND UP ALL STRAY DOGS

John J. O'Brien, custodian of Peabody square, had a new honor thrust upon him last night, when he was appointed dog constable, and under suspension of the rules confirmed for immediate activity in ridding the city of unlicensed dogs. He knows what is ahead of him, and it is said he will take to the warpath and round up stray mongrels or compel their owners to ante. Arrangements will be made to allow Constable O'Brien to take certain days from his employment on Peabody square, and some stated compensation will be fixed by the Mayor and Council. Plans for a big round-up of unlicensed dogs are to be fulfilled, if Councillor Hogan, the nemesis of the wandering canines has his way. An epidemic is imminent, according to Councillor Rogan, unless prompt action is taken on the dog question.

Mr. Average Citizen

You have watched Peabody grow from a small town to a bustling city, one of the greatest in the manufacture of leather.

Are you getting ahead too?

Have you torn up the roads of extravagance and waste and laid permanent ones of thrift and economy?

Have you increased your revenue by making your surplus capital pay you an income?

Are you getting the most out of a dollar by putting it in the bank that pays a good rate of interest?

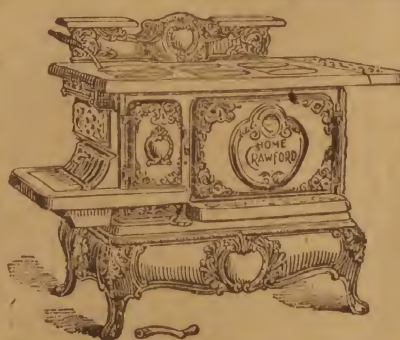

If not, start now by opening an account in this bank and add to it regularly.

Miss Annabel Sinclair of the National office force, who has been in poor health for some time, has gone to New Hampshire for a two weeks' rest.

Billy Harrington of the Finish Assembling Room expects to report to the Albany team shortly. The Providence team, with which Harrington signed up last year, has been sold to Albany.

Dennis Manning, formerly of the National, is now working at the Pigskin tannery.

John Carr of Spokane, Washington, is a newcomer to the Curry department. Mr. Carr is an ex-service man and a cartoonist of some ability.

Henry Withrow, clerk in the dye-house, resigned this week, to take a position as steward on the Boston-Yarmouth steamship line. His place is being filled by George Johnson, of Danvers.

George "Pick" Gill of the Aclo-suede department officiated as time-keeper at the boxing bouts in City Hall this week. He made good, as usual, in this capacity.

The noon hour English class has been transferred from J. Cellar to the third floor of V building.

Ralph Handy, at present employed in the black split department, is receiving congratulations upon the birth of a baby daughter, born last Tuesday.

James Hinchon, foreman of the dops at the Curry, is confined to his home by illness.

The mechanical department did a record-breaking stunt in transporting 178 tons of lime from a ship in Salem this week in short order. This is one of the few times that it has been necessary to send lime by boat, and was made necessary by the railroad tie-up during the storms.

Miss Jennie Donnell, formerly of the Old Colony Trust Company of Boston, entered the employ of the cashier's department at the main office this week.

The Main Office girls defeated Team Two of the league for the fourth time out of five attempts, last Monday. Agnes Gorham was high for the evening with a single of 106 and a three-string total of 272. Hooper Southwick led the men with 100 and 258. The score was 1374 to 1213.

Several men have taken out first and second naturalization papers this week, the result of a canvas of the plant made to encourage citizenship.

Cards have been received from Elmer McKee, stating that he is now in Arizona, and is spending a couple of days at the Grand Canyon.

Mrs. Elizabeth (Luby) McGrath and Miss Doris Kingsley, both former office girls, were visitors at the plant on Wednesday.

Richard Dacey has been transferred from the shaving to the knee-staking room.

A team of bowlers representing the Mechanical Department defeated a team of snappers last Tuesday by 40 pins, and will take on another team of snappers tonight.

Ray Auen of the tannery has left to take a position as shipper on the Colonial line to New York under Gus Meade, a former A. C. L. man.

Jack Devaney's Mats defeated the Athletics this week, due to Jack's foresight in signing up a clever team of pros. The rubber game between these rivals is being looked forward to by a great many A. C. L. people.

William Clark of the Japan department met with a painful accident last Tuesday, a heavily loaded wagon passing over his foot.

John A. Barnes, formerly of the glazers, is back with the A. C. L., in the roll and stake department.

Prize winners in the recent baby contest will be announced in the April 1 A. C. L.

C. OF C. WILL OPEN TEN CLASSES IN SALESMANSHIP

Arrangements have been completed for a series of 10 lessons in retail salesmanship by the Merchants' Committee of the Chamber, and the first meeting will be held Monday, April 5. This class is being conducted by the State Board of Education, University Extension Department, under the auspices of the local Chamber. There will be no tuition fee, but a charge of $2.50 for book on salesmanship and the outline of the 10 lessons. This class is open to all who are interested in retail selling, and enrollments can be made at the Chamber offices either before April 5, or at the meeting of that night. The Merchants' Committee was very fortunate in securing the services of Mr. Morgan of Boston, as the instructor, as he has had several years' experience in actual selling, besides successfully teaching other classes in retail salesmanship. Persons interested in this class can secure further information by seeing the Secretary or the members of this committee, William F. Sawyer, A. P. Ames, Alonzo Kimball.

Plans have been completed by the Chamber's Americanization Committee for the conducting of another class in Civics for Naturalization. This class will be started during the coming week and persons interested in enrolling should call at the office of the Chamber for further information.

About 100 members of the Chamber are at work this week soliciting new members with a slogan of "500 Additional Members Before April 1," and from the reports that have been received by the chairman of this committee, indications are that the Chamber will reach its goal. Committees have been appointed with a chairman from each ward, also a committee to solicit the merchants who are not members and another committee to call on the manufacturers. Solicitors are urged to make their reports as early as possible to either the chairman of their committee or to the Chamber office, so that results may be tabulated at as early a date as possible.

WOOD'S TRIBUTE TO SOLDIER DEAD

New Hampshire, the birth state of Leonard Wood, voted better than 2 to 1 in favor of his nomination for the Presidency in its recent Republican primaries. Minnesota, the birth state of Frank O. Lowden, another candidate for the nomination, gave wood a plurality in every county. What's the answer?

Leonard Wood will be in Massachusetts on April 12, 13 and 14. He will speak in Boston, Worcester and Springfield the first day; in Boston and Salem the second day; at Tremont Temple, Boston, (public invited), at noon on the third day.

"I have no apologies to make for appearing in the uniform of the United States. Whatever I have done for this country, whatever service I have rendered, either here, in the Philippines, in Cuba or elsewhere, I have rendered in uniform. There is a disposition to point the finger of scorn at the uniform. The man who does it, or the man who apologizes for the uniform, or for wearing it, is one who insults the memory of every dead American in France."—Leonard Wood at Mitchell, South Dakota, March 13.

Benefits In Army Service And Failure of U. S. Senate On Treaty, Prize Essays

Emily Mansfield, a senior, and George A. Richards, a sophomore, are the prize winners in order this week in the Enterprise contest for the best article prepared by high school students. Miss Mansfield's topic was "Benefit of Enlistment in the Army" and the second prize story deals with the failure of the United States Senate to ratify the Peace Treaty. Both articles are clean-cut and have a punch.

Miss Mansfield is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mansfield of Lynnfield and George Richards is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Richards of 15 Proctor street. The prize stories:

BENEFITS OF ENLISTMENT IN THE ARMY

(By Emily Mansfield, 1920.)

Three boys whom we will call Tom, Dick and Harry, graduated from high school in the same class. All three to enlist in the army. Tom and Dick succeeded, but Harry, on account of some physical disability, was unable to get into the service.

The three friends met about three years later and compared their fortunes. Tom, it seemed, had always longed to be a mechanic. During his enlistment in the army he had studied and made a specialty of machinery. He was going to set up a business for himself now, as soon as his term was up. The capital for this business he had saved from his pay, and as he was willing to begin in a small way and add to it later, this money was sufficient.

He hastened to add that, "the chance for an education is not the only good thing about the army," and went on to tell of the "sights" he had seen during travel which Tom had just been telling how much money it would take him to see those same things.

Dick began to tell his story then. He had been made a lieutenant and had been cited for bravery. He announced that his advice to every young man within the age limit would be, "Enlist in the Army." His arguments were convincing, too, because he was speaking from experience. When he had enlisted he had been an all around athlete. He was now playing center on one of the football teams of the army. To this and to his other physical training he laid his perfect health and certainly he was a rugged looking fellow.

He pointed out the opportunities for travel which Tom had just been telling about and told how well he was paid. Harry was feeling rather jealous of his two companions, who seemed to have had every chance, so he was not slow in picking up any argument he could think of. He laughed at the idea of pay and said he was getting twice as much and more at his job. He soon found that he hadn't saved a quarter as much as the other two for there was Tom going into business for himself. That was decided proof.

Harry was beginning to feel that he had been worsted in all his arguments, but he still refused to admit himself beaten. "Oh well," he said, as a last resort, "I wouldn't want to be in the army anyway. It's all work and no play. A fellow's got to have some recreation. I like to go to the movies or a dance nights, after I get through work. At that both the other two flared up in indignation. They told Harry of a few of the good times and dances they had had and mentioned a few of the pictures they had recently seen.

Dick said he was going to re-enlist as soon as his term was up, and that he had made up his mind to stay in the army as long as they'd have him.

Harry finally admitted himself beaten, and he thought he might be able to get into the service after all. At any rate, he'd try.

THE PEACE QUESTION

(By George A. Richards, 1922)

Did Congress do right in rejecting the treaty? There are many who claim they were right, and as many that say they did wrong.

By rejecting the Peace Treaty and also the League of Nations, the United States now has to make a treaty with Germany alone. The terms will necessarily have to be easier. We are still at war with Germany, and as we have not the strong backing of the League of Nations, we cannot expect terms from Germany, that we would, if we were a member of the League.

Many people claim that we should let Germany off easy. They say, "There is no need of picking on a beaten nation." Do they realize what would have happened to us if Germany had won? We would have had to pay an enormous amount of money and taxes to them. Germany would have had no pity for us. Why then should we have pity for them?

Some people say Germany is beaten, but Germany is not beaten. It still retains an army strong enough to do considerable damage to France, or any other Ally, before the United States or England could interfere. That is what France is afraid of. Can you blame France for losing its confidence in us.

Many of Germany's soldiers, prisoners in England, France and the United States have been returned. In not more than two days, Germany could put as many men in the field as it had on their first attempt of invading France.

Why then does the United States keep putting this important question off. It is hinted even in Germany that the United States are waiting to use it in the Presidential election. That is about right. This will certainly be the main question and point for the coming election.

Why then should France still have confidence in us, and why shouldn't many German speakers say, as they have many times, that the United States is Germany's best friend, and that the United States saved Germany from the Allies?

Get the Daily Walk Habit.
"A daily walk is infinitely superior in its health-giving effects to the daily apartment and is also more beneficial than working for some time at high tension or than even taking a long rest. Working in spurts and playing or resting in spurts, as the American usually does, is not good practice. Business men and women should rather their outdoor exercise, and the exercise could take the form of walking."—Exchange.

For Lung Trouble, But

Allen's Lung Healer

A Very Interesting Statement
To the People of Peabody:

For three years I suffered from a lung cough which I could not shake and it continually grew worse, despite all I could do. I used about every known remedy, even Creosote at $5.00 an ounce, but got little relief. I got so bad that I could not sleep on account of the racking, tearing cough. My lungs were sore, I was short of breath and I became all run down. I got so discouraged that I decided to give up my business and go south to escape the severe winters. Fortunately I heard about Allen's Lung Healer and I began to take it. The result was marvelous. I began to improve rapidly, and after using two bottles my cough was entirely cured, my general health restored and I felt like a new man. I believe this medicine saved my life for I feel certain I was on the verge of consumption, if not actually in its grip. I heartily recommend it to everybody for a lung cough.

TRAFFIC INCREASE TREBLED SINCE 1898

Greater Efficiency Enabled Railroads to Meet Country's Growing Demands.

The American railroads are more than one-third of the railways of the world. The traffic hauled on the railroads of the United States is now three times as great as it was twenty years ago. In four months now the railroads carry as much freight and as many passengers as they did then in a year. In the three months alone of the harvest movement in 1919 the traffic equaled that of the whole year of 1898.

In 1898 freight ton miles carried by the railroads of the country were more than 100,000,000,000 a year. In 1910 they were more than 250,000,000,000, in 1913 more than 300,000,000,000 and in 1918 more than 400,000,000,000. Although the railway mileage increased only about 65 per cent since 1890, improvements in tracks, terminals, equipment, etc., have been so marked that the volume of goods carried (measured in the number of freight tons carried one mile) increased more than five times from 1890 to 1917.

Increased Efficiency.

Taking account of both freight and passenger service, the railroads in 1900 hauled 186,000 traffic units (freight tons carried one mile, plus passengers carried one mile) for each railway employee. By 1917, the last year of private operation of the railroads prior to the entry of the United States into the war, that 186,000 had been increased to 296,000.

The following table shows the increase in efficiency of American railroads since 1900, which enabled the railroads to keep pace with the growth of the country:

Ton miles increased.....	190%
Passenger miles increased..	170%
Trackage increased.....	50%
Cars and engine increased..	75%
Workers increased.....	85%
Output per worker increased	60%
Average train load increased	130%

These figures show that the traffic hauled by the railroads of the country has increased more than three times as fast as the trackage, more than twice as fast as the equipment and more than twice as fast as the number of workers. This has been made possible by far-sighted investment of new capital to increase the efficiency of the transportation facilities and thereby enable the railroads to increase the amount of traffic handled and reduce the amount of labor required to handle it.

Urge Adequate Rates.

In a resolution adopted by the Association of Life Insurance Presidents the heads of the country's large insurance companies express their attitude toward the railroad situation as follows:

"Rehabilitation of the railroads and establishment by law of rates adequate to provide for the present and future demands of our growing commerce and to stabilize the credit and securities of the roads."

In Iceland Every Mary Has A Lamb

An Iceland Mary and Her Lamb; Also "Little Brother."

Did you ever hear "Mary Had a Little Lamb" in the Iceland tongue? Probably not, if it be of interest to you, try this:

Her name was Mary and her lamb
A happy little lamb
Every Mary thought it was a
A little lamb for.

Also you may tell the children that Iceland holds the world's record for Mary and her lamb. Mary is a favorite name there, and about every child has a long-haired, affable lamb. These facts are more intelligent than our "Wall Street Lamb."

This particular Mary is a sub-deb of an old Icelandic family, now residing in the United States. Some thousands of Icelanders have, in recent years, come to America, settling in North and South Dakota, Minnesota and Washington. They are generally farmers.

The Interchurch World Movement is making a survey of these people in its program to assist the alien to become a citizen in deed as well as word.

MATS SCORE ON FAST A'S

In the second game of the series between the Mats and the Athletics, Tuesday night at the North street rink, Salem, the Mats vanquished the much-heralded team from the East End by a 47 to 31 score, the most of the Athletics scoring coming in the last 10 minutes of play, when the Mats stars eased up a bit.

Both teams were represented by professional players. The Mats procured the Gloucester all stars, said to be one of the champion teams of Eastern Massachusetts, while the Athletics had a variety of stars, including Joyce, Dunn, Turcotte, etc.

A good sized crowd witnessed the game and the spectacular team work of the Mats received many a hand from the audience, while they also gave Dunn and Turcotte a hand, when each shot a basket from mid-floor for the Athletics.

The Mats scored first blood, when Sudby shot a basket in the first two minutes of play.

The Athletics had the following players in their lineup:

Turcotte, c.; Dunn, l. f.; Andrews, r. f.; Joyce, r. b.; O'Connell, Farmer, l. b.

The Mats' line-up included: Parkhurst, c.; O'Malley, l. f.; Sudby, r. f.; Freatus, r. b.; Murphy, l. b.

Fred J. "Pie" Long refereed the game.

In all probability the next game will be played next Tuesday night.

LEATHER MARKET SHOWS LESS TENSE FEELING--SEE BIGGER CALL FOR EXPORT

(By Energy)

This week has developed a better feeling in the leather market.

Whether this feeling is hope, or whether several factories are developing to make a change for the better, remains to be seen, I think soon. Reports from England show this country is coming back fast. Exchange is higher, Englishmen have recently come here to buy, yes to sell shoes and leather. Those of us who figured we had all of the shoes and leather in the world figured backwards. English shoes, some of which have French calf in the uppers, are being offered here for $1.00 a pair less than the same shoes made in U. S. Then comes Sir Percy Daniels who represented England in the leather industry during the war, and he will buy and sell leather to us.

While such happenings are not big factors in disturbing the market, they will serve to start something, and the least will not be exports. In other words, it looks as though we would be doing business with England in a short time. I heard a leather man complaining recently that the Englishmen were sharp traders. They would put the burden on the other fellow if possible. Well, my answer to that is that they must be smarter to do the trick. Local tanners in the past have made fortunes trading with England, and I believe the time is fast coming when they will repeat.

While England is coming fast, it is not so with France and Italy. Recent events in Germany show that country to be in an unsettled condition. There are so many fingers in the pie that the outcome is far from bright. As this country is a big factor in the leather market, the question arises how it will affect our leather interests? It should help. But during this turmoil our foreign business suffers, so there you are. One poor move in a checker game among experts loses the game. After all, business is a checker game, and like checkers there are but a few experts.

When the raw calfskin market dropped off 30 points, it looked like a slump, but quality had much to do with it, and when the skins of February takeoff are disposed of, a different story is in sight. In fact there is a better tone to the raw skin market. Pickled sheep have held their own during the decline which shows decided strength. One familiar with this branch of the trade could not wonder as fast as sheep were offered they were purchased without concessions in price.

I am acquainted with one local concern who purchase the best New Zealand skins for manufacture. They produce an even quality of leather so much so little sorting is needed. This firm's business in February of this year was larger than in the same month last year. In fact they are unable to supply their customers. While this may not follow in all cases, I am aware that dull business with many local concerns is as yet unheard of. No doubt some grades are slow, particularly the cheaper grades, but when the fall trades opens it seems to me there will be a cleanup of all sorts of leather.

Prices of finished stock hold firm. No doubt there has been some concessions by weak-kneed concerns who think it is time for the world to cash in. Such fellows would have put this world out of the running when they first commenced to talk. But there is a strong feeling among most tanners that stock will go higher instead of lower, and it will not take much of a mathematician to figure out that with the present cost of raw material, present prices must be maintained or nearly so. The tanners in years past have worn out many lead pencils figuring out profits on their several lots of leather during the year. The stock of pencils must have accumulated, for the profits now can be figured in the head. I mean there is a good instead of close margin as formerly.

Freight embargoes are fast disappearing. The last three months has cost the leather industry millions of dollars. This sum may be added to the costs, but the fact remains some one will pay the bills, and that someone is the public. The loss of production cannot be replaced. The only thing I can see about this item is it strengthens prices. Again the public. Freight handlers are on strike in many sections. It seems as though they played to make all the trouble possible. It only means more labor saving devices thus requiring less labor. But those fellows play only for the present. It may be the best way.

New England concerns have offered prices to manufacture shoes for the government which have been accepted. The prices were $6.81 a pair, which shows what shoes are worth to the consumer. These shoes must be first class in all respects, in fact the shoes the public get are many times of much inferior quality. Prices of $15 show some one is profiteering. But why talk about profiteering, when we are all looking for more.

AMERICANS BIGGEST USERS OF RAILROADS; SERVICE HERE FAR OUTSTRIPS EUROPE

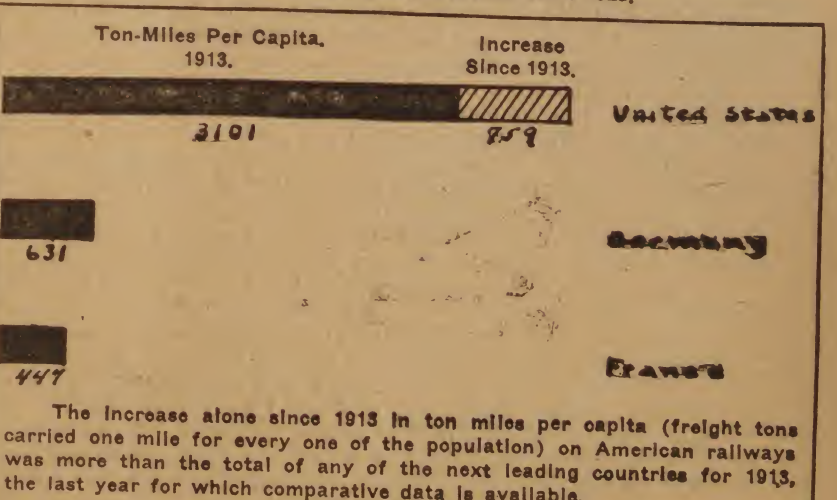

The railways of the United States in point of actual railway service lead the world. Americans buy more railway service, and a greater amount of transportation is supplied and used in the United States than in any other country.

According to statistics prepared by the Bureau of Railway Economics, the ton miles per capita carried by United States railroads in 1918 were almost five times the ton miles per capita carried by Germany, which was second to the United States in this respect. The ton miles per capita carried by the United States railroads in 1918 were 3,101. In Germany the ton miles per capita carried by the railroads were 631 and in France 447.

Since 1913 the increase in ton miles per capita carried by the railroads of the United States was more than the total carried by either of the two other countries in that year. In comparison with the total of 631 carried by the railroads in Germany and the total of 447 carried by the railroads in France the increase carried by the railroads in the United States since 1913 was 759 ton miles per capita.

The chart below shows the transportation supplied in the United States, Germany and France in 1913 and the increase in railroad service in the United States since 1913.

PEABODY'S WELCOME

Mayor Donnell and city officials who directed the welcome home celebration given the returned world's war veterans last Monday, appeared to have satisfied the service men who returned to their homes since last June. It is true, that some criticism was directed at the distribution of tickets, and some there were who felt themselves slighted. This was the inevitable and only the instance of any similar function moulded by human minds and hands. It is probably true that some participated in the free tickets to the boxing bouts, who didn't best deserve them, but the veterans had the privilege of giving the tickets to whom they wished. It was their affair and their pleasure to do as they desired with the free tickets. There are some prerogatives that go with holding public office and through this channel undoubtedly some tickets went astray. The banquet was of a high order and the bouts arranged for the edification of the veterans and their friends, were on the level, which is saying much when one stops to review past mills.

All in all, the welcome home celebration was well carried out, and gave Peabody a prestige which puts it high above many other cities in the efforts expended to make the war veterans welcome home from their military and naval service.

HEN FEVER

About this time of year, when it is warm and sunny during the middle of the day, and the bare ground is in sight, after being covered with snow all winter, a good many of us get our annual attack of "hen fever." The desire to care for a flock of chickens through the summer, to enjoy a few fresh-killed cockerels in the fall and to get a nice supply of real eggs during the coming winter comes on again with renewed life and vigor. Most of us have passed through the several stages of "hen fever" at various points in our career, beginning usually when kids, and the last attack probably still fresh in our minds. This year, however, we should submit to the germ and let it get a good hold on us. The backyard poultry house has been rapidly passing out of existence the last three or four years. High prices of grain without correspondingly high egg and poultry prices drove many of the small chicken fanciers out of business. This year, however, prices are consistent. Most any family can make a dozen hens pay and pay well. Leavings from the table can be converted into breakfast omelets via madam hen. Ran in conjunction with a home garden, the back-yard poultry venture becomes still more profitable, the green waste from the vegetables providing just the thing for the growing chicks, as well as for the laying hens. The women folks particularly, should interest themselves in the raising of chicks. A few minutes a day will be turned into real pleasure, and profit by the way of the home poultry business. The expense of starting is slight. Buy a few baby chicks, build or buy a simple brooder to shelter them until they can move to a home-made coop, and feed and water them. Let's bring back the good old days when we enjoyed our own fresh eggs daily with a chicken dinner when company came.

CLEAN UP PEABODY SQUARE

It is plainly up to the City Engineer's office to clean up Peabody square, the sidewalk in front of the Municipal building, and to pick the several inch thick ice from the principal thoroughfares. If the city is to wait for the railroad corporations to apply their handiwork, it is almost certain that we will wait until the warm sun of July 4th makes its appearance some months hence. Peabody square, the city's business section, should come first, and the highway department under the direction of the City Engineer is the one which should apply the remedy. Unsightly piles of dirty ice in Peabody square near the B. & M. tracks questions our progressive spirit and blots our well-paved streets, now budding forth from the winter's snow. Let us have prompt action, looking to giving the business section its best possible dress.

PROHIBITION AND ATHLETICS

Sporting goods manufacturers are having the time of their lives at present, trying to increase their production of all kinds of sporting goods. They do not remember such a demand for athletic supplies since they have been in business. Two things, probably, are at the bottom of this unprecedented revival of athletics; prohibition and the war. The men who found their pleasure and recreation in the places where liquor could be obtained now are looking for another form of recreation and find it in athletics. The returned soldiers, through their local sports of the American Legion, are actively taking up basketball, baseball and most of the indoor amusements in which everyone may indulge, as bowling, billiards and pool. This is a mighty healthy effect of not so healthy contributing causes, and one that should be encouraged and developed. Baseball will undoubtedly have the biggest year in its history in 1920. The big leagues will get their share of attention and local teams will be better patronized than ever before. More players will be developed in the towns and cities all over the country. Tennis, golf, swimming and boating will boom along with baseball this summer. Incidentally all this makes business better for Peabody, as an enormous quantity of leather goes into the manufacture of sporting goods.

TRUE OPOSSUM STORY.

"I'm going to tell you the true opossum story," said Mother Opossum to her little ones. They had been keeping so safe and had been growing so fine and strong in Mother Opossum's warm pouch but now she thought it was time they should see the world.

"It has been told so incorrectly so many times," said Mother Opossum.

"What does 'incorrectly' mean?" asked the little opossums. There were seven of them and Mother Opossum was very proud of them, for at first they had been little balls of almost nothingness without any fur and without any real shapes. But they had grown beautifully. They had learned how to use their little toes as hands and to hang on to their mother as she carried them about when she was marketing or doing whatever she had to do about the countryside.

Their home was really in the hollow of a tree near some marshy ground. For they love the water and like to live near it.

They had fine vegetables growing not far away and in the daytime they stayed very quiet and hidden in their homes while at night they went forth to get what they wanted and what they found.

They lived in the south where it was warm for they did not like the cold weather.

"Now our family," said Mother Opossum, "is known as the Virginia

"See the World."

opossum family. We have long, thin toes and when we walk over the marshy ground or where it is muddy it is very easy to know which trail is ours.

"We have coarse hair except on our tail and ears. Our snouts aren't very beautiful. They look too much like those of the pig family, but, of course, we cannot be perfect in every way.

"We aren't too fussy about our food for we eat meat as well as vegetables, and that is a good way to be. Fussy eaters are very difficult to get along with; they are always complaining and wanting something they don't see.

"But it is not of our tastes in food of which I want to tell you," Mother Opossum continued. "I want to tell you the truth about the opossum family, or in other words, a true opossum story.

"For years and years and years our chief trick, if you want to call it that, was to play that we were no longer alive when an enemy came around.

"It was our little way of protecting ourselves and it has been done by all opossums for as long as there have been opossums.

"We have always known that the wisest thing to do was to appear lifeless. We have been moved about and we have pretended we could not move of our own accord.

"We have been lifted up and put down in a certain position and we have stayed in that position.

"We haven't been willing to let folks know when we were alive for we have protected ourselves so long and so well by pretending we were not when we were met.

"But this is the truth of the whole story and this is what I want to tell you.

"It is true that this is what we have always done and I hope we will always have the sense to do it. I think opossums will never forget about the great opossum trick which is such a protection to them for we are so good at pretending when we're thinking of our protection.

"But it is not true that we do this because we are cowardly. No, indeed, the opossum is not cowardly. We try to be as safe as we can and so we hunt at night, but everyone tries to think of their safety and does not try to be foolhardy.

"All of that is true, but we play we are not alive when attacked as our means of looking after ourselves as we have always done. Every creature must have some way of looking after itself and that is ours, but children, let no one tell you that the opossum is not brave, for that is not the truth. The opossum, too, is strong; yes, that is the truth!"

ROUND ABOUT

I understand that Miss Jennie Midgeley, graduate nurse of the J. B. Thomas hospital, and who served as a war nurse in France, is meeting with good success in her work, as public health nurse in Wellsburg, West Virginia. *Miss Midgeley made many friends in Peabody.

Seven robins in a row were noted by Mrs. J. H. Walker, Monday of this week, as positive harbingers of Spring time. Pussy-willows are said also to be in greater bloom earlier this year than ever before.

I observed Judge Joseph Quinn of the Superior bench was among the notables at the funeral of the late Thomas H. O'Shea, last Saturday morning, at St. John's church. The Judge and Mr. O'Shea were old and fast friends, and before his elevation to the bench the Judge was personal counsel on several occasions for the Peabody man. Several prominent leather capitalists of Boston were also in attendance at the funeral.

I observe that John (Cy) McCarthy, the well known comedian, has the contract this year for directing the annual Firemen's Relief Association entertainment in City Hall, and his friends all expect to see him deliver a high class performance. A natural born comedian, Cy has earned the title of being a professional, and it is reported that his new efforts will give the friends of the firemen one of the best shows the association has ever put forth.

I am told that the Peabody Post veterans of the American Legion are already looking forward to assisting the G. A. R. on Memorial Day this year, and that the younger veterans will make a large showing.

Citizens are remarking on the condition of the various new paved streets and how some are being disclosed in better shape than others. The pounding of auto chains on the bituminous paving, such as Washington street and Main, have played serious havoc with the roadbed, where it meets the street railway tracks. The concrete roads show little or no defects, which obviously scores for the concrete road construction. Mayor Donnell from the first favored the concrete construction, but the 1917 Council argued for both and got two kinds. There is a guarantee with the concrete construction, and the contractors, Simpson Bros., are soon to begin making repairs on their work. The city must pay for mending the broken roads above referred to, at some expense. I am told efforts may be made to lay concrete between the car tracks this year, thus insuring more durable wear another winter.

Dr. S. Chase Tucker, who returned home this week, after a month's sojourn at Palm Beach, brought back a fine coat of tan and was minus any signs of the severe cold he was nursing before he went South to Florida. He tells me he found his chief recreation in golf, and altogether, had the best vacation in years. He was greatly in need of the rest.

"Increased thought and care for the beasts of the field and the birds of the air," was the language used last year by Governor Coolidge in proclaiming "Be Kind to Animals Week." It is understood that the Governor will issue a proclamation this year for the celebration, which is to take place April 12 to 17, concluding with Humane Sunday, April 18. On the latter date clergymen of all creeds are asked to bespeak better treatment of animals. In schools, Friday, April 16, will be specially observed as Humane Day, when teachers will be supplied with an eight-page pamphlet of exercises relating to animals and their care, distributed through the various superintendents.

Some Country!

Finnegan, a railroad worker, though not he of "On again, off again" fame, returned to Ireland recently on a visit. On being questioned by his relatives concerning the wonders of America, he described its size as follows: "Phwy, Amer-rica is so big that if ye war to dr-rag England through the Shites ye wouldn't have a mar-rk in th' dirt, an' ye could lose Oireland intirely in wan o' thim gr-rat inland oceans we hov, phwat we call lakes, an' if ye had Scotland to get rid of there are a thousand carners to hld her in, an' nobody could tell phwere ye'd put her, except, begorra, for the strong smell av whiskey."—Boston Transcript.

By the death of Isaiah Chute, one of the familiar and picturesque figures in this city has been removed. For nearly 70 years he was known in Salem and Peabody, as a man of sterling worth and integrity, the soul of honor. His loyalty to his town and city, and his patriotism were never questioned. His personal friendships were of the kind that Emerson told about, fit for serene days and gracious gifts, but equally serviceable for the rough journeys, the hard fare and persecutions of life's pilgrimage. He will be mourned sincerely. Only those who were privileged to claim this kind and sympathetic man as their friend can realize the great loss to his kindred.

At an early age he began the study of the Bible, having received the first impulse and inspiration from his Christian mother and father, and united with the Baptist church. He never for a moment wavered in his faith in believing. He deeply lamented the current of liberal ideas of these later years but, nevertheless, kept himself in the defense and propagation of the basic truths of Christianity, as he understood them. As a close student of the Bible and its teachings he was able to impart a large share of his knowledge to others. His memory was prodigious. Hardly a chapter in the holy book could be mentioned without Mr. Chute being able to quote liberally therefrom. His ability as an interpreter of the Scriptures was highly appreciated by those to whom biblical truths appealed. It has been truly said that every life measures up to its best, and realizes its highest possibilities under the cross and burden of affliction and sacrifice. It was so with this good man, who, since his retirement from the activities of life, with almost pathetic, yet wonderful dignity has waited patiently for the "sunset gun."

Though gone, his rare gifts of character are here in the cleft of his friends and kindred. His fine character are here in the clasp of his children. It is said that among certain islands of the South seas the fishermen are often caught off shore in a dense fog. In such emergencies the women gather at the water's edge and sing the old folk songs, thus guiding the fishermen to the shore. Out of the doubts and fears and mysteries of this world let this man summon you to the land of peace and perfect song, that realm of unfading beauty and undying love. He was tired, and among the few words that fell from his lips on his death bed were, "I want to go home."

PEABODY, LYNN AND SALEM ROTARIANS WHO JOINED IN TRI-CITY DINNER IN PEABODY.

South Peabody

The Rockville Camp Fire Girls had an oyster supper last Tuesday evening at the Second Congregational church with the Alpha Omega club as guests. The committee in charge were Miss Marion Stone, chairlady; Miss Dora Jordan, Miss Eva Broughton and Miss Lottie Brown.

Miss Ruth Hewitt of Lynn street is confined to her home with Scarlet fever.

Evelyn Winslow of Tucker court is recovering from the mumps.

Mrs. Joseph Annis of Bartholomew street has been ill with tonsillitis.

Henry M. Cawley and family have recently moved from Lynnfield street to 39 County street.

Little Meribah Leach of Brown street has been confined to her home by illness.

Mrs. Agle Duchene passed away Saturday afternoon at the Thomas hospital, after a long illness. Mrs. Duchene came from Maine about one year ago, and made her home with her daughter, Mrs. Annie Larrabee of County street, whose death occurred recently. She was taken to the hospital, where she spent her last days. The funeral was held at St. John's church, Tuesday morning, Rev. Fr. Sullivan singing the mass. Interment was in Cedar Grove cemetery. She leaves two daughters to mourn her loss.

Jerome Quill is enjoying one week's furlough at the home of his brother on Water Works road.

Next Tuesday and Wednesday evening at the Second Congregational church the South Peabody Dramatic club will present a three-act comedy play, "Moses Margin's Arrival," under the auspices of Ladies' Aid Society. The Dramatic Club needs no introduction for they are well known to the community, after the splendid way in which they played "Driven From Home," last month. They won the highest appreciation of all. No one can afford to miss "Moses Margin's Arrival." It is full of pep and comedy.

Frank Norwood of County street is confined to his home with the grippe.

Mrs. Lloyd LeCain of Carlton street underwent an operation at the Thomas hospital this week. She is doing nicely at this writing.

Mrs. Cora Griffin and daughter, Louise, who have been spending the remainder of the winter in Lynn, have returned to their home on Winnegance avenue.

Little June and Frederick Jellison of Maple street underwent an operation Wednesday morning at the Salem hospital for adenoids and tonsils. Dr. George E. Tucker of Salem performed the operations.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Curtis of Danvers are spending two weeks at the home of his brother, Carl Curtis, on Winnegance avenue.

The Wapomio Camp Fire Girls met Monday evening at the home of their guardian, Mrs. Russell Walker of Brown street. The girls looked over a drama to be presented by them in May. A number of the Camp Fire Girls attended the Universalist church on Nahant street, Lynn, Wednesday evening, where Miss Kemphorne, a national field worker, spoke.

Wednesday evening at the Second Congregational church, a supper was given to the Captains, who have been chosen to start a drive for the Community House fund. The committee in charge are Dr. J. F. Jordan, chairman; Russell Walker, Rev. Robert A. Bakeman, Edward Spence, Winn Broughton and Fred A. Wiggins.

A young men's congress has been organized at the Second Congregational church by the young men of the community, which will be very interesting and helpful. Any one wishing to join will please communicate with Eugene Jordan of Lynn street, who is speaker.

The Ladies' Aid of the Lake Shore Park church met Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Jennie Gould of Bay State road.

The Epworth League of the Lake Shore Park church held a business meeting last Friday evening at the home of John Muse of Morey avenue.

Mrs. Charlie Newhall of County street is ill with the grippe.

The South Peabody Dramatic Club will present a comedy sketch, "Moses Margin's Arrival," at the Second church next Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, the proceeds to go for work by the Ladies' Aid Association. Mrs. E. H. Fogg is chairman of the general committee in charge. A pleasing show is anticipated.

Peabody, Lynn and Salem Rotarians are shown in the accompanying illustration, the picture being taken in front of City Hall on March 16, when the three cities merged for the Rotarian dinner here. The Peabody Rotary Club was host for the visiting members. Willard Lansing, lumber dealer of Providence, and a former vice president of the International organization of Rotary Clubs, was the principal speaker. He is shown in the center of the group in the first row. His speech was inspiring and a fine tribute to Rotary.

DERE MABLE IS HIT AT TREMONT

Next week will be the last of the engagement of "Dere Mable" at the Tremont Theatre, Boston. This big Marc Klaw musical production has been one of the season's most emphatic hits, mainly because of the delightful admixture of high-class comedy and a charming music score that elevates it to the high standard of entertainment which has made the Tremont Theatre one of Boston's most popular houses. There is a distinct and well defined plot to "Dere Mable," and while the hero is that same humorous Bill who was made popular in the Edward Streeter letters which give title to the piece, he is seen in new surroundings as the returned hero.

Comedy is ever flowing swiftly and unceasingly throughout the show while the music by Rosamond Hodges possesses a delightful lilt and tunefulness that pleasantly greets the popular ear. There are a number of song hits that will surely be whistled and sung long after "Dere Mable" leaves these parts. Mr. Streeter collaborated with John Hodges in writing the book and lyrics.

In its big cast of funmakers, singers and dancers "Dere Mable" has that rare quality of having as near a perfect company as could be assembled. Louis Bennison plays Bill in masterly manner, and his Scot chum, Angus, is cleverly played by Robert Woolsey. Fern Rogers is charming as Mable, and others in the cast include Elizabeth Hines, Janet Horton, Sidney Reynolds, Frank Waizman and Edwin Forsberg.

On Monday evening, April 5, there will come to the Tremont Theatre the most distinctive offering presented in Boston for many seasons, when the Gilbert Miller great London production, "Monsieur Beaucaire," will begin a limited engagement. This production has been the outstanding sensation of the New York season, and Boston is the only other city in which this notable attraction will be presented this year.

West Peabody Grange will meet Thursday, April 1st, instead of the regular date of April 2, the change being made to avoid conflict with a Good Friday service, which is to be held in the West church. Harry H. White will give a postponed talk on agriculture in China.

William Berry of Lowell street has been confined to his home this week with the grippe.

Edward E. White returned Tuesday after a month's visit with R. B. Munro in Bermuda.

Structural steel, to be used for steel towers where the new high tension line crosses the highways, was unloaded this week at the West Peabody station.

Charles Ferris of Salem, a flagman at the southern Turnpike crossing, has been ill with bronchitis.

Edward L. Pease has returned from Philadelphia.

Mrs. Florence Young is at home on a week's vacation from her school work at Taunton.

Fourth and fifth grade pupils at the West school are now commencing, for the first time, the study of a "community" map. Given a map of Peabody which contains a few of the principal streets as guides, it is their work to finish the map and label it. A second map teaches the position of the community in the country and the labeling of the county's cities and towns, while other maps give the idea of the position of the community in state, nation, and even on the world map.

The house at present occupied by Irving Hatch was sold last week to a party from Lynn.

Mrs. Albert Gifford is visiting her mother, Mrs. M. J. Broderick, of Lowell street.

The millinery class, held under the auspices of the Extension Service of the Agricultural School, held its first meeting in Schoolhouse hall on Tuesday afternoon with 12 members present. The work of the afternoon was preceded by an instructive talk by the teacher, Miss Mildred Annan, on general topics to do with hat making. Following this, the class covered frames with straw or moine. One lady expressed her satisfaction with the class in saying that she had not thought it possible for the teacher to give so much worthwhile information on millinery in one afternoon. Visitors are welcome at the sessions, the next one to be from 2 to 5.30 P. M. on the 30th.

UNUSUAL BILL AT STRAND NEW WALTHALL PICTURE

Laborers worked for weeks recently on the big Thomas H. Ince motion picture lot, constructing a three-story brick building. On the very evening that the task was completed, the structure was deliberately bombed and in a few minutes was a smoldering ruin. A few days later work was started on a block of frame buildings. Lightning effort resulted in the completion of this task in a week's time. Then the torch was applied and in less than an hour very little trace of them were left.

These are two of the most spectacular scenes in the new Ince special production, "Dangerous Hours," which will be the main attraction at the Strand today and Saturday. An unusually dramatic story is shown in this picture, with the current labor unrest and the menace of Bolshevism as a background. Though the action is developed through a series of thrilling incidents employing hundreds of people, a tender love story runs through the plot, involving a young misguided visionary and his more discerning New England sweetheart. An all star supporting cast are to be seen in the picture. Patrons of the Strand will recall that it was Mr. Ince who produced "Behind the Door," the picture that made such a hit when shown during anniversary week. Another attraction worthy of special mention is Harold Lloyd's first million dollar comedy "Bumping Into Broadway." This is Mr. Lloyd's first appearance here in Peabody. In New York, Chicago and other big cities he is considered to be the cleverest funny man in films. Ruth Roland in "The Adventures of Ruth" will also be shown today.

Viola Dana in her comedy-dramatic success "The Microbe" will be the feature attraction Sunday evening. Miss Dana has an excellent story to work on in this picture, and she puts it over in fine style. Arthur Ashley and Doris Green in "The American" will be the second feature for Sunday evening.

May Allison in the Metro special de luxe "The Walk-Offs" and Marguerite Clark in "A Girl Named

Mary" will be presented on Monday and Tuesday. "The Walk-Offs" is another play by Frederick and Fannie Hatton, who wrote "Lombardi, Ltd.," which played at the Strand some time ago. The action of the play takes place in and about the homes of wealthy society leaders in New York City and settings are beautiful to look upon. The gowns worn by the women in the cast constitute a veritable fashion show of the most advanced styles.

"The Confession," starring Henry Walthall, will be shown next Wednesday and Thursday. In many ways this is the biggest production the Strand has offered in months. Being religious in theme it makes an ideal offering for Holy Week.

ATTORNEY OGAN ADMITTED TO BAR

Among the more recent Essex county men to be admitted to the bar is Jacob Ogan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ogan of 4 Buxton street, this city. Born in Russia, he arrived in the United States with his parents back in 1905, and received his early education in the Ingalls grammar school, Lynn, in which city he also graduated from the Classical High school. He continued his higher education in preparation for taking up the practice of law by attending the Northeastern College Preparatory school, and he will graduate from the Northeastern College in Boston next June.

He was admitted to the bar last week Friday. For two years Attorney Ogan was connected with the Home of Jewish children in Dorchester, serving part of the time as governor. He was called into the army in the fall of 1918, and went to Camp Devens, where he was trained in the 73d infantry, preparatory to going overseas into action.

FRANKLIN K. LANE.

FRANKLIN K. LANE TO "FOLLOW ON"

Accepts Invitation to Become National Chairman of Salvation Army's Annual Appeal for Funds.

WASHINGTON'S BEST BELOVED RESTARTING LIFE AT 55.

Former Cabinet Officer Before Entering the Oil Business as an Executive for the Doherty Interests Will Lend His Great Abilities to the Church Militant Organization.

Franklin K. Lane, referred to far and wide as "Washington's best loved man," is undertaking two notable innovations at an age when most men think mainly of retiring to the quiet of private life. One is to "earn enough money to support my family and keep my bills paid," and the other is "to step down from a high place to resume my place among the shirt-sleeve boys and give them a hand if I can!"

Two history making statements from a man of Mr. Lane's attainments and station in life! And the remarkable part of it all is that he puts the shirt-sleeve matter—the thing about helping his neighbors—ahead of that other thing—making more money in order the better to underwrite the Autumn of his life!

Few men reach a higher niche in the affections and confidence of the public mind than has this remarkable man from the West, who was once an editor, then a lawyer and finally a member of the President's cabinet and who withdraws from public life to "earn a better living" after rendering a service to the government the extent and value of which would be impossible to estimate. Still fewer men are called to such responsible places as Franklin K. Lane will now occupy. He will enter the oil business as an executive for the Doherty interests and will be established in New York city for that purpose by April 1. But the rosy prospect of making "a living wage" after several years spent in struggling along on the salary of a cabinet officer has not blinded Mr. Lane to another opportunity—that for striking a few powerful blows on behalf of the "man who is down, but never out!"

Franklin K. Lane has accepted an invitation from Commander Evangeline Booth to become the national chairman for the Salvation Army's annual appeal for funds in 1920. He is already on this job, although Wall Street does not greet him as an oil well executive for another month.

"It is a genuine privilege to find opportunity for encouraging a work so direct and practical and so valuable to the masses of the people as the work of the Salvation Army," said Mr. Lane at his office in Washington the other day. "When Commander Miss Booth asked me to take the responsibilities of national chairman for the 1920 appeal of that organization," continued the secretary, "the first thought that flashed across my mind was, How can I spare time for such work when I am entering upon a commercial task of great responsibility?"

"And then there flashed across my mind a vision of the things the Salvation Army does—the help it gives to men and women and little children just when and where they need it most—and I thought to myself that after all there could be no more important thing than this. So I accepted—along with the other job—and I am trusting to the generosity of my new employers to endorse my action in the matter."

"I believe every right thinking man and woman in America owes the Salvation Army some of his or her time every year. And I am going to pay my share. I am going to get my shoulder squarely behind the movement for men that can win the hearts and the confidence of the common people like this Salvation Army has won them in recent years. I am going to pull off my coat and do some real work that will show where I stand when it comes to weighing the homely, unostentatious and highly practical relief methods of this amazing band of workers. I heard the call. The problems of the poor are there to be solved, and they can use my poor efforts perhaps, so I have answered the call.

"I won't do much talking in the coming drive. I will do real work, and when I do talk I don't want to talk to anyone but actual workers. There will be no speech making by me to those who might be curious to hear a former cabinet officer in action, but who are not interested in the work of the Salvation Army. I shall talk to workers and only to workers. The day for oratory in such matters has gone. We are down to brass tacks.

"I think I owe it as a citizen of America to show my understanding and appreciation of the helpful work the Salvation Army is doing in its rescue homes, maternity hospitals, free clinics, industrial homes, fresh air farms and tenement house relief work.

"My testimony is not needed, however, in this matter. There are 2,000,000 or 3,000,000 of young Americans who went into the recent war either unaware that the Salvation Army existed or having no use for its methods if they did know of it. So far as I can learn these men came out of that war unanimous on one subject—and that was that the Salvation Army understood the average man, knew how to deal with him and simply 'delivered the goods' on the 100 per cent basis.

"There is no division of opinion on that one subject. There could have been no greater test for the Salvation Army than the test it received in the war. So after all I am merely adding my voice to the mighty chorus I have referred to when I say that the Salvation Army has long since won the right to make an appeal to the rest of us for its maintenance, and I am sure it will not make that appeal in vain.

"The Salvation Army one year ago abandoned its old custom of begging in the streets the year around so that its workers could devote all of their time and attention to the poor. It makes an annual appeal each May. Personally I know of no greater bulwark that could be raised against the rising tide of human unrest than to strengthen the hands of this band of self sacrificing Christian toilers who have the confidence of all men and women, regardless of race, creed, color or position in life. I think it is important for the interests of our advancing civilization that such a practical and wholesome work be stimulated and maintained to the utmost.

"They say there are no 'down and outers' any more. Personally I do not believe it, or if I did believe it I would know that the abnormal times have swung the pendulum back too far on one side—and that it will swing far to the other side directly. There will always be a bottom to society. The poor will always be with us. We owe it to our fellow men to know our neighbor and share his troubles and problems, and only by that method can we, in all fairness and righteousness, keep the scales even in this life.

"I am proud to face the problems of the poor with the Salvation Army in such a trying hour, and I hope that American men and women will stand with me in the work ahead of us. But they must be workers. I shall have no time to entertain mere observers."

Both for the organization that gives aid and relief to the poor and for the poor themselves, the high cost of living has been a troublesome factor in recent months. Money does not go far these days, but there's no one in the world who can get more worth-while work out of a dollar than can the Salvationists. In this country they gave away 3,609,767 meals in the twelve-month ending last September 30, and provided 371,334 meals besides at approximate cost. They supplied free beds for 1,181,547 night lodgings and 1,498,887 at a merely nominal charge. And in addition to all this and to all that was done for thousands in the Army institutions they gave temporary relief to 709,351 persons.

FUR PIECES FOR THE MILD DAYS

Manufacturers Are Endeavoring to Keep Peltry on Market
This Spring.

WRAPS OF VARIED DESIGNS

Object is to Retain Interest of Women and to Provide Accessory That Guarantees New Appearance to Old Gown.

The furriers are having a mad, gay time of it. They have been so rushed with orders since the first of autumn that they claim inability to turn on the last of the winter coats until all most spring, writes a New York fashion correspondent. All that was kept over from last year was sold before Thanksgiving, they say.

New York has been the storm center of this peltry buying. The wealth of the country is usually expended in luxuries in its huge centers, as France found out during the war, and America found out the day after the armistice. The fact that a state of peace did not really exist between the belligerents had no effect on the lavish manner in which money was poured out by those who had it.

Peltry is a pearl of price these days; no matter how it is handled or where it is bought, and by this token one realizes that there is vast wealth in the country, despite the taxes and the M. C. of L. Not all of the splendid peltry coats are old possessions. Many of them bear the mark of 1920 and the label of a new furrier, so their cost is self-evident, and cost is the dominating topic of conversation on the American continent. This would shock grandmother, for to tell what things cost was once considered a sign of ill breeding; to talk of one's expenses or the inflation or reduction of one's income was looked at as the kind of bad taste not permitted by those who were selective in their choice of social companions; but all these distinctions have been swept aside with other notions.

To Get Fashion Ideas.

The way to get an idea of what is fashionable and what is not is to observe the crowds, especially during winter and summer months. During that time hordes of Americans pass through New York without ceasing. Therefore when during the shopping month of September one saw masses of chinchilla wraps, of ermine without stint, there was actual evidence of the way in which the American women had spent money on peltry.

As further evidence here are statistics which are given by Women's Wear, the trade paper:

It speaks of a sable wrap that has just been sold for $90,000 and of many that have been sold to women this winter for $50,000. That's a neat little total just there.

It quotes one Fifth avenue house as saying that in one day seven mink

Special music will be provided for the occasion. 12 M., Sunday School session; 6.30 P. M., Young People's service; 7.30 P. M., the pastor will preach on "The Faith for the Times."

Musical Instruments of Insects.

Buzzing or humming is mainly due to rapid vibrations of the wings, which often strike the air more than a hundred times in a second, but there is sometimes a special quivering instrument near the base of the wings. Chirping or trilling is due to some sort of "stridulating" organ, one hard part being scraped against another, as the bow on the fiddle—it may be leg against wing.

USE OF MOLASSES OR COMMERCIAL SIRUP RECOMMENDED IN PORK-CURING FORMULAS

Cutting Up Meat Preparatory to Pickling.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

In the present sugar shortage it is advisable, even if sugar can be procured to use molasses or some kind of sirup in place of it in the formulas used for curing pork, according to specialists.

If sugar is used for dry curing, it is better, anyway, to make it into a sirup before using, for salt mixed with sugar will not stick on meat as well as salt mixed with sirup. The use of molasses or commercial sirup does away with this extra work.

The following formulas have been found to give good results:

Sweet Pickle or Brine Cure.

Select pieces, 12 pounds or less. Make a pickle consisting of:
3½ pounds salt.
1½ pounds sirup or molasses, or if preferred, 1½ pounds sugar, preferably brown.
1 ounce saltpeter.
2½ gallons water.

(These amounts are based on 50 pounds of meat. If more or less meat is used, the amounts of the ingredients should be correspondingly increased or decreased, as the case may be. Under no circumstances should the individual piece of meat weigh over 12 pounds.)

Place the meat in a stone jar or hardwood barrel, and weight it down with a board and stone. Do not use iron, for it will rust.

Then pour in just pickle enough to cover the meat.

Leave the meat in the pickle three days to the pound of meat, so that a 10-pound ham would be left in the pickle for 30 days, and a 6-pound bacon, 18 days.

After the meat has been in cure a week, take it all out of the jar or barrel, remove the pickle, replace the meat, weight it down, and again pour the same pickle over the meat. Repeat every week.

Dry Cure.

(Applicable to either light or heavy meat.) Mix thoroughly—

¾ pounds salt.
1 ounce saltpeter.
1 ounce red pepper.
1 ounce black pepper.

Then add 1½ pounds warm sirup or molasses, and mix with the above until it assumes the appearance of sawdust. Apply a liberal coating of the above mixture to all surfaces of the meat, excepting the skin.

The meat should then be placed on a table, clean floor, or in a hardwood barrel, after first sprinkling the surface of the table, floor, or bottom of the barrel with salt.

Leave all the meat in cure undisturbed until the heaviest piece has been in for a period of 1½ days to the pound. Thus if the heaviest ham weighs 20 pounds, leave all the meat in cure 30 days.

Meats cured in sweet pickle or brine should be consumed within 90 days from date of cure. Meats cured with dry cure may be consumed immediately upon removal from cure, but the flavor improves with age, and the meat is better 60 days after curing. Dry-cured hams have been known to keep three or four years.

Lowell Street

Miss Eleanor M. French is confined to her home on King street with an attack of the measles.

Miss Emilie Osborn starts today for a week's vacation. She intends to spend several days each in Millville, N. J., and New York City.

The Friday Evening Sewing Club will meet with Mrs. E. R. Watts of Andover street, this evening.

Mrs. Frederick MacAllister and daughter Patricia, of Medford, are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Barnes of King street.

Mrs. W. F. Munroe of Orchard street spent several days with her brother, Mr. H. B. Mansfield of Wakefield.

Mrs. C. H. Wentworth and daughter, Clara, spent Thursday in Salem, as the guest of her cousin, Mrs. F. E. Johnson of Federal street.

Miss Louise King started last evening on a two months' trip spent in the West. She will visit the following places: Portland, Oregon; San Francisco and Los Angeles, Cal., and Kirkland, Arizona.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren King accompanied their daughter, Louise, to New York, and will return Sunday.

Ebenezer King returns home from

Rufus King is enjoying his Easter vacation from his studies at the Maine University.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy MacMillan of Perkins Park was taken ill Sunday with congestion of the lungs, but is now getting along as well as can be expected.

H. M. Blair and son, Ralph, of Endicott street, formerly employed by the American Degreasing Co., are now associated in the automobile business.

The garage in the rear of Charles Poor's home is fast nearing completion.

Among the Lowell street students that are home for vacations are: Miss Doris Tucker of Smith College, Donald Whidden or Mitchell Military School, Evelyn Van Dyke of Wheaton, Harold Fellows and Nathaniel Ames of Massachusetts Aggie.

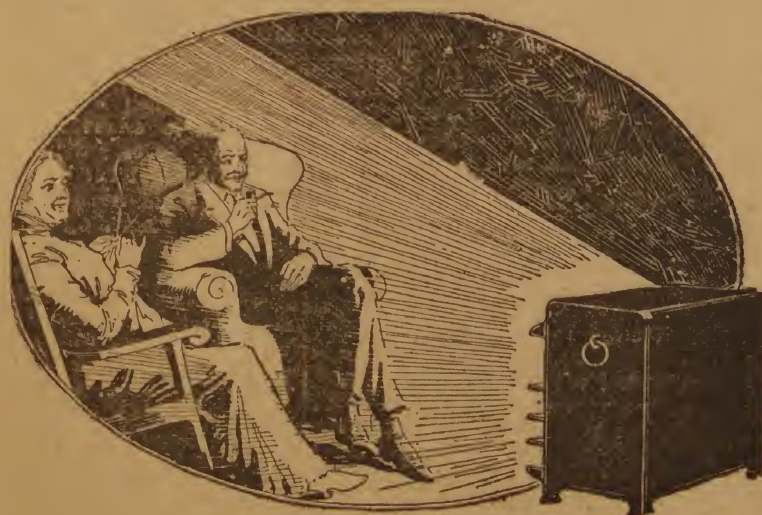

Deer were seen in the vicinity of Ellsworth road early Tuesday morning.

Bertram Young of Kosciusko street is now able to be out after being confined to his home with a grip cold.

Mrs. George Morgan of School street suffered a shock Tuesday, and is under the care of a nurse.

Mrs. John Young of Kosciusko street is entertaining Mrs. Roy MacRae of Haverhill this week.

CITY HALL GOSSIP

How a well known fight fan worked on the sympathies of one of the Councilors last Monday night has come out as one of the echoes of the gallery. It appears the aforesaid fight fan wanted to get a better seat, so he approached Mr. H., and introducing himself as the Boston (news-paper) reporter, put it up to the doughty Councilor. Of course, Dennis did the only fair thing and got the phoney reporter right up on the stage, where he could see the boxers perspire. The fight fan was recognized and allowed to have a pull.

West Peabody residents will be glad to see the State take over the care of the turnpike this year, and dame rumor has it that a concrete highway may be built through most of the Peabody section. Some of these rumors produce, some don't.

There is a well defined report about City Hall that more than one June bride will be missing from the government seat when the roses bloom.

Janitor Russell and his assistant got hold of the northpole iceberg which clung to the sidewalk in front of City Hall, yesterday, and by easy persuasion routed the four-inch cakes into the street with best wishes for Supt. Wyman and his merry fellows. It was a fine thing for the traveling public. Besides it improved the surroundings of Peabody's seat of government.

The City Engineer gets blamed for some things, but here's one for the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, which corporation refuses to let iron pipe manufacturers ship to the home of sheepskins a large cargo of supply for Peabody. A letter from the traffic manager received this week says in effect that foodstuffs have the right of way until the blockade, due to the snow and ice, are sent on their way. It sounds reasonable, but Peabody is anxious to get its supply of iron pipe, so it can keep faith with the fire underwriters and increase the water service.

Introducing Harold Powell, the Mayor's secretary. He is the new spokesman for the Mayor, and callers at the Chief Executive's office are made to feel right at home once they cross over the threshold. If Mayor Donnell is not present he is always accounted for by Mr. Secretary, and where it is possible to give desired information, Powell rises to the occasion with a smile that makes the caller feel he is glad he came. There's no denying the statement that Powell makes an ideal secretary, and the best thing about it is, that he has acquired the habit of personal training, and not learned it in some private school.

Chairman Angus J. MacDonald of the Playground Commission will probably call a meeting of a commission in the near future to take action looking to improving the playground this year. It is expected that the East-end playground will be put into first class condition. This playground can be made the best in the city with the least expense, and what available funds can be used will probably go to Councilor Hogan's bailiwick.

Assistant City Engineer Roger MacDonald is making the acquaintances of West Peabody citizens this week, with a view to procuring their agreement to sign off claims of damages, if the State takes over the turnpike and widens it. He agrees West Peabody covers a wide area. Of course, Bill Sheen has known it these many years.

Councilor Dennis P. Hogan observed his 49th birthday anniversary yesterday, receiving numerous felicitations from his friends. He was born March 25, 1871. He has represented Ward 4 in the City Council since Peabody became a city, and the fact that he rounded out another milestone in his age yesterday, didn't prevent him from much lively action in the Council last night.

Charles H. Cotton will be the new member of the Playground Commission to succeed Lloyd Davies, resigned. His appointment came before the Council last night, and his confirmation will take place at the next meeting of the City Council.

FREE LYCEUM COURSE DATES

The Spring term of the Peabody Lyceum free course will open in Peabody Institute hall on Tuesday evening, April 6, when Prof. Morse, a recognized authority on the planet Mars, will give his lecture on the history of the planet Mars, now receiving so much attention from scientists. This should be an instructive, as well as an entertaining lecture, by one who is thoroughly qualified to speak on anything pertaining to the planet.

April 14, the king of humorists, S. Platt Jones, whose previous appearance here was so well received, will again delight a Peabody audience in a new program.

Thursday, April 29, the always popular Pierces (Mr. and Mrs. Pierce) will entertain.

Wednesday, May 5, Miss Margaret Penick, dramatic reader, assisted by Miss Marie Kelliher, the brilliant soprano soloist, will be heard.

The Lyceum committee feel that this course will bring full houses at every performance, as it is one that is hard to improve upon.

James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany, will appear here in October, having been secured by Chairman George A. Clifford of the Lyceum committee.

THE H. H. CLUB

The H. H. Club of the South church met with Miss Beatrice Hibbard of Holden street, last Monday evening. A very enjoyable evening was spent. The meeting previous to this was held at the home of Miss Helen MacKinnon, at which she announced her engagement to Mr. Clarence Wheeler of Newburyport.

REMODELING HOUSE.

Harry Marron is changing over the old Jacobs house at 82 Main street, from a one family dwelling into a two tenement house. The building will be raised, and stores will be placed on the ground floor. Three good size stores will be added to Main street, and come out to the street line. The front finish will be brick. The stores will have a depth of about 52 feet.

DEATHS.

MAURICE DULLEA.

Maurice B. Dullea, brother of Postmaster Dullea, died early today at the Thomas Hospital following an operation. He made his home with his brother on Washington street and was a member of Hose 5 fire company.

HANNAH J. MURPHY.

Mrs. Hannah J. Murphy, mother of Reserve Officer James Murphy, passed away at her home on Holly street last night after a long illness.

Notice is hereby given that Book No. 36574, Warren Five Cents Savings Bank, Peabody, is lost and application for payment made. Chap. 171, Acts 1912. (M19-26-A2) that Lynn and Beverly, as well as other cities and towns, charge the $5. The vote resulted in a deadlock, owing to the absence of Councilor Jones of Ward 2, who is still confined to his home on Winter street.

CITY COUNCIL

Councilor Ryan offered an amendment that the present ordinance stand and Councilor Duggan had previously moved the change. Both motions were lost by a 5 to 5 vote. The Councilors voting to reduce the fee were Hogan, Eagan, Sullivan, Duggan and President Horrigan, who is recorded on every measure.

HOGAN CALLS GRADY.

During the discussion in which Councilor Hogan took Chief Grady to task, Mayor Donnell made the announcement that activity by the police might stop in all liquor raids, following the ruling of a Superior court judge, that the federal government agents alone had the right to prosecute liquor cases under the Volstead act. If this contention is held by the police of cities and towns, liquor raids will become much less, it is believed.

Councilor Duggan criticized the Council last night, declaring they wasted time in quibbling over small items of business and declared "We ought to get onto ourselves." It did seem as if too much time was taken on licenses and other small fry before the august body but there were no spectators, smoking was in order and it was a dark gloomy night on the outside and besides wasn't it Denny Hogan's birthday?

Chairman Sullivan of the finance committee paid a high compliment to the city engineer's department for the manner in which its desired appropriations were set forth for consideration by his committee. He also paid a similar compliment to the electric light and school departments and announced that at the next meeting the committee would probably make its final report on the 1920 budget.

The Council confirmed Charles Holden and Dr. John Seale as animal inspectors.

On motion of Councilor Hogan the Greek society was voted use of the hall at cost on April 18, Greece Independence Day.

A request from the Board for an appropriation of $200 with which to pay expenses for acquiring data on a proposed dental clinic for Peabody schools was referred to the finance committee. The health officials want to investigate the working of the clinic in other cities and towns before making their recommendation for its adoption in this city.

Mayor Donnell sent in a supplementary budget to the City Council last night with a single appropriation of $350 to be used by the Peabody Post Legion Veterans on Memorial Day. The Council quickly approved and the money will be used to procure bands and defray other expenses by the Legion in assisting in the decorations of graves of war veterans.

ST. JOHNS LEAD

A grammar school basketball league has been formed in Peabody, which consists of six teams as follows: Carroll, Bowditch, Wallis, St. John's, South and Center.

The use of the gymnasium at the Community House has been given to the league every Thursday, and as there is a lot of interest in this league some fast games are expected. The remaining games are as follows: April 1, Carroll vs. Center; Wallis vs. Bowditch; South vs. St. John. April 8—Wallis vs. Carroll; Centre vs. St. John; South vs. Bowditch. April 15—Center vs. Bowditch; Carroll vs. St. John; Wallis vs. South.

Result of games yesterday: Carroll 13, Bowditch 8; St. John 10, Wallis 8; Center 23, South 8.

Fashions For SPRING and EASTER At the Prices You Have Been Seeking

Several of our Buyers went to New York Monday and for two days scoured the markets buying the newest suits, coats, dresses and hats at prices far less than they could buy them when they were in New York two weeks ago. The reason is that the manufacturers are anxious to get rid of all spring goods which they have in stock, therefore the low prices.

We now have a wonderful selection of high grade garments in a complete variety of styles and sizes, and a wide choice of colors priced for less than we had dared hope possible. We are especially well pleased because we believe that our customers will appreciate the economy afforded them.

Navy Serge Suits at $35.00

It is only possible to get a good suit at this price on an occasion such as we have explained—when a particularly advantageous purchase has been made with a manufacturer. These suits we are showing are in attractive modes, well tailored, with fancy linings and button and braid trimmed.

Navy Serge Suits at $45.00

Our Suits at this price afford you a saving which you will be quick to recognize when you have seen the handsome models, and the carefully made garments. Excellent shades of navy, fine quality of materials, snug fitting shoulders, smart sleeves, and the distinctive details of cording, arrow head embroidery, and slashed pockets.

Navy Tricotine Suits at $55.00

High grade linings and high grade fabrics denote the splendid quality of these suits. The distinctive touches of the smart tailor are evident in every seam, the set of the lapels and collar, and the trimness of the sleeves. You will be impressed by the rich shade of navy, and the fine silk braiding which ornaments some of the models.

Homespun Suits at $45.00

A most remarkable value. This is by far the best value we have ever seen in a smart business suit, which is of such splendid coloring and excellent design that it is suitable for nearly all occasions. In mixtures of gray, tan, and olive, with inverted plait back, and narrow leather belt around the coat. Coats lined with fine peau de cygne. A swagger suit absolutely without a superior.

Jersey Suits at $29.75

The exceptional success we have made with our Jersey Suits has made it impossible to satisfy the demands of our customers. We now have more than a hundred new Jersey Suits in splendid styles for practical wear. A complete selection of sizes in plain colors and heather mixtures, including purple, green, robin's egg, tan, golden, tobacco, oxford and navy. Good heavy quality, does not wrinkle, will not shrink, and sheds the dust.

day morning by heart failure, has caused a profound shock among his hundreds of friends, who are plunged into mourning with the family. He had retired in excellent health, and had left orders to be called in order to reach his office at 8.30. When his valet, John McCloskey, tried to awaken him, it was found that Mr. O'Shea had gone beyond. There was no sign of suffering and first examination seemed to indicate that this foremost citizen was resting peacefully in sleep. He had passed on, however, about 5 o'clock, according to Medical Examiner Foster and Dr. L. K. Kelley, who was first called to the home on Washington street.

Had he lived until April 8, Mr. O'Shea would have reached his 53rd birthday. He was born in Salem in 1867, but at an early age entered the leather trade in Peabody under the late James F. Ingraham, father of the late James F. Ingraham of the Governor's Council. Mr. O'Shea became an expert workman, and as a tanner of India goat and sheep, he quickly jumped into prominence in the trade, while still a young man. His self-confidence aided by his determination to forge ahead in the business world, prompted him to soon engage in the business as an employer, and with rapid strides he advanced in his life's work, until early in his 30's he had amassed a considerable fortune. His reputation as a tanner of sheep and Indias was wide spread, and his product was always sought after by the select trade. The O'Shea leather product was far famed for its finish. Not unkindly of his humble start in life and with a warm regard for the welfare of Peabody, where he had made his beginning in life, Mr. O'Shea opened the way of improving Peabody's business section by purchasing real estate on Main street, on which he erected the two handsome blocks which bear his name. He acquired other property until he was the largest individual taxpayer in Peabody, a distinction he had always maintained among the strictly local citizenship. In recent years he added to his list of valuable realty holdings, several brick apartment blocks in Lynn and therefore became one of the largest taxpayers in the neighboring city. When fire destroyed his factory at 9 Grove street in January, 1916, Mr. O'Shea rendered the city another service in purchasing the old Jacobs factory, which was a blot on Main street, and practically built a new structure, which, when completed, was held the best individual leather plant in this vicinity. This property he sold last year to the Snyder Bros. of Boston and later acquired the title to his old factory site on Grove street, where today his new factory is nearing completion.

He was looking forward to resuming his leather business, and followed the progress of the new factory with much zeal.

Mr. O'Shea was elected a director in the Warren National Bank in 1906, and became Vice President in 1911. He was elected a Trustee of the J. B. Thomas hospital in 1908, and only recently had recalled his resignation as a member of that board. He was one of the best known Elks in the State, being a member of Leo Council, K. He was a member of Salem lodge, of C. of this city, belonged to the Irish Charitable Society, Salem Club and various other fraternal and social orders. In his younger years he was a fine athlete.

His name will always be linked with the progress of Peabody, and a legion of friends, many of whom he had assisted on life's way, will forever mourn his passing. His benefactions were many. He was the "big brother" personified.

Mr. O'Shea is survived by a widow, a son, Thomas J. O'Shea, and a daughter, Katherine. He leaves a sister, Mrs. John Bellew and three brothers, John, William H. and James. William is in Los Angeles, Cal.

SWIFT BUYS

lots will call for the highest class homes.

Mr. Swift, the purchaser, will occupy the Symonds estate with his wife and two children. He came to Peabody several years ago and engaged in the heating business. Later he moved his plant to Salem, where he has built up a large business, being well known in many of the towns and cities of Essex county. He is an expert in his line. He has made many friends in both Peabody and Salem, and will make a valuable addition to the citizenship of Peabody.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Symonds have occupied the estate for the past 22 years. Mr. Symonds is treasurer of the Second National Bank of Boston, and has been making his home in Boston this winter. Mrs. Symonds is on her way home from California, where she has spent the winter.

RUTH TOYE IS MUCH IMPROVED

Miss Ruth Toye, clerk in the office of A. H. Whidden & Son, is recuperating, following an operation performed at her home some days ago. She has been a sufferer from some time from severe headaches, and no remedy applied seemed to avail. Recently her physician suggested she have X-ray pictures taken to mark the location of her wisdom teeth and the plates clearly showed that the teeth prongs were forcing their way into her brain.

This was what had caused her headaches. Dr. B. J. Manogian was the physician and the teeth were extracted by Dr. Andrew P. Bugler. The operation was probably the first of its kind ever performed in this city, and one of the few of its kind in the history of surgery dentistry. Miss Toye is held in popular esteem, and the happy outcome of the unique operation is a matter of much satisfaction to her many friends.

ROTARY CLUB

other parts of the nation and the world even.

"When men band together in Rotary and emulate its cardinal principles they are working for the good of the community, and by so doing they are better men, and they are happier citizens. I appeal to you younger members to get the spirit of Rotary. You have been chosen as members of this organization which puts service above self, because you represent in your community the successful type of business man. You must learn that to be of best service to the community you must work together, and be ready always to take up any worthy project which means the success of the city or town, state or nation."

His address was a stirring appeal to wholeheartedness in any worthy undertaking, and when he had finished there wasn't a man in the hall who hadn't heard a sermon from the heart and felt the better for having heard it. Lansing may be an old-fashioned lumber dealer, but he sure can make some preachers blush, when it comes to giving a heart to heart talk on the brotherhood of man.

Another guest of the dinner was Forest Perkins, also of Providence, who will probably be elected the District Governor of New England Rotary Clubs at the Atlantic City convention. "The big thing in Rotary as he expressed it was the making of friends." Rotary, he said, wants the best in your city. There is no place in Rotary for any man who has a grouse or a chip on his shoulder.

Attorney "Bob" Hill of Salem was introduced as toastmaster by President Edward H. Merrill of the Peabody Rotary Club, and he was quite at home, despite the jabs and thrusts, all in good fun, which were directed to his remarks by his Salem and Lynn brothers.

"Bob" declared that as he had never yet been with a winner on election day he did not want to become campaign manager for Forest Perkins, the sure to be elected District Governor, and facetiously ended his swan song by announcing himself in favor of Hoover for President.

Frank Van Blarcom of Lynn, one of the best known automobile men in Salem and Lynn, directed the singing with Harrie Dadmun at the piano. There was plenty of good singing. Following the adjournment from dinner the members went to City Hall, where they were grouped for a picture by Photographer Tilford of Salem.

BASKETBALL

LEGION TEAM

Manager Jack Quinlan of the American Legion team will line up his players tonight against the Amesbury Legion five in that town. A crowd of the local Post will accompany the Tanners to the fray.

The fast Athletic Club defeated the Peabody Mats in the first game of their series, 33 to 14. Joyce and Dunn, the two Athletic forwards, were in rare form, and it was the brilliant playing of these men that kept the fans in uproar all the evening. The brilliant team play of Capt. Joyce had the Matthews five bewildered. The management of both teams are now considering the playing of the second game of the series, which, in all probability, will be staged at City Hall next Tuesday evening.

It is said Manager Devaney of the Mats has a surprise in store for the fans next Tuesday. Farmer and Bernstein, two locals on the Athletics, played a great game.

With the Employees of A. C. LAWRENCE LEATHER COMPANY

Several young people from the A. C. L. office enjoyed a pleasant evening at the home of Miss Marjorie Tracey on Wednesday. Miss Tracey and Miss Mary Stokes both become of age within a few days of each other, and the party was held on St. Patrick's Day to lend "color" to the occasion. Miss Tracey, who left the office last Saturday, was presented with a handsome bar pin from her former associates upon leaving.

Richard Buxey, foreman of the hide buffing room, returned to work this week, after having been out for over a month on account of scarlet fever in his family.

Although the A. C. L. bowling league is completed a week ago, much interest is still being taken in the game. A party of mechanical department people held an enjoyable mixed bowling party on Wednesday evening, while the main office girls trimmed Team Two of the league on Thursday last. Charles Rayfield went down to defeat before M. Waisburg in a 10-string match on Wednesday by a margin of 45 pins. Both of these lads are glove leather employees, and matches out there are a common occurrence lately. Ed Paine of the sheepskin department trimmed up Carl Healy of the same crew in a championship match the other noon, being in great form. The bowling league banquet plans are shaping up, and a regular time is assured the "faithful."

William McGregor of the chrome tan glove department is receiving congratulations on the arrival of a fine baby girl at his home last Tuesday.

The sincere sympathies of the entire plant are extended to Miss Sally Teague of the main office, who suffered the double bereavement of her parents within the past few weeks.

A number of A. C. L. auto bugs took in the big Boston show this week.

Warren Blake appeared in his new Big Six Buick this week, and other auto owners are preparing their cars for the season's service.

A. L. Nickerson of the cashiers' department, main office, has been transferred to the Boston office.

Miss May Driscoll of the Japan

office is confined to her home with a bad cold.

Miss Fanny Conroy made a real hit in the play "Captain Jack" on Wednesday evening. Frank Sonigan was another A. C. L. participant, who scored heavily in the drama.

James O'Shea of the black seasons, has the sympathies of his many friends at the plant in the loss of his brother, Thomas H. O'Shea, who passed away yesterday.

William Paul of the color finish room is back again after a two weeks' illness.

Joseph Lendall, formerly of the Japan, is now in the tacking room at the National.

Miss Annabel Sinclair of the National office is out on account of sickness.

Fred Roberts, formerly of the National, is firing at the Main plant powerhouse.

The drive on the Employees' Benefit Association this week has resulted in several new members, new applications being received daily at the doctor's office.

Ed. Carbrey has been transferred from the finish assorting to the sheep crust assorting.

Frank McDonald is back at the National again in the same department.

Fred Roberts of Salem entered the employ of the company as a fireman this week.

One of the big A. C. L. auto trucks came from the paint shop this week and looks pretty nifty in its new coat of paint.

Eddie Murphy of the finish assorting room has been out this week on account of the illness of his wife, who has had pneumonia.

Friday evening, Neighborhood meeting; subject, "The Insatiability of Popularity."

"From East to West and North to South, all over our land, people are beginning to think more about their communities as the starting points from which the finer life and prosperity of the state and the nation and the world must come. So that the taking care of every boy and girl in the community gets to be an important matter." A sound mind in a sound body is a worth while community slogan. South Peabody is a distinct community. It is filled with boys and girls. Isn't it about time the community wave struck us, which would make us boost for a social center, with a playground for summer and a Community House for winter? All up for a sound mind in a sound body for the boys and girls of South Peabody.

Church of the Nazarene

Pierpont street, Rev. D. Rand Pierce, pastor. Is it true that in an age of far-sighted commercialism that men are losing the vision of life's highest and grandest ideals? Is humanity's vision of the supernatural going into eclipse?

At 10:30 A. M., the pastor will discuss this question from the text,
"Where there is no vision, the people perish." 12 M., Sunday School. 6:30

GOWN OF DIGNITY AND STYLE

Lady Duff Gordon furnished a symphony of richness, dignity and style in this smart frock of sand and brown hue for street or afternoon wear. The flashing and lacing furnish the color that relieves and sets off the frock and the same idea is carried out in the dainty belt.

GETTING READY FOR SUMMER

Heavy Linen, Gingham, Pongee and Taffeta Are Favorite Fabrics for Little Girls.

Among the warm weather fabrics that will be favored for the children's wardrobe may be mentioned heavy linen, gingham, especially striped and Scotch plaid weaves, natural colored pongee and taffeta. Taffeta, of course, is designed for frocks of the "dressy" type, but the other materials are all washable and, therefore, in the utility or service class. For very early spring serge will play its part. Some smart little models are shown equipped with detachable gumpes of white pique.

Colored organdie is a perfectly good selection for a party frock for a little girl, regardless of season. Hand embrodery is a dainty trimming touch.
Another smart touch applied to cotton fabric frocks for children is scalloped ruffles piped in self-fabric in contrasting color.

Sashes are approved by Dame Fashion for members of the younger set next season and this, of course, means that wide, gay ribbons will have a big sale.

Hair and sash ribbons to match make an ideal birthday gift.

KERCHIEF ADDS TO COSTUME

Accessory Formerly Kept in Hiding
Now Must Be in Evidence to Display Good Taste.

Once a pocket handkerchief was supposed to be an inconspicuous article.
Its very name implied that. When pockets disappeared it was hidden under the edge of the basque—that was in the eighties. When basques went out, handkerchiefs were tucked into sleeves. Later they hid themselves in handbags. Now, however, they are supposed to show and indeed no one can miss them, for their lively color makes a spot of brightness in the costume.
Four gay modern 'kerchiefs were noted recently. One has a jacquard pattern in blue and black on a gray-blue ground. One has a Persian design printed on a reddish tan background.
And two have conventional flower printings on a ground of pastel color.
These lively handkerchiefs are to be used with the tailored utility suit or the sport suit. When one is formally dressed for afternoon or evening, the correct mouchoir is spotlessly white, of exquisitely fine linen and may be embroidered delicately in one corner with very small initial.

KEEP SPAT BUTTONS TIGHT

Sagging or Loose Fasteners Spoil Smartness of Modish Boot With Top Matching Costume.

Is there anything more distressing than sagging spat buttons? Buttoned shoes and buttoned spats are the fashion this year and both make the ankle and instep look very trim and dainty when the buttons are sewed on firmly, as they should be. One loose, sagging button can completely spoil the smartness of a modish buttoned costume, or of a dainty cloth spat, and there seems no excuse for the mark of untidiness.
Do not wait until the button comes off, but tighten it up the moment it begins to sag loose. Not only does the modern buttoned boot or spat set off the street costume and complete its correctness, but it also gives the ankle a firm and graceful look that is very attractive.

New Wrap of Taffeta.

Among a collection of new wraps is an effective model in taffeta. The large collar is folded around the shoulders and the body of the wrap is trimmed with narrow ruffles of the silk.

ELECT. MRS. P. S. FENNESSEY
PRESIDENT OF LEO GUILD

The "Skalp Whist" for the benefit of the Diocesan Center for Catholic women held in K. of C. hall Wednesday afternoon was a big success socially and financially and a good sum was realized. Prizes were awarded the successful winners.

The next social for this bazaar will be a "Rubber Novelty Party" in K. of C. hall, Monday evening, March 22.
The ladies in charge are Mrs. Chas.
Cassidy, Mrs. Wm. McElroy, Mrs.
Jas. Renick, Mrs. David Gallagher,
Mrs. Harry Lawrence and Mrs. John Roach. All attending this social are to bring a pair of old rubbers for admission, and something in the grocery line to be auctioned off.

Installation of Leo Guild.
A chicken salad supper was served to 100 members of Leo Guild Monday evening in K. of C. hall.

Following the supper a report of the officers was read and the treasurer showed an expenditure of $383.60 for charity during the past year and a testimonial fund of $244.80. The financial secretary's report showed an increase of 62 members.

The following officers were installed for the coming year: President, Mrs. P. S. Fennessey; vice-president, Mrs. John Meagher; recording secretary, Mrs. Thomas Mulherin; financial secretary, Mrs. John Doody; treasurer, Mrs. Andrew Sheehan; trustees, Miss Mary Bresnahan, Mrs. D. J.
Donovan and Mrs. J. E. Fitzgerald.

Whist was enjoyed and prizes given the successful winners.

MRS. EMMA WIGGIN

Mrs. Emma M., wife of David C.
Wiggin, died at her home, 1 Berry place, yesterday morning, at 11 o'clock, after a long illness. She leaves a husband, three children, mother, brother and two sisters. She was a member of St. Paul's church.
The funeral will be held from her late home, Saturday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, Rev. Dr. Beale officiating. The interment will be in the Oak Grove cemetery.

MRS. HELEN LEE

Mrs. Helen Lee, wife of Robert Lee, died at her home, 63 Central street, Wednesday, after a short illness of pneumonia. She leaves three small children, the youngest being but a week old. The other two not yet four years of age.

PERSONALS

John Wienburg who cut himself in the store of T. L. D. Perkins, Berry street, is getting along very well at the J. B. Thomas Hospital.

The many friends of Edmund La-lime will be glad to know that he is well on the way to recovery. He has been through a very hard siege of the typhoid at his home on Andover street.

The car line is opened! This will be much appreciated by those who live on the upper end of the line.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Blair and son, David, are visiting the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Blair of Endicott street.

Some of the underpinning of the Endicott street bridge was swept away in the recent thaw, making the bridge unsafe for heavy travel. There also was a small washout where the railroad tracks cross the street, the earth being swept away from under the tracks to the depth of a foot.

Mrs. H. M. Blair, Mrs. R. E. Blair,
Mrs. Arthur Glackin were the hostesses of a St. Patrick's tea party for the children of the neighborhood.

BRYANT WASHBURN HEADLINER IN "SIX BEST CELLARS" AT STRAND

A fast moving comedy of a young man who beats Prohibition is told in "The Six Best Cellars," the latest Bryant Washburn picture, which appears at the Strand today and Saturday. Never has this popular star appeared to better advantage than here.

He has the role of a young man who moves in the select circle of a fashionable suburban town. He is supposed to have a cellar chock full of intoxicants.

But in reality he is down to his last quart, and has to cultivate the friendship of the village grocer, who has saved quite a collection from his stock at the store. Prior to a dinner which he is giving at his home he locates several cases of wine in the cellar of his aunt. They have been left there by her wayward brother, now deceased.

Naturally, Mr. Washburn looks upon this as a lifesaver, until he finds the bottles are empty. Facing his guests with a bottle of home-brew in his hand he launches into a speech against their "drinking for drinking's sake." The guests are impressed.

Immediately after he becomes a favorite with the Prohibition element, who offer to run him for Congress. Just then comes a message from the Aunt saying that she has discovered more liquor in the cellar and wants him to take it away. The conclusion of the picture brings it squarely home to you. What would you have done in Mr. Washburn's case?

The action is spontaneous with humor and breezes through with plenty of funny incidents. Wanda Hawley plays opposite the star. A Fox-Sunshine comedy entitled "Sheriff Nell's Come Back" and Ruth Roland in "The Adventurers of Ruth" will be the other attractions for today and Saturday.

Arthur Ashley in "The Praise Agent" and Marguerita Fisher in "Fair Enough" will be the feature picture Sunday evening.

On Monday and Tuesday Manager Chet Bent will offer a special double feature bill that bids fair to be classed among the best the Strand has ever offered. Locklear, the sky dare-devil, in "The Great Air Robbery" and Alice Lake in the Metro special "Should a Woman Tell?"

In all the large cities of the country both of these productions have played to extended runs, and this marks the first time they have been offered on the same bill. "The Great Air Robbery" is certainly one of the most remarkable pictures ever filmed. Lieut. O. L. Locklear, the star, is supported by Francisca Billington and Carmen Phillips.

The story concerns a group of airplane bandits who plan to rob the transcontinental aerial mail. It is Lieut. Locklear's duty to frustrate their scheme. And he is completely successful after a series of seemingly impossible feats. Those who prefer drama to thrills will be more than satisfied with the intense story of "Should a Woman Tell?" the second feature. This picture answers the question, "Should a woman tell the man she is about to marry all that has occurred in her past life?"

Leroux Aids Rescuers To Free Arm

A serious accident occurred at the plant of the New England Sand and Gravel Company on Monday noon, when Peter Leroux, a 22-year-old employee, caught his left arm in the cogs of a winch, the arm being badly mangled before the power could be shut off.

The victim was whirled completely around the winch twice, the machinery tearing the hand and forearm completely off and breaking the bone above the elbow. He was carried to the office of the company, where he remained conscious, though in great pain, until the arrival of the Peabody ambulance which made the five miles over slushy roads in the splendid time of 20 minutes from the time of the accident. Dr. Lawrence K. Kelley was in attendance.

The patient, a Y. D. war veteran, who had received a bullet wound in the leg overseas, displayed great fortitude and smoked till he reached the hospital, where he was operated upon at once. Notwithstanding the broken bone above, it was thought possible to save the left elbow, and the amputation was made just below. The day following, the patient showed no fever, and was able to eat heartily, and it is hoped that his recovery will be rapid.

Leroux is a native of Somerville, but has been making his home in West Peabody with L. J. Miller on Winona street. He has worked at the gravel concern since November, leaving his trade as a polisher at the Gillette Razor Co., to seek the country temporarily for his health. He has a mother and sisters in Somerville.

and Charles Ray in "Alarm Clock Andy" will be the attractions for Wednesday and Thursday.

West Peabody

The postponed Midwinter Picnic under the auspices of the West Church Ladies' Aid, will be held on Friday evening, March 26th. The Boy Scouts of the South church will present their farce "Twelve Old Maids."

Clarence Smith, formerly of West Peabody, visited his aunt, Mrs. J. O. Goodale, several days last week, taking a vacation while recuperating from influenza. Mr. Smith lives in Brookline and is employed by the Hancock Insurance Co., Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Leach were in town over the last week-end.

Miss Virginia Carten was ill several days early in the week, but is out again.

Miss Nellie Taylor has again taken up her residence here, after living with her brother in Melrose during the winter months.

Miss Eleanor Miller entered the employ of the N. E. Telephone Co. of Boston, last Monday, and is making her home with an aunt in that city.

The family of Arthur E. Belleville arrived last Thursday from Newport, Vt., and are at present living in the house opposite T. A. Martin's on Pine street.

Robert Gallup on last Thursday transferred his furniture from the car to the Roy Felt house on Broad street, but his family are still living at the Joyce house on Winona street.

Watkin's bus has resumed its trips between Peabody and West Peabody. It plans to leave the West school mornings at 7.30 sharp.

Mildred MacKenzie is at present working in the office of George W. MacNear, dealer in auto supplies, Brookline.

Ralph Gaskill, County Agricultural Agent, will give his postponed lecture on "Fruits" before the local grange tonight. Another portion of the program will be lantern slides of scenes in Ireland, a St. Patrick Day feature.

Russell street is at present closed because the low portions of that street are flooded by waters from Spaulding's Meadow.

Annual Report of Activities of the Peabody Chamber of Commerce

This brief statement of the Chamber's activities for the last few months is not presented in a boasting spirit, but in the hope of bringing home the value of the organization to the community and cultivating a better understanding of its vital functions. It is a Chamber of Citizenship, wherein the spirit of unselfish service is the keynote. The extent of its influence will be measured by the number and enterprise of its members.

The program for the activities of the Chamber for 1919, and what was accomplished is given below:

SECURE HEADQUARTERS

After an extensive survey by the committee in charge, headquarters were established on the ground floor in the New Court House building located at 38 Lowell Street. Suitable furniture was purchased by the committee and the quarters are large enough to accommodate a meeting of from fifty to seventy-five people.

Headquarters Committee: F. H. Sanger, J. A. Ryan, E. H. Merrill.

Employ permanent secretary, devoting whole time to Chamber activities.

After interviewing several applicants the Board of Directors selected R. E. Thomas for the position of permanent secretary.

RETAIL MERCHANTS ACTIVITIES

Several meetings of the merchants for the purpose of considering questions of interest to them have been held and among the activities of the merchants was the Window Display Contest, which was open to all retail merchants in Peabody and prizes offered for the best window display. This display was opened at 1 o'clock Saturday, December 13, and the judging was done by Mr. Ackerman of Lynn and Mr. Parker of Beverly. Prizes awarded were as follows:

Thomas Renzi, 1st prize.....$15 00
Geo. H. Jacobs Co., 2nd prize..... 10 00
Central Fish Market, 3rd prize..... 5 00

In addition to the above prizes, a tournament prize of a silver loving cup was awarded Mr. Renzi, which must be won two successive years by one person before he becomes owner of this cup.

Committee in charge: Albert McNeil, Lucien G. Lewis, Ed Lynch, Leo Murphy, K. Staley, F. Berryman, B. Levin.

At the request of the committee in charge of the Armistice Day celebration, a Merchants' Committee was appointed to co-operate with the American Legion in making the Armistice Day celebration, one that would be a credit to Peabody. The merchants provided a band for the morning hours of this celebration, as well as requesting all merchants to decorate their store fronts with the national colors.

Committee in charge: A. P. Sillars, M. Halpern, B. Levin.

Arrangements are now being made for a class in Retail Salesmanship for the benefit of the merchants and their salespeople.

Committee in charge, W. F. Sawyer, A. P. Ames, Alonzo Kimball.

A Merchants' Committee is co-operating with the Chamber's Art Display Committee towards securing store windows and arranging for a novel sales feature during the week of the Art Display.

Committee consists of A. P. Sillars, Bennie Levin, Archer L. Twiss.

Merchants arranged for band concerts each Saturday evening during the summer months.

Committee: Lucien G. Lewis, H. S. Isenberg, A. W. Klemm, W. F. Sawyer, W. A. Shea.

AMERICANIZATION WORK

Co-operating with the city and state Board of Education, three classes each week have been conducted in the Chamber offices. Some thirty odd men have been in attendance at a class conducted each Monday evening for the study of Civics for Naturalization. Most of the members of this class have filed their final papers for naturalization and will become citizens within the next ninety days. This class has been under the supervision of Mr. Robert Bakeman who has devoted considerable time to this work.

Those who have completed their course were awarded certificates at a public meeting held in the City Hall Council Chambers, February 2. An address was made by Charles W. Hobbs of the State Board of Education, and certificates were presented by Mayor S. Howard Donnell.

Classes for the study of English were also organized, and have been meeting in the Chamber offices on Tuesday and Thursday evenings. These classes have been under the supervision of Miss Katherine Logan, and as soon as the students have been able to master the English language, another class in Civics for Naturalization will be conducted by the Americanization Committee in co-operation with the City and State Boards of Education. This class has an enrollment of 25 men, who have filed their first papers.

Committee in charge: Albert Robinson, P. H. O'Connor, E. A. Hershenson, F. H. Sanger, E. W. Weaver.

IMPROVE FREIGHT YARD AND RAILROAD FACILITIES

On account of the railroad being under Federal control, the committees have been unable to accomplish any results on this work.

However, it is included in the 1920 program.

Considerable good work was done on activities pertaining to transportation facilities. Among them was having the freight yard cleared of the mud and made accessible for wagons and trucks. Credit for this work goes to C. J. Flynn.

Another committee is now working towards securing package cars for direct shipment to distant transfer points. This committee has been successful in having be loaded in package cars to distant transfer points.

One of the biggest accomplishments was having the American Railway Express Co. rescind their order that shipments weighing over twenty-five pounds must be boxed. This was changed to read over seventy-five pounds. This work was accomplished by co-operation of practically all the manufacturers in entering their protests to the American Railway Express Co.

Committee in charge of this work: Porter Brown, Thomas McNamara, Frank P. Sweeney.

At the request of the Boston & Maine Railroad, the Chamber was instrumental in securing help to assist the Railroad company in removing the snow from their tracks. Committee in charge, President P. J. Woods and Louis P. P. Osborne.

INTENSIVE PUBLICITY OF OPPORTUNITIES OF PEABODY

The largest amount of publicity was secured from the MADE IN PEABODY Exhibit. Hundreds of newspapers in

New England and Eastern States published articles furnished by the Chamber describing Peabody as an industrial city and calling attention to its fine streets. One trade journal devoted a special colored section of twenty-four pages pertaining to Peabody. Copies of this journal were forwarded to all countries of the world. Another trade journal devoted four pages in their French issue to description of Peabody and its exhibits. This work was accomplished by the Board of Directors.

WORK ACCOMPLISHED BY THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

In addition to the activities planned for 1919 questions have arisen which have demanded the attention of the Chamber and among the accomplishments have been the following:

Secured flagmen at turnpike crossings and the Boston & Maine has been ordered to install automatic signals at Lake, Winona and Summit streets. Committee in charge of this work: E. H. Merrill, C. C. Hills, Walter Brown, with the co-operation of City Government.

After consulting with Mayor Donnell arrangements were made to re-open market on Railroad avenue. Work accomplished by President Woods.

Careful study was made on some matters of interest to the farmers and recommendations as to a suggested plan for the re-organization of the State Department of Agriculture were adopted by the Chamber.

Committee in charge: Elmer Durkee, H. A. Harrington, Charles Reynolds, Ralph Gaskill, County Agricultural Agent.

A special committee, co-operating with the employees and employers was instrumental in bringing about settlement of a strike at the Danvers Bleachery. This plant had been idle for some seven weeks, and the Chamber's committee came in for praise from both sides of the controversy for their efforts to bring about settlement.

Committee in charge: P. J. Woods, Mayor S. Howard Donnell, B. J. Ronan.

Among the new industries that the Chamber has been instrumental in securing are the Waburn Degreasing Co., Budget, Harrigan & Co., Inc., while several other new industries could have been secured if factories had been available.

Co-operated with the city officials towards protesting against an increase in insurance rates. This committee was successful in having action postponed, giving the city ample time to install a new pump. This action was instrumental in saving the manufacturers an advance of approximately 25% on their insurance rates.

Work done by George C. Farrington, Charles Stone, George R. Underwood, William Armstrong, John Boyle.

An Outing was held at Wardhurst, August 6, as a closing feature of the Made in Peabody Exhibit.

A committee is now studying the question of how to improve the electric power question, and will make a report with recommendations in the near future. Committee consists of L. P. P. Osborne, H. V. Hunt, Felix Carr, Clarence Barnes, B. E. Cox.

The Housing Committee has devoted considerable time to studying plans as used in other cities towards improving the housing condition, but has been unable to work out any plan that will relieve the congestion in Peabody. This committee is continuing its work.

The committee: Lyman P. Osborn, Frank H. Sanger, David A. Barry, R. H. Rideout.

Special committee working with city officials was instrumental in keeping the tax rate at its present low figures; was instrumental in having the city purchase over $4000 worth of government supplies for re-sale to citizens. Work done by Executive Committee.

Erection of a Christmas tree in Peabody Square during the holiday season. Work done by the Executive Committee, Joel Ballentine and E. A. Croughwell.

Plans are now being worked out for conducting an art display. Committee in charge of this work is Louis P. P. Osborn, A. Couris, Earle W. Weaver.

The Chamber, through the Executive Committee, entered protest to His Excellency, Governor Calvin Coolidge, on the action of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Company, giving limited service to Peabody. Following this protest, a joint meeting of the Chambers of Commerce representing Peabody, Salem, Beverly, Danvers and Marblehead, was held, and a special committee was appointed as a representative from each organization, to meet with the Governor, the Trustees of the street railway and the city officials, at which time full service was restored to this division of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway.

The Chamber has conducted several general meetings during the past year at which questions of interest to the membership were discussed.

Among the activities of the Chamber office have been the following:

Assisted several returned soldiers in securing employment. Assisted several manufacturers in securing empty cars. Furnished headquarters for Visiting Nurse Tag Day Committee, and for the National Tubercular Association Red Cross Seal Sale.

Assisted parties in securing suitable office room. Distributed pamphlets on Home Canning.

Secured information and distributed pamphlets regarding the Corn Borer.

Issued Shipper's Guide, which gives comparison of express and parcel post rates to practically all cities in the United States.

Assisted parties in opening an office in chemistry for use of local manufacturers.

Assisted in the Welcome Home celebration.

Installed a library of directories and information of cities of the U. S. A.

Arranged for information on investments through the United States Investor.

Conducted a display of French and Argentine leather. Conducted a display of tanned alligator and fish skins.

Referendum vote of members on Street Railway vs. Jitney service.

Referendum vote on proposed Daylight Saving Plan for Massachusetts.

Referendum vote of members on the report of the Committee on Railroads and Remedial Railroad Legislation.

Attended all hearings pertaining to this section of the Bay State Street Railway Company.

Attended several hearings on transportation questions.

Issued membership cards calling for endorsement of any solicitors.

Formed an investigation committee of advertising and soliciting.

This Committee Will Save You Several Times the Cost of Your Dues If You Will Use It.

Conferred with city officials regarding stream pollution.

Furnished each member with a brief synopsis of the so-called Plumb Plan for Control of Railroads.

Furnished each shipper with booklet on "Starting to Export."

Issued several bulletins on Foreign Trade Opportunities.

If one gives his best efforts he is justified in looking for results favorable to himself, material and ethical. He profits through the increased prestige of his city; but best of all in personal satisfaction at having come out of his own shell of self interest and broadened his horizon.

The activities listed above have been carried on by the co-operative effort and gratuitous service of members and citizens—service which could not be paid for in money, but which was cheerfully given for the benefit of the community. Every feasible project on the first year's program of work has been acted upon, and in most cases, accomplishment secured.

The program for the year's work will have the early consideration of the Directors and the following are some of the questions that will be considered by them:

IMPROVE CIVIC CONDITIONS

- Continue Americanization work now started and encourage more manufacturers to teach English.
- Encourage building of more and better homes.
- Work for better school facilities.
- Assist city officials in public health work.
- Improved hospital facilities.
- Inaugurate "Clean up-Paint up" campaigns.

ENCOURAGE GREATER AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTION

- Arrange with Grange for use of rooms for speakers on agricultural questions.
- Continue to co-operate with other commercial organizations and Granges to secure erection of cold storage warehouse.

STABILIZE CONDITIONS OF INDUSTRIES

- Continue work now being done to secure new industries.
- Continue study of electric power question.
- Study the question of water supply.
- Inaugurate "Safety First" campaigns.
- Encourage erection of adequate storage facilities.

IMPROVE TRANSPORTATION FACILITIES

- Continue work for improved local transportation service.
- Continue work to secure package cars to various transfer points, thereby enabling the shippers to make quicker delivery and save expense of trucking to Boston.
- Continue work to secure larger freight yard facilities.
- Work to secure better passenger station and service.
- Work to secure erection of derrick by Boston & Maine (this committee was unable to secure consideration of this question in 1919 on account of Government control of railroads.)
- Investigate question of establishing a traffic bureau.

DEVELOP AND EXPAND THE COMMERCIAL ENTERPRISES

- Continue to conduct campaigns to assist local merchants to secure the patronage of Peabody citizens.
- Advertise the city.
- Continue work of Committee on Investigation of Solicitors.

South Peabody

John B. Quinn of the advertising staff of the Lynn Item gave a very interesting talk on newspapers before the Men's club last Wednesday night. His subject given him by members of the club was "Can Newspapers Be Trusted?"

Mr. Quinn answered the question in a nutshell by declaring for the most part newspapers could be relied on, but that they were the product of human beings, and as such stood the same chance of erring. He defended the great majority of papers, however. He exhibited specimens of plates, type and how the forms of pages were made ready for the big presses in the daily plants. He is an excellent speaker and the audience was greatly entertained.

He urged his audience to deal fairly with the reporters, whom he declared, sought always to get the real facts without bias. At the close of the address he answered numerous questions.

Wright Gregson is President of the Men's club and presided. It was announced that a movement to establish a community playground by having the city acquire land near the church. At the April meeting boys will be invited to attend the supper and in May the girls of the parish will be the honored guests.

Leather Market Uncertain Dealers Still Hopeful

(By Energy)

The leather market continues in the same uncertain state, a watchful waiting. The fact that all are scared at what might happen has given the business an unhealthy condition. With such an unprecedented business for three years, naturally reaction will follow. But with such conditions as now exist in Europe, no one can even guess what will follow. There can be no question but what the better sense of the masses is showing itself. War conditions are slowly wearing away, and now only those who made war a business are left. The big military machine of Germany has many thousands of officers who know nothing else. To put them in other pursuits of life would be a hardship, no doubt. So they will not quit without a struggle.

Therefore the leather trade, seeking business with Europe, are wondering when the matter will be straightened out. From all I can gather, there is plenty of business in Europe for us. The League of Nations is supposed to be the real fixer, but it is evident that so many disputes are going on, and agreements fewer, that the foundation of this august body is not rock. I hear some manufacturers say if the league was a real league, and our Senate would pass on 10th amendment or even the 23d, but pass it, business would show a decided improvement. Fine. But—

The fact that calfskins sold for 50 cents a pound in the hair recently created quite a flurry in the business. It is said one dealer in raw material made his boasts that he would break the market. A drop from 80 to 50 cents a pound is large. But it must be remembered that the skins in question are the poorest of the year. This also follows in hides. The fresh kill comes in May. This means short-haired skins and the best quality. So let us wait and see what these skins will sell for. Meanwhile, there is little new business, but prices of finished stock hold firm under conditions which will turn for the better or worse in the near future.

We are getting importations of European hides and skins in fair quantities. Not as large as in normal times, but in 1919 there were over 4,000,000 pounds of skins imported from France, and from all countries, $33,000,000. There were 7,701,942 pounds of hides received from France and from all countries $125,590,047 in value. So if an embargo is placed on this material, as is reported, there can be but one effect, higher prices for raw stock. Such being the case, it is difficult to understand how leather will decline, to any great extent.

A war is fast approaching between U. S. and John Bull for foreign business. In the last few years, or during the war, we have increased our foreign business several hundred per cent. There was little competition therefore it was easy. But our English neighbors have done business with the world for centuries. They will continue to do it if bull dog tenacity enters in. Therefore we can look for a battle royal to get this business. It has always been the way, and should follow in this case, that the fellow who has the reins has the advantage. England had them before the war, but now we are in possession, and it will be a great help to continue in possession. We have considerable kick in our make up, and nothing showed it more than what we did in the war just gone into history.

It is reported that England has a surplus of shoes to sell. They can be sent to the United States and sold at a profit, it is claimed. If so, another dot for the pessimists. Such shoes are not fancy. Whether they are made of whole leather is a question, but I assume such is the case.

But if the style is not there, we Yankees do not want them. We must have the latest, corns or no corns. But such shoes will find a place in this country, if the price is attractive, and the Englishman will attend to that feature. It certainly seems peculiar with three years of war, that England should have a surplus of footwear. It is another example of English push.

Transportation has much improved. Embargoes by steamship and railroad corporations have been as plenty as snow storms. But the last few days has improved the situation, and piles of freight, mountains high, are being moved to their destination. Local tanners have been unable to purchase tanning materials, particularly extracts. Freight houses have been piled with shoes and leather for weeks. Another month will clear the road. Meanwhile production, particularly shoes, has been much under normal.

'Capt. Jack' Was Big Success

City Hall was filled to its capacity Wednesday night, when Division 11, A. O. H., presented their annual entertainment, which this year, was a drama, "Captain Jack, or the Irish Outlaw." Among the cast of characters were several faces that have pleased the audiences in these amateur productions for several years, including John J. O'Brien, who played the part of Squire Shannon, Richard W. Horrigan, as Captain Edward Gordon, commanding a detachment of His Majesty's soldiers in Ireland; John (Cy) McCarthy, who is always a big favorite, and Edward J. Sullivan, as Teddy Burke, the informer in the pay of Shannon.

All of these carried out their parts in a manner that was very pleasing to the audience. Henry F. Duggan made his debut as an actor in the part of "John Driscoll, the Rebel leader, known as Captain Jack;" Miss Eileen Masterson, who played the part of "Nellie Shannon," the squire's daughter, made a big hit by the pleasing and capable manner in which she handled the role assigned to her. She was the recipient of much applause as a manifestation of appreciation of her playing. Miss Fannie Conroy, as Kate Kelley, a true hearted collector used the Irish dialect in a skillful manner. Margaret O'Connor and Veta S. Brown, as Mary, a servant, and Eileen Driscoll, sister of John, respectively, added much to the enjoyment of the audience. One other character in the show, who played his part in a very capable manner, was Frank Sonnigan, who also rendered a beautiful Irish love song. Between the acts special numbers were given by Misses Burke and Millarkey, and the Byrne twins, who gave exhibitions of Irish steps and dances, and sang Irish songs.

The entire production was staged in a very capable manner by John McCarthy, who has given much of his time and attention to the direction of the production. Over 1800 people saw the show.

IROQUOIS CAMP FIRE

The Iroquois Camp Fire met at the Community House Wednesday afternoon, and an election of officers was held. The following were elected: President, Gertrude Hathaway; Secretary, Grace Dunn; Treasurer, Helen Wiggins, and News Reporter, Nellie Aldrich. An invitation was extended to this Camp Fire to attend a rally for Camp Fire Girls, their parents and friends in Lynn next Wednesday evening. Miss Violet Ried is the guardian and Miss Esther Hallowell, assistant guardian.

THOMAS H. O'SHEA

Thomas H. O'Shea is dead but he will never be forgotten. A man intensely human, a man of big business and best of all, perhaps, possessing the big heart of a big brother, he leaves behind him a veritable army of friends many of whom can never forget their success in life was due in the greatest way to his humanly assistance in advice and in other more material manner. He loved his friends and he never forgot them and he went the full distance for anyone he called his friend. Their troubles were his troubles, their griefs were his, and no matter how urgent the stress of his own business he never turned a deaf or unwilling ear to any man who could honestly call him a friend. Death crept upon him while he slept a just sleep. He went to his bed with a smile on his lips after bidding his guests of the evening good night. He had not complained and nothing in his demeanor indicated that when the morrow should come he would not respond. Great grief wells in the hearts of those who knew him best for his was a friendship beyond price. He was both counsellor and friend. He was a citizen of Peabody who put the interests of the city ahead of self on many occasions and the two handsome business blocks which adorn Peabody Square will ever be a monument to his civic pride and the proof that he was filled with a desire to help along the progress of Peabody. Those whose good fortune it was to know Thomas H. O'Shea, one of the foremost sheepskin manufacturers, know how numerous were his unheralded benefactions. He gave freely of his purse when the appeal of sweet charity called to him. No man ever had a better understanding of the phrase, "It is sweeter to give than to receive" and surely no Peabody citizen has ever been found more eager to assist the less fortunate than was Thomas H. O'Shea. He personified far better than most men "The Big Brother" and so he will be missed, aye, grieved for by many a man who could call him friend. Thomas H. O'Shea is dead but his name will be linked forever with the history of Peabody. He is gone but not forgotten, long live his memory.

ESSEX COUNTY FARMERS OPPOSED TO DAYLIGHT SAVING

The returns on a recent questionnaire which was sent to representative farmers in the county, shows an overwhelming majority opposed to Daylight Saving. About 200 questionnaires were sent out and 123 returned; of this number 110 were opposed and 13 in favor of the scheme. The reasons given were: Hindrance of early morning work by dew, loss of sleep and reduced efficiency, early rising and lateness of retiring, increased cost of fuel for light on account of early rising, damage to hay crop because of short afternoons for curing and hauling, where day labor is used, annoyance from fact that cows do not come up from pasture an hour earlier, or hens do not go to roost till after bed time, indigestion caused by early dinners and late suppers, more loss from thieving because city people have more time to come out into the country and steal, loss of sleep from children who must get up early to go long distances to school and do not like to go to bed while it is still light, interference with railroad and government operations, and a general upsetting of the farm plans. We note that a considerable number of city people are in favor of the plan, but hope our legislators will see the light and have some sympathy for the hand that feeds them.

Write, or see your representative in regard to it.

If the factories wish to begin work an hour earlier there is no reason why they cannot do it. Why add an unnecessary expense to the cost of food production?—From Essex Farmer and Homemaker.

Score One for Employer.

A Kansas City man received four very nice presents on his birthday early this week, a silk shirt, a pair of gloves, and a pair of silk hose. The shirt, given him by his wife, was size 15½—he wears 14½; the gloves, selected by his mother, were size 6—he wears 7½; the socks, from his brother, were size 12—he wears 10. His employer, however, who has known him more intimately for several years, sent out a box of soft collars which fit him exactly.—Kansas City Star.

Object of the Truest Artists.

It would appear to be the object of the truest artists to give permanence to images such as we should always desire to behold, and might behold without agitation; while the inferior branches of design are concerned with the acuter passions which depend on the turn of a narrative, or the course of an emotion.—Ruskin.

Marriage of First Cousins.

First cousins may marry in Alabama, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Iowa, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Montana, Nebraska, New Mexico, New York, North Carolina, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Vermont, Virginia, West Virginia and Wisconsin.

ROUND ABOUT

I am told that civil engineers who were at work along the line of the proposed improved State highway which is to be made of the Newburyport Turnpike, upon making soundings, found that the mud in the swamps beside the street between the railroads was 32 feet deep.

Workmen repairing the Endicott street bridge near Crownshield pond found a collection of shiners frozen to the planking. They had evidently been driven into the crushed ice, which formed, when the blizzard came on March 6.

Wright Gregson, who heads the Men's Club of the South Peabody church, is also President of the Metal Trades' Union in Lynn and so good a leader that he is now serving his second term.

I am told that Billy Searle, veteran campaign and newspaperman, with the record of putting over his man as a habit, is to be the head of the Essex County organization that will promote the Leonard Wood campaign for President.

Thomas H. O'Shea, the late leather manufacturer, was a lover of animals, and he took real delight in petting any dumb beast. When King Horse was still on the throne, he found some of his chief recreation on a mount. He had an epigram which he used to like to repeat, "Horses and dogs are the truest of friends. They are always the same, no matter what the weather is."

Capt. Louis P. P. Osborne and some of his neighbors joined the highway department for love of it last Saturday, and opened some of the gutters along by their property on Lowell street.

Supt. Wyman and his squad of highway department employees toiled until early Sunday morning following the freshets last Saturday, that caused the several brooks to overflow and damage much property. I have heard much praise for the cheerfulness of manner of these men, who fought the elements and won. Few observed their night labor, but their efforts went far to save families from having water put out furnace fires.

I observed George R. Felt, one of the firm of Munroe, Arnold & Merritt, express company, hiking into the frozen fields last Sunday in company with Richard B. Macintosh, the bird lore expert. It was certain that the sharp March wind sent them home with fine appetites, after their long tramp.

I observe that the boys of the Thomas Carroll school are again emulating the role of advertising men and soliciting business for the next issue of the school magazine, which will be issued under the direction of Principal Larrabee. The boys are getting good experience and also plenty of support.

Albert E. Brown of Boston, the well known director of community singing, was in Peabody yesterday, in conference with Republican leaders, with a view to organizing a Republican league in this city. He held an interview with Chairman Angus J. MacDonald of the G. O. P. committee. Particular attention will be paid to getting the enrollment of all eligible voters and also aiding aliens to get their final papers.

Advice is like snow, the softer it falls, the longer it dwells upon and the deeper it sinks into the mind.—Coleridge.

The Wonders of America

By T. T. MAXEY

THE OLDEST SCHOOL.

THE Boston Latin school is the oldest educational institution in the United States, having enjoyed a continuous existence since April, 1635. From the start, it was a school for higher education, especially Latin and Greek. It appears to have been the determination of the founders "To beat Satan in each and all of his lairs;" therefore, "For the common defense and for the general welfare should the classical languages be taught at the common charge."

One day during the early days of the revolution, the master (his teachers were called in those days), a loyalist, announced, as he dismissed school, "War's begun and school's done; deponite libros," but the school was soon re-opened, and when the British evacuated Boston in March, 1776, the master went with them as a prisoner. 'Tis said that in his day, all that was required for admission was to read a few verses in the Bible. School began at seven o'clock in the morning in summer (eight o'clock in winter) and ended at five in the afternoon, with a recess from eleven to one.

The present building, completed in 1880, was, at that time, "the largest structure in America devoted to educational purposes, and the largest in the world used as a free public school." It contains 56 school rooms, each accommodating 35 students.

It is doubtful, indeed, if any other school boasts of a more honorable career, can show as long a list of prominent men as graduates or more persistently conformed to the aspirations of its originators.

"Who's Got The Sugar?" Prize Story In High School Contest

Why the sugar market is low and the price high is graphically told in a well prepared composition by Marguerite Smith, a high school sophomore, who secures first prize in the story contest offered by the Enterprise to pupils of the local school. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Smith of 150 Lynnfield street. George Watts, a senior, is the author of the second best article this week. His subject is Daniel Boone, Indian fighter and explorer. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Watts, 10 Andover street. The first prize is $2, the second $1. Both of these articles are among the very best submitted in the contest. The prize stories:

WHERE IS THE SUGAR?

(By Marguerite M. Smith, 1923)

Sugar! Sugar! Who's got the sugar? This question seems to be as puzzling, and the answer as eagerly sought, as that in the old church social play "Who's got the button?" Interest in the subject is not confined to a few countries, but extends to all civilized regions and even to the out-of-the-way corners of the earth.

In this country, where sugar has heretofore been plentiful and cheap, the people have become much disturbed over the matter, but too many look in the wrong direction for the cause of the trouble.

The blame is laid upon the sugar handlers generally, including the producer. Without question there is some local hoarding and considerable profiteering, though many supposed cases when followed up have proved to be only suppositions. For example, on August 30th, 5,000,000 pounds of sugar were seized in storage at Boston on the charge of hoarding, but were soon released, when found to be for legitimate export to those who need it much more than we do.

As to the producer, he is often the least benefited of all, because of the corresponding increase in the cost of production—a condition usually entirely overlooked by the consumer.

Complaints have also been made that there was too liberal a distribution of sugar from this country to Europe through the various relief channels during the war. It appears, however, that the American Relief Commission distributed in all only 3800 tons to 4,000,000 undernourished children of Europe. That amount would supply our candy and soft drink stores only one day. The 11,000 tons sold to France by the War Department would be less than our requirements for one day.

It will be a great surprise to those who have not investigated, to know some of the real facts in connection with the sugar supply.

There were delivered to the domestic trade of this country 674,000 tons more of refined sugar during January to September inclusive, 1919, than during the corresponding period of the previous year.

We have been supplied with one-quarter of the world's production and one-half of the world's exportable surplus.

This sugar was supplied at an average wholesale price of 8.82 cents a pound, and retailed at 11 to 12 cents a pound, while France paid 16.8 cents a pound wholesale.

Since the beginning of 1918 the price of sugar has risen 16 per cent.; that of meats has risen 20 per cent. and of butter 41 per cent.

Though the weather conditions have been unfavorable for the 1919-20 crop in some countries, the fact is probably a slight cause for the decrease in the estimate production. Acre yields of sugar crops have also been much reduced in places by pests.

The statement of an estimated shortage of 3,800,000 tons in the present world supply of sugar is based upon statistics up to and including the 1918-19 crop. The condition is made still more serious for the immediate future by the fact that the 1919-20 crop, now being delivered, is apparently even slightly less than the previous light crop. The accumulated world deficit in sugar is, roundly, 6,000,000 tons, and that in the face of an increasing per capita consumption.

Going back, then, to the original question, "Where is the sugar?" and knowing what the question, as usually asked, means—that is, the supposed stocks of the last crop that do not arrive we may answer, "Nowhere. It does not exist." It has vanished like the dew.

DANIEL BOONE, PIONEER

(By George A. Watts, 1920)

In the early days when the West was young, few settlers ever made their homes west of the Allegheny mountains. This was due, largely, to the fact that the region west of the Alleghenies was uninhabited, unknown. Savage tribes of Indians and beasts infested this vast wilderness, and much of the way lay over the

MOOSE LODGE GIVES PRAISE TO WORKERS WHO MADE FAIR WONDERFUL SUCCESS

Peabody Moose lodge leaves no loophole, when it comes to showing appreciation to its members and women workers, and its banquet given Tuesday night of this week to 150 men and women, who made the recent fair the big success it proved to be, was in keeping with their expressions of gratitude.

The lodge not only supplied a high class banquet, but Dictator P. Thomas Langan and officers of the lodge eulogized the workers in the strongest manner. Everyone of the workers received a personal message of thanks from the speakers.

Dictator Langan presided, and there were four tables for those who were guests of the lodge fair committee. He complimented the ladies of the Mooseheart Legion and urged all of the members to get behind the officers. He predicted that the lodge would hold a fair each year.

William F. Robinson, chairman of the fair committee thanked the workers for the support they had given him and the committee. Past Dictator Gardner A. Viles, who was secretary of the fair committee declared the recent fair was the smoothest of any the lodge had ever held.

Charles P. Cooney, himself a member of the lodge, who assisted in making the fair a success, paid a tribute to the women of the Legion and urged the members to encourage their officers. He called on the lodge members to attend the meetings regularly, declaring that the success of the lodge depended on the co-operation of every member. His was the real speech of the evening and was well delivered.

"Patsey" Bowen of Lynn (everyone in Lynn knows Bowen), was the real entertainer of the evening with as nice a collection of Irishfolk stories, as the lovers of Gaelic wit could hope for. He told stories and he sang and then recited poetry. He was real funny, and the happy guests of the evening gave him a big hand. He was a guest, as a tribute to his fair dealing with the lodge in staging many of the attractions, and Dictator Langan paid him a nice compliment for his part in the success of the fair.

The Waverly Orchestra played during the banquet, and when the floor was cleared, dispensed music for the dancing.

The dances led off with a quadrille, Dictator Langan announcing the order to insure old and young both getting into action. Marden of Lynn catered and his menu was one of the best ever served in this city.

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. William F. Manning of Gardner Park are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter (Marion), born Sunday, weight 11½ pounds. Mother and child doing nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Leavitt of 17 Collins street were recipients of a box of oranges from their son, Ned Leavitt, who is in Ontario, Cal. The latter has spent the last six months with his uncle, who owns a large orange grove in southern California. Included in the box were some lemons, also grown on the estate.

Mrs. Albert W. Bailey of Cleveland, Ohio, and her daughter, Doris Elizabeth, are being entertained by Mrs. Bailey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lyman E. Buxton of 7 Warren street.

John L. Carten has been cutting rice at Crystal Lake, this week.

Four Fast Bouts Promised Vets

Manager Jack McCloskey, who is staging the boxing bouts for the entertainment of the returned war veterans next Monday night in City Hall, has signed up some of the best talent in New England, and fight fans are assured of a rousing program. The bouts arranged are:

Tommy Marks vs. Jack O'Leary, 6 rounds.
 Sailor Gardner vs. Bob Ambrose, 6 rounds.
 Paddy Owens vs. Barney Snyder, 8 rounds.
 Howard McRae vs. Chick Simler, 10 rounds.

Howard McRae has boxed all the good lightweights in New England, including Charlie Parker of Boston, Phinney Boyle of Lowell and recently fought a terrific 12-round draw with the sensational Joe Jawson of Milwaukee. Chick Simler is one of the best known lightweights in the country, having boxed Johnny Dundee three times, Willie Jackson, three times, and he has just returned from a very successful trip through the South.

Paddy Owens needs no introduction to the boxing fans of Peabody, as he boxed here at the last Welcome Home entertainment, and made a great hit. His opponent, Barney Snyder, is considered among the foremost featherweights in New England, having decisions over Bobby Dyson of New Bedford, Young Josephs of Boston and Young Murray of Philadelphia. The two other bouts are bound to be interesting and productive of a good evening's fun for the boys.

Essex, ss. Probate Court. To the heir-at-law, next of kin, creditors, and all other persons interested in the estate of ELLIS WATSON, late of Peabody, in said County, deceased, intestate.

WHEREAS, a petition has been presented to said Court to grant a letter of administration on the estate of said deceased to Edmond S. Dixon, of Peabody, in the County of Essex, without giving a surety on his bond. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Salem in said County of Essex, on the seventeenth day of May A. D., 1920, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And the petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Peabody Enterprise, a newspaper published in Peabody, the last publication to be one day, at least, before said Court.

Witness, HARRY R. DOW, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twenty-seventh day of April in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty.

HORACE H. ATHERTON, Jr., (A30-M7-14) Register.

ALICE JOYCE

Many of the greatest men and women of the stage have had their names associated with one certain play.

Alice Joyce seems destined to have the same distinction. The Vitaphone star has had success after success, but, like all other motion picture stars, she has been without a role that stood out separate and distinct from the rest. In "The Vengeance of Durand," adapted from Rex Beach's powerful story adapted by Mr. and Mrs. George Randolph Chester, she has the best role in her notable career.

RISTEEN—BENJAMIN.

Miss Gertrude Childs of the Main Office was one of the Dardanella girls who made the big hit in the musical show of the Now and Then Association in Salem this week. Other A. C. L. people in the show were Roy Gourley of the Mechanical Department and John Kingsley of the Japan Shop.

TIYAGA CAMP FIRE.

The Tioga Camp Fire Girls of the Methodist church met at the home of Mary Little for an indoor picnic on Wednesday, April 28th. They had planned to spend the day in the woods, but when they awoke to find the rain coming down in torrents, they decided to follow the Camp Fire law and "be happy" indoors. They had a great deal of sport frying pancakes for dinner. At the end of the afternoon, a very pretty array of May baskets rewarded the girls for an afternoon's work, mixed with a great deal of fun.

SALE OF REAL ESTATE.

Pursuant to a license granted by the Probate Court for the County of Essex on April 22, 1920 to me as Administrator of the Estate of William A. Gilliland, late of Peabody in said County, deceased, intestate, I will sell at Public Auction on the premises hereinafter described on Saturday May 15, 1920 at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, the following described real estate of said deceased, situated at No. 4 Sewall Street in Peabody, Mass., for the purpose of distribution, namely:—

The land in said Peabody with the buildings thereon situate on the Northwesterly side of Sewall Street and bounded and described as follows, viz: Beginning at the southwesterly corner thereof at said street and thence running Northwesterly by land of Knowlton and dred and eight and five tenths (108.5) feet to land of the Peabody Community House, Inc., thence turning and running Southeast by said land of the Peabody Community House, Inc., about sixty-four and five tenths (64.5) feet to land of B. N. Moore & Sons, Inc., thence turning and running Southwest by said land of B. N. Moore & Sons, Inc., about one hundred and eight and three fourths (108¾) feet to Sewall Street, thence turning and running Northwesterly by said Sewall Street about sixty-four and one half (64½) feet to the point begun at. Being the same premises conveyed to the said William A. Gilliland by Amelia E. Sutela by deed dated June 23, 1918 and recorded in Essex South District Registry of Deeds Book 2393 Page 581.

Said premises will be sold subject to the taxes due the City of Peabody for the year 1920. $500.00 cash deposit will be required at the time and place of sale and the balance in ten days.

The Garden Committee announce that a lot of potatoes have been purchased for resale to lot holders, provided orders are sent in not later than May 6, accompanied by the money. It is expected that some lots will be ready for planting next week, if the weather holds good, so that plowing can go on.

Miss Agnes Pelletier of Tremont street has entered the service of the company in the cut stock department.

The many friends of Jimmie Hinchon, a popular young foreman of the Curry Department, congratulate him on his recent engagement.

Milford Risteen of the Mechanical Department was married last Saturday to Miss Roxie Benjamin of Nashua, N. H. After the wedding trip the young couple will make their home in Peabody.

Miss Gertrude Childs of the Main Office was one of the Dardanella girls who made the big hit in the musical show of the Now and Then Association in Salem this week. Other A. C. L. people in the show were Roy Gourley of the Mechanical Department and John Kingsley of the Japan Shop.

One of the young children of Edward Graham was seriously scalded this week, having fallen into steaming hot water. Mr. Graham's many friends at the plant extend their sympathies and hopes for a speedy recovery.

The wanderlust has struck another of the young men in the Main Office, Roswell Taylor, who, with Leonard Cassidy, a former employee, is going next month to San Domingo, to take a position with a public utility company.

The sympathies of the Sheepskin Department are with James Baggan, who buried his father-in-law this week.

Lawrence Cushing of Washington street is a newcomer to the Book Leather Department.

John O'Callaghan, formerly of the Japan Shop, is now employed in the tannery.

The wedding of Miss Helen Rideout, recently of the Main Office, and Grant Jewett, both of Lynn, was celebrated Wednesday evening. The popular young couple were remembered with many beautiful and useful gifts.

Miss Julia Mahoney of the National Office resigned her position this week.

Miss Priscilla Pratt has been transferred from the National Billing Department in Q building, Main Plant, back to the National Office.

Miss Gertrude Hinchon of the Main Office leaves tomorrow to take a position with another company.

Miss Myra Matthews, who has been telephone operator at the National Office for the past several months, has returned to the service of the Telephone Company at its Salem exchange.

James Hinchon of the Curry Finishing Room is confined to his home with illness.

Frank J. Freeman of the Mechanical Department, died suddenly this week in the Somerville hospital, where he was awaiting an operation.

William Frame of the Glove Department has gone back to his trade as a painter, after working in the leather business during the winter.

Frank Murphy of the Curry Department is ill in the hospital, having just undergone an operation.

T. Jewett Phelan of the Pigskin Office has purchased a house on Purchase street, Danvers, where he expects to make his home after his marriage this coming winter.

PEABODY WILL HAVE SPORT GOODS STORE

Peabody will witness the opening of a sporting goods store on or about May 10, in the Rosenfeld building, corner of Central and Walnut streets. The new store will be known as the Peabody Rubber Co., and will be under the ownership and management of John W. Donovan, a well known Lynn man, who makes his home in Lynnfield. The new store plans to keep automobile accessories, in addition to its line of baseball goods and rubber supplies. The store ought to find a ready business in this city. Mr. Donovan is bound to make many friends in Peabody in his business venture.

PERSONALS

Charles Aechler, popular member of the Moose Lodge, has returned from a winter's sojourn in Florida and California. On his return east the train was stalled in Montana in a 12-foot snowbank. He has returned in excellent health, and reports a pleasant vacation. He came near accompanying his brother to Honolulu, but heeded the call to turn back to Peabody. He will re-enter the employ of the A. C. L. Co.

Miss Annie Fairchild of the High school faculty spent the vacation week at her home in Fairhaven.

Eben King, son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren D. King got four hits and scored three runs in the game last Saturday, between Worcester Academy and Tufts College second team. King is captain of the Worcester team.

Charles P. Vaughn of the Duncan, Hood Co. of Philadelphia will attend the Foreign Trade Council convention in San Francisco next month.

Frank L. Conway has purchased a 1920 Buick.

Maude McDonald of Goodale street completed her course in Bryant and Stratton's Business College this week.

Inlaid boxes and clocks, the handiwork of Harry Bagley, have called forth much happy comment, as displayed in the window of Bennie Levin, the shoe dealer.

It took Mrs. Y. A. Kouris, wife of the candy kitchen proprietor on Lowell street, six years to complete the handsome lion, done by crocheting. The lion measures three by four feet, and is most lifelike. This exhibit is in the window of the Candy Kitchen.

How well the Community House boys are mastering the arts of carpentry is shown by their various handiwork in the window of Ware's market. A handsome sofa pillow is on exhibition in the window of the Peabody Electric shop, which was done by Mrs. Silverman.

An exhibit which has attracted much attention is the needlework of Marie Birmingham, displayed in the window of Milles's drug store.

The list of exhibitors include nearly 20 nationalities and the competition in the needlework was most keen.

The concerts furnished by the Peabody Cadet band and the Peabody Mass band on Thursday and Saturday nights of last week were well appreciated.

The charge of the window exhibits were Thomas Kouris, the candy merchant; Capt. Louis P. P. Osborne and Earl W. Weaver, and they are deserving of special mention for the success of the exhibits.

Miss Grace Cook of Kosciusko street is suffering from an abscess in her ear, which has hindered her in her work for the May festival.

Arthur Osborn of Washington street has taken the Teague apartment.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Altschuler and three children will spend the week-end in Dorchester, attending the engagement party of one of Mrs. Altschuler's sisters.

Marion and Junior Glackin spent Monday in Swampscott, attending the birthday party of their cousin, Harry Woodward, who was five years old.

BLOW OUT FOR CHIEF

Chief Grady took a delinquent boy to the Lyman school, yesterday, being accompanied by Probation Officer Arthur W. Sim. One blow out and a terrific shower furnished all of the added excitement to their motor trip.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Lee of 17 Caller street are receiving congratulations over the birth of a son, April 26th, weighing 10 pounds.

Frances Putnam, 11-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Putnam of 12 State street, is a victim of scarlet fever.

Federal Bld. For Peabody?

Peabody may yet have a federal building given over to a postoffice, at least, Congressman Phelan is not without hopes. His bill appropriating $125,000 which died in the famous filibuster of 1919 when the G. O. P. assumed control of the National Congress, is still in the morgue but the skeleton may yet be borne to the light. Congressman Phelan, as stated is not without hopes for he is anxious to secure for Peabody a federal building.

There seemed to be some chance of the tabled bill being revived this year when the committee on public buildings and grounds got an invitation to file bills which called for new buildings the year before and it looked good for a few days for Peabody. But so eager were the Nation's salons to get in all their old bills from the graveyard for new federal buildings that the committee having the new appropriations in hand became swamped and had to recall the invitations.

So there the federal building for Peabody remains. Some day in the future which may be far off, and again may be close at hand, the Congressman from the Seventh district has his hopes that the sun will shine on a government building in Peabody.

Not that there is urgent need for the project, for the postoffice in the O'Shea building is well situated and appears to be answering the needs of the people, but like other cities Peabody would be glad to have an imposing federal building.

Congressman Phelan was formerly a member of the committee on public grounds and buildings. He had several other committees under the days of Champ Clark before the great Republican victory. The committees took up much of his spare time and the work of the banking and currency bill on which he was a leading member occupied a great deal of his attention. This year he has declined to serve on so many committees and his principal attention aside from his duties on the floor of the Congress are confined to his committee on banking and currency of which he is the ranking minority member. One other committee that calls for some of his time is the committee on expenditures in the department of commerce.

I dropped into his office last week to find the Lynn Congressman away from the capitol for a few days on personal business. I fancied that he was home building some of his political fences, but his secretary William Hill, a former Lawrence newspaperman assured me that he knew Mr. Phelan was not occupied yet with worries over his campaign for re-election.

"He hasn't even said he would be a candidate," exclaimed Mr. Hill, "but of course, I presume that he will be and, in fact, I can assure you that he will be. We hope to reach the summer recess early in June and Mr. Phelan will be renewing his friendships in Peabody and elsewhere in his district. He'll be heard from in his usual way and, of course, will be back on the job when the ballots of November are counted."

ALICE JOYCE

Many of the greatest men and women of the stage have had their names associated with one certain play.

Alice Joyce seems destined to have the same distinction. The Vitaphone star has had success after success, but, like all other motion picture stars, she has been without a role that stood out separate and distinct from the rest. In "The Vengeance of Durand," adapted from Rex Beach's powerful story adapted by Mr. and Mrs. George Randolph Chester, she has the best role in her notable career.

RISTEEN—BENJAMIN.

Milford R. Risteen, overseas veteran, and Miss Roxie A. Benjamin, the latter of Nashua, N. H., were quietly married last Saturday night at the home of Rev. Herbert L. Howard, pastor of the Baptist church. The groom, who is employed at the A. C. Lawrence Leather Co., is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey J. Risteen of 51 Pierpont street. He is a graduate of Peabody High school, class of 1912, and for a number of years was in the employ of the American Express Co. The couple will reside at 51 Pierpont street.

TIYAGA CAMP FIRE.

The Tiyaga Camp Fire Girls of the Methodist church met at the home of Mary Little for an indoor picnic on Wednesday, April 28th. They had planned to spend the day in the woods, but when they awoke to find the rain coming down in torrents, they decided to follow the Camp Fire law and "be happy" indoors. They had a great deal of sport frying pancakes for dinner. At the end of the afternoon, a very pretty array of May baskets rewarded the girls for an afternoon's work, mixed with a great deal of fun.

SALE OF REAL ESTATE.

Pursuant to a license granted by the Probate Court for the County of Essex on April 22, 1920 to me as Administrator of the Estate of William A. Gilliland, late of Peabody in said County, deceased, intestate, I will sell at Public Auction on the premises hereinafter described on Saturday May 15, 1920 at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, the following described real estate of said deceased, situated at No. 4 Sewall Street in Peabody, Mass., for the purpose of distribution, namely:

The land in said Peabody with the buildings thereon situate on the Northwesterly side of Sewall Street and bounded and described as follows, viz: Beginning at the southeasterly corner thereof at said street and thence running Northeasterly by land of Knowlton and Cream, formerly of Clark, about one hundred and eight and five tenths (108.5) feet to land of B. N. Moore & Sons, Inc., thence turning and running Southeasterly by said land of B. N. Moore & Sons, Inc., about one hundred and eight and three fourths (108.75) feet to Sewall Street, thence turning and running Northwesterly by said Sewall Street about sixty-four and one half (64.5) feet to the point begun at. Being the same premises conveyed to the said William A. Gilliland by Amelia E. Sutela by deed dated June 23, 1918 and recorded in Essex South District Registry of Deeds Book 2393 Page 581.

Said premises will be sold subject to the taxes due the City of Peabody for the year 1920. $400.00 cash deposit will be required at the time and place of sale and the balance in ten days.

EDWARD GILLILAND,
Adm. of the Estate of William A. Gilliland.

With the Employees of
A. C. LAWRENCE LEATHER COMPANY

The Garden Committee announce that a lot of potatoes have been purchased for resale to lot holders, provided orders are sent in not later than May 6, accompanied by the money. It is expected that some lots will be ready for planting next week, if the weather holds good, so that plowing can go on.

Miss Agnes Pelletier of Tremont street has entered the service of the company in the cut stock department.

The many friends of Jimmie Hinchcon, a popular young foreman of the Curry Department, congratulate him on his recent engagement.

Milford Risteen of the Mechanical Department was married last Saturday to Miss Roxie Benjamin of Nashua, N. H. After the wedding trip the young couple will make their home in Peabody.

Miss Gertrude Childs of the Main Office was one of the Dardanelle girls who made the big hit in the musical show of the Now and Then Association in Salem this week. Other A. C. L. people in the show were Roy Gourley of the Mechanical Department and John Kingsley of the Japan Shop.

One of the young children of Edward Graham was seriously scalded this week, having fallen into steaming hot water. Mr. Graham's many friends at the plant extend their sympathies and hopes for a speedy recovery.

The wanderlust has struck another of the young men in the Main Office, Roswell Taylor, who, with Leonard Cassidy, a former employee, is going next month to San Domingo, to take a position with a public utility company.

The sympathies of the Sheepskin Department are with James Baggan, who buried his father-in-law this week.

Lawrence Cushing of Washington street is a newcomer to the Book Leather Department.

John O'Callaghan, formerly of the Japan Shop, is now employed in the tannery.

The wedding of Miss Helen Rideout, recently of the Main Office, and Grant Jewett, both of Lynn, was celebrated Wednesday evening. The popular young couple were remembered with many beautiful and useful gifts.

Miss Julia Mahoney of the National Office resigned her position this week. Miss Priscilla Pratt has been transferred from the National Billing Department in Q building, Main Plant, back to the National Office.

Miss Gertrude Hinchcon of the Main Office leaves tomorrow to take a position with another company.

Miss Myra Matthews, who has been telephone operator at the National Office for the past several months, has returned to the service of the Telephone Company at its Salem exchange.

James Hinchcon of the Curry Finishing Room is confined to his home with illness.

Frank J. Freeman of the Mechanical Department, died suddenly this week in the Somerville hospital, where he was awaiting an operation.

William Frame of the Glove Department has gone back to his trade as a painter, after working in the leather business during the winter.

Frank Murphy of the Curry Department is ill in the hospital, having just undergone an operation.

T. Jewett Phelan of the Pigskin Office has purchased a house on Purchase street, Danvers, where he expects to make his home after his marriage this coming winter.

PEABODY WILL HAVE SPORT GOODS STORE

Peabody will witness the opening of a sporting goods store on or about May 10, in the Rosenfeld building, corner of Central and Walnut streets. The new store will be known as the Peabody Rubber Co., and will be under the ownership and management of John W. Donovan, a well known Lynn man, who makes his home in Lynnfield. The new store plans to keep automobile accessories, in addition to its line of baseball goods and rubber supplies. The store ought to find a ready business in this city. Mr. Donovan is bound to make many friends in Peabody in his business venture.

PERSONALS

Charles Aechler, popular member of the Moose Lodge, has returned from a winter's sojourn in Florida and California. On his return east the train was stalled in Montana in a 12-foot snowbank. He has returned in excellent health, and reports a pleasant vacation. He came near accompanying his brother to Honolulu, but heeded the call to turn back to Peabody. He will re-enter the employ of the A. C. L. Co.

Miss Annie Fairchild of the High school faculty spent the vacation week at her home in Fairhaven.

Eben King, son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren D. King got four hits and scored three runs in the game last Saturday, between Worcester Academy and Tufts College second team. King is captain of the Worcester team.

Charles P. Vaughn of the Duncan, Hood Co. of Philadelphia will attend the Foreign Trade Council convention in San Francisco next month.

Frank L. Conway has purchased a 1920 Buick.

Maude McDonald of Goodale street completed her course in Bryant and Stratton's Business College this week.
